Elderman, Post cartoonist, keeps up with the news in his interpretations — Page 8.

The Washington Post

Today—Fair and warmer.
Tomorrow—Cloudy and warmer.
Yesterday—High, 39; low, 24.
Details on page 23.

NO. 21,387 ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER, POSTOFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C. WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, JANUARY 5, 1935  THREE CENTS
COPYRIGHT, 1935, BY THE WASHINGTON POST.

Roosevelt Goes Before Congress With Plan To Employ 3,500,000

Message Reveals Aim to Replace Relief by Public Works.

Security of Home Also Emphasized

Permanence Asked in Acts for Recovery; for NRA Renewal.

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

President Roosevelt, in his annual message to Congress, yesterday projected a permanent, long-range "American plan" to assure economic and social security for all Americans, including an immediate program for the abolition of Federal relief and the direct employment of 3,500,000 persons on a huge works program.

The most significant aspect of the address, delivered in person to Congress, was the President's repeated declaration that the time had come to turn away from emergency and temporary legislation and make whatever measures remained necessary to complete the processes of recovery to fit into his permanent plan of security.

Urges "A Proper Security."

Mr. Roosevelt epitomized the object of his plan as affording to each American family "a proper security, a reasonable leisure and a decent living throughout life." His immediate proposal for creating jobs for all able-bodied workers, returning to local care those unable to work and ending the Federal dole, he explained, was a component part of this greater program of security.

The President's new works scheme contemplates the immediate launching of permanently useful projects, self-liquidating if possible and of a nature requiring a large percentage of direct labor, selected to compete as little as possible with private industry. It is the President's purpose to taper off this program as rapidly as private industry absorbs those given employment by it.

This program will be substituted for the direct relief or dole system, denounced by the President as "destructive to national fiber," as "narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit" and contrary to sound policy and American traditions. The President did not specify the cost of the new program, but Capitol Hill estimates put it at $4,000,000,000 a year or more.

Except for his remarks on the proposed work plan, the President spoke in general broad outlines and did not specify the limit and extent of his plans. Although congressional comment on the message was unusually free from hostile criticism, the complaint was voiced widely that the President had dealt too much in generalities. The message was held to have whetted curiosity regarding the President's plans for this session of Congress, instead of satisfying it.

It is the President's purpose, however, to deal in detail with each specific matter in separate messages as the session progresses.

Wants to Renew NRA.

In addition to the new work program, he mentioned as immediate tasks before the Congress consolidation of Federal regulatory administration over all forms of transportation; renewal and clarification of the NRA; strengthening of crime detection and prevention machinery; abolition of the "evil features" of public utility holding companies (which drew prolonged applause); improvement in forms and methods of taxation and tapering off of emergency credit activities of the Administration.

He made no reference to either banking or monetary policies, and did not discuss the size of appropriations he would seek. The latter, he said, must wait for his budget message Monday, but he gave assurance that whatever sums will be asked "will be within the sound credit of the Government."

Disclaims Fears of War.

Nor did the President reveal what plans he has in mind regarding international matters and a revision of this country's neutrality policies. Expressing pessimism over world conditions, the President hoped that calm counsel and constructive leadership would provide steadying influences. This country remained concerned over the maintenance of peace and desired disarmament, he added.

"There is no ground for apprehension that our relations with any nation will be otherwise than peaceful," he asserted.

Meanwhile the President assembled a group of Democratic leaders in House and Senate at the White House last night to discuss with them the budget and legislative proposals, particularly in an effort to arrange the sequence in which his proposals will be sent to the Capitol.

Mr. Roosevelt, accompanied by his secretaries, arrived in a motor caravan at the Capitol at 12:20 p. m. and immediately proceeded to the House chamber. A slight incident marred his arrival at the Capitol, when police seized a man

Continued on Page 3, Column 1.

Text of President's Message

The text of President Roosevelt's address to Congress was as follows:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives:

The Constitution wisely provides that the Chief Executive shall report to the Congress on the state of the Union, for through you, the chosen legislative representatives, our citizens everywhere may fairly judge the progress of our governing. I am confident that today, in the light of the events of the past two years, you do not consider it merely a trite phrase when I tell you that I am truly glad to greet you and that I look forward to common counsel, to useful cooperation, and to genuine friendship between us.

We have undertaken a new order of things, yet we progress toward it under the framework and in the spirit and intent of the American Constitution. We have proceeded throughout the Nation a measureable distance on the road toward this new order. Materially, I can report to you substantial benefits to our agricultural population, increased industrial activity, and profits to our merchants. Of equal moment, there is evident a restoration of that spirit of confidence and faith which marks the American character. Let him who, for speculative profit or partisan purpose, without just warrant would seek to disturb or dispel this assurance, take heed before he assumes responsibility for any act which slows our onward step.

Thruoghout the world change is the order of the day. In every nation economic problems, long in the making, have brought crises of many kinds for which the masters of old practice and theory were unprepared. In most nations social justice, no longer a distant ideal, has become a definite goal, and ancient governments are beginning to heed the call.

Thus, the American people do not stand alone in the world in their desire for change. We seek it through tested liberal traditions, through processes which retain all of the deep essentials of that republican form of representative government first given to a troubled world by the United States.

As the various parts in the program begun in the Extraordinary Session of the Seventy-third Congress shape themselves in practical administration, the unity of our program reveals itself to the Nation. The outlines of the new economic order, rising from the disintegration of the old, are apparent. We test what we have done as our measures take root in the living texture of life. We see where we have built wisely and where we can do still better.

The attempt to make a distinction between recovery and reform is a narrowly conceived effort to substitute the appearance of reality for reality itself. When a man is convalescing from illness wisdom dictates not only cure of the symptoms, but also removal of their cause.

It is important to recognize that while we seek to outlaw specific abuses, the American objective of today has an infinitely deeper, finer and more lasting purpose than mere repression. Thinking people in almost every country of the world have come to realize certain fundamental difficulties with which civilization must reckon. Rapid changes—the ma-

Continued on Page 3, Column 2.

Paris to Let Italy Subdue North Africa

Agrees in Principle to Rome's Plan of Expansion.

Duce Warmly Greets Laval, Arriving for Conversations.

Developments yesterday in the Franco-Italian move for settlement of ancient animosities included:

Paris will allow Rome to proceed in any way she wishes against Abyssinia, in furtherance of Italian territorial expansion in north Africa, to which France agrees in principle.

Pierre Laval, arriving in Rome for state conversations, is warmly greeted by Il Duce and provided elaborate police protection, which stimulated hopes for accord.

Protocols shaped which may lead to a treaty reconciling conflict of national interests in central Europe.

Paris, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—France has agreed in principle to Italian territorial expansion in North Africa, Rrench colonial experts announced tonight.

The tentative accord includes an agreement that Italy may take any action she may wish against Abyssinia, which has been blocking the Italian program, and that Italy will cooperate with France in central European affairs.

The experts said Premier Benito Mussolini can find an outlet for imperialist energies in Abyssinia far more profitable than following his present policy of seeking prestige in central Europe.

Consequently, from the French point of view, Il Duce can afford to reject Hungary to placate France and the Little Eentente if convinced she will meet no interference from these powers in Abyssinia, where the border dispute recently has taken scores of lives and brought an Abyssinian appeal to the League of Nations.

Dispatches from French Somaliland confirm rumors that Italy in recent months has landed huge supplies of war material, tanks and airplanes in Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Officers off a foreign ship calli g recently at Mogadishu said they saw tanks, guns and cases of munitions landed at the wharf from an Italian steamer. French merchants who visited Massawa in Erithea related similar tales of military preparations on a large scale, asserting that the size of the Italian air force at Massawa is surprising. They also said Italy both in Somaliland and Eritrea ferverishly is building strategic roads to the frontier with the aid of natives.

The dispatches add that both Eritrea, on the Red Sea, and Italian Somaliland now virtually have become closed territories to foreigners, only Italians and official missions being allowed to enter, under strict orders not to divulge any military activities they may witness.

Laval Embraced By Il Duce

Rome, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—A cordial kiss on both cheeks was Benito Mussolini's greeting to Pierre Laval tonight as the French statesman arrived to start conversations expected to end old Franco-Italian animosities. Thousands massed about the railroad station cheered as Il Duce gave Laval the Fascist salute, clasped his hand strongly and kissed his cheeks.

The warmth of the welcome to the first French foreign minister to visit Rome since the World War augured well, observers believe, for the negotiations intended to settle Franco-Italian differences over their colonial possessions in Africa, guarantee Austria's independence and bulwark the peace of central Europe.

Waits at the Station.

Premier Mussolini, together with most members of the cabinet, the foreign office staff and other Italian notables, arrived at the station five minutes before Laval's train was due.

Long lines of Fascist soldiers and policemen stood guard at the station to prevent any untoward incident, while thousands of spectators gathered outside.

As the visitor's train pulled in on the track reserved for royal trains, Mussolini stepped up to the coach door and greeted Laval as he descended, speaking several words of

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

Lindbergh Calls Hauptmann Murderer of Kidnaped Baby, Swears He Received Ransom

Lindbergh Testimony Accusing Hauptmann

Flier Swears He Heard Carpenter's Voice in Cemetery on Night Jafsie Paid Ransom.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's testimony today in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann:

Direct examination by Attorney General David T. Wilentz—

Q. Now, Colonel, you were telling us about the second note you received and getting away from that moment and returning to the home again you said you went into the room, I think on two occasions, after which or between which, you went out with your rifle. Now will you tell us about the condition of the room with reference to whether or not there were any footprints of any kind at all in the room.—A. There were prints on the suitcase or on top of the suitcase which was under the window on the southeast side of the nursery. There was also at least one print on the floor beneath that window and inside of the suitcase which was on a small check, and there was also, according to my best recollection, a print on the window sill itself.

Q. What do you mean by a print, Colonel?—A. A deposit of yellow clay, I will call it.

Q. Sort of a mud?—A. Well, mud carries more of the distinction of blackness to me; it was a yellowish, red clay, such as outside of the house beneath that window.

Tells of Meeting Condon.

Q. I see.—A. The length and approximately the breadth of a man's foot. The prints were not as distinct as to be able to see the complete outline of a foot. But they were very definitely made by a man's foot.

Q. So that, as I understand it then, there were these—we will call them prints, from the window sill in the direction of the crib, toward the crib.—A. There was at least one between the window sill and the crib, in addition to the others.

Q. When you talk about the chest, I show you exhibit S-11, and ask you whether or not the chest which appears on that exhibit right immediately adjoining the window is the chest that you refer to?—A. It is.

Q. Eventually did you meet Dr. Condon, John F. (Jafsie) Condon, ransom negotiator.—A. Yes, it was the evening of March 9 or early in the morning of March 10.

Q. And through him did you receive these notes?—A. Yes, Dr. Condon brought these with him to our home in Hopewell that evening.

(Wilentz then offered three more ransom notes and their envelope as evidence. They were accepted.)

Associated Press Wirephoto.

This photograph of Col. Lindbergh reveals the strain he has undergone during the Hauptmann trial. It was taken late yesterday in court.

Q. Did you authorize Dr. Condon to conduct ransom negotiations?—A. Yes, I did.

(Wilentz presented the ransom correspondence.

Continued on Page 4, Column 1.

Tells Jury He Believes Suspect Committed Crime Unaided.

Carpenter Flushes At His Accusation

Defense Tries to Prove Crime 'Inside Job' of Servants.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, a firm witness under piercing cross-questioning, told a jury today he believed Bruno Richard Hauptmann guilty of kidnaping and killing his first-born son.

First the famous airman, his slightly graying hair rumpled boyishly, said it was the voice of Hauptmann, on trial for the crime, that he heard in the Bronx Cemetery where he and Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon paid $50,000 ransom for the dead baby.

Then, Col. Lindbergh, replying in crisp, unyielding tones to a maze of questions intended to portray the kidnaping as an "inside job," was asked by Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly if he now believed the defendant guilty.

"I do," he said.

Voice Identified.

Hauptmann, erect in his chair in this ancient Hunterdon County courtroom, crimsoned and swallowed slowly as the aviator positively identified his voice as that of the ransom collector.

Carrying out its announced intention to show that a gang, working from within the Sourland Mountains home of the Lindberghs, committed the ghastly crime, the defense flung question after question at the aviator concerning domestic members of the Lindbergh and Dwight Morrow households.

Even the movements and intentions of "Jafsie"—the elderly ransom negotiator—were put under a fire of interrogation.

Through it all Lindbergh was cool and positive. He left the witness stand shortly after 3 p. m., having taken it late yesterday afternoon. He was followed by Charles E. Williamson, one of the first policemen to reach the home on the night of the kidnaping—March 1, 1932—and by Mrs. Elsie Whateley, widow of the Lindbergh butler, who denied that her husband, Ollie, ever knew Dr. Condon.

Looks at Hauptmann.

There was no passion in Lindbergh's voice as he made the identification of Hauptmann's voice, no noticeable change in his manner. He looked at Hauptmann and Hauptmann looked at him.

"Whose voice was it, colonel, that you heard in the vicinity of St. Raymond's Cemetery that night, saying, 'Hey, doctor'?" asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

"That was Hauptmann's voice," Lindbergh replied.

It was definitely Lindbergh's day in court. His direct examination was finished in a minute or two under the first hour, and Wilentz turned him over at once to Reilly.

For two and half hours the cross-examination proceeded. Reilly dug into the testimony from a dozen different angles, he resurrected the case of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., shipbuilder, convicted of obstructing justice in the kidnaping investigation; he asked the flier if he had believed the "Purple Gang" of Detroit responsible for the kidnaping.

Lindbergh replied in the negative.

Own Activities Probed.

He questioned him about his own activities in the investigation, and his attitude toward the police and Federal authorities.

With disarming frankness Lindbergh answered all questions. Most of his replies were prompt. Now and then he had to search his memory for the correct answer. He smiled, he even seemed pleased with some of his answers, and however he may have affected the jury it was evident he had the sympathies of the spectators as he underwent the long examination.

Once or twice there were questions to which Wilentz objected, but Lindbergh himself never showed a reluctance to answer. One of these

Continued on Page 4, Column 3.

Dozen Leaders See President To Push Plans

Budget Needed to Carry Out New Program Is Discussed.

By Robert C. Albright.

An even dozen congressional Democratic leaders last night sat around a White House conference table and discussed means of financing the vast economic and social legislative program outlined yesterday by the President.

Appropriations necessary to carry New Deal objectives to at least partial fruition formed the central theme of discussions, running the gamut of relief, bonus cash payment, World Court adherence and taxes.

The conference assembled after the House and Senate, temporarily out of work until the President's budget proposals arrive Monday, sought more intensive light on Administration measures to be laid before Congress by the President.

Finance Problem Taken Up.

Leaders were told that a budget, at least equal to emergency and regular expenditures required last year, will be needed to speed the program. Views were freely exchanged on how this may be done with present and expected revenues, without injury to the Nation's credit.

As conversations progressed, it became apparent that no balancing of the emergency budget is in early prospect, although balancing of regular outlays and income again would be set forth. One by one, the President went over measures he intends to press. Leaders asked for suggestions.

Priority of supplemental messages which the President will send to the Hill on specific legislative proposals was considered, with initial emphasis placed on unemployment relief. Federal Emergency Relief Administrator Hopkins recently advised the President that

Continued on Page 2, Column 4.

Hopkins' Hand Likely to Guide Work Program

Relief Chief Held Logical Choice to Direct U. S.' Biggest Project.

By Felix Bruner.

With President Roosevelt committed to a work-relief program designed to employ directly and indirectly at least 7,000,000 persons, interest immediately turned yesterday to the method by which the huge undertaking can be accomplished.

In the discussion following the President's message, which broadly outlined the program, Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator was most frequently mentioned as the man likely to direct the biggest job of its kind yet undertaken by the Administration.

Hopkins, together with Secretary Ickes as head of PWA, at present has charge of most of the projects already undertaken to provide sustenance and employment. The President made it clear that direct relief will come to an end with inauguration of the new program. Hopkins is in charge of direct relief and in addition surpervises work relief, which now employs some 2,100,000 persons.

Coordinated Authority.

The President said in his message that the Relief Administration will be superseded by a coordinated authority "which will be charged with the orderly liquidation of our present relief activities and the substitution of a national chart for the giving of work." The President declined to amplify this statement, indicating that announcement of the nature of this authority, and its personnel, must await enactment of legislation authorizing the work program.

It was pointed out, however, that the present organization headed by Hopkins is in the best position of any governmental unit to take over actual working out of the program

Continued on Page 2, Column 6.

Counter-Move By Fahnestock Accuses Wife

Charges She Admitted an 'Infatuation' for 'Prominent Man.'

Snowden A. Fahnestock, fighting to retain possession of his two children, yesterday accused his wife, Helen Moran Fahnestock, of having admitted her "infatuation" for a "certain man of prominence."

He did not name the other man, but he did say that he had information that he was in his wife's company until 4 o'clock in the morning on New Year's day.

Consequently, he said, she was "not a fit custodian" for the two children for whose possession the Fahnestocks are fighting.

Files Counter Petition.

The accusations of the husband were contained in a petition filed by his attorney in the District Supreme Court yesterday asking that he be given legal custody of the children so that they could continue to live here at the mansion of his mother, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, at 2311 Massachusetts avenue.

His petition countered one filed the day before by his wife, in which she accused him of illegally removing the children, Clara, 7, and Mary Lee, 6, from a train at Union Station while they were en route from Aiken, S. C., to the exclusive Todhunter School in New York.

This cross-fire of petitions makes it certain now that the marital troubles of the Fahnestocks will be fought out in Washington in advance of a trial of the divorce suit which Mrs. Fahnestock filed in Newport, R. I., Thursday.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins, at a conference with the lawyers for Fahnestock and Mrs. Fahnestock late yes-

Continued on Page 6, Column 4.

Hauptmann Gets New Grip On His Nerves

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Bruno Richard Hauptmann braced himself today and appeared to withstand more successfully than before the legal blows the prosecution in the Lindbergh kidnap-murder trial heaped upon him.

With his shoulders squared and his mouth set in a hard line, he heard Col. Charles A. Lindbergh declare the voice of the kidnap-ransom collector "was Hauptmann's voice." When Col. Lindbergh made the accusation, the color rose in the German carpenter's face, and he swallowed, but he gave no other indication of mental disturbance.

Soon thereafter Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, was leading the colonel through a maze of cross-examination questions, and Hauptmann assumed the role of an interested spectator.

An interruption occurred and he engaged in an extended, animated conservation with his wife, who was seated near him at the end of the defense table. She smiled frequently and he responded as they talked partly in German and partly in English.

During Col. Lindbergh's account of the ransom negotiations through Dr. John F. Conlon, the Bronx intermediary, Hauptmann returned to his characteristic expressionless pose but his eyes roved frequently to the aviator's face.

Hauptmann's nerve apparently had returned since yesterday, when Attorney General David T. Wilentz, in the opening statement for the State, singled him out and declared "the man who murdered that child sits in this courtroom." He ate heartily today.

Reilly Will Try To Link Jafsie, Flier's Butler

Off for New York to Call Handwriting Experts for Defense.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel in the kidnap-murder trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, hinted today he would attempt to show a connection between Dr. John F. Condon, ransom intermediary, and the butler and housekeeper in the Lindbergh household.

Following upon a day of bitter warfare between prosecution and defense, Reilly said at adjournment:

"I'll give you a hint as to what the future holds.

"The most important question of the defense case today was asked when I cross-examined Elsie Whateley, the wife of the Lindbergh butler."

The question was:

"Didn't your husband and you know Dr. Condon at New Rochelle in 1931?"

Mrs. Whateley's reply was, "No, we did not."

Whateley, the butler, is dead.

To Revive Old Clews.

Nevertheless, Reilly has indicated that he intends bringing to life the long discarded clews that were attached to the names of the Lindbergh household help early in the investigation of the murder and kidnaping of the country's most celebrated baby.

"It is obviously odd," Reilly declared, "that the mysterious Violet Sharpe commits suicide; that Whateley gets a stomachache and

Continued on Page 4, Column 6.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Wed; Clarksburg Girl Third Bride

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Jan. 4 (A.P.). Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., writer whose inheritance slipped away in the publishing business, was married here today to Miss Helen Varner, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

It was the third marriage for the 36-year-old one-time scion of one of America's most famous families. Mrs. Vanderbilt by a previous marriage was Mrs. Noah Anderson.

Vanderbilt said the wedding was the culmination of a romance which began three years ago when his bride was here sketching and he was in Albuquerque "doing some writing."

Married by a justice of the peace in the county courthouse, the couple planned to leave tomorrow for the Grand Canyon en route to Vanderbilt's ranch near Reno—scene of his two divorces.

Launching into the publishing business a few years after he entered newspaper work, Vanderbilt established tabloid newspapers at San Francisco, Los Angeles and Miami, Fla. The venture crashed to the tune of $3,000,000. In 1928 Vanderbilt relinquished two millions of his inheritance to repay stockholders in the bankrupt enterprises.

When Sunday Comes . . .

. . . you demand a complete newspaper . . . a newspaper which not only brings you all the news . . . but provides entertainment for all the family. A newspaper with interesting features . . . timely articles on science, social welfare, political trends, education . . . and comics, rotogravure, a dozen other departments . . . a newspaper intelligently designed for intelligent people.

If you demand all these things, you will like The Washington Post. For a detailed, interesting preview of tomorrow's best newspaper . . .

Turn to Page 12

Bankhead, Ill, Picks Taylor As Temporary Floor Leader

Concern over the condition of Representative William B. Bankhead, of Alabama, House Democratic leader, yesterday was expressed in House Democratic circles, as a substitute was thrown in the gap to carry forward his functions.

From his sick bed at Naval Hospital the recently elected floor leader designated Representative Edward T. Taylor, of Colorado, prominently mentioned in the last Speakership race, as acting leader. Representative Patrick J. Boland, of Pennsylvania, was named party whip.

Ill with a cold and indigestion, complicated by a mild attack of influenza, Bankhead has been confined to his bed for several days. Representative Bankhead entered the hospital Wednesday, the day before House Democrats elected him leader. He was unable to attend either the formal opening of Congress or last night's White House conference of Democratic leaders.

Failure of the Alabaman to respond immediately to treatment yesterday gave rise generally to expressions of concern in the House. Fear that he may not be able actively to assume his duties for some weeks led to Taylor's temporary appointment. Boland will help Taylor carry the load of routine organization work.

Summary of Today's Issue

	Pages
"Alleged Great Aunt" (fiction)	15
Along the Potomac	9
Classified Advertisements	25, 26
Comics	27
Culbertson on Bridge	15
Editorials	8
Federal Diary	24
Financial News	22, 23, 24
Local News	17
Pictures, a full page	16
Post Impressionist	9
Radio News and Programs	24
Society	13
Sports	19, 20, 21
Stage and Screen	18
Strange As It seems	20
Sullivan on Broadway	18
Vital Statistics	25
Weather Reports	25
William Lyon Phelps	9
Women's Activities	13, 14

Leaders Laud Message Given By Roosevelt

McNary Joins in Praise; Borah Backs Aims of Work Plan.

(Associated Press.)

Most Democrats decided yesterday that they liked President Roosevelt's mesage.

A few Republicans did, too, but many of them contended it was too general, too idealistic, and they were inclined to wait until specific legislative recommendations tell them how he plans to carry out the proposals he outlined.

Scarcely had the words of the President died away in the big House chamber before the comment began to rain down. In brief, members said:

Vice President Garner: "Very interesting."

McNary Praises Message.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader: "Sound both as to principles announced and the legislation proposed."

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader: "An interesting and forward-looking message."

Speaker Byrns: "Clear, emphatic and left nothing to conjecture."

Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader: "No comment."

Chairman Buchanan, House Appropriations Committee: "The President's message is one of the greatest state papers ever delivered, taking into consideration the condition of the country and the problems demanding immediate and permanent solution. He is well within his right in stating that Government activities and expenditures can and will be accomplished without straining the credit of the Government."

"Inspiring," Says Johnson.

Glass (Democrat), of Virginia: "No comment. I never do."

Johnson (Republican), of California: "An inspiring message worthy of a great President."

Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana: "Excellent."

Borah (Republican), of Idaho: "The principles which the President announces to govern public works are excellent. But unfortunately we will have to supply both the dole and public works for a while."

Senator-elect Holt (Democrat), of West Virginia: "His attitude on rural electrification and holding companies is liberal and progressive and akin to my own."

Norris (Republican), of Nebraska: "I did not hear anything I did not agree with."

Neely (Democrat), of West Virginia: "Speaks for itself. A great speech."

Couzens (Republican), of Michigan: "I think most of it was ideal and can be heartily indorsed. Some of it seems too fantastic and impractical of successful operation. For instance, I think the President underestimated the unemployed."

La Follette Awaits Action.

Shepherd (Democrat), Texas: "It went to the roots of our problem."

La Follette (Progressive), Wisconsin: "Many of the general objectives outlined are gratifying and commendable, but it will be impossible to comment upon the program outlined until the legislation designed to implement it has been presented for consideration of Congress. I think there are a great many more than 5,000,000 unemployed. If the policy of giving jobs is sound for those on relief, why isn't it sound for those unemployed not on relief?"

Guffey (Democrat), Pennsylvania: "A wonderful message."

Cutting (Republican), New Mexico: "A fine message on the whole. I don't want to go too far until I see the special recommendations. I don't know why they should set a lower standard of subsistence for those on public projects than those in private industry."

Warren (Democrat), North Carolina: "Possessed the rare combination of courage, constructive statesmanship, and assumption of responsibility."

Capper Gives Praise.

Capper (Republican), Kansas: "A good message."

Minton (Democrat), Indiana: "Inspiring and constructive."

Darrow (Republican), Pennsylvania: "He certainly can appeal to the people in an idealistic way but when it comes to plans it is a different thing. I wish he would devote his attention to helping the capital goods industries and taking the brake off of business. He doesn't outline any definite plan."

Pope (Democrat), Idaho: "Clear and constructive."

Taber (Republican), New York: "Barren of definite suggestions. He made a lot of people think he agreed with them without saying so. If and when definite proposals are submitted, I will pass on them on their individual merits."

George (Democrat), Georgia: "Truly inspiring."

Barbour Gives Support.

Barbour (Republican), New Jersey: "The President has my support in any effort to produce genuine security for the individual."

McReynolds (Democrat), Tennessee: "Very much pleased."

Wadsworth (Republican), New York: "It seems to me that the President is not very specific. Many of his phrases are beautiful but I wish he'd tell us more about the details—just how are these things to be done and who is to do them."

McCormack (Democrat) Massachusetts: "A message of vision."

Fish (Republican), New York: "He said nothing that would help expedite the return of the 12,000,000 unemployed into private industry. This is the most important problem facing the American people with 2,000,000 more unemployed than there were a year ago. He said nothing that would encourage or promote the restoration of business confidence on balancing the budget. I could not help thinking where is the money coming from? In truth the taxpayers have become the forgotten man."

O'Connor (Democrat), New York: "Should do much to reassure business and those out of employment."

Edith Nourse Rogers (Republican), Massachusetts: "I had hoped the President would have a plan for assisting established industries. Most of the unemployed will not be fitted for the employment the President has in mind. I was delighted, however, with the plan for permanent abolition of child labor and the promise that an effort would be made to give employment."

Between You and Me

President's Message; Annual Budget Class; Guffey's Party; Shouse Waits.

—By Raymond Clapper

The chief criticism made around Washington of President Roosevelt's message was that it was not specific enough. Senator La Follette made a more accurate observation. He said the message was not complete and would have to be weighed in the light of specific recommendations to come later.

That is a good rule of thumb to follow in studying the document. It is a general statement of broad policies designed to stand as an introductory explanation for a series of specific recommendations which will follow.

• • • •

Mr. Roosevelt's three messages, as well as his inaugural address, have all been criticized as being too vague. That is because he has a different approach from previous Presidents. Even the spectacular T. R., who knew his average American as well as anyone, prepared long, laborious, detailed messages which only the most persevering person could read completely. Practically all Presidents have used the annual message to Congress as an omnibus. A mass of proposals was dumped on the Congressional doorstep. Many invariably were lost in the confusion.

• • • •

President Roosevelt has an altogether different method. He lays down his general policy in comparatively brief form which anyone can read in half an hour. Then after Congress has settled down, he takes up one issue at a time. He prepares a short message dealing in detail with one subject. Often he accompanies it with the tentative draft bill. Each proposal, thus thrown out singly, strikes Congress with full impact. Both Houses get it and go to work. As the first measure nears the end of the legislative routine, Mr. Roosevelt fires another one at Congress. Thus far this method has worked more successfully for the White House than the old system of letting Congress try to juggle a dozen balls in the air at once. For Mr. Roosevelt it has the advantage also of not allowing his specific proposals to lie around too long so that the opposition can tear them apart. Time always works against the White House in getting legislation out of Congress. This quarter back finds rushing tactics are more successful.

• • • •

One other tip. Sentences of Mr. Roosevelt often sound like dodging generalities. Sometimes you will find a tricky one, such as his famous declaration for "sound but adequate currency." Mainly, however, his generalities, if read in the light of his New York State background and of the action that followed out of his inaugural address, will be seen as preliminaries for something to come. The most important key to the Roosevelt policies still is his campaign speech before the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco, a speech which at the time was generally dismissed lightly as a theoretical discourse of little practical importance. He thought out a lot of it when he was flat on his back years ago building air castles.

• • • •

Commenting on the President's message, Cousin Alice Roosevelt Longworth said: "I thought Mrs. Roosevelt was dressed very attractively."

• • • •

President Roosevelt will hold his second annual budget class today. Newspaper correspondents will sit on the floor, with bulky copies of the budget in their laps, and listen while Mr. Roosevelt, school teacher fashion, explains it item by item. All present will take a pledge to print nothing until Monday.

• • • •

Pennsylvania's new Democratic Senator, Joseph F. Guffey, is building up a State-wide organization from the roots. It has the Republicans worried. Anyone could see it at Guffey's reception here, in the attentive attitude of Senator James J. Davis, Republican, who comes up for reelection next year. Several hundred Pennsylvania Democrats came to Washington for the party. Senator Davis was on hand, smiling on the ladies, shaking hands with the men, and patting the little Democratic children on the heads.

• • • •

Jouett Shouse, president of the American Liberty League, is reserving judgment on the Roosevelt message until he sees the budget figures. He wants to know whether the President's promise of a balanced budget by June 30, 1936, is to be kept. That will be the league's test as to whether the new program will be, as Mr. Roosevelt yesterday said it would, "within the sound credit of the Government."

• • • •

Senator Townsend of Delaware, one of the few Republican Senators to be reelected, wants it known that he has nothing to do with the Townsend old-age pension scheme. His mail is loaded with praise and blame for the plan. It was named after another Townsend.

There are three versions of what Mr. Roosevelt said in his message regarding holding companies.

As some radio listeners thought they heard it, he said he favored "abolition of the evil of holding companies."

As Mr. Roosevelt remembered it, he said he favored "abolition of the evils of holding companies."

His manuscript read, "abolition of the evil features of holding companies." That's what he meant to say.

• • • •

The Nation's hens are laying more eggs than ever. The number of layers was cut 6 per cent, but the number of eggs laid went up 8 per cent. Not in the spirit of the AAA curtailment program eggsactly.

Duce Kisses Laval; Talks Start Today

Continued from Page 1.

welcome in French, to which Laval replied.

The Frenchman then presented his daughter, Jose, who accompanied him to the United States when he went to Washington to negotiate for settlement of the war debts controversy, and the three experts who came with him to aid in the negotiations. Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary of state, handed Mandemoiselle Laval a sheaf of roses, Il Duce's present.

The statesmen then walked quickly over a red plush carpet to the reception room reserved for royalty at the side of the station, where automobiles were waiting.

Ply Conversations.

Here they paused for photographs, shook hands again and parted, Laval going to his large downtown hotel to prepare for the first meeting with Mussolini tomorrow morning and the elaborate round of public functions arranged for his four-day visit.

A high authority said yesterday the two statesmen's conversations would fall into these three stages:

1. Joint declaration of their intention to maintain Austria's independence.

2. Discussion of an agreement embracing Italy, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary and Yugoslavia under which the five nations would pledge themselves not to interfere in the internal affairs of the others.

3. Proposals to other European powers not neighbors of Austria to adhere to the pact, although not with precisely the same undertakings as Austria and her neighbors.

Mussolini and Laval also are expected to clarify the conflict of their nations' interests in Africa, with the Frenchman making certain concessions and possibly giving Mussolini free hand in Ethiopia.

Disarmament and naval limitation, it was said recently, will not be taken up.

Elaborate Protection.

Well-informed circles said this evening one of the protocols probably to be signed during the meeting would embrace an agreement whereby each nation would be obliged to consult the other before taking any steps which might affect it.

The police protection given Laval, probably the most elaborate ever provided for any foreigner in Rome, was in marked contract with the alleged lack of precautions when Laval's predecessor, Louis Barthou, and his guest, King Alexander of Yugoslavia, were assassinated at Marseille last October.

The thousands of troops, police and plainclothesmen Il Duce had ordered out not only surrounded the station but lined the highway leading to Laval's hotel.

Automobiles were stopped far from the station and only persons with police permits could pass the lines. So snarled was traffic at the rush hour that half an hour after Laval's arrival passage through the streets still was almost impossible.

Shouse Voices Warning Against Extravagance

Some work relief is desirable, Jouett Shouse, American Liberty League president, declared in a statement on President Roosevelt's message to Congress.

"If the amount to be asked for work relief under the new plan offered by the President," he observed, "is held to a sum not greater than was appropriated for direct relief for the present fiscal year, the whole proposal will meet with general approval.

"Unquestionably the care of permanent dependents should again be assumed by the local communities, as the President states."

If, however, Shouse added, "the President's proposal contemplates a continuance of huge expenditures for extravagant buildings or other unnecessary projects and if it contemplates a continued invasion of fields of private enterprise by governmental agencies, the American people of all classes will fare far better by the application of some system of direct dole."

Mountaineer Nabbed In Man Hunt for Slayer

Tucker, Ark., Jan. 4 (AP). — A frightened gaunt-faced mountaineer, captured after a 40-hour manhunt on charges of slaying a deputy sheriff, tonight joined Mark H. Shank, convicted poisoner of four, in the death cell at State's prison here. National Guardsmen and 500 armed citizens had been searching the hill country around Batesville for two days.

Suffering from hunger, cold and an old gunshot wound in the leg, the fugitive, who said he was Robert Rose, 27, former inmate in the Louisiana Penitentiary, was captured this morning at a remote mountain shack.

Gov. Murray Is Proud Of No Lynching Record

Oklahoma City, Jan. 4 (AP).—Gov. William H. Murray cleared his desk today and called surprised newsmen to his first press conference in more than a year. He handed cigars around, served South American tea, and told stories for an hour and 15 minutes.

"Not one lynching during my administration—I'm mighty proud of that," he said, insisting other comments were "off the record."

Leaders Meet With President To Push Plans

Budget Needed to Carry Out New Program Is Discussed.

Continued from Page 1.

present emergency aid funds will last only till mid-February.

Lull in Legislative Action.

A week's lull in congressional legislative activity appeared in prospect until Administration bills take definite form. After jointly receiving the President's opening message, both houses yesterday recessed until Monday. Today will be given over to routine designation of committee assignment in the House by the ways and means Committee, in the Senate by the Democratic steering committee.

Led by Vice President John Nance Garner, Senate Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson and Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, congressional conferees, arrived at the White House at about 8:30. They were escorted to the President's upstairs study.

Finance Leader Present.

Accompanying Garner and Robinson from the Senate were Senators Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee; Key Pittman, of Nevada, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, member of the Senate Appropriations and Banking Committees, and Augustine Lonergan, of Connecticut, member of the Senate Finance, Interstate Commerce and Pensions Committees.

Selected by Byrns to represent the House were Representatives Edward T. Taylor, acting majority leader; Robert L. Doughton, of North Carolina, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee; John J. O'Connor, of New York, chairman of the Rules Committee, and John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts, member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Taylor was designated in place of House Majority Leader William B. Bankhead, who is seriously ill in Naval Hospital.

Prior to the conference, President Roosevelt disclosed that 12 or 15 matters would come up for discussion. Although these were not stated, leaders went to the White House prepared for comment on social insurance, utility holding company regulation, transportation control, NRA reorganization, the St. Lawrence treay, extension of RFC functions, AAA clarification, communications mergers, crime measures, tapering off of emergency credit, the bonus and how to beat it.

Controversial Bills Up.

In advance of the conference, leaders had little to say. Indicative of the legislative struggle ahead, however, bills on a score of controversial subject were introduced in the Senate yesterday. They included the Wheeler 16-to-1 silver free coinage measure, the Thomas bonus bill (companion bill to the Patman cash bonus proposal), the Copeland pure food bill, measures to tax tax-exempt securities, the Costigan bill to give constitutional force to New Deal wage and labor legislation, and HOLC extension bills, proposing, respectively, $750,000,000, $1,000,000,000 and $1,500,000,000 in new Home Owners Loan funds. There was the usual run of proposed Senate investigations and Senator Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, offered a resolution to provide $100,000 for continuing the munitions inquiry.

For the most part, congressional Republicans yesterday withheld a critical attack on Administration objectives until these take shape in individual measures. Senate Republicans will not formally organize for the session until Monday, Minority Leader Charles L. McNary disclosed.

British Liquor Ship Is Forfeited to U. S.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 4 (AP).—Customs officials here today said the British steamship Jagerson, captured September 26 at St. Catherine Sound, off Savannah, Ga., for illegal entry and departure at that port, has been forfeited to the United States and will be sold under libel.

The ship, the customs officers said, previously left Guatemala with a cargo of liquor, ostensibly bound for Bermuda. Its first entry was at Savannah, they said, without clearing customs.

Mayor Throws Switch, TVA Lamps Lighted

Pulaski, Tenn., Jan. 4 (AP).—Pulaski tonight turned Tennessee Valley Authority electricity into its lamps, the first Tennessee town to do so, and envisaged rural electrification and industrial growth as a result of lower power rates.

Mayor W. R. Rackley threw the switch that poured the current from Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals, Ala., into the municipal distribution system at 4 p. m. and the town's old power plant came to a stop as hundreds of townfolk looked on.

Kingfish Final Victor In 'Episode of Eggs'

Alexandria, La., Jan. 4 (AP).—Charging betrayal at the hands of his fellow officials and admitting that there seems to be nothing he can do about it, Clint O'Malley today was ousted as Alexandria's chief of police.

In a recent campaign, Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana's dictator, was made the target for rotten eggs and other unwholesome missiles as he spoke at Alexandria. He blamed O'Malley for failure to keep order.

Two Rescued From Ship.

Santa Monica, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP). The small commercial fishing boat Victor burned to the water's edge 10 miles off shore here today. Its two occupants, A. R. Parker and William Platt, shoved off from the burning craft in a skiff and were rescued by another fishing boat.

In Congress

YESTERDAY.

Senate.

Met at noon and recessed at 1:25 p. m. until noon Monday.

Democratic Leader Robinson was named head of the Senate group to escort the President to a joint session.

Scores of bills were introduced. Outstanding was a bill by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, for free coinage of silver on a basis of 16 to 1. The silver bloc probably will concentrate its efforts behind the measure.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, advanced a companion bill to the cash bonus proposal offered earlier in the House by Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas.

Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, asked $100,000 to continue the munitions investigation.

The Senate met in joint session with the House in the lower chamber to hear the message of President Roosevelt, delivered in person.

House.

Met at noon and adjourned at 1:20 p. m. until noon Monday.

Representative Edward C. Taylor (Democrat), Colorado, was named head of a group to escort President Roosevelt to the House chamber.

Listened to the President's message.

TODAY

Senate.

No session.

Steering committee will meet to discuss committee assignments and other organization issues.

A tentative meeting is scheduled for the Republican Committee on Committees.

House.

Ways and Means Committee will meet to perfect committee assignments.

Appropriations Committee will consider departmental measures.

D. C. Clerk Shot Fighting Bandit

Delivery Man Wounded in Battle With Thugs Attempting Holdup.

Fighting off two colored men who tried to hold him up in his truck at Tenth and B streets northeast, Joseph Washnak, 42, of the 2800 block of Bladensburg road northeast, was shot through the body last night.

Washnak was taken to Casualty Hospital, where it was said his injuries were not serious. He was admitted to the hospital for observation, however. Doctors said the bullet entered his body below the ribs and emerged on the opposite side.

Washnak, who drives a delivery truck for a local meat company, said that he crawled into the back of his truck to get meat to make a delivery. One of the men followed him into the truck, while the other stood on the sidewalk.

"Stick 'em up!" the nearer bandit said, according to Washnak. Washnak hit him with his fist. The man fell out into the street. Pulling out a gun, he fired once. Then the two men fled. Washnak was taken to the hospital by Max Katz, who operates a grocery story at the Tenth and B street address. The robbers fled without $150 which Washnak carried.

Society Honors Young Patriot

U. of M. Student's Attack on Anti-War Parley Wins D. A. R. Laurels.

In recognition of his stand against the recent Baltimore student "anti-war conference," the Maryland Society of Daughters of the American Revolution has presented Joseph T. Elvove, University of Maryland student, with a framed copy of "The American's Creed," autographed by the author, William Tyler Page.

The resolution of the society accompanying the presentation praised Elvove "and the student group in the matter of their patriotic American position regarding the National Students' League and the League for Industrial Democracy."

The presentation was made as a result of the stand taken by Elvove in an address before the conference, held at the Johns Hopkins University November 10. Elvove, who said he was speaking for the Maryland University student body, condemned the conference as "communistic" and "anti-American."

Mrs. Hewitt Griggs Robertson, of Chevy Chase, Md., corresponding secretary for the Maryland Daughters of the American Revolution, made the presentation. The creed, with a United States flag and a copy of the resolution, will be hung in the university library.

Rescuers Speed to Aid Of Snow-Bound Traveler

Westwood, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP).—Rescuers sped by logging engine and snowshoe today to the aid of a traveler who telephoned he was lost, hungry and freezing and then dropped the receiver off the hook.

The stranded man, who gave his name as Brooks, called from one of seven cabins on the Westwood power line at Hat Creek.

Ulm Hunted After a Month.

Honolulu, Jan. 4 (AP).—One month after Charles T. P. Ulm and two companion Australian aviators dropped into the ocean on a flight from Oakland, Calif., toward Honolulu, the schooner Lanikai, chartered by Mrs. Ulm, continued to search for them or wreckage of their plane.

Hopkins Seen Likely to Head Work Program

Relief Chief Held Logical Choice to Direct U. S.' Biggest Project.

Continued from Page 1.

with the least amount of confusion and delay. One possibility is that the new authority will take the form of a board or commission with Hopkins as its executive officer.

The new set-up will be unlike PWA in that it will not involve allotment of money to private interests. All work will be done by the Federal Government or by local governments, none of it going to private contractors. This plan more closely resembles present work relief projects than it does PWA. Work already undertaken by PWA, including especially water-power projects and similar long-time undertakings, probably would be continued under the present set-up.

Planned Work Projects.

Another significant fact is that engineers in the Hopkins organization have been working for weeks on definitely planned projects for putting men to work. Hopkins has stated that his organization has on file plans for sufficient useful work to employ 4,000,000 men two weeks after word is received to go ahead. These plans include grade-crossing elimination, highway building, rural electrification and housing, all projects listed by the President in his message and previously recommended in the report of the National Resources Board to which the President referred as a guide for the program.

Similar outlines have been prepared by PWA, but most of these call for allotment of money, rather than for direct expenditures as proposed by the President. For instance, the PWA housing division could start immediately projects costing $175,000,000; could start an additional $200,000,000 worth of work within 60 days, and then could speed up its program to any point within its allotment.

There will be no attempt to turn the present relief set-up into a works organization over night. The President made it clear that his plan is for the fiscal year starting July 1. Meanwhile, the relief administration will be out of funds by February 15. President Roosevelt indicated that provision would be made for it to carry on until the work program becomes effective.

7,000,000 Jobs Estimated.

The estimate that this program would employ at least 7,000,000 persons was made by the President. His message indicated that 3,500,000 would be put directly to work. Later, the President said, he believed that for every man put to work directly, at least one other would be employed in furnishing materials, in transportation, or in similar work related to the actual project undertaken.

The figure, 3,500,000, the President believes, includes all employable persons now on relief. He plans to turn back to the States, cities and local relief organizations an estimated 1,500,000 unemployable persons. Announcement of this plan was made several days ago by Hopkins. The President spoke always in terms of employable persons. He said this was not to be confused with the number of persons on relief which include dependents of employable persons. Hopkins estimates that a total of 19,000,000 individuals are on relief.

The President said he could make no estimate of the amount of money that would be allotted to various types of work projects. He said this must be determined as the program progresses. There was assurance, however, he pointed out, that there are a sufficient variety of projects available to meet needs.

As to the care of unemployables, the President declared that employment of all employable persons will relieve the States of the necessity for helping to contribute to their support, thus releasing money which can go to the care of unemployables. States are expected to supply 40 per cent of relief budgets, but, in many instances, particularly in the South, a smaller percentage actually is being contributed.

Wages, the President said in his message, should be higher than the amounts paid for direct relief, but lower than prevailing wages in communities where the work is done. He made it clear, however, that this policy would not affect wages on PWA projects now under contract.

Among the persons now cared for by the Relief Administration are about 300,000 transients being cared for in camps and so-called "centers." Many of these would be cared for by work relief and others undoubtedly would be absorbed by the proposed enlargement of the CCC. The plan, of necessity, would eliminate the transient organizations. The CCC now includes approximately 350,000 men. It is expected this organization will be doubled.

List of Projects.

The President's list of available projects followed exactly that of the National Resources Board. It includes rural electrification, rural housing, reforestation, soil erosion prevention, national highway construction, grade crossing elimination, CCC and slum clearance. The report recommended a works planning committee, which probably would be similar to the "coordinated authority" which the President proposes to set up.

Upon his return from the Capitol, where he heard the message, Secretary Ickes said he did not know what part he would play in the new program, but added:

"We handled the other one, didn't we?"

He said he believed Hopkins would "have a very important part."

Ickes pointed out that grade crossing elimination, soil erosion prevention and reforestation were projects on which a great many men could be employed directly. Advocates of grade crossing elimination as a relief measure have estimated that it would put 750,000 men to work.

Ickes also pointed out that at present reforestation and much road work are under the Agriculture Department. These works, the President indicated, would come directly under the new authority. Speaking for PWA, Ickes said 3,500,000 men could be put rapidly to work because there would be no need for putting together a new organization and because many projects have been examined and could be immediately approved.

Ickes raised the question, however, of whether it would be necessary to modify proposed projects to suit the new plan involving immediate action by the Government.

"The new plan," he said, "might be materially different from the present one."

Ickes approved the President's suggestion that lower wages be paid on relief work than the prevailing wage in the community in which the work is done. He said there has been "some justification" of the complaint that PWA was competing with local employers. Ickes said that he did not feel it was necessary to put 3,500,000 directly to work, that some of them could be absorbed indirectly. The President, however, made it clear that direct work should be provided for the entire 3,500,000.

McCarl Rule Halts Plan to Publish Washington Books

A decision made public yesterday by Comptroller General Henry McCarl halted publication of the "Definite Works of George Washington," an ambitious, 25-volume enterprise of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, headed by Representative Sol Bloom, of New York.

No obligation for the printing of the work, or anything else, could be incurred after December 31, 1934, Comptroller General decided.

The news was dispatched to William Tyler Page, veteran House attache, in his capacity as executive secretary and disbursing officer for the commission.

Previously Mr. Page had written Mr. McCarl, explaining the commission expired with the end of 1934, under the resolution creating it, but that some of its work still was undone.

McCarl ruled the commission could not undertake any obligation against its appropriation for printing, clerical services, or otherwise.

Hunger March of 3,000 Is Set For Today Here

Vanguard Arrives for 3-Day Convention to Offer Protests.

The 1935 model of the hunger march goes on display in the Capital today.

The vanguard arrived yesterday by train, bus and auto. Leaders expect the "marchers" to number as much as 3,000.

They will attend a three-day convention of the National Congress on Unemployment and Social Insurance to work out a program for presentation to Congress and the executive branch of the Government.

"A new layer of the population," Herbert Benjamin, executive secretary, said yesterday, "has been brought into the area of direct fire, so to speak, and is equally threatened with previously less privileged groups by unemployment."

Denies Communist Influence.

Benjamin said the Actors Equity the Newspaper Guild, the Economic Federation of Dentists, the Federation of Architects, Engineers and Chemists, teachers' organizations, 300 American Federation of Labor locals and the textile and steel unions are sending delegates.

Benjamin declared previous hunger marchers have been principally Communist, whereas in the present gathering the Communist Party is represented only "nominally," with large representation from the Farmer Laborites, the Democrats and the Socialists. Everything, he said, but Republicans.

Commenting on President Roosevelt's message to Congress, he said:

"We have heard promises of reemployment before and have learned not to be easily reassured by them.

Delegates from Michigan, Indiana, Arkansas, Texas, Colorado, Wyoming and California registered for the conference.

Congress to Open Today.

The congress is to open today with a general session and addresses by F. Elmer Brown, national chairman and a representative of the New York Typographical Union, and Benjamin, who will speak on "The Need for Social Insurance—The Manner in Which It Can Be Secured—the Program and Purpose of the Congress."

Dr. Harry F. Ward, of the Union Theological Seminary; Mary Van Kleeck, of the International Association for Social Insurance; T. Arnold Hill, of the National Urban League, and Earl Browder, of the Communist Party, will be the principal speakers at general sessions ending Monday with a summary of sectional reports.

Monday morning has been set aside for the sending of delegations to the White House, to Secretaries Ickes, Perkins and Wallace, to FERA Administrator Hopkins and CCC Director Fechner, to Speaker Byrns and Vice President Garner, and to the American Federation of Labor executive council, whose members have opposed the assembly.

RUXTON SHIRTS REDUCED

Our entire stock of fine Ruxton Shirts for business and sports wear is on sale at generously reduced prices. Collar-attached and separate collar styles . . . Tabs . . . Stiff Bosoms . . . Whites . . . or smart new patterns and colours.

$2.50 SHIRTS now . . $1.95 $3.50 SHIRTS now . . $2.65
$3.00 SHIRTS now . . $2.35 $5.00 SHIRTS now . . $3.35

Goldheim's

Apparel for Gentlemen . . . Established 1875

1409 H Street N.W. NAtional 1409

SUNDAY DINNER WITH WINE
$1.00

It's worth waiting all the week for—this sumptuous Harrington dinner that's becoming the talk of the town! There are 5 full courses prepared with all the epicurean skill of a famous chef, served with all the delectable trimmings that round out a perfect meal. And remember—

Your Choice of Sauterne or Claret Is Included in the Menu—Without Extra Charge!

HOTEL HARRINGTON
14TH AND E STREETS N.W.

RAILROADS RAILROADS

Take Your Auto To Florida

NO CRATING—NO BOTHER

One Railroad Ticket

(costing only 3 6/10 cents per mile) and 2 additional first class railroad tickets at prevailing low fares transports the car and 2 passengers.

Consult your local agent, or

G. P. James, G.P.A. 735-15 St. N.W. Washington, D.C. Tel. National 7835

Atlantic Coast Line

The Standard Railroad of the South

SPECIAL NOTICES

WEEKLY TRIPS TO AND FROM BALTIMORE. Also weekly trips within 50-mile radius of Washington. NO. 3243. SMITH'S TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.

OFFICE OF THE FIREMEN'S INSURANCE Company of Washington and Georgetown, 303 Seventh street northwest, Washington, D. C. The stockholders of the Firemen's Insurance Company of Washington and Georgetown will meet at the office on MONDAY, January 7, 1935, for the purpose of electing thirteen directors for the ensuing year. Polls open from 12 m. to 12 noon. ALBERT W. HOWARD, Secretary.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.—Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between us, the undersigned Johanne Sorensen and Hansine Sorensen, carrying on business as a restaurant at 722 Seventeenth street northwest, Washington, D. C., under the style or firm name of Danish Rose Restaurant, was on the 26TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1934, dissolved by mutual consent, and that the business in the future will be carried on by the said Johanne Sorensen alone, who will pay and discharge all debts and liabilities, and receive all moneys payable to the said late firm.

HANSINE SORENSEN.
JOHANNE SORENSEN.

BOYD Training Pays! Courses 3-10 Months.

Easy to learn. Position guaranteed graduates. Inquire Nat. 2338, 1333 F St. N.W.

Roosevelt Offers Works Plan to Abolish Relief

President Asks That 3,500,000 Be Given Jobs

Program Also Stresses 'Social Security' for Every Citizen.

Continued from Page 1.

who rushed out of the crowd and yelled "We want our bonus."

Awaiting the President in the House chamber were the members of the Senate, his Cabinet and the Supreme Court. In the executive gallery were Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother; Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, the President's attractive daughter, with her children and other members of the family.

Receives Wild Ovation.

As the frock-coated Chief Executive, leaning on the arm of his eldest son, James, walked up the ramp to the Speaker's rostrum, he was given a wild ovation. The chamber looked like a Hollywood movie lot, with huge cameras in every corner and every gallery, broadcasting and sound-picture equipment strung around the rostrum and a hundred powerful Kleig lights suspended from the ceiling. The latter poured a merciless light and heat on the President as he spoke.

Mr. Roosevelt's voice was not at its best. He had a slight cold and he was halfway through the speech before he commenced to stress his words. Nevertheless he frequently was interrupted in reading the 4,000-word speech by outbursts of applause.

The speech brought forth from members of Congress the usual statements on such occasions in which the Democrats, in general, praised it extravagantly and some Republicans termed it "defensive" and "vague." Republican Floor Leader Snell in the House withheld comment. Senate Republican Leader McNary asserted that it was "an interesting and forward-looking message, effectively delivered."

Some Criticism Heard.

Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, thought in general it was "ideal," but that "some of it seems to me fantastic and impracticable for successful operation." Senator Robert M. La-Follette (Progressive), of Wisconsin, applauded the general objectives, but criticized the President's proposal that those employed on his new work projects should not receive as high a wage as those doing similar work in private industry. Incidentally, this proposal was greeted with greater applause than any other part of the speech.

In cloakrooms and corridors, however, members of House and Senate undertook to analyze the speech to determine the President's course. The consensus seemed to be that he had not turned to right or left, but had continued on the program with which he started the "New Deal," now referred to by Mr. Roosevelt as the "New Order."

Regarded as Conciliatory.

The speech also was regarded as conciliatory and not designed to stir up the antagonisms of any group of persons. Public utility holding companies were the only group singled out for an attack. He reiterated his adherence to the profit motive and made it clear that projects under the new work program would not compete with private capital.

If these things cheered the conservatives, the latter were discouraged at the prospect of further huge appropriations to create employment, at the President's castigation of wealth and at his determination to put into force old-age pensions, unemployment insurance and similar governmental aids for those in need.

Some noted in the President's speech a confession of failure in dealing with the unemployment and relief problem the last year. They pointed to his declaration that "the stark fact before us is that great numbers still remain unemployed" and the vehemence of his denunciation of direct relief in its effect on the moral fiber of the Nation, ending with the emphatic assertion that "the Federal Government must and shall quit this business of relief."

Warns His Opponents.

At the outset of his address the President warned those who opposed his policies for speculative profit or partisan purpose that they must assume the responsibility "for any act which slows our onward steps."

He recalled that change was the order of the day as all nations reached out for social justice. He assailed attempts to distinguish between recovery and reform as a "narrowly conceived effort to substitute the appearance of reality for reality itself," and pointed out that he American objective of today "has an infinitely deeper, finer and more lasting purpose than mere repression."

Reformation in piecemeal fashion, he said, resulted in confusion and frustration. Despite all past efforts and talk, the President continued, "we have not weeded out the overprivileged and we have not effectively lifted up the under-privileged. There was no desire to destroy the profit-motive, because by that "we mean the right to work to earn a decent livelihood for ourselves and our families."

But "we have a clear mandate fro mthe people," he went on, that "Americans must forswear that conception of the acquisition of wealth which through excessive profit creates undue private power over private affairs and, to our misfortune, over public affairs as well."

Will Submit "Security Plan."

In sketching his "American plan" the President recalled his divisions of security—security of livelihood through better use of national resources; security against major hazards and vicissitudes of life and decent houses. He said he was ready to submit a plan which ultimately would establish these factors of security.

Whatever is planned or done, he asserted, should be in the light of these three objectives. He added "we can not afford to lose valuable time in haphazard public policies" which do not fit into this scheme. It was because his new work program "fits logically and usefully" into his permanent plan that he offered it.

Approximately 5,000,000 unemployed workers were on Federal relief rolls, he explained. About 1,500,000 of this number were unable to work and he proposed they should be turned over to the care of local authorities and private charity.

Text of President's Message to Congress

Continued from Page 1.

chine age, the advent of universal and rapid communication and many other new factors have brought new problems. Succeeding generations have attempted to keep pace by reforming in piecemeal fashion this or that attendant abuse. As a result, evils overlap and reform becomes confused and frustrated. We lose sight, from time to time, of our ultimate human objectives.

Let us, for a moment, strip from our simple purpose the confusion that results from a multiplicity of detail and from millions of written and spoken words.

We find our population suffering from old inequalities, little changed by past sporadic remedies. In spite of our efforts and in spite of our talk, we have not weeded out the overprivileged and we have not effectively lifted up the underprivileged. Both of these manifestations of injustice have retarded happiness. No wise man has any intention of destroying what is known as the profit motive; because by the profit motive we mean the right by work to earn a decent livelihood for ourselves and for our families.

We have, however, a clear mandate from the people, that Americans must forswear that conception of the acquisition of wealth which, through excessive profits, creates undue private power over private affairs and, to our misfortune, over public affairs as well. In building toward this end we do not destroy ambition nor do we seek to divide our wealth into equal shares on stated occasions. We continue to recognize the greater ability of some to earn more than others. But we do assert that the ambition of the individual to obtain for him and his proper security, a reasonable leisure, and a decent living throughout life, is an ambition to be preferred to the appetite for great wealth and great power.

I recall to your attention my message to the Congress last June in which I said—"among our objectives I place the security of the men, women and children of the Nation first." That remains our first and continuing task; and in a very real sense every major legislative enactment of this Congress should be a component part of it.

In defining immediate factors which enter into our quest, I have spoken to the Congress and the people of three great divisions:

1. The security of a livelihood through the better use of the national resources of the land in which we live.

2. The security against the major hazards and vicissitudes of life.

3. The security of decent homes.

I am now ready to submit to the Congress a broad program designed ultimately to establish all three of these factors of security—a program which because of many lost years will take many future years to fulfill.

National Resources Must Be Preserved.

A study of our national resources, more comprehensive than any previously made, shows the vast amount of necessary and practicable work which needs to be done for the development and preservation of our natural wealth for the enjoyment and advantage of our people in generations to come. The sound use of land and water is far more comprehensive than the mere planting of trees, building of dams, distributing of electricity or retirement of submarginal land. It recognizes that stranded populations, either in the country or the city, can not have security under the conditions that now surround them.

To this end we are ready to begin to meet this problem—the intelligent care of population throughout our Nation, in accordance with an intelligent distribution of the means of livelihood for that population. A definite program for putting people to work, of which I shall speak in a moment, is a component part of this greater program of security of livelihood through the better use of our national resources.

Closely related to the broad problem of livelihood is that of security against the major hazards of life. Here also a comprehensive survey of what has been attempted or accomplished in many nations and in many States proves to me that the time has come for action by the National Government. I shall send to you, in a few days, definite recommendations based on these studies. These recommendations will cover the broad subjects of unemployment insurance and old-age insurance, of benefits for children, for mothers, for the handicapped, for maternity care and for other aspects of dependency and illness where a beginning can now be made.

The third factor—better homes for our people—has also been the subject of experimentation and study. Here, too, the first practical steps can be made through the proposals which I shall suggest in relation to giving work to the unemployed.

Immediate Issue Is Providing Work.

Whatever we plan and whatever we do should be in the light of these three clear objectives of security. We can not afford to lose valuable time in haphazard public policies which can not find a place in the broad outlines of these major purposes. In that spirit I come to an immediate issue made for us by hard and inescapable circumstance—the task of putting people to work. In the spring of 1933 the issue of destitution seemed to stand apart; today, in the light of our experience and our new national policy, we find we can put people to work in ways which conform to, initiate and carry forward the broad principles of that policy.

The first objectives of emergency legislation of 1933 were, to relieve destitution, to make it possible for industry to operate in a more rational and orderly fashion, and to put behind industrial recovery the impulse of large expenditures in Government undertakings. The purpose of the national industrial recovery act to provide work for more people succeeded in a substantial manner within the first few months of its life, and the act has continued to maintain employment gains and greatly improved working conditions in industry.

The program of public works provided for in the recovery act launched the Federal Government into a task for which there was little time to make preparation and little American experience to follow. Great employment has been given and is being given by these works.

More than $2,000,000,000 have also been expended in direct relief to the destitute. Local agencies of necessity determined the recipients of this form of relief. With inevitable exceptions the funds were spent by them with reasonable efficiency and as a result actual want of food and clothing in the great majority of cases has been overcome.

But the stark fact before us is that great numbers still remain unemployed.

A large proportion of these unemployed and their dependents have been forced on the relief rolls. The burden on the Federal Government has grown with great rapidity. We have here a human as well as an economic problem. When humane considerations are concerned, Americans give them precedence. The lessons of history, confirmed by the evidence immediately before me show conclusively that continued dependence upon relief induces a spiritual and moral disintegration fundamentally destructive to the national fiber. To dole out relief in this way is to administer a narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit. It is inimical to the dictates of sound policy. It is in violation of the traditions of America. Work must be found for able-bodied but destitute workers.

The Federal Government must and shall quit this business of relief.

I am not willing that the vitality of our people be further sapped by the giving of cash, of market baskets, of a few hours of weekly work cutting grass, raking leaves or picking up papers in the public parks. We must preserve not only the bodies of the unemployed from destitution but also their self-respect, their self-reliance and courage and determination. This decision brings me to the problem of what the Government should do with approximately 5,000,000 unemployed now on the relief rolls.

Help Must Depend On Community Aid.

About 1,500,000 of these belong to the group which in the past was dependent upon local welfare efforts. Most of them are unable for one reason or another to maintain themselves independently—for the most part, through no fault of their own. Such people, in the days before the great depression, were cared for by local efforts—by States, by counties, by towns, by cities, by churches and by private welfare agencies. It is my thought that in the future they must be cared for as they were before I stand ready through my own personal efforts, and through the public influence of the office that I hold, to help these local agencies to get the means necessary to assume this burden.

The security legislation which I shall propose to the Congress will, I am confident, be of assistance to local effort in the care of this type of cases. Local responsibility can and will be resumed, for, after all common sense tells us that the wealth necessary for this task existed and still exists in the local community, and the dictates of sound administration require that this responsibility be in the first instance a local one.

There are, however, an additional 3,500,000 employable people who are on relief. With them the problem is different and the responsibility is different. This group was the victim of a Nation-wide depression caused by conditions which were not local but national. The Federal Government is the only governmental agency with sufficient power and credit to meet this situation. We have assumed this task and we shall not shrink from it in the future. It is a duty dictated by every intelligent consideration of national policy to ask you to make it possible for the United States to give employment to all of these 3,500,000 employable people now on relief, pending their absorption in a rising tide of private employment.

It is my thought that with the exception of certain of the normal public building operations of the Government, all emergency public works shall be united in a single new and greatly enlarged plan.

With the establishment of this new system we can supersede the Federal Emergency Relief Administration with a coordinated authority which will be charged with the orderly liquidation of our present relief activities and the substitution of a national chart for the giving of work.

This new program of emergency public employment should be governed by a number of practical principles.

(1) All work undertaken should be useful—not just for a day, or a year, but useful in the sense that it affords permanent improvement in living conditions or that it creates future new wealth for the Nation.

(2) Compensation on emergency public projects should be in the form of security payments which should be larger than the amount now received as a relief dole, but at the same time not so large as to encourage the rejection of opportunities for private employment or the leaving of private employment to engage in Government work.

(3) Projects should be undertaken on which a large percentage of direct labor can be used.

(4) Preference should be given to those projects which will be self-liquidating in the sense that there is a reasonable expectation that the Government will get its money back at some future time.

(5) The projects undertaken should be selected and planned so as to compete as little as possible with private enterprises. This suggests that if it were not for the necessity of giving useful work to the unemployed now on relief, these projects in most instances would not now be undertaken.

(6) The planning of projects would seek to assure work during the coming fiscal year to the individuals now on relief, or until such time as private employment is available. In order to make adjustment to increasing private employment, work should be planned with a view to tapering it off in proportion to the speed with which the emergency workers are offered positions with private employers.

National Resources Board Suggested as Guide.

(7) Effort should be made to locate projects where they will serve the greatest unemployment needs as shown by present relief rolls, and the broad program of the National Resources Board should be freely used for guidance in selection. Our ultimate objective being the enrichment of human lives, the Government has the primary duty to use its emergency expenditures as much as possible to serve those who can not secure the advantages of private capital.

Ever since the adjournment of the Seventy-third Congress, the Administration has been studying from every angle the possibility and the practicability of new forms of employment. As a result of these studies I have arrived at certain very definite convictions as to the amount of money that will be necessary for the sort of public projects that I have described. I shall submit these figures in my budget message. I assure you now they will be within the sound credit of the Government.

This work will cover a wide field including clearance of slums, which for adequate reasons can not be undertaken by private capital; in rural housing of several kinds, where again private capital is unable to function; in rural electrification; in the reforestation of the great watersheds of the Nation; in an intensified program to prevent soil erosion and to reclaim blighted areas; in improving existing road systems and in constructing National highways designed to handle modern traffic; in the elimination of grade crossings; in the extension and enlargement of the successful work of the Civilian Conservation Corps; in non-Federal work, mostly self-liquidating and highly useful to local divisions of government, and on many others which the Nation needs and can not afford to neglect.

This is the method which I propose to you in order that we may better meet this present day problem of unemployment. Its greatest advantage is that it fits logically and usefully into the long range permanent policy of providing the three types of security which constitute as a whole an American plan for the American people.

I shall consult with you from time to time concerning other measures of national importance. Among the subjects that lie immediately before us are the consolidation of Federal regulatory administration over all forms of transportation, the renewal and clarification of the general purposes of the National Industrial Recovery Act, the strengthening of our facilities for the prevention, detection and treatment of crime and criminals, the restoration of sound conditions in the public utilities field through abolition of the evil features of holding companies, the gradual tapering off of the emergency credit activities of government, and improvement in our taxation forms and methods.

We have already begun to feel the bracing effect upon our economic system of a restored agriculture. The hundreds of millions of additional income that farmers are receiving is finding its way into the channels of trade. The farmers' share of the national income is slowly rising. The economic facts justify the widespread opinion of those engaged in agriculture that our provision for maintaining a balanced production gave at this time the most adequate remedy for an old and vexing problem. For the present and especially in view of abnormal world conditions, agricultural adjustment with certain necessary improvements in methods should continue.

President Praises Spirit Of Public Servants.

It seems appropriate to call attention at this time to the fine spirit shown during the past year by our public servants. I can not praise too highly the cheerful work of the civil service employes, and of those temporarily working for the Government. As for those thousands in our various public agencies spread throughout the country who, without compensation, agreed to take over heavy responsibilities in connection with our various loan agencies and particularly in direct relief work, I can not say too much. I do not think any country could show a higher average of cheerful and even enthusiastic team-work than has been shown by these men and women.

I can not with candor tell you that general international relationships outside our borders are improved. On the surface of things many old jealousies are resurrected, old passions aroused; new strivings for armament and power, in more than one land, rear their ugly heads. I hope that calm counsel and constructive leadership will provide the steadying influence and the time necessary for the coming of new and more practical forms of representative government throughout the world wherein privilege will occupy a lesser place and welfare a greater.

I believe, however, that our own peaceful and neighborly attitude toward other nations is coming to be understood and appreciated. The maintenance of international peace is a matter in which we are deeply and unselfishly concerned. Evidence of our persistent and undeniable desire to prevent armed conflict has recently been more than once afforded.

There is no ground for apprehension that our relations with any nation will be otherwise than peaceful. Nor is there ground for doubt that the people of most nations seek relief from the threat and burden attaching to the false theory that extravagant armament can not be reduced and limited by international accord.

The ledger of the past year shows many more gains than losses. Let us not forget that, in addition to saving millions from utter destitution, child labor has been for the moment outlawed, thousands of homes saved to their owners and, most important of all, the morale of the Nation has been restored. Viewing the year 1934 as a whole, you and I can agree that we have a generous measure of reason for giving thanks.

It is not empty optimism that moves me to a strong hope in the coming year. We can, if we will, make 1935 a genuine period of good feeling, sustained by a sense of purposeful progress. Beyond the material recovery, I sense a spiritual recovery as well. The people of America are turning as never before to those permanent values that are not limited to the physical objectives of life. There are growing signs of this on every hand. In the face of these spiritual impulses we are sensible of the Divine Providence to which nations turn now, as always, for guidance and fostering care.

Lansburgh's Better
7th, 8th and E

Dress Shop Clearance!

One-of-a-kind Exclusive Fashions at Great Savings

Here's a real opportunity for women with taste and a limited budget! The dresses in this clearance are all drastically reduced and every single one of them is a dramatic, important fashion. Be here early for a complete selection.

Green and gold lame ensemble (size 12), formerly $99.50	$39.75
Gold lame evening dress (size 14), originally $55	$39.75
Black and gold cocktail dress (size 16), originally $55	$39.75
Black and silver tunic dress (size 16), originally $49.75	$39.75
Red and silver tunic dress (size 16), originally $49.75	$39.75
Black and white metallic tunic dress (size 14), originally $59.75	$39.75
Gold lame cocktail dress (size 16), originally $49.75	$39.75
Black crepe dinner suit (size 12), originally $49.75	$39.75
Orchid ice satin evening dress (size 16), originally $49.75	$39.75
Black crepe jacket dress (size 14), originally $49.75	$39.75
Sapphire blue lame and velvet tunic (size 14), originally $35	$25
Sapphire and silver cocktail dress (size 18), originally $39.75	$29.75
Brown lame cocktail dress (size 14), originally $39.75	$29.75
Green and black dinner dress (size 12), originally $39.75	$29.75
Red and black dinner dress (size 16), originally $39.75	$29.75
Black and silver dinner dress (size 14), originally $39.75	$29.75
Black and green evening dress (size 18), originally $39.75	$29.75
Peacock dinner dress (size 16), originally $35	$25.00
Matelasse cocktail suit (size 18), originally $35	$25.00
Irma Kirby afternoon velvet (size 16), originally $39.75	$29.75
Black velvet and net suit (size 16), originally $39.75	$29.75
Black velvet dinner dress (size 14), originally $49.75	$29.75
Black velvet dinner dress (size 12), originally $49.75	$29.75
Opalescent velvet robe de style (size 12), originally $79.50	$49.75
17 daytime dresses (sizes 12 to 20), originally $25 to $29.75	$19.75
13 daytime dresses (sizes 12 to 20), originally $29.75 and $35	$25

LANSBURGH'S—SECOND FLOOR—BETTER DRESSES

ON SALE TODAY AT 9:15 A. M.

Tender CHUCK ROAST lb. 17c
An Economical Roast Cut From Quality Western Beef. An Outstanding Value.

3-CORNER lb. 21c-FANCY RIB lb. 25c

FRESH PORK

LOIN ROAST... Half or Whole Loin lb. 19c
PORK CHOPS End Cut, lb. 20c Center Cut, lb. 25c

FRESH STEWING CHICKENS 3 to 4 lbs. Each lb. 21c

Sunnyfield Sliced Bacon ..... lb. 29c
Sausage Meat or Green Links ..... lb. 25c
Campfire Sausage Meat (bulk) ..... lb. 19c

Swift's Spiced Cooked BEEF lb. 29c — You'll delight at the wonderful flavor of this Swift's delicacy

Mild-Cured Smoked HAMS lb. 18c
Slices of Ham lb. 29c

Sultana Red Salmon 2 No. 1 cans 35c
Standard Tomatoes 2 med. cans 15c
Ann Page Beans 3 lge. cans 25c
Morton's Salt 2 pkgs. 13c
Bean Hole Beans 2 cans 15c
Olympia Dried Soaked Peas 3 med. cans 20c
Webster's Tomato Juice 27-oz. can 10c
Encore Prepared Spaghetti 4 cans 25c
White House Apple Sauce 2 med. cans 15c
Campbell's Tomato Soup 2 cans 15c
Stringless Beans 2 med. cans 15c
Rajah Maple Blended Syrup 2 12-oz. jugs 25c

Sunnyfield Pancake 3 pkgs. 19c
Grandmother's Doughnuts pkg. 10c
Shredded Wheat 2 pkgs. 25c
Rajah Salad Dressing pt. 17c
Delmonte Halves or Sliced PEACHES 2 Large Cans 35c
White House Evaporated Milk 4 tall 23c
Granulated Sugar 10 lbs. 49c

WHILE THEY LAST
Layer Figs lb. 17c
Mixed Nuts lb. 19c
Brazil Nuts lb. 19c

One of the Finest Desserts in America
Specially Priced
SPARKLE
Gelatin Dessert or Chocolate Pudding
6 Delicious Flavors
4 pkgs. 17c
Nutritious
Economical
Healthful

Sultana Broken Sliced Pineapple 2 lge. cans 35c
Campbell's Assorted Soups 3 cans 25c
Sunnyfield Buckwheat 2 pkgs. 15c
Toilet Tissue Waldorf 4 rolls 17c
Soft White Tissue Scot-Tissue 2 rolls 15c
Br'er Rabbit Green Label Molasses lge. cans 23c
Campbell's Tomato Juice 3 cans 20c
Palmolive Soap 4 cakes 19c
Fels Soap 5 cakes 23c
Electric Bulbs each 10c or 20c

Fresh Fruits and Vegetables
15 FLORIDA Oranges For the Price of a Dozen 19c or 25c

Spinach ... 2 lbs. 19c
Fresh Kale ..... lb. 5c
York Apples .. 4 lbs. 19c
Rutabagas ... 3 lbs. 10c
Cabbage ..... lb. 5c
Celery .. 2 bunches 23c
Beets .... 2 bunches 15c
Broccoli .... 2 lbs. 19c

Fancy New POTATOES 3 lbs. 17c
Fancy White CAULIFLOWER Head 19c

These Prices Are Effective in Washington and Suburbs, Saturday, Jan. 5th.

Lindbergh's Testimony Accusing Hauptmann of Kidnaping

Fruitless Attempts To Find Baby Told

Flier Describes Trip to Cemetery Where Ransom Was Paid, and Swears He Heard Hauptmann's Voice in Conversation With Jafsie.

Continued from Page 1.

Lindbergh examined the notes carefully and identified them.)

Wilentz showed Lindbergh a faded scrap of paper, a section of a rotogravure section.—A. That is part of a wrapping paper I saw at Dr. Condon's home. In it was wrapped the sleeping suit.

Identifies Baby's Clothes.

Wilentz showed the colonel a baby's sleeping suit.

Q. Wasn't this wrapped in that paper?—A. Yes, that is right.

Lindbergh was shown the final note, which immediately preceded the ransom payment.—A. I was in Dr. Condon's home in the Bronx when that arrived. It was April 2, 1932. I saw Dr. Condon walk to the table and from beneath it he got a note.

Q. As a result of that note did you and Dr. Condon then depart in an auto?—A. Yes, we did.

Q. Who was driving?—A. I was.

Q. Di dyou have money with you?—A. We had $70,000. It was wrapped in brown paper and packed in a wooden box.

Q. The time, Colonel?—A. Approximately 8:30.

Q. You sat in the car while Dr. Condon went into the cemetery?—A. Yes.

Q. How far was the car from the cemetery?—A. About 200 or 300 feet, Dr. Condon walked along the cemetery, and went to the corner.

Flier Remained in Car.

Q. And you sat in the car with $70,000?—A. Yes. Dr. Condon stood at the corner a few moments and then turned and started to walk back. Then I heard clearly a voice seeming to come from within the cemetery.

Q. And what did that voice say?—A. It said, "Hey, doctor!" It was a foreign accent.

Q. How many times did you hear that voice?—A. Only once.

Q. Since that night in St. Raymond's Cemetery did you hear that same voice?—A. Yes.

Q. Whose was that voice?—A. Mr. Hauptmann's.

Q. What did Condon do then?—A. He went off to confer with the kidnaper. He returned in 10 minutes.

Q. Did you give him the money.—A. I gave him part of it. He suggested only $50,000 be paid.

The colonel described how he made futile air trips over the sea in the vicinity of Gay Head, Mass., where the kidnapers' note given to Condon when the ransom was paid in the cemetery that night said the baby would be found.

Q. How many were in the plane that searched?—A. I don't recall.

Q. Were you in the plane?—A. I piloted it.

Tells of Viewing Body.

Lindbergh then retold how he last saw the child the Sunday night two days before the kidnaping.

Then came the story of that identification at midnight in a Trenton morgue.

Q. You saw that body?—A. Yes.

Q. It was your child?—A. Yes.

Q. So you did not get your money back and you didn't get your child back?—A. No.

Wilentz then offered the witness to the defense for cross-examination.

Cross-examination by Edward J. Reilly.

Q. Colonel, are you armed?

Wilentz objected.

A. I'll answer, your honor.

Judge Trenchard nodded.

A. I am not.

Q. Mr. and Mrs. Whateley were in your house the day the baby was kidnaped, were they not?—A. Yes.

Q. What investigation did you make into the reputation of Ollie Whateley?—A. I talked to him.

Q. Beyond that?—A. Nothing.

Q. You didn't look into his background?—A. I don't recall.

Q. He was one of two present the day of the kidnaping who has since died?—A. Yes, he died in the winter of 1933.

Q. You took Mrs. Whateley the same way — without recommendation?—A. Yes.

Betty Gow Recommended.

Q. Now, how did you get Betty Gow?—A. She came recommended by the Morrow household.

Q. Did you know she had any brothers?—A. No.

Q. You didn't know she had one brother in Canada and another who has been in trouble in New Jersey?—A. No.

Reilly questioned Lindbergh closely with regard to household knowledge of his goings and comings.

Q. The knowledge of your movements, you might say, were known to your butler, the butler's wife and nursemaid?—A. Well, perhaps.

Q. Didn't you as a father make every effort to find out the background of the people in the house the night your child was snatched away?—I placed my confidence in the police.

Q. As a man of the world, you know police are not infallible.—A. I thought we had very good police.

Q. Isn't it a fact that no Federal agent ever saw the ransom notes?—A. No. I know it's not a fact.

Q. Isn't it a fact that this investigation since the day it started has been in the hands of the State police?—A. That was the authority, but there was perfect harmony among the police.

At Reilly's direction, Lindbergh traced on the map the way from the nursery to the kitchen wing.

Asked About Movements.

The defense counsel sought to bring out that only the servants knew the family movements, but Lindbergh said it was not the custom to tell the servants.

Q. Did the outside world know you were coming home Monday or going back to New York Tuesday?—A. No, very few knew, even now.

Reilly asked whether Lindbergh had a dog.

A. Why yes, my mother gave us a dog.

Q. In Hopewell?—A. Yes.

Q. At the time of the kidnaping?—A. Why, yes.

Q. A good watch dog?—A. I wouldn't say so.

Reilly then asked if the dog had given any sign there was a prowler about the house the night of the kidnaping.

A. No, I wouldn't expect any from that dog.

Reilly asked the last part of the answer be stricken out and the judge granted his motion.

Reilly then had Lindbergh describe how he arrived home the kidnap night about 8 o'clock and went upstairs to wash before looking into the nursery where the baby was asleep.

Q. Did you see Betty Gow when you went upstairs to the washroom a little after 8?—A. No.

Q. Then you went downstairs to dinner?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you sit in the dining room facing the doorway?—A. No.

Q. So the way you sat in the dining room you could not see the hallway? Colonel, if you were in the dining room some one could have gone up that stairway, after having passed through the hallway and entered the door?—A. No.

Admits Possibility.

Col. Lindbergh also said it would have been impossible for anyone in the house to have taken the child down the main staircase and out the front door without attracting the attention of himself or Mrs. Lindbergh, who were having supper in the dining room.

Q. Let's take the other course, colonel, then if there was disturbance in the house, someone in the house, it is possible, might have taken the baby out of the crib and out of the house?—A. It is possible.

Q. You did not enter the nursery at that time? You heard nothing suspicious? (After Lindbergh told how at 9 o'clock he and Anne were in their bedroom adjoining the child's.)—A. No.

Q. In the course of the investigation, colonel, have you ever heard it said you were the one to be kidnaped?

Wilentz objected. Justice Trenchard sustained the objection.

Q. Did you ever have any indication that your wires were being tapped?—A. No.

Q. Were any fingerprints ever found around the casement window?—A. No, that's my information.

Reilly then directed the aviator to take the pointer and indicate to the jury on the charts the window out of which the baby was taken.

Q. Were there any fingerprints on the outside of that window?—A. I was informed at the time they did not locate any fingerprints there, only smudges

Q. Who first approached the window after the baby was kidnaped?—A. Why, I did.

Q. Was it locked?—A. No, no one ever locked it.

Q. Was any stranger ever in your nursery?—A. Not as far as I know.

Reilly then directed the witness to retell the story of the noise he and Mrs. Lindbergh heard after having dinner. He asked him if it might be the sound of a book falling.—A. No. It had the sound of wood on wood.

Q. Do you recall if there was a piece of lumber in your library about 12 or 14 inches long?—A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember any shavings or nails or refuse being dumped near the house after they built it?—A. Well, yes, there was for a while.

Q. It didn't come from the direction of the nursery?—A. It didn't seem to come from any direction.

Q. You only heard one sound?—A. You couldn't call it one sound, I heard it only once.

Investigated in Kitchen.

He said he subsequently investigated in the kitchen and found nothing had crashed there.

Reilly brought out that the Lindbergh child had not been exposed to strangers, although Lindbergh pointed out the 20-months-old child went to school "with other children" at the Little School, Englewood.

Q. You heard no cry from the nursery (after queries on the crash of wood the Lindberghs heard)?—A. No.

Q. The little fellow had a cold, and you rubbed his tiny chest with ointment and put him to bed?—A. Yes.

Q. You petted him when he cried or whined a little?—A. No.

Reilly asked if the colonel ever feared his son might roll over on his face and smother in his crib.—A. No, nor did I think it probable.

Reilly then directed Lindbergh to review his testimony on how the kidnaping was discovered.

Q. I see, you were trying to train him to sleep when you put him to bed.—A. Yes.

Nurse Spread Alarm.

Q. Don't you think it strange, colonel, that the little fellow was put to bed with a cold at 7 o'clock and no one looked at him until 10?

Wilentz objected.

Lindbergh again described how Betty Gow broke the news.

A. She came down the stairs and asked me if I had the baby. I asked her if he wasn't in the crib and I immediately went up to the nursery.

Wilentz objected.

Reilly shifted the questioning to the window out of which the baby was taken. Lindbergh said it was not the custom to lock the windows at the Sourland Mountain house.

His questioner demanded if anyone outside the family knew of this practice. A. I don't think so.

Speaking of the kidnap window, Lindbergh said the shutter was warped and couldn't be locked.

Reilly asked if the shutters were closed. A. My wife, I believe, closed all but the east nursery shutter.

Q. Supposing that is so, one would have to throw the shutter outward to go through the window?—A. Yes.

Q. Now there were other servants who had access to your estate, servants from the Morrow house?—A. At the moment, I don't recall. They may have been there.

Reilly referred to the Morrow house.

Q. Did they have a Danish chauffeur named Ellison?—A. Yes.

Questioned About Chauffeur.

Q. Do you know where he was between 10 p. m., March 1, 1932, and 3 a. m., March 27?—A. No.

Q. Do you know he drove from the Morrow estate with an unknown person to the Hopewell locality?—A. I believe he escorted Betty Gow.

Reilly asked about Violet Sharpe, the Morrow maid who committed suicide.

Q. Did other Morrow servants visit your home?—A. Yes.

Q. Violet Sharpe?—A. Yes.

Q. Did she visit your Hopewell home?—A. I don't think so.

Q. Did you know she had the habit of going out with Whateley?—A. No.

Q. Did you have any extra help there, colonel, that came by the day?—A. I think not.

Reilly showed photographs of the nursury and asked questions about the size of the room. Lindburgh left the witness stand and measured the distances along the jury rail.

Q. Can you recall, colonel, that you said there was a yellow smudge on the radiator top?—A. Not so much there as on the suitcase beside it.

Reilly asked about the texture of the suitcase, and Lindburgh said it was some kind of ply wood.

Q. It would break, wouldn't it, if someone stepped on it from the window?—A. I don't think so.

Reilly asked Lindburgh again how far it was between the window and crib. A. It was about 12 feet.

Q. What was Betty Gow's condition. How did she act in the room? Hysterical?—A. No.

Q. Yet she was closest to the child.—A. Yes, she was with the child most.

Returns to Ransom Note.

Reilly turned to the first ransom note. Q. I understand you to say you did not pick up this note?—A. No.

Q. With a desire to preserve fingerprints you allowed this note to remain on the nursery window?—A. Yes. Wolfe removed it. (Wolfe is the Hopewell chief of police.)

Reilly turned to the finding of the ladder. He asked about the weight of the ladder. Lindberg said he thought the three sections would weigh 35 pounds.

Q. It could be carried under one arm? You'd have to disconnect it, fold it up, wouldn't you?— A. I suppose so.

Reilly then returned to the matter of the first ransom note.

Q. Did Trooper Kelly keep it and the fingerprints in his office?—A. I don't know for certain.

Q. Did you tell State police you didn't want them to investigate the case; that you wanted to do it yourself?—A. No.

He denied also he had asked to have Federal agents removed. Said he had sought their aid.

State Police Took Charge.

Reilly asked about the people who came to the Hopewell estate after the kidnaping. Lindbergh said there was no exact coordination until the State police took over the case the day after the kidnaping.

After noon recess, Reilly again referred to the first note.

A. It was first moved by Inspector Wolfe.

Q. What else did you do on the day following the kidnaping.—A. I had several conferences.

Q. As a result of these conferences didn't you express the opinion that the crime was committed by a number of men?—A. Well, yes. But since then I have thought it over carefully and found no facts to show that more than one man was involved.

Q. Didn't you believe that bootleggers did it? Didn't you think the "Purple Gang" of Detroit did it?—A. No.

Q. Then why did you get in contact with Bitz and Spitle if you did not think the "Purple Gang" of Detroit took your child?—A. I did not know there was a "Purple Gang" at that time. I wanted to exhaust every effort for the child's return.

Reilly then asked how he had come to contact these underworld figures, and the witness replied it had been suggested to him that underworld channels might be used to learn something of the baby's fate if the underworld knew anything about it.

Underworld Contacts.

Referring to one of the underworld contacts, Reilly asked: If he did make the offer—if it was not accepted you couldn't say positively he did, could you?—A. No, Col. Breckinridge acted in this as my attorney.

Lindbergh was asked concerning a postcard sent him from Newark in connection with the kidnaping, and he told Reilly the volume of mail which poured into his Hopewell estate after the crime was so heavy he kept no personal track of communications. All, he said, were in custody of State police.

Lindbergh said that the serial numbers of the ransom bills were taken at his request.

Q. In the meantime, colonel (after showing the ransom note raising the ransom from $50,000 to $70,000), was a reward offered by the State of New Jersey?—A. A reward had been offered. I don't know the date.

Q. It was $25,000.—A. Yes.

Q. Who offered the reward?—A. It was the Legislature.

Q. You offered no reward?—A. No.

Reilly established the fact that later ransom notes were transferred to Lindbergh through Col. Breckinridge, and asked whether or not Breckinridge handled criminal cases.

A. I have not heard of any.

Q. Did you have any enemies you suspected?—A. No.

Q. You had no enemies you knew of in the aviation world?—A. No.

Reilly asked if Lindbergh remembered a flier named "Swede" Anderson whose enmity he had incurred when he flew the mails before his historic Paris hop.—A. No.

Reilly then asked if he had ever received threats from this Anderson.—A. No, none.

Reilly asked Lindbergh whether he knew anything of symbols or theosophy.—A. No.

Q. Did you know that Dr. Condon taught theosophy?—A. No.

Reilly's questioning on Condon was intense. He demanded details on the meeting of the aviator and the Bronx educator.

Cites Condon's Reward.

Q. You did not advise Dr. Condon to put that ad in the Bronx Home News?—A. No.

Q. Wasn't it a reward of $1,000 he offered.—A. Yes.

Q. Didn't it seem strange a man in the Bronx should offer $1,000 when New Jersey offered $25,000?

Lindbergh pointed out Condon's reward was for contact with the kidnaper while New Jersey's was for the kidnaper's apprehension.

Q. Did you ever see Dr. Condon in possession of $1,000?—A. No.

Lindbergh said that Morris Rosner, an underworld intermediary, and several State and Federal police had seen the ransom symbols.

After further discussion about Lindbergh's meeting with Condon: Q. Did it ever strike you that the master mind might set an ad in the paper and answer it himself?—A. It is conceivable.

Q. Every time after that Condon did anything in this case that was important, he did it alone.—A. No.

Jafsie Worked Alone.

Reilly brought out that throughout the ransom payment rendezvous Condon worked alone.

Q. Condon takes the $50,000. He comes back and says: "I have given it to someone."

Lindbergh nodded.

Q. How many notes did he produce?—A. I am not sure of the number.

Reilly asked if Condon's reports of the ransom dickering led him to believe a gang had taken his son.—A. It did not lead me to believe very much. It seemed possible, however, there was a group.

Lindbergh related that he did not see Dr. Condon receive the second note, which called for immediate ransom payment.

Q. The note brought by Condon called for immediate payment of $50,000?—A. $70,000.

Q. Did Dr. Condon expect you that night?—A. Yes.

Q. You hadn't advertised to the world, had you, that you were going to see Dr. Condon, that the ransom was available, and that the bill serial numbers had been recorded? Then who besides Dr. Condon knew all this.—A. My wife did.

Q. Yes, and who else?—A. Several police officials and Col. Breckinridge.

Q. And who else aside from officials?—A. A few others perhaps, and of course, Dr. Condon and Al Reich, his bodyguard.

Ransom Box Described.

Reilly wanted to know if Condon asked if Lindbergh had the ransom money that night when he arrived at the educator's Bronx home several hours before the payment was made.—A. I don't recall his asking that. We had it in a package. We put it into the box at his house.

Q. Who built the box?—A. Dr. Condon had it built.

The colonel was unable to say whether it was before or after the ransom payment that Condon knew the serial numbers of the ransom bills had been taken.

Then Reilly returned to the narrative of how Lindbergh drove Condon to the rendezvous where the ransom was paid. Q. Was the money passed that night?—A. It was.

The next chapter was the tale of the futile flights the flier made for the boat on which the kidnaper said the baby was held. Q. When did you first come in contact with Curtis? (John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., boat builder, convicted in July, 1932, of obstructing justice in the case.)—A. In the latter part of March, or early in April.

Investigated Story.

Lindbergh said that his purpose in going out in the boat which was to have brought him to his baby was "to find out whether Curtis was lying or to learn who was connected with the hoax."

Q. Is it not a fact that you had a distinct reason for believing Mr. Curtis had been in contact with the people who kidnaped your child?

Wilentz and Reilly clashed over the question.

Reilly then read an excerpt of Lindbergh's testimony at the Curtis trial, and Lindbergh said it was correct, but he had found out later Curtis had deceived him.

Reilly demanded Lindbergh admit that at one time he suspected the Purple Gang of Detroit as the baby's kidnapers.—A. No, I never believed that.

Points to Suicide.

Q. Did you ever have $50,000 placed at or near a plane to be sent to Detroit to contact the Purple Gang?—A. No, I had $50,000 available but I never had any intention of sending it to Detroit or any place but where it went.

Reilly asked if the colonel had a second package prepared after the ransom negotiations. — A. I'm not clear on that.

Q. Did you know that Violet Sharpe was friendly with the butler?—A. I would expect it inside the home.

Q. And outside the home?—A. I might expect it there as well.

Q. You know that Violet Sharpe committed suicide four hours after she learned she was to be questioned about the kidnaping?—A. Yes.

Q. And as a suspect she drained a vial of poison?—A. I'm not clear on that * * * She may have taken poison.

Q. And you knew that her friend "Red" Johnson, an alien in this country illegally, was ordered departed after being examined?—A. Yes.

Q. And that it was learned that on the night of the crime he took a trip to Bridgeport and that a milk bottle was found in the back of his car?—A. Yes, I had heard so.

The high spot of Lindburgh's testimony—his identification of Hauptmann's voice—was not subjected to any defense interrogation.

There was no redirect examination of Lindbergh after a recess. The next witness was Charles E. Williamson, a member of the Hopewell police force.

3 Women Tremble at Trial As Loved Ones Are Accused

Anna Hauptmann, Betty Gow and Elsie Whateley Hear Testimony Aimed at Kin; Jack Dempsey's Wife Is Among Spectators at Court Drama.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 4 (AP).—Hamlet housewife and former Broadway showgirl leaned forward today in the Hunterdon County courtroom where Bruno Hauptmann is on trial.

The husbands of two women and the brother of a third were being accused, and three women trembled.

The pasty face of Anna Hauptmann turned a shade whiter as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh identified her husband's voice as the one he heard in the cemetery when the ransom was paid: "That was Hauptmann's voice."

Betty Gow, the kidnaped Lindbergh baby's Scottish nurse, lifted a defiant chin as Edward J. Reilly, head of the defense counsel, asked Lindbergh, "did you know she had a brother in trouble in New Jersey?"

Mouse-like Elsie Whateley, widow of the Lindbergh butler and cook in the household, heard Reilly accuse her late husband of a "friendship" with Violet Sharpe, who ended her life after the kidnaping by swallowing poison.

Suddenly Mrs. Whateley's timid air dropped, and her pale eyes flashed. On the witness stand, with no question before her, she blurted out vehemently to the astonished courtroom, "My husband did not go out with Violet Sharpe!"

Smartly dressed in a mink coat, Mrs. Jack Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams of a Broadway musical show, sat tense in a chair behind the rail, an interested spectator.

Juror No. 8, the wife of a blacksmith, Mrs. Verna Snyder, also looked interested. Earlier, while Lindbergh was on the stand, Mrs. Snyder had looked wearied, although the names of "Jafsie," Morris Rosner and the "purple gang" of Detroit were being spoken.

The quietest persons in the courtroom were haggard Mrs. Hauptmann, who listened intently from a chair near her husband—Hauptmann himself—and Betty Gow.

Miss Gow thought many things in the course of the day, especially when Lindbergh testified to her affection for its mother—"closest to it except for its mother." But what she thought was an enigma.

Bolivia Reports Foes Repulsed in Attacks

La Paz, Bolivia, Jan. 4 (AP).—Heavy fighting on several fronts in the Chaco was reported by the war ministry tonight.

Wave after wave of Paraguayan attackers rolled forward in the Ibibobo and Capirenda sectors, the ministry said, only to suffer heavy casualties in the fire from the Bolivian defenders and fall back. At 5 p. m. the Capirenda battle still was going on, it continued, with fighting "intense in other sectors."

Bill Awaited in House For D. C. Auto Safety

A safety responsibility bill governing Washington motorists will be introduced in the House early next week, probably by Representative McLeod (Republican), of Michigan, it was learned yesterday, after the District Trucking Association had announced its support of the measure.

The trucking association also voted at a Thursday night meeting in favor of some form of regulation of pedestrian traffic in Washington. A resolution will be presented to the District Commissioners.

Acquitted Cafe Owner Loses Liquor License

The liquor license of Christ Pappas, who conducts a restaurant at 1031 Seventh street northwest, was revoked by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday. Pappas had been acquitted in police court a few hours earlier.

Sale of liquor on Sunday was charged against Pappas.

George Gertman, attorney, vainly sought to have the board dismiss the revocation proceedings on the ground of the acquittal. Notice was given that the decision would be appealed to the Commissioners.

Fugitive Surrenders to U. S.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 4 (AP).—Earl Shelton, southern Illinois hoodlum who faces 18 months in the Federal prison for violating the national prohibition law, surrendered to the United States marshal here today.

Reilly Will Try To Link Jafsie, Flier's Butler

Off for New York to Call Handwriting Experts for Defense.

Continued from Page 1.

dies suddenly; that Mrs. Whateley goes to England shortly after Betty Gow leaves for Scotland. All this, shortly after the Lindbergh baby disappears.

"There are a great many disconnected angles in the case which we propose to compose into a clear account of the Lindbergh mystery. When we are finished, I believe it will show that Hauptmann is not guilty of the charges the State has preferred against him."

Reilly was leaving tonight for New York.

"I'm calling a conference of my handwriting experts in my office in Brooklyn tomorrow. We are going to prepare our case with regard to the ransom notes," he said.

Coming From Germany.

Asked how many handwriting experts he intended producing in court, Reilly replied, "As many as I can get to work for nothing."

He said several already had agreed to appear from "all parts of the country and abroad."

One expert will come from Germany to testify, Reilly added. This man was said by Reilly to have been a judge of Teutonic chirography for many years.

The attorney also asserted he was "happy" because he soon will have a chance to cross-examine Betty Gow, the nurse of the slain baby.

"She'll tell the truth, I feel sure," he said, "and explain a great number of things."

Mrs. Hauptmann, who engaged Reilly to defend her husband, left court smiling today. Her features, wreathed in broad grins, contrasted sharply with her demeanor of the morning session, when Lindbergh's identification of Hauptmann's voice had shaken her.

"I am most happy," she remarked. "I am beginning to have a feeling that everything will come out all right. I feel that they won't do anything to an innocent man."

Six Convicted Of Nash Plot Wait Sentence

Seven to Learn Fate Today; Adam Richetti Next to Be Tried.

Kansas City, Jan. 4 (AP).—The sextet which, the Government charges, set the stage for the Kansas City Union Station massacre, stood convicted tonight of conspiracy to liberate Frank Nash from Federal officers as the Department of Justice moved forward in its announced plan to bring every living participant to justice.

Sobs, curses and the stony silence of two gamblers who lost greeted the verdict of the court of Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis.

Convicted were Richard Tallman Galatas, Hot Springs, Ark., gambler; Mrs. Betty Galatas, his wife; Herbert Farmer, Joplin, Mo., farmer-gambler; Esther Farmer, his wife; Louis (Doc) Stacci, Chicago night club operator; Frank B. (Fritz) Mulloy, Kansas City night club operator.

Two Years, $10,000 Possible.

The charge, "conspiring to liberate a prisoner in the custody of the attorney general, one Frank Nash, June 17, 1933," carries a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The sextet, with Mrs. Vivian Mathis, who pleaded guilty, will be sentenced by Judge Otis at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. Defense attorneys indicated they planned to appeal.

Next, Adam Richetti, held in jail here on Federal charges of conspiracy and motor car theft, is to go to trial.

Warrant Quashed.

Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Graves, jr., disclosed today he had quashed a State murder warrant charging that Richetti was one of the machine gunners who killed Nash, an escaped train robber, and four officers who were returning him to Leavenworth Prison.

He indicated, however, he would make use of the Government's evidence to reopen the case.

Verne C. Miller and Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, both now dead, were identified by Federal agents as the other killers.

North Carolina Pastor Accepts Call in Virginia

Front Royal, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—The Rev. W. Emory Trainham, of Laurinburg, N. C., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church here. He succeeds the Rev. T. Eugene West, who resigned at month ago to become associate pastor to Dr. Henry Alfred Porter, of the First Baptist Church of Charlottesville.

The pastor-elect is a native of Richmond and has had a successful pastorate of five years at Laurinburg. He will assume his duties at an early date.

Persia Calls Line Rule Void.

Geneva, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Persia informed the League of Nations today that the 1914 protocol eliminating the Iraq-Persia frontier is "devoid of any legal force." The note expressed willingness to negotiate directly, however, on the basis of "principles of international law," or submit the boundary dispute to the league council.

Virginia Forbids Sale Of Loan Society Stock

Richmond, Va., Jan. 4 (AP).—The State corporation commission today permanently enjoined Stephen C. Pace from distributing in Virginia stock of a proposed cooperative small loan society. A number of witnesses from Alexandria appeared at the hearing held this morning in connection with the case.

Pace did not appear, but sent a statement asserting that he had not attempted to sell stock in Virginia, but had sent out circulars to Alexandria residents sounding them out as to their interest in the proposition.

Car Operators Face Penalties, Virginia Warns

Motorists Without Permits to Drive Liable to Arrest After January 15.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Motorists residing in Virginia are warned that on and after January 15 all persons claiming the State as their residence will be subject to arrest for operating their cars without the required operator's permit.

After that date both State and county police will wage a campaign to see that the law has been complied with. The law provides a fine ranging from $10 to $100.

Not only will the police be on the lookout for persons operating their cars without a permit but those residing in Arlington County, who last year displayed a District of Columbia license plate and follow the same practice this year, will be cited into court, Sheriff Howard B. Fields stated.

State Officer C. B. Pressly will be at the courthouse each Tuesday to give examinations to beginners and to issue operators permits.

The special committee appointed to study plans for increasing the activities of the Lyon Park junior community center submitted its recommendations at a meeting of the advisory council held at the home of Carlton K. Lewis last night.

The report includes the following recommendations which were adopted:

The motion-picture show held each week is to be enlarged and pictures are to be selected by a committee consisting of Arthur Orr, chairman; Dr. P. M. Chichester and two members from the Henry Clay School faculty and the Parent-Teacher Association.

It was voted to reduce the membership of the advisory council from 16 to 10. The following were chosen: Arthur Scott, chairman; Mrs. D. L. Shepherd, secretary; P. Franklin Little, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur Orr, Mrs. R. L. Meadows, Mrs. P. C. Dyer, A. D. Adams, Arthur Orr, C. K. Lewis and Dr. P. N. Chichester.

The organization will resume its weekly meetings January 26.

The annual memorial services of the Arlington-Fairfax Counties Firemen's Association will be held at the Baptist Church in Falls Church tomorrow at 3 p. m.

All firemen, ladies' auxiliaries, members, pastors of local churches, families of deceased firemen and the general public are invited.

In addition to Frank Hinkins, of Falls Church, who was killed in line of duty, the firemen of affiliated departments who died during the year include Paul Barstow, of Ballston department, and Walter Ziwn, of the Jefferson Fire Department.

Benjamin Elliott and Robert L. Harmon, president and vice president of the Falls Church Fire Department, respectively, are in charge of the arrangements.

Monday, January 14, has been set as the date for the annual meeting of the Arlington County Chapter American Red Cross, E. C. Butterfield, acting chairman, announced last night.

The meeting will be held in St. George's Episcopal Church parish hall on Maryland avenue in Clarendon.

Election of officers and reports of the chapter's activities will feature the meeting.

A short memorial services for Mrs. Bertha Kelley will conclude the meeting.

Continuing the religious dramas being given in Arlington County, the Blackfriars, the Dramatic Club of the Clarendon Methodist Church, will give "Namman's Clock," at the Presbyterian Church tomorrow at 8 p. m.

The cast includes Neil Linger, George Rector, Charles Hohein, Katherine Heneley and Charles Dinges.

Edward C. Kris was elected president of the Arlington Ridge Citizens Association at its annual meeting last night in the Hume School auditorium.

Other officers elected were J. Byron Brooke, vice president; Mrs. Edna B. Dorney, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Remington, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Russell C. Engberg, treasurer.

Delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation are Mrs. Alice W. Semones, Ralph Remington, Horace L. Woodward, Lieut. Comdr. Forrest B. Royal, Frank G. Campbell, Mrs. Dorney and J. B. Brooke.

Mayor to Head Ball.

Winchester, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Dr. C. R. Anderson, mayor, has accepted an invitation to serve as chairman of the committee charged with making arrangements for the president's ball to be held at the George Washington Hotel here on the night of January 30. Andrew Bell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, will serve as treasurer.

Col. Lindbergh Says He Heard Bruno's Voice

Tells Jurors He Believes Suspect Committed Crime Unaided.

Continued from Page 1.

questions came at the very start of the cross-examination.

"Are you a peace officer of the State?' Reilly asked. He had to repeat the question, and received a negative reply.

"Are you armed," colonel?" Reilly pressed.

Wilentz jumped up with an objection. Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard thought the question immaterial. Reilly took an exception, then Wilentz withdrew his objection. The Court remarked that the colonel "appears to desire to answer the question" and Lindbergh, with a faint smile, answered he was not armed.

Reilly's thrust resulted from Lindbergh's carrying a revolver in an underarm holster on previous days in court. Reports had it that he started carrying the weapon about five years ago, after threats had been made against him.

Questioned About Servants.

Reilly questioned Lindbergh closely about his servants: Betty Gow, the nurse; Whateley and his wife and about Violet Sharpe, the domestic at the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's parents, the Morrows, who committed suicide during the investigation.

He also asked the aviator if he knew that Violet Sharpe's friend, "Red" Johnson, later deported, "on the night of the crime took a trip to Bridgeport and that a milk bottle was found in the back of his car?"

"Yes, I heard so," Lindbergh replied.

Lindbergh indicated he had complete confidence in the servants. Asked if there was any hostility to him in the neighborhood, he replied, "No."

After inquiring about Dr. Condon's entrance into the case, his insertion of a newspaper advertisement seeking contact with the kidnapers and the notes he received in reply, Reilly asked if it ever had occurred to Lindbergh that the "the master mind might insert an ad in the paper and answer it himself."

"I think that is inconceivable from practically any practical standpoint," the flier replied.

Question Amuses Flier.

Reilly, tall, bulky and erect, raised his voice only once or twice, and stood for minutes on end with his hands clasped loosely behind his back, gazing steadily through horn-rimmed glasses at the witness.

Lindebergh smiled broadly once while Reilly was questioning him about his movements on March 1, 1932. The colonel explained the family had stayed at Hopewell because the baby had a cold. The decision to stay in Hopewell after the week-end was not made until sometime on Monday, the day of the kidnaping.

"Not completely, no," Lindbergh said when Reilly suggested that Whateley, Mrs. Whateley, and Miss Gow knew the Lindeberghs intended remaining in the Sourlands for the night.

"But the outside world would not know that you were coming home Monday night, would they?" asked Reilly.

"Very few people would know that," Lindbergh answered.

"Very few people would know that you were going back to New York again on Tuesday, would they, colonel?" Reilly went on.

"Very few people know what I do," Lindergh said, with a smile.

"Yes; so that a person in the outside world, or a gang on the outside world * * * would have no knowledge as to where you were?"

Carries Arms on Flights.

"Well, that depends upon their organization."

"It wouldn't depend on any information you gave, would it?" Reilly pressed.

"Well, not with my knowdedge."

Lindbergh said the rifle he carried when he ran out of the house after the kidnaping to search the grounds was a rifle he had carried on his Central American flight in 1927, and that he carried arms on other flights.

He was questioned about a dog on the property. His answers indicated his belief the animal, a fox terrier, was not a particularly good watchdog.

At Reilly's request, Lindbergh took the pointer and showed the nursery, living room, library, kitchen, hallway and other places on the floor plans of the house.

"Colonel, while you were in the dining room, if the front doorway of your home was opened by someone, anyone could have gone up the stairway of your house and taken the baby out of the crib, couldn't they?" Reilly asked.

"I don't think so," Lindburgh said.

Wilentz Objects.

"It would have been physically possible, would it not?"

"I think it would be very improbable that that could be done without our hearing it."

"Never mind whether it would be improbable or not, would it be physically possible?" Reilly persisted.

Wilentz rose and came forward to the bench.

"Well, just a minute," he said, "never mind the never minds."

Justice Trenchard decided Lindburgh could properly answer the question, and the flier said he didn't think anyone could have taken the baby out in the manner suggested.

Reilly asked the flier if someone familiar with the house could have taken the baby from its crib, brought it downstairs to the front door or to a window.

"Answering your question di-

Continued on Page 5, Column 1.

Lindbergh Brands Hauptmann Slayer

Flier Swears Suspect Took Baby's Ransom

Tells Jurors He Believes Carpenter Committed Crime Unaided.

Continued from Page 4.

rectly, it might have been possible," Lindburgh said.

"If there was disloyalty in your home, would it be possible for a person acquainted with the home to take the baby out of the crib and descend the servants' staircase and hand it to someone in the garage yard while you and Mrs. Lindburgh were dining?"

"Well," Lindburgh replied, lowering his head and then raising it and looking at Reilly with a faint smile, "again answering the question directly it would have been possible for someone in the house to take the baby out of the crib, as far as I know."

Entire Story Probed.

Reilly asked Lindbergh about a report that he himself was the intended victim of the kidnapers. Wilentz objected, and after a brief discussion was sustained.

The defense counsel went into every phase of Lindbergh's story of the happenings of the night of March 1, asked him about shutters and locks and latches, of the sounds he had heard and, again consulting the chart, about his position in reference to the nursery. Lindbergh answered all questions calmly.

Reilly asked who had contacts with the baby, and was told that members of the household and relatives and friends, in addition to the child schoolmates at the Little School in Englewood, conducted by Mrs. Lindbergh's sister, Elisabeth. He was not accustomed to seeing tradesmen, however.

Reilly brought out that there was a double-extension ladder on the property, and that it was kept in the unlocked garage.

"And of course the butler had access to the garage?"

"Oh, yes," Lindbergh replied.

Reilly then turned to questions about the servants at the Morrow estate in Englewood. He injected the name of Violet Sharpe, the Morrow household maid who swallowed poison in June, 1932, after being questioned several times by State police investigating the kidnaping.

Linked With Whateley.

"Did you know she was in the habit of going out with Whateley?" Reilly demanded.

"No," Lindbergh said.

"What they did in their off moments, you didn't know much about, you didn't concern yourself with, is that correct?"

"I did not know anything about that at all, I do not know," the flier answered.

Mrs. Whateley, widow of the butler, was in court, sitting beside Betty Gow, waiting her turn to be called as a witness. A pained expression appeared for a fleeting instant on her face. When she reached the stand later she suddenly interrupted her questioning to blurt out:

"I would like to state here, if I may, that my husband was not in the habit of taking Violet Sharpe out."

Her statement brought laughter and Justice Trenchard rapped his gavel sharply.

Reilly sought from Lindbergh a description of Miss Gow's reactions when the kidnaping was discovered. The flier said "her voice was quite excited," but she was not crying, nor was she hysterical.

Reilly appeared surprised.

No Fingerprints on Note.

"And yet," he said, "from all indications before that, she was greatly attached to the child, and the child attached to her," he remarked.

"I believe so, yes."

"In fact, she was the closest person to the child, excluding Mrs. Lindbergh," Reilly went on.

"She was with the child more than anyone else," the colonel said, nodding his head.

The defense counsel also elicited the information that no fingerprints, only smudges, were found on the first ransom note, demanding $50,000, and left on the nursery window.

Reilly led the questioning then to Lindbergh's opinions as to who kidnaped his first-born son, whether he believed more than one person was involved.

"From the general surroundings of the case was it your impression at that time or shortly afterward that more than one was involved in it?" asked Reilly.

"Not for any reason. No, I don't think I did. I have thought it over very carefully and I can't find any facts."

Opinion Unchanged.

"Have you just changed your mind since Hauptmann was arrested?"

"No. As I say, since that time I have thought it over carefully and I know of no facts that will show or indicate to me definitely that there was more than one man," Lindbergh said.

He said he never believed bootleggers or underworld denizens stole his son. At the time of the kidnaping he didn't know what the "Purple Gang" was, he said in answer to another question, but added he contacted Irving Bitz and Salvatore Spitale, underworld characters, because he "wanted to exhaust every effort to bring about the return of the child."

In the first year of the investigation, Lindbergh said, there were over 100,000 pieces of mail received at the house. Reilly questioned him about the reward of $25,000 offered by the State of New Jersey.

Reilly mentioned one of the ransom letters, mailed from Brooklyn, but the questioning developed no information. The defense, it has been reported, might contend the kidnaper was a Brooklyn carpenter, who had moved from New Jersey.

The defense counsel also put in the name of a man called "Swede" Anderson, purportedly a flier at Bennett Field, and asked Lindbergh if he had ever quarreled with the man or had any enemies whom he suspected. Lindbergh could not remember the name, and smiled.

Dr. Condon's Offer.

The cross-examination then reached Dr. Condon. Reilly wanted to know if Lindbergh knew anything about symbols, referring to the cryptic circles appended to the ransom notes. Lindbergh said he knew very little.

Nor did he know much about theosophy, he said. Reilly said "the basis of theosophy is symbols." Lindbergh looked unimpressed.

"Did you know that when you came in contact with Dr. Condon, that Dr. Condon taught theosophy?" Reilly demanded.

Lindbergh didn't know that, he said, nor did he think it strange, he asserted, that "a man from the Bronx" who was stranger to him should call him.

"Something like that had to happen," Lindbergh said.

"You didn't advise Dr. Condon to put the ad in the Bronx News, did you?"

"I did not," the flier replied.

Lindbergh repeated he did not think it was strange Dr. Condon should enter the case with an offer to help by putting up a reward of $1,000 for contact with the kidnaper.

Reilly asked Lindbergh who had seen the symbols on the notes and Lindbergh said it was his recollection that Morris Rosner, now police commissioner of Long Beach, N. Y., and on his own word a man of underworld connections, had seen the symbols. New Jersey State police and police from Jersey City and Newark also had seen the symbols up to March 9, Lindbergh said.

But Dr. Condon, he said in answer to a question, had not seen them up to the time he received a letter from the kidnaper and telephoned the Lindbergh home at Hopewell.

Reilly pressed with more questions on the strangeness of Dr. Condon's interest in the case, but Lindbergh continued to say he saw nothing strange in it.

"We realized," he said, "that after this circumstance had originally happened, the sequence of the events would probably be peculiar, not according to the ordinary logic of life."

"Did it ever strike you that the master mind might insert an ad in the paper and answer it himself?" Reilly asked pointedly.

"I think that is inconceivable from practically any practical standpoint," Lindbergh said. There was a faint smile on his lips.

"You think it is?" Reilly persisted.

Lindbergh tilted his head slightly in a way he often does, looked thoughtful, then smiled gently.

"As a matter of fact," he said deliberately and clearly, "I tried to consider it with every individual who has been connected with the case, exempting no one, whether there was any connection."

Reason For Calling Police.

"Of course, you considered it from the very interested viewpoint of the father of the lost child?"

"That is correct," Lindbergh said.

"And you have never been placed in the position of the neutral man who could stand on the side and view it from the other side?" Reilly went on.

"That," said Lindbergh promptly, "is why I contacted the police."

The examination went along smoothly, Reilly going into every phase of Lindbergh's relations with the aged educator, the payment of the ransom, who had knowledge of the serial numbers of the ransom notes, the wooden box made for the ransom money, and the movements of the two men.

But Lindbergh gave no indication at any time that he had anything but deep faith in the sincerity of Condon and his efforts to recover the child. He even remarked that Dr. Condon always had questioned the payment of any money without positive identification of the baby.

Curtis Angle of the Case.

Reilly then went into the Curtis angle of the investigation. Lindbergh said he had accepted Curtis' story that he had made contact with the kidnapers, who were in a boat, after he had had various Norfolk people investigate the shipbuilder's reputation.

Then the defense attorney touched on the Curtis conviction for obstructing justice in the summer of 1932 in this same Hunterdon County courtroom.

"He was convicted of withholding information from you, is that correct?" Reilly asked.

Wilentz objected. Justice Trenchard sustained him after a brief argument. Reilly took an exception, which was granted. He then asked Lindbergh if it had not been his belief that Curtis had been in contact with "the people who kidnaped your child."

There was further objection. Then Wilentz agreed to have the question answered if Reilly also asked Lindbergh's belief at the present time.

"Colonel, I will ask you, as suggested by the court, and I assume that your answer will be that the defendant, you believe now, is guilty of the kidnaping. Is that correct?"

"I do," Lindbergh replied.

There was further argument as Reilly framed another question relating to Lindbergh's beliefs.

Didn't Suspect Servant.

"Now, colonel, at the time of the Curtis trial was it not your belief that a group of persons were responsible for the kidnaping of your child and that Curtis was in contact with them, either directly or indirectly, and didn't you so testify at the Curtis trial?" Reilly asked.

After further argument, Lindbergh was permitted to answer. He said he believed so "with reservations."

Dispensing quickly with the Curtis angle, Reilly asked Lindbergh if he ever placed $50,000 at or near a plane ready to be sent to Detroit to contact the "Purple Gang." Lindbergh said he had $50,000 available, but "I never came anywhere near the point of sending that to Detroit or anywhere else, except where it went."

He could not remember whether that was a different $50,000 from the ransom money.

He said he did not suspect Violet Sharpe of any connection with the case, and professed little interest in "Red" Johnson.

The flier's replies to questions about his feelings toward the police turned out to be a defense of them.

"Well, Colonel, as a man of the world you certainly must have known that some of the police were infallible, did you not?" asked Reilly.

Praises Police.

"I think we have a very good police," Lindbergh promptly answered and smiled.

A wave of hand clapping swept across the courtroom. The spectators laughed. Justice Trenchard rapped for order and warned against further interruptions.

"You also think that we have first-class Department of Justice agents?" Reilly pressed, unflustered.

"I think our Federal departments are good," the Colonel replied. He denied in answer to a question that the Federal men had not seen the ransom notes.

Williamson, of the Hopewell police force, was called to the stand for a few minutes to give his account of the scene and activities at the Lindbergh Sourland Mountain home when he and Chief Harry Wolfe arrived there in response to the telephone call made after the kidnaping was discovered. He told of footprints outside the house and of imprints of a ladder under the nursery windows.

"The Baby's Gone!"

Mrs. Whateley followed him on the stand and described the happenings in the house on the day and night of the kidnaping. She spent the hour preceding the discovery of the kidnaping in the company of Betty Gow, and gave a graphic picture of how the distraught nurse burst into the kitchen with the cry:

"Elsie, the baby's gone!"

At the start of her testimony, Mrs. Whateley said sharply that she wanted it known her husband was not in the habit "of taking Violet Sharpe out," but the remark was ordered stricken by Justice Trenchard.

She also denied that she or her husband knew Dr. Condon in New Rochelle in 1931, before the kidnaping.

Mrs. Whateley told also of Mrs. Lindbergh's words when she learned that Charles Augustus, jr., was missing. They were: "Oh, God!"

Mrs. Lindbergh, a witness yesterday, was not in court today.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Whateley's testimony the trial was adjourned until 10 a. m. Monday.

Hauptmann Trial Fails to Distract 'Jafsie' Clue Hunt

Brockton, Mass., Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Bruno Richard Hauptmann has been brought to trial in the Lindbergh kidnaping murder, but Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon is still pursuing his private investigation of the crime.

While Col. Charles A. Lindbergh testified at Flemington today about the futile ransom negotiations he and Jafsie had with a man at a Bronx cemetery, Condon was in Brockton, supposedly investigating some secret clew.

With a man described as his son-in-law, Ralph E. Hacker, of West Englewood, N. J., Condon spent the night at Hotel Bryant.

The two left at noon for New York and Condon said he expected to find a subpena for his appearance at the Hauptmann trial on getting home.

Berlin Mystified By Nazi Parley

Suspects Hitler Withheld Real Motive of Talks.

Berlin, Jan. 4 (AP).—The Nazi press today viewed Reichsfuehrer Hitler's mysterious convocation of his lieutenants as having accomplished its announced purpose of spiking "foreign lying propaganda."

While official sources expressed satisfaction with the effect of yesterday's secret assemblage of all leaders of the Nazi party, government, army and police, rumors continued to circulate that the real purpose of the conference was not revealed in the formal explanations.

Among the rumors were reports that 20,000 members of the Nazi party had been eliminated, that Hitler was concerned over jealousy among his military groups and that a sterner foreign policy was contemplated. Another rumor was that action was considered to expedite the return of the Saar basin territory to German sovereignty in the event a favorable vote in the January plebiscite is not made effective promptly.

Man Balks Death Thrice Before Car Kills Him

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 4 (U.P.). It must have been Joe Bemon's day to die. The Negro was stabbed by his housekeeper. An ambulance taking him to a hospital was in a three-way collision. A second ambulance caught fire before it reached the wreck. A third got him to the hospital.

After being treated, he started to walk home and was killed by a hit-and-run driver.

KAPLOWITZ
THE COAT AND SUIT SPECIALTY SHOP
ON THIRTEENTH STREET
BETWEEN E AND F
DRESSES • SPORTSWEAR • GOWNS
For a generation
the best clothes exclusively

WOODWARD & LOTHROP
10TH 11TH F AND G STREETS PHONE DISTRICT 5300

In the Evening

Correct Attire is Men's First Consideration

Enter the season for dinners and dances, concerts and conquests, theater and TAILCOATS. And, here in The Men's Store, you may select evening apparel with the knowledge that it correctly meets every requirement.

THE TAILCOAT—most correct and formal type of evening attire $50

Rogers Peet Tailcoats, $75.

THE TUXEDO for the many informal occasions during this new era of gay affairs.. $45

Middishade Tuxedos, $35.

THE MEN'S STORE, SECOND FLOOR

The Correct Accessories

White Gloves . . . close-fitting, soft kid $3.50
Silk Hats . . . the correct block $15
Silk Dress Scarfs . . . fringed ends $5
White Bow Ties $1.50
The Wing Collars 35c
Pique Bosom Dress Shirts . . . two-stud style $3.50
Black Silk Socks, pair $1
White Vests . . $6 and $8.50
New Backless Vests; white $6
Black Vests ..... $6 to $10
White Imitation Pearl Dress Sets; studs and links . . $4.50
Dress Oxfords . . . black patent leather and dull calf $8
Patent Leather Pumps . . $10

THE MEN'S STORE SECOND FLOOR

WOODWARD & LOTHROP
10TH 11TH F AND G STREETS PHONE DISTRICT 5300

"Your Footprint in Leather"

Matrix Shoes for Men

Help Good Feet Stay Good

The soles of your feet are not flat, but have curves and arches which should be properly supported to give real foot comfort. Matrix shoes are made over scientifically designed lasts, which conform exactly in their heights and depressions to the soles of your feet. In Matrix shoes you really walk in "Your Own Footprint in Leather."

Sketched—The Ashwood, a medium toe, straight tip oxford of brown or black calf. Leather soles and rubber heels $10

THE MEN'S STORE, SECOND FLOOR

WOODWARD & LOTHROP
10TH 11TH F AND G STREETS PHONE DISTRICT 5300

$11.95 —special indeed

Misses' Frocks

A hundred of them—purchased for this event. Prints in bright colorful designs to revive "tired" Winter wardrobes. One model in the smart "high" shades—two others in the most delightful black and white printed matelasse with a dash of white for accent. Much nicer detail—much smarter—than this price usually buys. Sizes 14 to 20.

MISSES' DRESSES, THIRD FLOOR

Wheeler Offers 16-1 Silver Bill For 'Recovery'

Costigan Urges Safeguard of New Deal Legislation From Court Attack.

A bill to provide free coinage of silver on a 16-to-1 basis was outstanding of several score measures introduced in the Senate yesterday.

Its author, Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, indicated he expected the Senate silver bloc to line up behind the proposal. He declared such legislation would go a long way toward spurring recovery.

The bill explained its purpose was "to provide necessary relief for agriculture, the producers of live stock and the producers of raw materials generally, to promote our foreign trade and commerce in silver mining, to prevent the manipulation of the price of silver."

Amendment Proposed.

Senator Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, proposed a constitutional amendment intended to safeguard much New Deal legislation from attack in the courts.

"The amendment," he explained, "would give Congress power to legislate on hours and conditions of labor and minimum wages and to regulate production, industry, business, trade and commerce to prevent unfair methods and practices.

"It undertakes to limit court constructions of the so-called 'due process' clauses of the Constitution to the procedure and methods used as distinguished from the substance of legislation."

A bill to prohibit the making of photographs, drawings or maps of American forts, naval stations, battleships or other equipment without specific authority from officers in charge was introduced by Senator Park Trammell (Democrat), of Florida.

Spurred by Arrest.

The measure followed arrest in St. Petersburg, Fla., of Lieut. Comdr. Yoshio Matsuda, of the Japanese Navy, who was accused of photographing the cruiser Trenton on the waterfront. It was found, however, that he had violated no law.

Trammell pointed out Japan, Germany and other countries had similar legislation. His plan, supported by the Navy and War Departments, would involve fines of $1,000, a six-month jail sentence, or both.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, advanced a companion bill to the Patman cash bonus payment measure introduced earlier in the House.

Senator Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, proposed appropriation of $100,000 to finance continuance of the munitions inquiry.

Another Constitutional amendment proposal, championed by Senator Logan (Democrat), Kentucky, would empower the people to veto a declaration of war by special election.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, reintroduced a revised food and drug bill, which he said was agreeable to publishers and advertisers, its chief opponents at the lastsession.

Morro Probe Asked.

An investigation of the Morro Castle disoster was demanded by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York.

Meanwhile, House Republicans cried "legislation without representation" as Democrats named 26 of their number to the Appropriations Committee, taking 5 seats formerly held by Republicans. Nine Republicans will be elected later.

The Democrats chosen, in addition to Chairman Buchanan, were:

Taylor and Oliver, of Alabama; Griffin, of New York; Sandlin, of Louisiana; Cannon, of Missouri; Woodrum, of Virginia; Arnold, of Illinois; Boylan, of New York Parks, of Arkansas; Ludlow, of Indiana; Granfield, of Massachusetts; Blanton, of Texas; McMillan, of South Carolina; Cary, of Kentucky; Jacobsen, of Iowa; Thom, of Ohio; O'Neal, of Kentucky Moran, of Maine; Zioncheck, of Washington, Johnson, of Oklahoma; Tarver, of Georgia; McAndrews, of Illinois; Umstead, of North Carolina Snyrder, of Pennsylvania, and Dockweiler, of California.

Funeral Set Today For John L. Walter

John L. Walter, associated with the William Hahn Co. shoe stores for the past 55 years, died Thursday at his residence, 4104 Garrison street, after an illness of three weeks.

Born in Washington 70 years ago, Mr. Walter resided here all his life. He was a member of the Junior Order of Mechanics and the Chevy Chase Citizens Association.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma S. Walter, and three children, Hubert and Edna Walter and Mrs. George Fox. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. James Reynolds and Mrs. Arthur Wells, of Washington.

Funeral services will be held at All Saints' Episcopal Church, at Chevy Chase Circle, today at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

3,000 Dance for Charity At Gay Peacock Ball

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Society danced for the cause of charity tonight at one of the most brilliant functions of an expensive holiday season.

With Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, among its patronesses, the fourth annual Peacock Ball utilized all the ballrooms of the Waldorf Astoria. The beneficiaries was the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, one of the oldest and largest established charities. From two or(imm lished charities. From 2,000 to 3,000 danced and looked or looked on.

Silver Tea Is Planned.

A silver tea will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen H. Gardner in Woodside Park, Md., under auspices of the Woodside Park Civic Association.

Tribute Paid Lucretia Mott Here

Post Staff Photo.

Honoring the 142d birthday of Lucretia Mott, pioneer in the Woman Movement, Washingtonians pay tribute at her statue at the Pioneer Women Group in the crypt of the Capitol, under auspices of the Susan B. Anthony Forum. Lucretia Mott, Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton are the figures in the statuary. Left to right are Mrs. Rose Arnold Powell, founder of the Susan B. Anthony Forum; Mrs. Percy M. Bailey and Mrs. Adelaide Johnson, sculptress, placing the wreaths.

7 Adrift 24 Hours on Ice Floe Safely Gain Shore in Canada

3 of Group Rescued by Plane; Others Enabled to Walk to Land as Bitter Temperatures Freeze Waters of Lake.

Barrie, Ont., Jan. 4 (AP).—Seven men, adrift for nearly 24 hours on two ice floes in the middle of gale-swept Lake Simcoe, reached safety today.

One group of three, including S. V. Jones, 76-year-old resident of Oro Station, was rescued by an airplane. The others were able to walk ashore near Hawkestone, 37 miles from here, after bitterly cold temperatures caused the lake surface to freeze between their ice floe and the land.

None of the men appeared to have suffered any ill-effects from his experience.

Those rescued with Jones were Hugh Ross, 58, and Lloyd Barnes, 18. They were taken from their precarious refuge by Kenneth Main, a flying instructor.

The others, who walked ashore, were William Reid, 38; Harry Kendall, 33; Gordon Joslin, 18, and Norman Leith, 18, all of Hawkestone.

The two ice floes broke away from shore while the men were fishing yesterday afternoon. The only shelter they had on their pair of icy islands were crude shacks erected to protect them from the wind while they tended their lines.

Reid and Kendall were alone at first, but they were joined later by Joslin and Leigh, who risked their lives in an attempt at rescue. The small boat in which they put out from shore was badly damaged by rough water and drifting ice in the lake and they were forced to abandon their efforts to make the return trip frim the ice floe to land.

Pilots of the Royal Canadian Air Force dropped food, blankets and containers of hot coffee and rum to both isolated parties today.

Harry Thaw Loses Tiff in Hotel Here

Evicted After Attempt to 'Say It With Fists.'

Harry K. Thaw, in the headlines almost constantly since 1906, when he killed the noted architect, Stanford White, attempted to "say it with fists" to Paul Jaeck, head waiter at the Shoreham Hotel, Thursday night.

The result was that Mr. Thaw, whose latest activities include membership in the Winchester, Va., Volunteer Fire Department, landed in the street in anything but an upright position.

Thaw, up from Winchester for a good time, staged a single dance in the Shoreham dining room, then attempted to dance with various strangers, including genial Mr. Jaeck, hotel employes said.

House detectives responded quickly and Thaw was evicted. Reporters went to the Shoreham yesterday, unmindful of the melee, to interview Mr. Thaw, only to be informed he had left the night before.

Hearing in Slaying Continued by Court

Legality Detaining Tobin Goes Before Adkins.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins yesterday contiued until next week a hearing to determine the legality of the detention of Thomas F. Tobin, who is being held in District Jail in connection with the slaying of Samuel Melincov.

The hearing, scheduled for yesterday, was continued when Assistant United States Attorney Allen Krouse asked leave to amend his answer to Tobin's request for a writ of habeas corpus, and when his answer was filed, Attorney John J. Sirica, for Tobin, asked time to file a reply.

Melincov and Bryant McMahon were killed in a gun battle at the Houston Hotel last September. Tobin has been held in District Jail since without a definite charge being placed against him.

Counter-Attack By Fahnestock Accuses Wife

Charges She Admitted an 'Infatuation' for 'Prominent Man.'

Continued from Page 1.

terday, signed a consent order agreeing to hear the petitions of both sides Tuesday.

Fahnestock, tall, with a military bearing—he commanded the "Lost Battalion" after Whittlesey—attended the hearing in Justice Adkins' chambers with his lawyer, Godfrey L. Munter.

Mrs. Fahnestock was represented by Attorney Arthur J. Phelan.

Leaving the courthouse, Fahnestock sought to elude a photographer who followed him to the street.

Mrs. Fahnestock, the wife, is at the Mayflower Hotel with her father, Charles Moran, of New York.

Principals to Gather.

The proceedings Tuesday, provided there is not a change or postponement, will bring into Justice Adkins' courtroom the two children, their parents, and their grandmother, who is the acknowledged grande dame of Washington society.

Mrs. Fahnestock obtained a writ of habeas corpus Thursday requiring her husband and his mother to produce the children in court yesterday. A deputy marshal, however, was unable to serve this Thursday night.

Then yesterday, after Fahnestock had filed his counterpetition, attorneys for both sides agreed to ask that the two petitions be heard at one time.

At the same time it was agreed that Mrs. Fahnestock was to withdraw her private detectives from the mansion at Massachusetts avenue.

Col. Fahnestock said in his petition that the detectives had molested and humiliated him by walking up and down and staring through the doors and windows.

"Happy" Till August, 1934.

In his petition, Fahnestock said he and his wife "lived extremely happily until the month of August, 1934, at which time the defendant (Mrs. Fahnestock) became acquainted at Newport with a certain man of prominence."

"Shortly thereafter," the petition said, "she apparently lost all interest in the plaintiff and the children and admitted to the plaintiff her infatuation for the said man, and the plaintiff is informed that and avers that she has been in his frequent company since August, 1934, the exact times and circumstances surrounding which the plaintiff will prove at the hearing."

Fahnestock said that since they were married he had been giving his wife $40,000 a year for the maintenance of their home.

Since he and his wife separated, he said, the children have been shifted form place to place. If this is continued, he said, their health will be impaired and their education retarded. For these and other reasons he asked that the children be placed in his custody.

Plot to Reconcile Carol and Helen Laid in Rumania

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 4 (AP).—Powerful influences were at work today in an effort to reconcile King Carol and his divorced wife, Princess Helen.

Chief plotter for their reconciliation was the aged Nicholas Jorga, former premier and formerly Carol's tutor. He was planning to invite Helen to leave her exile in Florence and attend the dedication of the new wing of the university bearing her name at Valeni de Munte early this year.

King Carol also will be there, and the former premier hoped he might arrange for the estranged royal pair to meet.

Auto Show Opens In New York Today

28 Makes, Hundreds of Cars to Be on Display.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Eager for the acid test of public favor, the Nation's motor car manufacturers tonight put the finishing touches on their displays in the New York Automobile Show, at which many of the several hundred new models will be seen for the first time.

Optimistic exhibitors predicted record crowds for the annual show, a lavish and spectacular affair, which will be opened tomorrow by Mayor LaGuardia, speaking from the Park avenue entrance to Grand Central Palace.

There will be 28 makes of automobiles on display in a setting of brilliant aluminum foil and a profusion of colors. Murals depicting modern methods of transportation will form a dramatic background for many of the exhibits.

U. S. Abandons Most of Taxes Due From Pitts

Government Gives Up Getting Payments From Man Serving Time.

The Federal Government yesterday reduced its income tax claims against G. Bryan Pitts and his wife from $2,120,000 to about $250,000. Pitts was chairman of the board of the defunct F. H. Smith Co., and is now serving a sentence in Lorton for fraud.

The Government abandoned its claim for additional payments for 1926 and 1931. In addition, the claim for 1927 was cut from $309,884 to $7,043; the 1928 claim was reduced from $1,070,316 to $139,222, and the 1930 amount was cut from $301,551 to $4,651.

The change in the amount claimed by the Government does not end the income-tax controversy with Pitts. Through his attorney, Richard L. Merrick, the former financier admits only that he still owes the Government $137,000. Of this amount, the Internal Revenue Bureau has already collected about $125,000 through the sale of Mrs. Pitts' jewelry and stocks, bonds and notes owned by Pitts.

The reduction was ordered by the board of income tax appeals which approved an agreement made in January, 1934. At this time Pitts and the Government decided that Pitts owed $6,000 for 1927, $125,000 for 1928, and $6,000 for 1929. The board approved this agreement, but its findings did not mention the payment of further interest or penalties. It also approved the elimination of the Government claim for additional taxes for 1926 and 1931.

Of the amount now claimed by the Government $137,000 represents the sum agreed on in January of last year. The Income Tax Unit also asks for $13,000 interest on this amount since the January, 1934, agreement and for about $100,000 additional interest on the $137,000 prior to the time of the agreement. According to Mr. Merrick, the earlier interest is figured at the rate of 12 per cent per year or 1 per cent per month. The interest since the 1934 agreement is based on a 6 per cent rate.

A protest against the alleged overassessment of $113,000 has already been filed with the Board of Tax Appeals. If more than the admitted claim of $137,000 is realized from the sale of further Pitts' properties, a claim for a cash refund will be made, Mr. Merrick said.

Furniture Show Stirs Prediction Of a 'Boom Year'

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP).—The big table and chair men foresaw a business boom today as they gathered for the national furniture show.

Dr. A. P. Haake, managing director of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, predicted a 20 per cent increase in trade over 1934. R. R. Rau, vice president of the National Retail Furniture Association, forecast a 16 per cent boost.

These optimistic views were expressed as leaders of the industry estimated that furniture stores had enjoyed approximately 18 per cent more patronage in 1934 than they had the previous year.

"We're preparing for the largest attendance of any market since 1930," said Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the huge furniture mart, where the winter exposition will be held from January 7 to 19.

"The new styles are undeniably business builders. Modern styles make it easier to persuade women to refurnish their homes before new furniture becomes a necessity through the complete collapse of the old. The groundwork for recovery has been securely laid. Stocks are low and prices stabilized."

Great Coat SALE

$38

Superlative coats from the makers of our outstanding coat successes—at January sale prices. Richly trimmed with black fox, baby lynx, natural tipped skunk, kolinsky, jap mink, Persian lamb, galyak, squirrel and American badger. Sizes 12 to 20, 36 to 44, 35½ to 43½, and 42½ to 50½.

A great special purchase plus higher priced coats from our stock!

LANSBURGH'S—SECOND FLOOR—COAT DEPT.

Lansburgh's
7th, 8th and E Streets

Lansburgh's Sale!
7th, 8th and E Streets

Men's Lansbrook Worsted Suits

Regularly Priced $25 $17.85

High grade, year-round Lansbrooks made to sell for $25, are the headline news of this outstanding once-a-year sale! Grays, oxfords and browns for men of all builds. Single and double breasted styles, but not every color in every size.

At ½ Price!
SLACKS
$2.98
Reg. $5.95!

A real saving on talon-fastened, all-wool slacks with pleated fronts—should be snapped up in a hurry! Winter-weight tweeds, hound's tooth patterns and checks—in grays and browns. Sizes 29 to 36 waist—all leg lengths.

LANSBURGH'S—STREET FLOOR—MEN'S CLOTHING

Just 125! Very Special!

$3.95
Shaker Knit Sweaters

Warm, heavy weight all-wool pullovers with crew neck. For boys or girls—sizes 10 to 20.

Klikket Jacket

—of heavy, waterproof jersey in coat style with talon fastener. Cold-wheather protection for boys and girls. 8 to 18.

NO MAIL, PHONE OR C. O. D. ORDERS

Eagle Knit and Tim Hockey Caps 59c

STREET FLOOR—PREP SHOP

Presenting

Two New CHEVROLETS

in the two lowest price ranges

Both powered by the same improved Master Chevrolet Engine

Giving great new performance with increased operating economy

Featuring two distinct types of alluring Fisher Beauty

THE NEW STANDARD CHEVROLET

LOWEST-PRICED SIX
UNUSUAL ECONOMY
FLASHY ACCELERATION
23% MORE POWER
for Getaway and Hill-Climbing
BIG, ROOMY BODY BY FISHER
SMOOTH, POWERFUL BRAKES
BLUE-FLAME VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE

$465 AND UP. List price of New Standard Roadster at Flint, Mich., $465. With bumpers, spare tire and tire lock, the list price is $20.00 additional. Prices subject to change without notice.

TODAY, Chevrolet presents two new lines of cars in the two lowest price ranges—the most brilliant and desirable cars in Chevrolet's long twenty-three-year record of successes. The New Standard Chevrolet . . . styled in the traditional Chevrolet manner which has proved so popular . . . providing an entirely new degree of performance and operating economy. . . . And the new Master De Luxe Chevrolet . . . the Fashion Car of the low-price field . . . beautifully streamlined . . . longer and smartly lower in appearance. . . . Both of these cars are powered by the same improved Master Chevrolet valve-in-head engine. Both of them give remarkable new performance. Performance so fleet, nimble and spirited that it will be a revelation to drivers of any car, regardless of price. Most pleasing of all, these new Chevrolets are even more economical to operate and maintain than the very thrifty Chevrolets of last year. They're so easy to buy—so saving of gas and oil—and so inexpensive in all ways that almost every family can afford to own one. Be sure to visit your nearest Chevrolet Dealer, examine these two new Chevrolets . . . and then you will know how wise it is to choose Chevrolet for quality at low cost.

CHEVROLET MOTOR CO., DETROIT, MICH. Compare Chevrolet's low delivered prices and easy G.M.A.C. terms. A General Motors Value.

THE NEW MASTER DE LUXE CHEVROLET

NEW STREAMLINE STYLING
TURRET TOP BODY BY FISHER KNEE-ACTION *
LONGER WHEELBASE
ROOMIER BODIES
SPEED, POWER, ECONOMY
BLUE-FLAME VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE
(*Knee action optional at small additional cost).

$560 AND UP. List price of Master De Luxe Coupe at Flint, Mich., $560. With bumpers, spare tire and tire lock, the list price is $25.00 additional. Prices subject to change without notice.

ON DISPLAY TODAY

CHEVROLET

DEALER ADVERTISEMENT

CHOOSE CHEVROLET FOR QUALITY AT LOW COST

The Washington Post

Eugene Meyer, Publisher.

Eugene MacLean, General Manager. Floyd R. Harrison, Comptroller.

The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and local news of spontaneous origin published herein. Rights of republication of all other matter herein are also reserved.

OFFICES OF THE WASHINGTON POST.

New York, N. Y. ..... 270 Madison Avenue
Chicago, Ill. ..... 400 North Michigan Avenue
Detroit, Mich. ..... 2-251 General Motors Building
St. Louis, Mo. ..... 506 Globe-Democrat Building
San Francisco, Calif. ..... 760 Market Street

DELIVERED IN WASHINGTON.

Daily, Sunday, 1 yr.	$7.80	Daily, Sunday, 1 week	15c
Daily only, 1 yr.	6.00	Daily only, 1 week	10c
Sunday only, 1 yr.	2.00	Sunday only, per copy	5c

BY MAIL—MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, WEST VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA.

Daily and Sunday.		Sunday Only.		Daily Only.
One year	$6.00	One year	$2.00	One year	$4.00
Six months	3.00	Six months	1.00	Six months	2.50
One month	.55	One month	.20	One month	.50

OTHER STATES, MEXICO AND CANADA

Daily and Sunday.		Sunday Only.		Daily Only.
One year	$11.00	One year	$4.00	One year	$7.50
Six months	6.00	Six months	2.25	Six months	4.00
One month	1.00	One month	.55	One month	.70

All Subscriptions by Mail Payable in Advance.

Entered at the Postoffice, Washington, D. C., as second-class mail matter.

TELEPHONE NATIONAL 4200.

Saturday, January 5, 1935.

Injuns Vs. Engines.

There were shelves and shelves of them, marked "Children's Books." The covers were mostly flamboyant, the illustrations happily grotesque. An adult was lackadaisically thumbing through "Alice in Wonderland." All the attendants were busy in other parts of the bookstore. It seemed a propitious time to investigate the conclusions recently brought out at the mid-winter conference of the American Library Association at Chicago.

The librarians attending those meetings were of the unanimous opinion that children of today are no longer reading fairy tales, but turning instead to realistic stories with adventurous angles. Living as they do in an age of transoceanic planes, streamlined locomotives and flashing speedboats, it is asserted that children fail to find anything particularly wonderful in the Magic Carpet. Beside these conquerors of time and space, Hans Brinker's silver skates inevitably look somewhat futile and pathetic.

However, still refusing to accept the disillusioning verdict as final, we glanced over a few of the titles before us. "The Teacup Whale" looked encouraging enough and certainly no fault could be found with the romantic title, "Book of Pirates," within a dashing swashbuckling cover. But the quest took on ominous aspects when we failed to locate any copies of "Beauty and the Beast." After much digging, it was discovered nestling between a book called "The Wonderful Locomotive" and one entitled "Grammar Can Be Fun."

Perhaps it is a good thing that youngsters are beginning to appreciate the heroism in crusades against germs, and would rather read about a world that does exist than one known as the Never Never Land. But all realism and no fantasy is apt to make Jack a very dull boy. With this thought uppermost, we seized gleefully upon a copy of "Black Beauty." Alas for romance! The book now carries the enlightening sub-title, "Autobiography of a Horse."

We fled without daring to look further. We were afraid we would find an even later edition entitled "Black Beauty, the Intimate Introspections of a Perissodactyl Ungulate Mammal."

Step Toward Centralization.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has temporarily suspended its order requiring insured banks outside the Federal Reserve system to reduce their interest rates on time deposits. That is an initial victory for Senator Glass, who had protested that the action taken by the corporation was illegal.

However, it would be a somewhat empty triumph if Congress should authorize the FDIC to proceed with its plans to bring about a uniform rate of interest on deposits in all insured banks. From the viewpoint of the corporation, the argument in favor of such action is strong. If member banks are limited in the amounts that may be paid on deposits, it would, as stated, be unfair discrimination to permit insured nonmember banks in the same region to attract deposits away, thus utilizing insurance "as a weapon to place member banks at a disadvantage."

However cogent this reasoning, it does not meet the objections of Senator Glass to the policy of establishing uniform rates on bank deposits. He challenges the merits of the proposal, maintaining that there is "no more reason why the interest rates should be uniform than there is for a uniform discount rate at all the Reserve banks." This is a significant and pointed reference. It reveals a profound dissatisfaction with the centralizing tendencies which threaten to undermine the independence of the regional Reserve, and which may eventually transform the system into one quite different from that which Senator Glass was largely responsible for bringing into being.

At the inception of the Reserve system it was hoped that the new Federal Reserve banks would succeed by degrees in establishing uniform discount rates and in eliminating the extreme variations in rates charged to customers by member banks. Nevertheless, it was recognized that the United States is of vast extent and that the desired uniformity must be arrived at gradually as the country becomes economically and financially more homogeneous. Such changes could not be effectively or safely accomplished by decrees from above.

There is still reason for insisting upon recognition of geographical differences, and for relying upon regional banks that can make allowance for such differences better than centralized agencies operating from the National Capital. Official intervention from above, to establish uniform interest rates on the deposits of all banks, irrespective of location or other special conditions, is an assault upon this regional principle. It weakens the authority of the local Reserve bank officials. And it marks an insidious movement in the direction of centralization which is undoubtedly anathema to Senator Glass.

The Message To Congress.

In committing the Administration to a tremendous new program of work relief the President has shown that he is in no way unmindful of the major difficulties and dangers which beset the path he has chosen. There is no parallel in history for a successful effort by any government, perhaps excepting that of Soviet Russia, to create direct employment for an army of 3,500,000 people, as Mr. Roosevelt asks the Congress to make it possible to do. There are many instances in which such efforts, on a lesser scale, have been attempted and have failed. More to the point, the previous efforts of the present Administration in this direction have been very disappointing, by contrast with over-sanguine anticipations.

So it is with a fearless courage which must arouse the admiration of the people of this, and all other depression-stricken countries, that the President moves forward into this new and unpredictable social experiment. And he appropriately prefaced his message by saying that while: "We have undertaken a new order of things, yet we progress towards it under the framework and in the spirit and intent of the American Constitution." The fact of progress in the work-relief program remains to be demonstrated. But the broad principles on which this progress will be sought are, in the President's own definition, essentially "practical."

The new employment program, he assures the Congress, will concentrate on projects which will compete as little as possible with private enterprise; which can be tapered off as private employment improves; which will be of permanent utility; which will employ a large percentage of direct labor; which will be located where they will meet the greatest unemployment needs, and which will be so far as possible self-liquidating.

All these considerations show that the program is planned to assist rather than to hamper the recovery of private industry. That imperative aim is further emphasized by the statement that relief-work wages, while higher than subsistence doles, must not be high enough to compete with private industry. This is a criterion of fundamental importance to a successful relief-work program. Its acceptance by the President reflects the progress in thinking on the subject since the slapdash CWA experiment.

It will be argued that with all these restrictions, necessary though they are, the scope of desirable enterprises will fall far short of meeting employment needs, the "unemployables" entirely aside. In spite of the broad constructive list of projects named by the President this will almost certainly prove to be the case. But neither 100 per cent success, nor overnight success, in placing some 3,500,000 men willing to work, capable of working, but unable to find work, should be anticipated. The country will not judge the desirability of this program from grandiose predictions, but from evidence of thoughtful determination to make its development contribute at every step to enduring national recovery. And this, obviously, the President realizes to the full.

Particularly welcome is his assurance that the costs of the program, to be submitted in the budget message, "will be within the sound credit of the Government." This is essential. With the debt at its present staggering total of $28,500,000,000, and mounting at its present rate, it is no longer possible to disregard the factor of economy in reconstruction measures.

The work-relief program will not have smaller prospects of success for being harmonized with the unexaggerated capacities of a country which has of late inefficiently squandered too much of its financial strength.

Valedictory.

It must be highly gratifying to Marylanders, who always take pride in their public servants, that as Gov. Ritchie prepares to leave the executive mansion after an occupancy of 15 years he remains the dignified statesman he always has been.

The Governor's valedictory to the Legislature was a thoughtful and candid review of the State's affairs and his own stewardship. Mr. Ritchie ably defended those of his activities under attack in the fall campaign, but without bitterness over his defeat and without any note of partisanship. At the same time he also dealt frankly with the recently disclosed irregularities in the State Roads Commission, and with the serious condition of the State's finances resulting from a falling-off in revenues due to the depression.

Mr. Ritchie outlined his remedies for the problems confronting Maryland. These are entitled to receive the earnest consideration of Governor-elect Nice, for none is more familiar with the administration of State functions than the present Governor. At the same time, the Democratic-controlled Legislature should forget partisan politics and examine Mr. Nice's proposals on their merits and with a view to promote the State's welfare.

The incoming Republican administration already has made a move toward replacing the bitterness of the last campaign with good will. Inspired by Governor-elect Nice, the Republicans in the Legislature sponsored a resolution presenting Mr. Ritchie with the desk and chair, in the executive mansion library, where he had worked for 15 years. Gov. Ritchie has become fond of that desk and he will cherish it as a prized memento, reminding him of many happy hours spent constructively in the public interest.

Such a gracious action could happily be made the keynote of the Maryland legislative session.

Home To Roost.

Evidence of a revolt against the spoils system came to light on the very first day of the new congressional session. Representative Sirovich introduced a "precedent-smashing" bill that would sweep all of the New Deal agencies into the civil service system. Comprehensive bills to free the Postoffice Department from the bane of politics have been prepared by Senator Vandenberg and Representative McLeod. These measures have far more support than could have been obtained a year ago.

So long as there were thousands of jobs to distribute Congress refused to obstruct the patronage racket. Now most of the New Deal agencies are fully staffed and new openings are scarce. Still the descent on Washington continues. Members of Congress are beset by a continuous stream of constituents who not unreasonably think they are just as much entitled to a Federal berth as those who got in on the ground floor. Downright weariness and motives of self-protection combine to produce a revulsion of feeling on Capitol Hill toward the spoils system.

Moreover, a number of events since Congress was last in session have induced some members of that body to reconsider their handiwork. The McKellar amendment to an appropriation bill, designed to oust 900 employes in the alcohol tax unit, even though they had obtained their jobs through competitive examinations, has aroused widespread disgust among many Congressmen who previously were indifferent to the civil service. Likewise the experience of the Interior Department, the HOLC and the Bureau of Internal Revenue has had a sobering effect. The naive are learning that figs do not grow from thistles.

Precaution must now be exercised against a vindictive attitude toward the beneficiaries of the spoils system. Many of them as individuals are highly capable and efficient. Fairness demands that they be given an opportunity to retain their jobs if they are able to qualify under proper examinations. And key men in the emergency organizations, as Mr. Sirovich points out, can reasonably be made exempt from even this requirement.

This drive for a rational personnel policy will strike immediately at Postmaster General Farley. Two of the bills referred to are aimed directly at his department and his anomalous position. While they have been introduced by Republicans, their chief objective is much the same as was that of the President when he fruitlessly instructed Mr. Farley more than a year ago to prepare a measure placing all postmasters under civil service. The absence of partisanship in this issue is further emphasized by the terms of Mr. Sirovich's bill, which also extend to the Postoffice Department.

If the revolt against the spoils system is to be at all effective, its chief advocate and sponsor must certainly be relegated to his proper sphere.

Interesting Contrast.

Among the 2,000 or more bills that have been dumped into the hampers on Capitol Hill is a modest proposal to eliminate the final one-third of the pay cut imposed on Government employes nearly two years ago. Here is a refreshing contrast to various spendthrift special privilege measures which are beginning to raise whoopee.

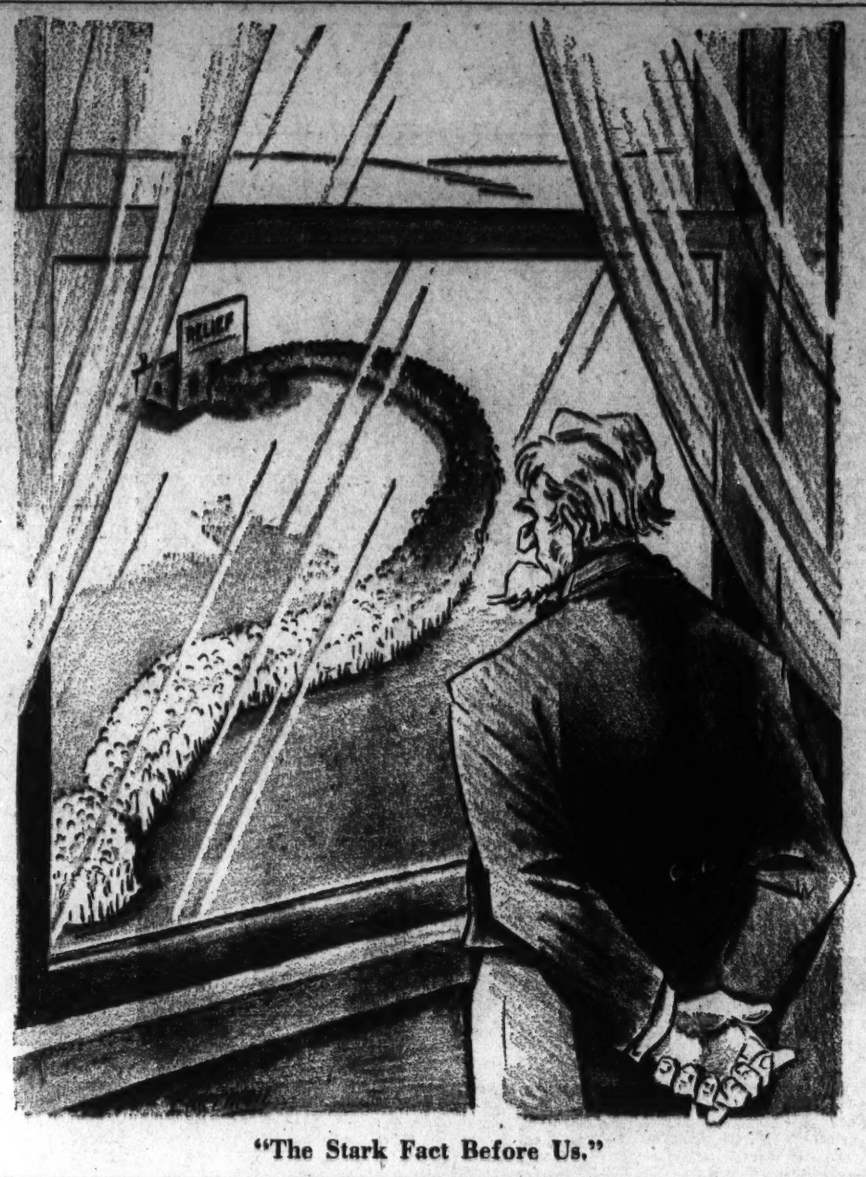
President Roosevelt recognizes the desirability of restoring Government salaries to their predepression status. In his opinion the cut should be eliminated as of next July 1, and he yesterday issued a routine executive order continuing it until that date. There is a strong feeling in Congress, however, that the basic rates of pay should become effective once more as of January 1. Between the two viewpoints there is no significant conflict. If Congress decides to accept the more liberal course, it is unbelievable that the White House will raise an objection.

Government employes are asking for only their base rate of pay. There is no disposition to seek gratuities, pensions, doles or special privileges. In this respect their legislative program is set entirely apart from the demand for $2,500,000,000 to pay "bonus" obligations that will not be due for ten years. Besides the chimerical Townsend old-age pension plan the contrast is still greater. Among the welter of extravagant spending plans laid before Congress the pay restoration bill stands out as a model of restraint, logic and good sense.

The habit of Congress is to give precedence to any demand with a band wagon behind it and to neglect reasonable proposals which are moderately, though convincingly, supported. In this instance, however, it would seem impossible for any body possessed of any sense of equilibrium to give the bonus and other special privilege bills precedence over Mr. Boylan's pay-cut restoration proposal.

The Eskimo couldn't withstand the extremely low temperatures if he were civilized, asserts a scientist. Clip this and show it to the bore who insists upon boasting that he takes a cold shower each morning.

An excellent speaker is one who exhausts his subject before he does the audience.



"The Stark Fact Before Us."

Letters to the Editor

The Post welcomes letters from its readers. All communications must be signed with the writer's name and address. Upon publication initials or pen names will be used if requested. Letters are subject to condensation and in no case should they exceed 250 words.

"Her Fling At Destiny."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Japan argues that she should be on a naval parity with Great Britain and the United States, but that she would be in favor of reducing her tonnage in battleships and other offensive naval weapons if Great Britain and the United States would do the same. This is like the benevolent poker player, who, with four aces in his hand, condescends to discard his fifth card, thus giving his adversaries the advantage of five cards against his four.

One can well understand Japanese diplomacy, because it has everything to gain and nothing to lose by reducing offensive weapons on the water, whereas Great Britain and the United States would have everything to lose and nothing to gain by reducing offensive naval armaments while Japan is determined to exploit the economic world with her low labor costs. That Japan plans a conquest of the economic world is obvious when one remembers her actions at Port Arthur, in Korea, in Manchukuo, in Ethiopia, in South and Central America, in Poland, and her attempts to line up with Germany.

Japan is apparently suffering from the same disease that destroyed Spain as a great nation after Spain discovered America. It was the same disease that defeated Napoleon Bonaparte in his attempt to conquer the whole of Europe. Alexander the Great also had the disease. So did Jengis Khan. But Japan is determined to have her fling at destiny—so be it.

GROVER AYRES.

Washington, Jan. 1.

'As The Nose On Your Face.'

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Reference is made to your recent editorial, entitled "The Longest Way Round." To my mind there is no foundation for diversion of opinions. The whole recovery act is so plain, that there can be but one interpretation.

It does not give labor any rights to demand or to strike for hours, wages and conditions, which authority to prescribe and approve is vested in the President. Section 7(b) emphasizes this authority of the President to approve mutual agreements and Section 7(c) authorizes the President to prescribe hours of labor, rates of pay and conditions where no approved codes of mutual agreement exist. But industry, labor, employers and employes all are under obligations to obey the authority vested in the President. That is the law and Section 3(c) orders the United States district courts to enforce it.

Collective bargaining does not convey the right of organized labor to formulate, demand or attempt to enforce its demands by resorting to strikes, but must submit these demands to the President or his delegated authority for approval. It is then up to the courts to enforce them.

Labor and industry are equal under the law. The recovery act is one of the grandest efforts to promote, protect and stabilize industry, but must be enforced impartially.

C. X. S.

Washington, Dec. 29.

Understanding Stein.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I can understand Miss Gertrude Stein (grand master of "the unintelligible"), but not as she understands her own work. Her poetry depends upon rhythm, cadence and repetition, not upon tail-rhymes, perspicuity or sentiment.

Even as music without words elevates or excites our soul, so may the properly placed repetitional rhythms of Miss Stein elevate and excite the poetic sense.

Miss Stein's "new" form of poetry is not entirely new. It is just a different treatment of an old charm, under new circumstances and in a new environment; for in Japan they once worshiped Japa (or repetition) in many things, until Japaism (or Japism) arose to the height of a near-religion; and in our own country Edgar Allan Poe has shown us in his poems, "The Raven," "The Bells," "Ulalume," etc., what artistically placed repetition will do toward the pleasure of the esthetic sense. Miss Stein shall create nothing new or great with her so-called new poetic medium of expression, but she is serving a good purpose in breaking down old fossilized forms of the muse in the English-speaking world! But I can go her one better in music innovation!

Here is one of my own new a la G. Steinians:

Mi ni cse,
Omicron,
Sta so fa
Orion,—
Pee dee key
Stygian,—
No soun sa
Rigion!

ED. JAS. IRVINE, D.D.,

Washington, Dec. 31.

A Code For Adjectives.

Without disrespect to the code makers, isn't it time to put in a few words on behalf of the overworked adjectives of everyday American speech? Some of these useful members of conversational society have been putting in rather long hours of late while their synonym relations have lingered wistfully among the unemployed. Slang seems to be guilty of considerable "chiseling" in the employment of vocabularies, and an opportunity for spreading the work among the common carriers of ideas appears close at hand.

Take the oft-reiterated word "swell," or the phrase, "It's the nuts," now in widespread parlance. As substitutes for "fine" and "good" there is no doubt that these capsules of characterization contain a flavor which has been pretty well dried out of their older compeers.

If something more varied than "fine" and "good" is wanted to express discriminating commendation, an amazing family of substitutes is already occupying the anteroom of the verbal employment department. Not far from 125 synonyms are available, with shades of meaning flexible enough to meet almost any employment need.

One need not be a purist to advocate admitting such synonyms to the ranks of full-time jobholders in the busy world of words. If a code becomes necessary, its formulation will be not so much a matter of passing new laws in the legislatures of etiquette as the setting of examples worth emulating by employers of words who find satisfaction in accuracy without pedancy and who recognize that an occasional survey of idle adjectives brings forth attractive possibilities of speech enrichment.

(Christian Science Monitor.)

International Copyright.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In an editorial on May 26, 1934, you supported the publicly expressed wish of the President that the Senate would authorize him to proclaim the adherence of the United States to the international copyright convention.

Ratification of that treaty would make the United States a member of the International Copyright Union, and you urged this because an international copyright conference was proposed for 1935 of representatives from the 40 countries members of this union, and insisted that "the American Government ought to be represented at that gathering as a member of the union to foster any adjustments that may appear desirable." You further declared that:

> It is anomalous indeed to keep our copyright law on a narrowly national basis. American authors are deprived of adequate protection abroad, and the American public is denied important books from other countries.

It is not generally understood, however, how serious are the implications of your words. Since 1891 less than one-quarter of the books published from year to year in Great Britain are reprinted in the United States. That is to say, our book-loving people in the case of three-fourths of the works published by English authors are deprived of their reasonable opportunity to secure copies.

Why should so great a proportion of books by English authors fail to obtain legal protection in our country? Here is surely an injustice to be remedied. The entry of the United States into the copyright union would accomplish it.

At the recent hearings of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations on adherence to the copyright treaty, Robert Underwood Johnson, in a strong plea for such action, declared that the purpose of the Constitution was "to establish justice," and that Daniel Webster said, "Justice is the first concern of man on earth," and he continued:

> I therefore am going to appeal to you, first of all, in discussing this subject, on the ground of justice, and in doing so, briefly to rally to my support the opinions of some of the most distinguished Americans who have heretofore recorded themselves in favor of this great principle of intellectual property.

His list included Noah and Daniel Webster, Senator Clay, George Bancroft, Emerson and the poets—Longfellow, Whittier and Lowell—declaring that they all "stood for right" on the question of international copyright, and quoted Lowell's now famous couplet:

> "In vain we call old notions fudge,
> And bend our conscience to our dealing,
> The Ten Commandments will not budge,
> And stealing will continue stealing."

An equally crucial copyright situation exists today; but a long-continued international wrong may be righted by the entrance of the United States into the International Copyright Union.

THORVALD SOLBERG.

Jan. 3, 1935.

The Post Impressionist

Hindenburg Hide-and-Seek.

Post Office, Saturday.

HOW did the defeated German armies return from their fronts? Where then was Hindenburg? Was he a great general? Was he ever a great man?

* * *

S. Miles Bouton published a magazine article, called "The Hindenburg Myth," wherein he said:

That the legend describing Hindenburg as leading home the troops in good order was unsupported; "they threw out all officers" and "straggled back" under the leadership of Soldiers' Committees.

That Hindenburg was not "on the scene when the first of the returning troops entered Berlin."

That "it would be difficult to find anything substantiating Hindenburg's fame as a military genius."

And that, as president, "he never knew what it was all about."

* * *

We suggested that this was "removing a few flowers" from the marshal's grave. Joseph Danziger, Washingtonian who knew Hindenburg, agreed. Mr. Danziger wrote to us defending the general's generalship and added:

"At the war's close, I happened to be the only American writing-man in Germany. I saw the first troops return from the war, as they marched down the 'Linden' . . . Those troops were returning under their officers' direction. No Soldiers' Council had anything to do with them. Hindenburg, I am sure, was bringing up the rear, as a commander of a defeated army should."

* * *

Thereupon comes a letter to us from Mr. Bouton, in Jamestown, N. Y.: "I must protest that there was no intention on my part 'to remove a few flowers from Hindenburg's grave' . . . I have the highest respect for the old gentleman's memory and bewail the cloud that was cast over it in the last years of his rule—or, rather his incumbency. But I am pretty sure that my estimates regarding him are correct."

And Mr. Bouton enclosed a copy of something he had written to Mr. Danziger:

". . . Your memory is bad as (to) your being 'the only American writing-man' in Berlin when the troops came back. I was there already on November 18th, and Guido Enderis . . . It is true that the troops that entered Berlin (on December 10th) were under command of their officers, but it is nonetheless true that all the troops, with a very few exceptions, straggled back under command of the Soldiers' Councils, and that Hindenburg left the front at once, after having counseled the Kaiser to flee to Holland, and was never seen again publicly until he entered Berlin in May, 1925, as president."

* * *

Does this end it? No!

* * *

For now Mr. Danziger has written to Mr. Bouton:

". . . I cannot recall any Guido Enderis . . . Otherwise my memory is tiptop concerning the historical events . . . Hence I believed it a fact when I stated, 'At the war's close I happened to be the only American writing-man in Germany.' So far as Germany was concerned, the war came to an end on November 9, the 'Red Saturday' . . . The Armistice came as an anticlimax. During the nine days before you came on the scene, many things happened which it would be unfair to expect you to know about.

"The Provisional Government was good to me, as they considered me 'the only American writing-man in Germany.' They gave me unrestricted use of the Nauen radio station, whence I communicated with our Secretary of War as to the developments. My dispatches were the first direct communication between (post-war) Berlin and Washington. I was given the run of all official records . . .

* * *

"That," continues Mr. Danziger, "is all old stuff to you and me, but I mention it to show that my thinning hair does not reflect a dilution of the brain.

"During those hectic days, troops were constantly arriving. A few, as you say, had abandoned their officers and came in charge of a Soldiers' Council, but mainly they were in orderly regimental formation. By the time of the big parade you speak of, on December 10th, things had simmered down to comparative quiet.

* * *

"Honest, old man, no one who has read your story in the Mercury can be blamed for thinking you were wanting 'to remove flowers' from Hindenburg's grave.' Of course he had a staff, on which were Ludendorff, Hoffman, and others. But it is customary to give the commander the credit for victory and the blame for defeat. What commander of the Allies can offer a brilliant stategic triumph like Hindenburg at Tannenberg, at the battle with Rennenkampf and in the winter campaign when the Russians were finally driven from German soil?

"Let's be fair to the memory of Hindenburg."

* * *

And is that all?

Well, we wouldn't be surprised by a reply to Mr. D. from Mr. B.

Al Smith Represents Essence Of New York

Tang of Fulton Fish Market Still Remains With Ex-Governor on 61st Birthday.

By Ralph E. Renaud.
(Special Correspondence of The Post.)

New York City.

IF it were necessary for some super-casting director to combine the romance, the flavor and the outward characteristics of New York City in a single individual there isn't the slightest doubt about his choice. Not only would his selection be endorsed by the populace of the metropolis, but it would be hailed throughout the midlands and clear to the coast. Al Smith is the man.

Al had his sixty-first birthday this week. Perhaps he is no longer a National figure. Perhaps the New Deal has stranded him on a shoal, though it is a fairly high one at that, being the Empire State Building. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, New York did for Al all that one city could do for an obscure East Side boy and he remains today the supreme prototype of that process.

Alfred Emanuel Smith's slide to greatness took on the aspects of a washboard about six years ago. Since then he has seen some pretty rough sledding. Like an ageing prizefighter, he seemed to lose his sense of timing a little and chose to say the right things on the wrong occasion. Like many another he also suffered from the smear squad, though not in his own bailiwick, where he is known and loved as no other man has been in his generation.

It is the times which have changed. There isn't much alteration in Al. He remains at 61 about what he was at 40, husky-voiced, humorous, unpretentious and still talking out of the corner of his mouth. Apparently you may break, you may shatter the vase as you will, but the scent of the Fulton Street Fish Market will cling to it still. There may be a bit more asperity in his remarks, some of the rosy bloom of the great campaign may have failed, but he has developed none of the protective owlishness of the elder statesman. He is as direct as ever.

* * * *

"TO HELL with politics," he told the boys on his birthday. "That's out of the window. This is my birthday. I hear politics all year round till I get sick to my stomach."

And yet 20 minutes later, to a suggestion that there might be a decree nisi between himself and old lady politics, he responded, "I'll never be divorced from politics. You can't keep 'em out of this office."

Though Al dropped the editorial pen of the New Outlook about the time of his final fling at "baloney dollars," it is revealed that he still cherishes the typewriter. He is writing a book, and it is a reasonable guess, considering the author, that it will be controversial. (Oh, that mine enemy would write a book!) "It contains so much that there ain't any use talking about it," says Author Al, "till it comes out. It's about the relation of a citizen to his Government and vicey versey."

One of the oddities of the present Al Smith is the seriousness with which he takes his rather tongue-in-the-cheek appointment as night superintendent of the Central Park Zoo. Of course he has always been fond of animals, and when he was Governor at Albany used to maintain a kind of junior zoo in the back yard of the executive mansion. Now he lives right across the street from the zoo in the park and has a tendency to haunt the place. He knows all the animals by their first names and every free night he is over there putting them to bed.

There were three little outriggers to the birthday cake, topped by the pinnacle of the Empire State Building, which loving admirers prepared for him—a donkey, an elephant, and a tiny creation supposed to represent a brown derby. My, how that brown derby has shrunk!

* * * *

"DON'T bury me in Yonkers" used to be one of the stape gags of vaudeville, but John E. Andrus, at 94, didn't scorn to be buried there. In his way, "the millionaire strap-hanger," one of the ten richest men in the country, was almost as salty in his observations as Al Smith. As a local sage, however, he specialized on the subject of economy and simple living. Far from miserly, he nevertheless delighted in getting an 18-mile subway ride for a nickel. He didn't like short skirts or short hair on women and thought everybody lived at too fast a pace, but he didn't mind speed on the subway.

Like Yonkers, Bronxville can take it. Quite a flutter of controversy has developed over the demand of an anonymous bard in Current Speech, published by Columbia University, that somebody "find a swankier name for thy loveliness."

The poet, if that isn't stretching it too far, refers to Bronxville as "the Athens-Florence of Westchester" and "the gem of the rural-cosmopolitan," whatever that may be, and seems depressed that it bears a name so closely suggestive of Hicksville.

It is true that in the past quarter century Bronxville has become decidedly chic, one of the niftier suburbs in this region, in fact, with gardened streets and stately mansions. But the poet-iconoclast appears to have evoked only a long Bronx cheer. It looks now as though fair Bronxville, loveliest village of the plain, would still stand as she is entered in the gazetteer.

* * * *

DARN these people, anyway, who are always trying to push perfectly good clowning up into the niche of art! There was a season awhile back when our longer-haired critics, belling loudly, pursued Charlie Chaplain's feet as the complete personification of art. Rube Goldberg's curious mechanical contrivances are said to have inspired not only Joe Cook, but a whole school of Russian abstractionists. They are even trying to push Pop-eye, the Sailor, hero to millions, and Wimpy, the Hamburger King, into the frame of art, and Mickey Mouse, bless his little heart, will have to be very alert indeed to escape the frantic grasp of the esthetic. The latest quarry of the art-minded frenetics is Jim Thurber, who draws such delightfully silly pictures for the New Yorker.

Jim is holding an exhibition of his drawings, most of which look like they were done in his sleep, at the Valentine Galleries and already the art hounds are belling. A large part of the fun in Thurber's drawings is that he can't draw, doesn't pretend to draw, and plainly says to heck with drawing. This, of course, simplifies matters for his genuine admirers.

But the catalogue says things like this, "Sometimes fantastic, sometimes grotesque, but always a little sad." Or "He sees no new, brave world in which men and women, as such, are at all different from what they have always been—be they patrician or proletarian." Or "their strong, meaningful, parsimonious yet eloquent line, excellent composition and definite movement." As a matter of fact the drawings are just pleasantly cockeyed, with witty captions.

Meanwhile, Joe solemnly tells his interviewers about his refusal to have his shirts laundered (78 of 'em in his room now), about a maid in his home who shot a man and quoted Shakespeare over him, about another maid who used to chase his father out of the house every night under the impression that he was anti-Christ, and about the old days on the Evening Post, when he, Jim, would lock up his typewriter and go home every time a big story broke. This last statement, though, is perhaps not so extravagant. Those whose memories go back to the same old days in the Evening Post have a general impression that not only Mr. Thurber, but everybody in the office used to do that when a big story broke.

Bust of Glass

Presented to Family on His 77th Birthday.

A marble bust of Senator Glass of Virginia, which some day will join the statues of Virginia's great at Richmond, has just been presented to the Senator's family by an admirer of the veteran lawmaker, the Associated Press reports.

It was learned yesterday—the Senator's 77th birthday anniversary—that the admirer, a resident of another State, who required that his name be withheld, turned over the statue temporarily to the Glass family of Lynchburg with the understanding that at some future time it shall be turned over to the Commonwealth.

The bust, done in faultless Italian marble, is the work of Elie Nadelman, a French artist. It has been acclaimed by family and friends "a perfect likeness."

Metropolitan Revives Strauss Comic Opera

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Richard Strauss' comic opera of Vienna in the reign of Maria Theresa, "Der Rosenkavalier," was revived today at the Metropolitan. Despite the $10 top for tickets, there was a capacity audience.

Society turned out in full force, for the matinee performance was a benefit for one of society's favorite charities, the Florence Crittenton homes.

Chaney's Son Decides To Use Name in Films

Hollywood, Jan. 4 (AP).—Creighton Chaney, 28-year-old son of the late movie "man of a thousand faces," has changed his mind. He will be billed as Lon Chaney, jr., after all.

Two years after his father's death in 1930, Creighton entered pictures but refused until now to use his famous father's name in his own career.

Flier to Travel by Ship.

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP).—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian flier who flew the "Lady Southern Cross" from Melbourne to Oakland last fall, said today he would sail Wednesday for Australia, leaving the plane behind him. He said the ship might be sold.

Along The Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

The Ickes Case.

THE slow fire that is burning under Mr. Ickes is the most important development in this town today. And it assumes even more importance in view of the President's plan to launch another tremendous building program.

BARGERON.

The fire was started by Mrs. Roosevelt, or rather by her and Louis Howe. There is good reason to believe that the first published accounts to the effect that Mr. Ickes had to get rid of his first assistant, Mr. Burlew, and Louis Glavis, chief of his espionage division, took Mr. Roosevelt by surprise. There has long been friction between Mr. Ickes' homestead plans and Mrs. Roosevelt, the PWA thinking her activities embarrassed them. They throw up their hands at PWA at any mention of the Reidsville, W. Va., project, which is Mrs. Roosevelt's pet.

* * * *

But this is neither here nor there at present. The matter goes beyond this, beyond Messrs. Burlew and Glavis, to the question of Mr. Ickes' capacity to administer so big a job as his is. There has for some time been a belief among some of Mr. Roosevelt's friends that the worst mistake of his Administration was to bring Mr. Ickes into such prominent place in his official family. Some of this feeling is undoubtedly inspired by jealousy.

The facts are, however, that when Mr. Roosevelt took office he and his party, together with economists and leading publishers and business men, were committed to a gigantic public works program as a way out of the depression. One of the most severe denunciations of Mr. Hoover was that he would not subscribe to this belief.

Well, the program has not worked.

The experience with it has resulted in a lot of its earlier friends abandoning it, with their agreeing with Mr. Hoover that it won't work. Others think the reason it didn't work was Mr. Ickes' incapacity to administer so big a job. His own attitude seems to be that if he is given another four or five billion dollars he will be able to make a go of it. There would have to be a new Mr. Ickes.

* * * *

The instances of his meticulousness would fill a book. Here is one going the rounds, and which is not an isolated story of a disgruntled employe, but typical of the whole Public Works Administration: An executive receiving about $5,000 a year, which is not a small job in the Government, was suddenly summoned to Mr. Ickes' office. When he walked in he found Glavis and an assistant investigator sitting behind the chief as if to give moral support.

"Mr. X," Mr. Ickes began, "you went recently on business to —— with your assistant. Notwithstanding that you both stayed at the same hotel when you left the train your assistant took one taxicab and you took another one. Why was this?"

The amazed executive explained that friends met him and as his assistant was tired he went ahead to the hotel.

"Very well," said Mr. Ickes. "On another trip you spent two hours in-between trains. Yet you turn in $— expense for taxi to hotel and back. Why was it necessary to go to a hotel?"

The subordinate explained that as a matter of fact he had made three calls during the two-hour stay and had gone by the hotel for his mail and telegrams. The subordinate was summarily dismissed after a few more questions of this kind. Mr. Ickes' contention undoubtedly would be that he was watching the taxpayers' money. It would be utterly impossible for him to watch three billions this way, which is what he tried to do. Most successful executives would call it downright lack of executive ability.

Just to cite one mere instance of this sort of stuff, Mr. Ickes once spent 30 minutes lecturing his army against the use of split infinitives.

The operations of Glavis under the administrator's instructions is the definite give-away. Glavis in due time will have made a report on everybody in Washington, having made considerable progress in that direction already, and then if still not stopped, on everybody in the country. He is of that type of investigating mind.

Indeed, there are very few of us in the entire country who can stand up under his scrutinizing eye.

"Great Scott, Wilbur! You forgot to shave!"

The New Congress

REPRESENTATIVE B. FRANK WHELCHEL, of Ninth Georgia District . . . Democrat . . . when told by the House Office Building superintendent there was no room for him there countered: "I'm not out of luck either. I'll put up a tent on the grass" . . . so he got an office . . . popular . . . began as a traveling salesman and studied law in Pullman cars at night . . . raves about the New Deal by the hour . . . hard worker . . . won reputation for kindness as a county judge . . . towers 6 feet, weighs 175, has a wife and two daughters . . . describes them as a "neighborhood" . . . "Any vices, Mr. Whelchel?" . . . "I shoot dice."

Such a large proportion of those who have been pictured by Mr. Robles have asked for the originals that The Washington Post is saving all these drawings to honor the requests of any future members of "The National Gallery."

Latest Directory of Congress Bares Foibles of Our Leaders

All the Ladies—Except Isabella Greenway—and Some of the Men Refuse to Give Their Ages; Long One of Shortest Names in Senate.

Bigger than ever and crammed with such revealing items as Rush Holt's middle name (Dew), the latest edition of the Congressional Directory reared its maroon binding in debut yesterday.

Its 737 pages—or 753 if you count the introductory Roman-numeraled pages—contain the information that Representative Schuyler Merritt, Republican, of Stamford, Conn., at 81 is the oldest House member, and that Schwellenbach is the longest name in the Senate.

Long is one of the shortest (really), yielding in this respect only to Nye, along with King, Byrd, Gore, Hale, Holt and Bone, the latter being Schwellenbach's colleague from Washington.

According to the directory, Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, is the oldest Senator. (He will be 76 Sunday.) But many members of either House have demurred at giving their ages. One of them is Virginia's Carter Glass, who entered his seventy-eighth year yesterday.

Ladies Keep Age Secret.

Senator Hattie Caraway, of Arkansas, withholds her birthday and so do most of the ladies on the south side of the Capitol, namely and to wit: Florence P. Kahn, Virginia Ellis Jenckes, Mary Norton and Caroline O'Day. Isabella Greenway, though, comes right out and says she was born in Boone County, Ky., March 22, 1886."

In the biography department, honors for modesty go to Michael L. Igoe, Paul Herbert Maloney and the few other Congressmen who volunteer nothing more than their names, political affiliation and home towns. This blushing reticence is matched in the Senate only by David Reed's successor, Joseph F. Guffey, who put: "Democrat, Pittsburgh, Pa., unmarried"—and that's all.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who belongs to that clique which refuses to tell ages, tops both houses in the matter of space, rating 36 lines to 35 for Senator William Gibbs McAdoo.

Edward Thomas Taylor, elected 14 consecutive times to the House from Colorado, has 31 lines purporting to prove he was born in Matmora, Ill., graduated from Leavenworth, (Kans.) High School and has three children.

Which is more lines than any of his colleagues got, except that Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner from the Philippines, bested both House and Senate with 43.

3 Senators From One State.

A rare phenomenon—the listing of three senatorial biographies under a single State—is recorded in this Capitol Baedeker. Turning to Nebraska, one finds George W. Norris, of course; Edward Raymond Burke and Richard Charles Hunter.

This disquieting departure from routine may be explained thus: Senator Robert B. Howell died March 11, 1933. William H. Thompson was appointed by the Governor to take the seat pending an election and was sworn in on May 26, 1933.

Hunter was elected to the seat in November, 1934, for the late Senator Howell's term ending January 3, 1935. Then, last November, Burke was elected to the regular six-year term which began yesterday. Hunter, a Senator and still not a Senator, drew two months' pay but never took the oath of office.

The Joint Committee on Printing was somewhat baffled by it all but finally compromised by printing all three biographies—Norris' Burke's and Hunter's.

Finally, though not to end on a sour note or anything like that, what a pity it was that they misspelled the name of the junior Senator from Michigan. The Government Printing Office takes so much pride in its typographical cleanliness and yet the proofreaders let Vandenburg slip by for Vandenberg.

Tsk, tsk.

Divorce Is Granted To Film Head's Wife

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP).—Mrs. Irma S. Warner and Jack L. Warner, vice president of the Warner Brothers Motion Picture Corporation, were divorced today.

Superior Judge Leon R. Yankwich granted the decree to Mrs. Warner after she testified her husband left their home September 15, 1933, after 20 years of married life, and refused to return.

Funds Increase In Rockingham

Financial Situation Better, Supervisors Reeport After Audit.

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Financial affairs of Rockingham County, the third largest in Virginia, were found in first-class condition, according to the report of the audit submitted yesterday to the board of supervisors.

The audit required 70 days and covered a two-year period ended last June 30. The report said a definite improvement in the county's financial condition started at the time the State took over the county roads.

The only fund showing a deficit is the school fund, and this is doubly offset by the balance in the general county fund. The auditors suggested that a unit levy be laid to save bookkeeping. At present the general fund and school levies must be kept separate. There are no other levies.

In their report the auditors reminded the board that for an overseer of the poor to sell goods to the county for poor relief is a violation of the law. They cited one case. The supervisors explained that the overseer acted with their permission as a matter of convenience. Only $200 a year was involved. The auditors stated nothing irregular was found in the transaction.

Kiwanis Name Delegates To Midwinter Council

Winchester, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Members of the Winchester Kiwanis Club designated today to attend the midwinter council of the Capitol District of Kiwanis Clubs, which will be held at Fredericksburg on February 14, included Ansel Solenberger, representative of the club, and Wendell B. Goode, official delegate, with R. E. Buncutter as alternate. Andrew Bell will attend as secretary-treasurer of the local club.

H. C. Sheetz, during the session, was presented with the past president's pin and the new officers were installed.

Mistaken for 'Game,' Hunter Shot in Woods

Millington, Md., Jan. 4 (AP).—Charles Robinson was taken to the Easton Emergency Hospital today with his eyes and jawbone injured in a hunting accident near here.

Rodney Robinson, nephew of the injured man, said he accidently shot his uncle, whom he mistook for a squirrel in the woods in which they were hunting.

Mark Twain Centenary

By Wm. Lyon Phelps

THIS year of 1935 marks the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Mark Twain; it will be celebrated all over the world. If this fact had been made known to him when he was a pilot on the Mississippi, his reply would have been picturesque, copious, and unprintable.

The Mark Twain Society has just given a prize for the best ten selections in epigrammatic form from his works. Here are some of the sentences chosen by various competitors:

"Whisky is taken into the committee rooms in demijohns and taken out in demagogues."

"A healthy and wholesome cheerfulness is not necessarily impossible to any occupation."

"All sane people detest noise."

(This reminds me of the remark of another great pessimist, Schopenhauer, who said that anyone who slammed a door thereby gave evidence that he was without intelligence.)

"Man is the only animal that blushes, or needs to."

"A man should secure the well done, faithful servant, of his own conscience first and foremost, and let all other loyalties go."

"Few slanders can stand the wear of silence."

"Music, that magician of magicians, who lifts his wand and all things real pass away and the phantoms of your mind walk before you clothed in flesh."

"Honor is a harder master than the law."

"Be careless in your dress if you must, but keep a tidy soul."

"I don't know anything about this man. Anyhow, I know only two things about him. One is, he has never been in jail, and the other is, I don't know why."

"There's a breed of humility which is itself a species of showing-off."

(Copyright, 1935.)

Postlude

By Ray C. Brown.

Washington Composers' Club presents a concert for the Friday Morning Music Club in Barker Hall. Program of compositions by Dorothy Radde Emery, John Alden Finckel, Louis Malone, Edward C. Potter and La Salle Spier. Assisting artists: Alice Finckel, Helene Finnacom, Oskar Levine, Justin Lawrie and R. Deane Shure.

On those occasions, all too few, when the Washington Composers' Club takes the public into its confidence, as it were, and discloses some of the work which its members have discussed and frankly criticized among themselves, one is certain of hearing something interesting. Usually, one is also privileged to hear first performances—always a pleasant experience in a world so filled with familiar music.

Last season La Salle Spier's "Impressions of the Bowery" had its premiere with the National Symphony Orchestra; yesterday he showed us that descriptive piece as it was first written for two pianos. Needless to say, the orchestral version has the advantage of tone-color and sonority lacking in the relatively monochromatic utterance of the piano. Yet the essential qualities of the music and the ideation are as clear in this etching as in the richly tinted orchestral painting.

Particularly striking in this work is the contrast between the sections obsessed by the unremitting rhythmic pattern suggestive of the city's mechanical pulse and the central section of melodic day-dreaming, which represents an imaginative escape from turmoil to scenes of distant peace. The writing is fresh and fanciful, and reminds one, not in technique but in the combination of nervous energy and romantic vitality, of Percy Grainger's eupeptic style.

The first movement from John Alden Finckel's trio in D minor for pianoforte and strings seemed at this hearing to have friendly affiliations with the French school of chamber music. At least, one felt that Gabriel Faure would have liked its harmonic color and its logical construction, without finding anything imitative in its ideas or expression.

A tinge of modernism in the last movement from Dorothy Radde Emery's trio in E minor placed it in opposition to Mr. Finckel's more conservative work. Without going to the atonal and polytonal extremities in which the radicals rejoice, Mrs. Emery writes in the contemporary idiom and expresses herself with clarity. As far as this one trio movement is concerned, her music has an irresistible urgency and an abundant life.

Edward C. Potter, who writes songs as a recreation after laborious scoring for orchestra, presented through the agency of Mr. Lawrie and Mr. Shure four lyrics of atmospheric charm. They are settings of William Ernest Henley's "The Passing Day," Robert Haven Schauffler's "Dusk and Dawn," and two poems—"Loneliness" and "I Lit Twin Candles"—by Katherine Smith, of The Washington Post staff.

Mr. Potter writes understandingly for the voice, and with a fine appreciation of the accents of the texts he uses. One might point out such details of sure craftsmanship as his treatment of the words "lingers as in content" and the harmonic shift on the word "changed" in the Henley poem; the subtle harmonic underlining of "a bird calls" in "Loneliness;" and the unresolved chord which supports the last "unanswered" word.

Louis Malone's Fantasie-Concerto, which closed the program, is a poetic work in which whimsy is given just enough play to justify the fantasie part of the title. A keen imagination is revealed in this music, which has a high vitality and suggestive power, a rich vein of poetry and more than a hint of humor. The technical writing is clean and precise, and contains no pitfalls for the player bent upon interpretation rather than display.

Jubilee In England Will Affect Politics

Labor Party Rise, Reemergence Of Lloyd George And MacDonald's Security Foreseen.

By Edward Acheson.
(Special Correspondence of The Post.)

London, Dec. 28 (By Mail).

THE new year in Great Britain is not merely a new year. Politically it stands in bold-faced type as the Jubilee Year. Furthermore, barring acts of God and the King's enemies, it will also contain a general election. The combination has lively possibilities.

To define or limit these possibilities is dangerous. But it is, I think, permissible to suggest what general tendencies emerged toward the end of the old year which seem to set the stage for 1935. Of these, three stand out in stronger relief—the first, significant as a fact, the second as a reasonable "off-chance," and the third because it constitutes an opinion very widely held and, I believe, equally incorrect.

In the first place, the steady growth of the Labor Party can not be denied. It is the basis upon which all political plans are being laid. If Labor were not suspected of having regained its losses of 1931 and if it were not suspected of adding daily to that figure, the national government would be only too happy to postpone the election until the end of the full five years of office which the law allows. But the by-elections have proved that Socialism is undoubtedly gaining momentum. So the present administration will follow by calling for an election when its chances seem brightest.

The longer the government waits, the more it will cut down its majority. Should the election be held as late as 1936, it is generally agreed that the National Party would not even have the chance traditionally accorded a Chinaman. On the other hand, the India bill must go through at all costs. So an "earliest and latest" is set and the time-schedule for politics in the New Year begins to become clearer in outline.

* * * *

THE India bill will certainly not become law before April. A spring election may follow. In an "ordinary" year it very possibly would, but 1935 is not an ordinary year. It is Jubilee Year and any government calling itself "National" would certainly be lacking in political acumen if it failed to take advantage of the national fervor whipped up by the pomp and circumstance of a King's Jubilee. Strong indications that the present government has no intention of overlooking this gratuity can be gathered from the ceremonies attendant upon the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, ceremonies which, I believe, no one can successfully deny were certainly adequate.

Therefore, since the summer, because of interference with crops, is usually considered an inappropriate time for a general election, it would seem that September or October affords the earliest opportunity. And the national government can, I think, be counted on to seize the earliest opportunity.

The second factor which may be counted on to shape the course of politics in the new year is the reemergence of Mr. Lloyd George with his loud cries for a "New Deal in Britain" and his program, the heart of which is the nationalization of the Bank of England. The fact that he has lifted the title from Mr. Roosevelt and the idea from the Labor Party is not significant when dealing with Mr. Lloyd George.

The thing that may be vitally important is the balance of power in the House of Commons after the next election. If, as some commentators believe, the two major parties fight to a near-draw, then Mr. Lloyd George, on any platform whatsoever, provided only that he can control ten or a dozen seats in the House, will blossom forth once again as a full-fledged national figure.

His sympathies and perhaps the future weight of his influence as between Labor and the Tories, can be gathered from his letter to the "Unknown Liberal" in Swindon advising him in the event that no Liberal candidate presented himself, to vote the Socialist ticket.

* * * *

THE third factor, the opinion which I believe will prove to have no basis in fact, is that the prime minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, is scheduled for the shelf, where rest England's discarded politicians, known as "the Elder Statesmen." This opinion has gained strength because of an incident which went almost unnoticed at the time. The closing speech in behalf of a measure as important as the first division on the India bill should, it was argued, be delivered by the head of the party by the prime minister himself.

But in this case Mr. MacDonald did not deliver the speech. Mr. Stanley Baldwin did. On long second thought, a number of people began to find this fact highly significant. It was felt that this was the first "skid" which the conservatives were placing under their former Labor national prime minister. Once rid of him, Mr. Baldwin would "take over" and immediately dissolve Parliament, fighting the election on the eve of the jubilee celebration.

Which is a possibility, but scarcely a probability. A much simpler explanation of the closing speech can, I think, be found in the fact that the vote against the government measure had grown considerably during the debate. A hundred and twenty-seven members were in opposition, which, deducting Labor's 50-odd, still leaves in the neighborhood of 75 national votes cast against the national government.

* * * *

IT would be reasonable to believe that Mr. Baldwin as head of the Conservative Party took that opportunity to corral his flock and put a stop to further desertion. Those who hold a differing opinion point to the fact that Mr. MacDonald has played a progressively unimportant role in the National Party, that his speeches become successively less informative, and that every important statement of policy is now made by either Mr. Baldwin or Sir John Simon.

These fragments, then, constitute the political prospect for the new year—a stronger Labor Party, even in the face of a jubilee year, the possibility of Mr. Lloyd George's return to influence, and a continuance of the national conservative coalition with its present leadership intact. In any event, the view is brighter. Political apathy breeds on enormous majorities. Any readjustment of power which gives promise of a "fair and square fight" will quicken Britain's interest in herself.

There is only one wholly tragic possibility—a Labor victory which does not result in a real working majority. England today must go somewhere. Another impotent Labor government will do more to undermine national confidence than the wildest reactionary measures of the die-hards, or the most orthodox socialism of Sir Stafford Cripps.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Women's Smoking Car.

The New Deal is working. The railroads are about to restore the smoking car to the men.

* * * *

A Western railroad set the pace the other day by bringing out a separate smoker for women, and it begins to look as if men would once again have a chance to revive their smoking-car stories.

* * * *

"Remember, there are ladies present!" has been the smoking car warning for the last few years. For years man's exclusive rights to the smoker were considered traditional, but that was before mother took to smoking and before Little Eva began rolling her own.

* * * *

Things had reached a point where a man would walk through five coaches only to reach the smoker and find all the best seats taken by women and children.

* * * *

Smoking-car stories have suffered a decline of 85 per cent since the boom years.

* * * *

Not so many years ago a woman entered a smoker only by mistake and screamed when she found where she was.

* * * *

It was one place a traveling man could have to himself.

* * * *

If he wanted privacy, so far as ladies were concerned, all he had to do was buy a bad cigar and go to the smoker.

* * * *

A man on a trip with his wife could always get away from her for a few hours by saying he wanted to have a smoke.

* * * *

But lately her retort has been, "Fine! I'll go with you; gimme a cigarette!"

* * * *

The days when women in smoking cars were considered to be divided into three classes—hussies, hussies and hussies—disappeared years ago, and the railroads have begun to realize it.

* * * *

The new smoker on the Western road will be exclusively for women inhalers. There will be special draperies, artistic ash trays and fireproof carpets. The men's smoker will remain the same dingy, dirty, unventilated caboose it always was, but there will be no kicking.

* * * *

After all, it's good to get it back again.

* * * *

You'll have to get out of here, madam! The women's and misses' smoker is four cars forward!

Ten Best.

Name the ten best plays last year,
Name the ten best brands of beer,
List in no uncertain terms
Ten of the most potent germs;
Name the ten worst dens of vice,
Name the Dionne "Quint-lets" twice,
Name the ten best portrait sketchers,
Landscape painters, sculptors, etchers;
Poets, punsters, gag-men, writers,
Swimmers, yachtsmen, wrestlers, fighters,
Name the ten best spots to dine . . .
Here's a break—Name only nine!

PHILIP LAZARUS.

Almost Kitchtuplets!

"The merriment continued until long after midnight and then after most every one had gone to bed an event anticipated in our news columns happened. Our cat had kitchens—three of them—and in the morning they were named after members of the expedition."—Lincoln Ellsworth.

Page Dr. Dafoe!

Add similes: as small as a Scotsman's tuition bill in the school of experience. DAVID MURRAY.

Sam Michael Gevins says many a girl took a look at her Christmas jewelry gifts this week and saw green.

(Copyright, 1935, Associated Newspapers.)

Loudoun Sells $856 Seals.

Purcellville, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Mrs. J. A. Speer, Purcellville, chairman of the Loudoun County Tuberculosis Association, today reported that the total sale of Christmas seals had reached $856. Reports from community chairmen are not complete.

Late Dr. Smith To Be Honored At Saint John's

Rev. H. C. Robbins to Pay Memorial Tribute to Former Rector.

At St. John's Church, Sixteenth and H streets, the Rev. Oliver J. Hart, D. D., pastor, memorial services will be conducted tomorrow at 11 a. m. for the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, D. D., who was rector here from 1902 to 1921.

Dr. Smith was born in New York, but made his home in Ipswich, Mass., where he died. The memorial address will be made by the Rev. Howard C. Robbins.

At the 7:45 o'clock evening service there will be a special choral Epiphany service. Dr. Hart will preach on "The Meaning of Epiph.any'

The Washington Cathedral, Mount St. Alban, Right Rev. James E. Freeman, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Washington.

The Feast of the Epiphany, which commemorates the manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles, will be observed tomorrow beginning with the celebration of the Holy Communion in the Bethlehem Chapel at 7:30 a. m., with Bishop Freeman officiating.

The special preacher at the service of morning prayer and Holy Communion in the Great Choir at 11 o'clock will be the Right Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, D. D., Bishop of Lexington, Ky., who is to deliver the sermon at this service during the four Sundays in January.

Bishop Freeman will deliver the sermon at the choral evensong service at 4 o'clock. He announces that a memorial service in tribute to Gen. Robert E. Lee will be held in the Great Choir at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, January 13.

Group pilgrimages for out of town worshipers will be held in the Cathedral immediately following the 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. services tomorrow.

St. John's Church, Norwood Parish, Bethesda, Wisconsin avenue and Bradley Lane, Chevy Chase, Md. Rev. J. E. Williams, rector.

Holy Communion and sermon will take place at 11 a. m. The rector will speak. The feast of Epiphany will be the topic. Holy Communion will be held at 7:30 and church school at 9:45. p. m.

All Souls' Memorial Episcopal Church, Cathedral and Connecticut avenues.

A Christmas and Epiphany pageant will be presented at the church tomorrow at 8:10 o'clock under auspices of the Junior Churchmen's League of St. George's Church, Clarendon, Va.

Epiphany Episcopal Church, Z. B. Phillips, rector. The rector will give a special "Feast of the Epiphany" sermon at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

At 4:30 the Washington Choral Society will repeat its candlelight service in the Epiphany Church.

The Rev. Harry L. Doll will deliver the sermon at evensong at 8 p. m.

Rock Creek Episcopal Church, the Rev. F. J. Bohanan, D. D., rector.

At 8 o'clock tomorrow evening the church will hold the "Feast of Lights" service in commemoration of the Epiphany.

St. John's Episcopal, the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxuliary of the Episcopal Church will be held on Tuesday at St. John's Church, Lafayette Square. Bishop Freeman will be the celebrant at the service of Holy Communion at 10:30. The business meeting will be held at 2 p. m. and Miss Clara Neeley, a missionary from Japan, will be the speaker.

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, at V and New Hampshire avenue. The Rev. A. J. Wilder, rector.

Holy Communion will be held at 8 a. m. and at 9:30 a. m. the rector will make an address. He will also preach at the 11 a. m. service on "The Living Past." Young Peoples Fellowship meeting will be at 8 p. m.

Dr. Miller Views 'Modern Religion'

National Christian Pastor Announces Topic.

The National Christian Church, Thomas Circle, Dr. R. H. Miller, pastor. "Is Modern Religion Religious?" is the topic tomorrow morning. Miss Mary M. Wilkins will be guest organist. At the evening service Dr. Miller will discuss "The Handwriting on the Wall."

Circles of the Woman's Council will meet Tuesday as follows: No. 1 at the home of Mrs. H. E. Burton, Naval Observatory, with Mrs. F. R. Egli assisting; No. 2 at the home of Mrs. John Grove, 204 Eleventh street northeast, with Mrs. Frank Hill and Mrs. H. E. Pywell assisting; No. 4 at the home of Mrs. Raymond Kidd, 4914 Seventh street, with Mrs. Julia White and Mrs. Nellie Abbott assisting; No. 5 at the social hall with Mrs. Lucy Salsbury and Mrs. H. P. Miller as hostesses; No. 6 at the home of Mrs. W. P. Sterns, 1333 Lamont street, with Mrs. Lucy Smither, Mrs. E. P. Dameron and Miss Brockman assisting.

Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park road, the Rev. A. P. Wilson, pastor.

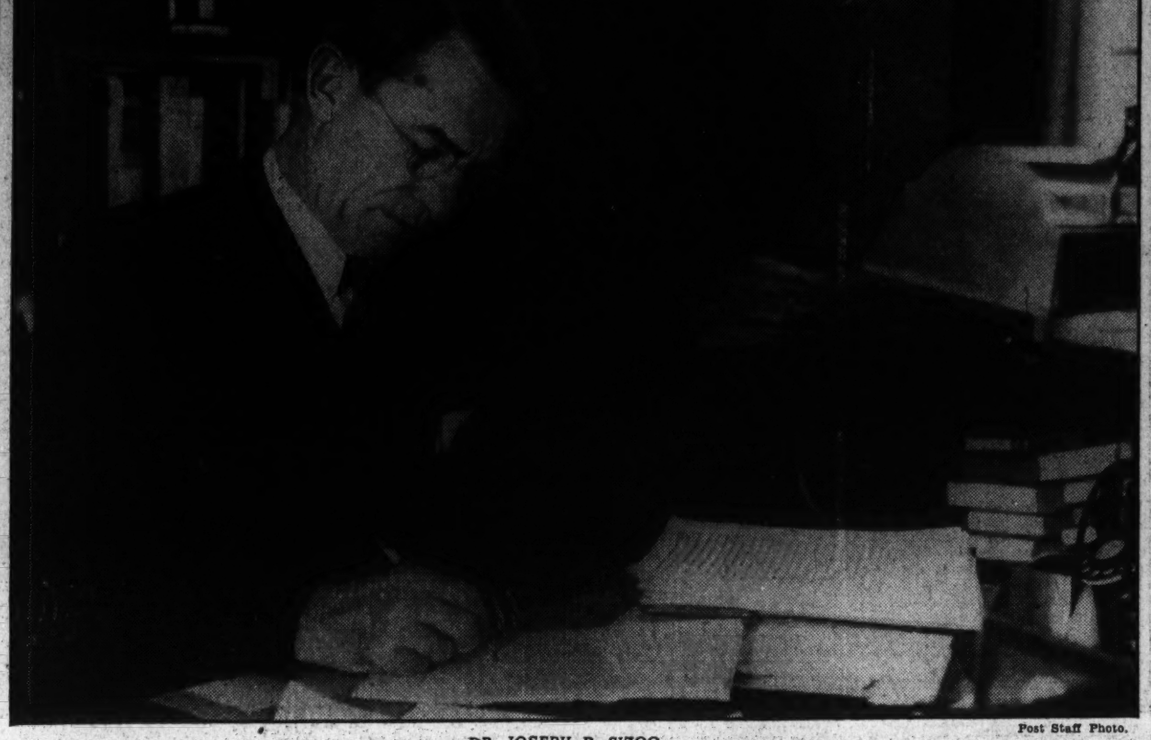
The topics for tomorrow will be, morning, "The Sermon Everyone Preaches;" evening, "The Tears of Jesus." Mr. and Mrs. Owen Walker, of Muncie, Ind., will have charge of the services for the next three weeks.

The H Street Christian Church, H and Sixth streets southwest, C. N. Williams, minister.

The Lord's Supper and a sermon entitled "Try Christ" will take place at the 11 a. m. service. The Christian Endeavor Society will meet at 7 p. m.

Apartments are rented quickly with Post Classified Ads. Just phone National 4200 and tell Post readers about your offer.

Presbyterian Pastor Prepares His Sunday Sermon



Post Staff Photo.

DR. JOSEPH R. SIZOO, minister of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, at work in his study. This is the second in a series of informal photographs of the Capital's ministers.

Former Envoy To Open Series Of Talks Here

William S. Culbertson to Speak Tomorrow on Hebrew Prophets.

William S. Culbertson, former Ambassador to Chile, will inaugurate a new series of addresses on "The Teachings of the Hebrew Prophets in the Life of Today," at the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church tomorrow. This Bible Class will start at 10 o'clock in the fireside room of the church house, 1229 Conneticut avenue northwest. The first subject will be "The Holy Bible, Translated Out of the Original Tongues in the Year of 1611 (King James Version)."

"Forward With God" will be the subject of the sermon by Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, at 11 a. m.

Chevy Chase Presbyterian, Dr. J. H. Hollister, pastor.

"Help Thou My Unbelief" will be the sermon subject tomorrow morning.

Central Presbyterian Church. The pastor, the Rev. James H. Taylor, D. D., will preach in the morning on "The Challenge of the New Year," and in the evening on "The Testimony of Jesus."

The Northminster Presbyterian Church, Eleventh street and Rhode Island avenue northwest. The Rev. Robert C. Simmons, pastor, will preach in the morning on "Christian Progress in the New Year."

Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, Maple and Tulip avenues. The Rev. R. Paul Schearrer, pastor, will preach in the morning on "The Christian Challenge;" 8 p. m., evening worship, with a sermon by the pastor on "John, a Son of Thunder and an Apostle of Love."

Arlington Presbyterian Church, Columbia Pike and Spring Hill road, Arlington, Va., the Rev. Walter F. Wolf, pastor.

The morning worship will be held at 11 o'clock, with the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

New York Avenue Presbyterian, The Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, D. D., pastor. Tomorrow morning's sermon will be entitled "The Lure of the Unknown." Beginning tomorrow night, Dr. Sizoo will give a series of evening sermons, the general theme of which will be "In the Making of Life."

Dr. L. W. DeGast, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will speak tomorrow on "Some of the Questions Confronting Youth Today."

"Pour Ceux Qui Ont Peur" will be the subject of the sermon by the Rev. Andre Frank Liotard at the French service.

Carole Lombard on Vacation.

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP).—Carole Lombard, movie actress, applied for a passport today, announcing she will leave Monday for New York on a vacation trip to Paris.

Hamline To Mark Church Anniversary

Ninth Year of Edifice's Dedication to Be Observed With Rev. Dr. James S. Montgomery, Chaplain of the House, as Guest Preacher.

The ninth anniversary of the dedication of Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church, Sixteenth and Allison streets northwest, will be observed tomorrow and next Sunday. The Rev. Dr. James S. Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, will be the guest preacher tomorrow at 11 a. m. Special music will be furnished by the choir under the direction of John H. Marville, with Miss Edith B. Athey at the organ. In the evening the minister, Dr. H. W. Burgan, will preach.

The church was dedicated January 3, 1926, by Bishop William F. McDowell, LL. D., then Resident Bishop of the Washington Area. Ground was broken July 28, 1924, by President Coolidge. The present church is an amalgamation of the old Hamline Church at Ninth and P streets northwest, and the Iowa Avenue Church, at Iowa avenue and Emerson street.

Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Massachusetts avenue at Ninth street northwest, the Rev. W. Angie Smith, D. D., pastor.

"A Holy Memorial" is the subject selected by Dr. Smith for his sermon at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Thursday at 8 p. m., Dr. Smith will conclude his series of messages on "The Beatitudes."

Francis Asbury M. E. Church, South, Sixteenth street northwest, between Irving and Lamont streets, the Rev. Edgar C. Beery, minister.

"The Dimensions of Stewardship" will be the subject of Dr. Beery's sermon at 11 a. m. tomorrow. At 8 p. m. he will speak on the "Springs of Stewardship."

Langdon Methodist Episcopal, Evarts street northeast, near Twenty-fourth street, the Rev. Henry H. Rowland, pastor. Sunday Schools will be held at 9:45. Reception of members and sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be at 11 o'clock.

Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, Connecticut avenue and Jocelyn street, the Rev. J. Luther Neff, pastor.

Morning worship will be held at 11 a. m. The Young People will meet at 6 p. m. The Women's Guild and the Missionary Society will meet Tuesday at 10:30 a. m.

Foundry Methodist Episcopal, Sixteenth and Church streets, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, D.D., pastor.

At the morning service the minister will preach on "From the Crib to the Cross." He also will administer the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant Church, First street and Rhode Island avenue northwest, the Rev. R. Y. Nicholdon, D. D., pastor.

Holy Communion will be held at the 11 a. m. service.

Waugh Methodist Episcopal Church, Third and A streets northeast, the Rev. Allen F. Poore, pastor.

Holy Communion will be held at 11 a. m. "Better Than Human Sympathy" is the title of the 8 p. m. service.

Clarendon Methodist Episcopal South, Clarendon and Taylor avenues, the Rev. John H. Pearson, pastor.

At the 11 a. m. service "Covenant Sunday" will be observed. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered.

Douglas Memorial M. E. Church, Eleventh and H streets northeast, the Rev. Clarence H. Corkran, pastor.

Sunday will be registration day. The pastor will administer Holy Communion at the morning service.

Dumbarton Avenue Methodist Episcopal, Dumbarton avenue near Wisconsin avenue, the Rev. Walter F. Atkinson, pastor.

Holy Communion and reception of new members will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow. Adult classes of the church school will meet at 10 a. m.

Metropolitan Memorial Church, Nebraska avenue near Massachusetts avenue, Dr. Chesteen, minister.

"The Call of Christ for a New Day" will be the theme of the pastor's 11 a. m. sermon.

McKendree Methodist Episcopal, Massachusetts avenue between Ninth and Tenth streets northwest, the Rev. Samuel E. Rose, pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Ward will be in charge of the musical service tomorrow at 8 p. m.

Central Methodist Episcopal Church South, Bethesda, Lacy Smith will speak at the morning service tomorrow in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. John C. Blakemore.

Chevy Chase Methodist Episcopal Church. There will be Holy Communion at the 11 o'clock service with the pastor, the Rev. Edward G. Latch, presiding.

Petworth Methodist Episcopal, the Rev. R. L. Wood, pastor.

A new year's service entitled "Open Doors" will be held at Petworth Methodist Episcopal Church, New Hampshire avenue at Grant circle, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. A special musical program, including the heart-warming song service, will be the feature of the service.

Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. D. L. Ennis, D. D., pastor.

Holy Communion will be observed at 11 a. m. tomorrow. A short sermon will be preached by the minister at 8 p. m.

Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Vernon N. Ridgely, D. D., minister.

Dr. Vernon N. Ridgley will conduct the observance of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the morning worship service at 11 o'clock. At the 8 o'clock service he will preach on the theme: "New Men," and the usual song service at the beginning of the service will be conducted by Louis A. Potter.

Eldbrooke Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Walter M. Michael, pastor.

Holy Communion will be observed. The sacrament of Baptism will be administered and new members will be received into the church at the 11 a. m. service. Evening service will be held at 8 o'clock. The pastor will preach on "Praying With a Purpose."

Poderjay Sails Wednesday.

Vienna, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Ivan Poderjay, wanted in New York in connection with the disappearance of Miss Agnes Tufverson, lawyer, will be extradited to the United States aboard the export liner Exeter from Genoa Wednesday.

Dr. Blackwelder Opens Series Of Sermons in City Tomorrow

The Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 3601 Connecticut avenue northwest, the Rev. Oscar F. Blackwelder, D. D., pastor.

Dr. Blackwelder will preach tomorrow at 11 a. m. on "The Value of Tomorrow."

At 8 p. m. Dr. Blackwelder will begin a series of sermons entitled "The Need of Personal Power in a Changing World," when he preaches on "The Place of Power."

St. Paul's Lutheran, Connecticut avenue and Everett street northwest, the Rev. Henry W. Snyder, D. D., pastor.

The 11 a. m. service will feature a sermon by the pastor, "Modern Wise Men."

St. Mark's Lutheran, Eighth and Independence avenue, the Rev. J. Luther Frantz, pastor.

The 11 a. m. New Year's sermon by the pastor will be "Out Into the Deep."

Grace Lutheran Church, Sixteenth and Varnum streets northwest, the Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski, pastor.

Services tomorrow will be held in observance of Epiphany.

Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle, the Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen, D. D., pastor.

Mr. Rasmussen will speak at the 11 a. m. service, taking as his topic "Many Shall Come From the East and From the West."

Christ Lutheran Church, Sixteenth and Gallatin streets northwest, the Rev. J. Frederic Wenchel, pastor.

At 10:20 o'clock the Sacrament of the Altar will be held with a preparatory service. At the 11 o'clock service the festival of the Epiphany will be celebrated.

Dr. G. S. Duncan Will Give Talk On Egyptology

Member of American U. Faculty to Address Grace Brotherhood.

Grace Lutheran Brotherhood will present Dr. George S. Duncan, a member of the American University faculty and an authority on Egyptology, Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Sunday school room, Grace Lutheran Church, Sixteenth and Varnum streets northwest, in an illustrated lecture portraying ancient and modern Egypt.

Albright Memorial Evangelical Church, Fourth and Rittenhouse streets northwest. Tomorrow morning will hear the minister, the Rev. George E. Schmabel, open a series of sermons on "The Rediscovery of the Soul." His subject will be "Jesus Christ—King or Beggar?"

The evening service will begin at 7:45 with songs under the direction of Gordon Barnes. The last in a series of sermons on "Problems of Youth" will be preached.

Potomac Heights Community Church, Cathedral avenue and Conduit road, the Rev. O. J. Randall, pastor.

Holy Communion will be held at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The morning sermon theme will be "Our Membership Covenant," and in the evening, "The Call to Penitence and Prayer."

Christian Endeavor meeting will be at 7 p. m.

Washington Hebrew Congregation, 816 Eighth street northwest, the Rev. Abram Simon, D. D., rabbi. This morning's sermon will be a lesson on the Biblical Portion.

Memorial United Brethren, North Capitol and R streets, the Rev. Simpson B. Daugherty, D. D., pastor.

Services for the day are as follows: Sunday school at 9:40 a. m., preaching services at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., Young People's meetings at 7 p. m. At 11 a. m. the pastor will speak on "Visiting That Uncrowned Self," and in the evening on "What Can I Do in 1935?"

The Church of Christ, 3460 Fourteenth street, James H. McBroom, pastor. The pastor will speak at 11 a. m. on "Faith in the Future," and at 7:45 p. m. on "Keeping Our Hearts."

The First Brethren Church, Twelfth and E streets southeast, Homer A. Kent, pastor.

The pastor will speak at 11 a. m. on "This Month Shall Be Unto You the Beginning of Months."

All Souls' Church (Unitarian), Sixteenth and Harvard streets northwest, the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, D. D., pastor.

The pastor will speak at the 11 a. m. service on "All Things New."

John Dickson Home for Aged Men, 5000 Fourteenth street northwest. Services will be held at 3:30 tomorrow.

Universalist National Memorial Church, Sixteenth and S streets, Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, D. D., pastor.

"Judge or Saviour" will be the sermon topic tomorrow morning.

Christian Science Churches—"God" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow.

Lutheran Mission, Bethesda, State Theater Building, the Rev. Henry J. Whiting, pastor.

The pastor will preach on "The True Light" tomorrow morning at 11 a. m. at the State Theater in Bethesda.

Warren Schantz, the superintendent of the church school, is now engaged in enrolling members for the church school which will begin in the near future.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL SOUTH.

MOUNT VERNON PLACE SOUTHERN METHODISM'S REPRESENTATIVE CHURCH
Massachusetts Ave. at Ninth St. N.W.
11:00 a. m.—"A Holy Memorial."
8:00 p. m.—"A Young Man's Vision."
DR. W. ANGIE SMITH

Baptist Church Plans to Hold Special Meeting

Pastor of Metropolitan to Use New Year Motto as Sermon Basis.

The Metropolitan Baptist Church will hold special services tomorrow. In the morning the pastor, the Rev. John Compton Ball, will use the church motto for the New Year as the basis of his sermon. The motto is "Launch Out Into the Deep." A number of new members will be received, and the ordinance of the Lord's Supper administered.

The ordinance of baptism will open the evening service. The Bible School classes and other organizations will sit in groups in reserved sections. The sermon topic will be "The Gripping Word for a Slipping World."

First Baptist Church, the Rev. Rufus W. Weaver, D. D., pastor.

"The Relation of the Christian Church to Government" will be the sermon subject tomorrow morning. It will be the first of a series during January on "Our National Life and Our Christian Faith." In the evening the service will be in charge of the Luther Rice Bible Class, with Russell Ellzey and Prof. Oscar Autritt as speakers.

National Baptist Memorial Church, 3121 Thirteenth street northwest, the Rev. Grove S. Johnson, D. D., pastor.

Tomorrow morning's topic will be "The Hidden Life," followed by the Lord's Supper. In the evening, Dr. Johnson will speak on "What Jesus Preached—The Reality of Evil and the Evil One."

West Washington Baptist Church, Thirty-first and N streets northwest, the Rev. Charles B. Austin, pastor.

The pastor will preach at 8 p. m. on "Jesus Our Model." He will begin his thirteenth year as pastor tomorrow.

Bethesda Baptist, the Rev. B. M. Osgood, pastor. Services are to be held in the Masonic Temple, 7002 Wisconsin avenue, Bethesda.

H. Linton, of Washington, will speak tomorrow evening at the gospel service. Miss Eliza Choate, contralto, of Rockville, with Miss Verdi Kingdon, as accompanist, will sing.

Second Baptist, the Rev. J. L. S. Hollman, pastor.

The pastor will speak at the 11 a. m. service on "Wise Kingdom Builders." At the evening service he will preach on "An Acceptable Sacrifice." The Bible School will meet at 9:30 a. m.

Fifth Baptist, the Rev. John E. Briggs, D. D., pastor.

The subject of the 11 a. m. sermon will be "All Things Work Together."

Mount Carmel Baptist, the Rev. W. H. Jernagin, minister.

The Rev. S. L. Johnson, D. D., of Virginia, who is preaching a series of sermons on "God's Methods of Financing the Kingdom," will speak at 11 a. m. tomorrow. At 3:30 p. m. the subject will be "The Holy Ghost Church." At the 8 p. m. service the topic is "Financing the Kingdom by Giving."

First Baptist Church, Hyattsville, Md., the Rev. B. P. Robertson, pastor.

"Our Goals for the New Year" will be his subject at the 11 a. m. service.

Chevy Chase Baptist, the Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor.

"Christianity and the Modern World," will be the title of a series of evening sermons which will be inaugurated tomorrow. The subjects to be considered will be: 1, "Christianity and Fascism;" 2, "Christianity and Nazism;" 3, "Christianity and Communism;" 4, "A Christian Social Order."

At the morning service at 11 o'clock, the ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed. Mr. Clark will give a brief meditation on "Our Motto for 1935." The young people will meet at 6:45 p. m.

BAPTIST.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Sixteenth and O Sts. N. W.
Dr. S. J. Porter, Pastor Emeritus.
Dr. R. W. Weaver, Minister.
11 a. m.—"The Relation of the Christian Religion to Government," by Dr. Weaver. (First in series of sermons on "Our National Life and Our Christian Faith.")
8 P. M.—Service in charge of the Luther Rice (Young Men's) Bible Class. Speakers: Hon. Russell Ellzey and Prof. Oscar Autritt.
Come to Sunday School. 9:30 a. m.
Fine classes; interesting teachers.
B. Y. P. U., 6:45 p. m.
Social Hour, 6 p. m.

CHRISTIAN.

THE NATIONAL CITY
Thomas Circle.
Dr. R. H. Miller, Rev. J. R. Mills, Ministers.
9:45 a. m.—Bible School.
10:50 a. m.—"Is Modern Religion Religious?"
7:45 p. m.—"The Handwriting On the Wall."

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS CHRISTIAN CHURCH
1435 Park Road
Rev. A. P. Wilson will preach
Owen Walker will sing
Next Sunday

CONGREGATIONAL.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
Tenth and G sts. nw.
Allen A. Stockdale, D. D., Minister.
Dr. Stockdale preaches, 11 a. m., "The Heart of Christianity." 8 p. m., "Drunken Driver." Thursday—Church Night Supper, 6 p. m. 6:45. Dr. Stockdale speaks on "The Value of Some Quiet Time."

"Go Forward!"
A Message of Faith and Hope For 1935.
By Rev. Russell J. Clinchy
At Mt. Pleasant Church
Tomorrow at 11 a. m.
Church School at 9:30 a. m.
Adult Forum at 10 a. m.
Young People's Groups at 6 p. m.
1410 Columbia Road.
Phone Ad. 4614.

Church Leader Says 'Damned' But Goes Free

Judge Says Such Language to Officer Is Not Disorderly Conduct.

In a little dissertation on swearing, Police Court Judge Isaac R. Hitt yesterday ruled that the use of the phrase "damned unreasonable" to a traffic officer, does not constitute disorderly conduct.

The decision dismissed the charge against Clayton C. Marsh, of 2910 Twentieth street northwest, who told the judge that he was superintendent of the Brookland Baptist Church Sunday School. The charge had been placed by Traffic Bureau Policeman George M. Patton.

Patton arrested Marsh Thursday on Seventh street for parking between 4 and 6 p. m. Marsh testified that he told the officer that he was merely waiting a few minutes while a companion went into a grocery store. In the argument, Marsh told Patton he was "damned unreasonable."

Judge Hitt declared that if all Washingtonians who used the word "damn" were haled into court for disorderly conduct, court would be quite crowded. Damn is not profanity, he said, even if it is "slightly strong language."

The case of the traffic violation was settled in Traffic Court. There Marsh was found guilty, with the court taking his personal bond not to repeat the offense.

New Health Officer Waits Sultan's Return

Selection of a new health officer for the District will not be made until after the return of Lieut. Col. Daniel I. Sultan, Engineer Commissioner, next week, Commissioner George E. Allen said yesterday. Col. Sultan is in Mississippi attending the funeral of his mother. He is expected back Monday or Tuesday.

Dr. George C. Ruhland, of Columbia University, who formerly was health commissioner of Syracuse, N. Y., is regarded as the outstanding candidate. The Commissioners are expected to ask White House approval of their selection.

V. F. W. Official to Speak.

George K. Brobeck, national legislative officer of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be a guest speaker at the meeting of Montgomery Post, No. 2958, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tuesday night in the County Building at Bethesda. Commander J. M. Rowe will preside.

UNITARIAN.

ALL SOULS' CHURCH
Sixteenth and Harvard Streets
Minister
ULYSSES G. B. PIERCE, D. D.
9:45 a. m.—Church School.
11:00 a. m.—Morning Worship.
"ALL THINGS NEW"
5:00 p. m.—Program of Debussy Music.
5:30 p. m.—Travel Chat—"Iceland."
7:30 p. m.—Motion Picture Hour—"Handy Andy."

Episcopal

Washington Cathedral
Wisconsin and Massachusetts Avenues and Woodley Road.
Holy Communion 7:30 a. m.
Holy Communion and Sermon. Preacher, The Right Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, D. D., Bishop of Lexington 11:00 a. m.
People's Evensong and Sermon. Preacher, The Bishop of Washington 4:00 p. m.

Rock Creek Church
Founded A. D. 1719.
Rock Creek Church rd. and Webster st.
Rev. F. J. Bohanan, D. D., Rector.
Services, 8:30 a. m. and 11 a. m.

Church of The Epiphany
1317 G St. N.W.
REV. Z. B. PHILLIPS, D. D., LL. D.
Rev HARRY LEE DOLL, B. D.
8:00 a. m.—Holy Communion.
9:30 a. m.—Church School.
11:00 a. m.—Holy Communion and Sermon by the Rector.
4:30 p. m.—Candlelight Carol Service.
8:00 p. m.—Evening Prayer and Sermon by the Rev. Mr. Doll.

ST. ANDREW'S V AND NEW HAMPSHIRE
Rev. A. J. Wilder, S. T. B., Rector.
Holy Communion, 8 a. m.
Service and Sermon, 11 a. m.
Preacher, the Rector.

ST. AGNES'
46 Que Street N.W.
(Fla. Ave. or North Capitol St. Car.)
REV. V. O. ANDERSON, RECTOR.
Sundays.
7:00 a. m.—Low Mass.
9:30 a. m.—Sunday School.
11:00 a. m.—Sung Mass and Sermon.
8:00 p. m.—Evensong. Benediction.
Week Days.
7:00 a. m.—Low Mass, every day.
9:30 a. m.—Low Mass, Thursday.
8:00 p. m.—Intercessions, Fridays

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH
LAFAYETTE SQUARE
CLERGY.
The Rev. OLIVER J. HART, D. D., Rector
The Rev. JAMES F. MADISON, Curate.
8:00 a. m.—Holy Communion.
9:45 a. m.—Church School.
11:00 a. m.—Memorial Service for Dr. ROLAND COTTON SMITH. Address by the Rev. HOWARD C. ROBBINS, D. D., of New York.
7:45 p. m.—Special Choral Epiphany Service and Sermon by the rector.
VISITORS WELCOME.

Church to Open Adult Forum In Mt. Pleasant

Many Topics on Calendar of Congregational Organization.

The relation of arms manufacturers to the public, the Civilian Conservation Corps, and a description of ancient, medieval and modern zoos are some of the subjects to be discussed on the mid-winter program of the Adult Forum of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, which begins at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Among the speakers will be Col. Robert Fechner, director of the CCC; Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser to the Secretary of Agriculture; Dr. W. M. Mann, director of the Washington Zoo, and Joseph C. Green, of the State Department.

Tomorrow, Dr. E. Dana Durand, senior economist, Tariff Commission, will speak on "The Tariff Problem."

First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, the Rev. Allen A. Stockdale, D. D., pastor.

Dr. Stockdale will preach at both services tomorrow. His sermon subject at 11 a. m. will be "The Heart of Christianity." In the evening he will speak on "Drunken Drivers."

The Sunday school convenes at 9:45 o'clock. The Young People's Society meets at 6:30.

Lincoln Congregational Temple, Eleventh and R streets northwest, Dr. R. W. Brooks, pastor.

Dr. Brooks will speak tomorrow on "Justifying Our Claim."

The Men's Brotherhood will meet at 10 a. m. Dr. W. M. Hales, parole director, will speak.

Cleveland Park Congregational, Thirty-fourth and Lowell streets northwest, the Rev. D. Butler Pratt, pastor.

The subject of the 11 a. m. worship service will be "What Religion Means to Me."

UNIVERSALIST.

UNIVERSALIST NATIONAL MEMORIAL CHURCH
Cor. 16th and S Sts. N.W.
Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, D. D.
10:15—Church School.
11:00—Service of Worship.
"Judge or Savior?"
National Capital Choir.
Albert W. Harned, Mus. Doc.

Church of the Reformation
Opposite Folger Shakespeare Library.
Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder, Pastor.
Dr. John Weidler, Pastor Emeritus.
Church School at 9:30 A. M.
Morning Worship at 11:00
"The Value of Tomorrow"
Luther League at 6:45 P. M.
Evening Worship at 8:00
"The Place of Power"
You Are Cordially Invited.

Presbyterian

CHURCH OF THE PILGRIMS
ON THE PARKWAY
At 22d and P sts. nw.
Gift of the Presbyterians of the South to the Nation's Capital.
REV. ANDREW REID BIRD
Minister.
Divine Worship at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.
A CORDIAL WELCOME TO YOU.

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN
Southern General Assembly
16th and Irving Sts. N.W.
DR. JAMES H. TAYLOR, PASTOR
9:30 a. m.—Sunday School.
11:00 a. m.—Morning Worship. Sermon by Dr. Taylor.
8:00 p. m.—Evening Worship. Sermon by Dr. Taylor

NEW YORK AVENUE CHURCH
13th and H and N. Y. Ave.
Ministers:
DR. JOSEPH R. SIZOO
DR. ALBERT EVANS
11:00 A. M.—
"The Lure of the Unknown."
8:00 P. M.—
"The Place of Aspiration."

SERVICE FRANCAIS
New York Avenue Church.
13th and H Sts. and New York Ave.
Dr. Florian Vurpillot, Fondateur et Pasteur Honoraire de la Congregation Francaise.
Andre Frank Liotard, Pasteur.
Dimanche a 4 heures sermon par M. Liotard. "Pour Ceux Qui Ont Peur."

COVENANT-FIRST
(To become the National Presbyterian Church.)
Just above the Mayflower.
"FORWARD WITH GOD"
Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney preaching
Sunday School for all grades, 9:45.
DR. WILLIAM S. CULBERTSON'S CLASS, 10 a. m. Teachings of the Hebrew Prophets in the Life of Today.

• Christian Science •
Churches of Christ Scientist, Branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.
First Church of Christ, Scientist, Columbia rd. and Euclid st.
Second Church of Christ, Scientist, 111 C st. ne.
Third Church of Christ, Scientist, 13th and L sts. nw.
Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist 16th and Meridian sts. nw.
SUBJECT:
"GOD"
SERVICES:
SUNDAY, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.
SUNDAY SCHOOL, 11 a. m.
WEDNESDAY EVENING MEETINGS, 8 o'Clock.
READING ROOMS:
FIRST CHURCH, 730 17th st. NW.—Hours, 9 to 9 (except Wednesdays, 9 to 7, and Sundays and holidays, 2:30 to 5:30).
SECOND CHURCH, 111 C st. ne.—Hours, 1:30 to 5:30 week days; 2:30 to 5:30 Sundays and holidays.
THIRD CHURCH, Colorado Bldg., 14th and G sts.—Hours, 9:30 to 9 (except Wednesdays, 9:30 to 7:30; Sundays and holidays, 2:30 to 5:30).
FOURTH CHURCH, Tivoli Bldg., 3313 14th st.—Hours, 9 to 9 week days; Wednesdays, 9 to 7:30; Sundays, 2:30 to 5:30; holidays, 2:30 to 7:30.
All are welcome to attend our church services and use our reading rooms.

Standard Oil's Layoff Starts; Huey Is Silent

Employes Await Answer of Roosevelt to Their Appeal.

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 4 (AP).—The Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana today began an "orderly" layoff of employes at its huge plant here, in accordance with plans announced yesterday, to curtail its Louisiana operations because of the 5-cent-a-barrel refining tax recently imposed by Senator Huey Long's Legislature.

Many employes reporting to work today were informed that after Monday they would not be needed. The exact number thus notified could not be determined, as company officials were silent, but unconfirmed reports fixed the dismissals at 800. The plant normally employs around 3,000. Simultaneously, reports circulated that the company already has diverted many thousands of barrels of business to its refineries in other State.

Senator Long continued silent regarding the company's announcement, his only comment being he didn't "know nothing about the oil row."

While a special committee of 27, representing Standard Oil employes here, awaited an answer to their appeal to President Roosevelt for "orderly relief" from what they termed a "denial of the republican form of government guaranteed by the Constitution," plans went forward for a huge mass meeting here Saturday night, to which employes of all oil refineries in the State have been invited.

Parrish Enters Plea of Guilty

Held for the Grand Jury in Shooting of Mears After Quarrel.

Blinking mildly from behind tortoise-shell spectacles, Henry B. Parrish, who surrendered Thursday in the shooting Tuesday of John M. Mears, pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon in Police Court yesterday.

He was released under $2,500 bond by Judge Isaac Hitt, to await action of the grand jury.

Meanwhile, physicians at Emergency Hospital, where Mears was taken after the .32-caliber bullet from Parrish's pistol entered his body, was pronounced out of danger by physicians. His recovery is a matter of several weeks, they said.

The shooting occurred in a rooming house operated by Parrish in the 800 block of Nineteenth street northwest. The two men are said to have quarreled over Parrish's rooming house manager, Mrs. Myrtle Doolittle.

Giddap, Napoleon, There's No Restin' Yer Bones Here

Chestertown, Md., Jan. 4 (AP). Workmen digging a cellar for a house to be built on Cross street today uncovered the bones of "Napoleon," a famous horse of this section.

Local historians say "Napoleon" was the first horse to draw a sleigh on the ice that covered Chester River. It was owned by Simon Wickes about 75 years ago.

Court Ruling Harmful To Dairys, Says Agent

Richmond, Va., Jan. 4 (AP).—J. S. Agnew, chairman of the State milk commission which had its functioning declared unconstitutional by a supreme court decision on which a rehearing now is sought, today asserted milk markets in Newport News, Charlottesville and Lynchburg are suffering from price cutting as result of the court's action.

His statement was made to Agricultural Adjustment Administration officials from Washington holding a hearing here on a proposed amendment of the Federal milk license for the Richmond milkshed which would make prices paid to producers a matter of law rather than agreement.

Chevy Chase Y. W. C. A. To Elect on Tuesday

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Chevy Chase Chapter, Young Woman's Christian Association, will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Ben Temple Webster, 30 West Irving street, Chevy Chase, Md.

Members of the nominating committee are Mrs. Edward G. Yonker, Mrs. Joseph P. Brantley and Mrs. John L. Weaver. A successor is to be named for Mrs. Harold E. Doyle, who is completing two years as president, and is not eligible to serve longer. Mrs. Brantley and Mrs. Sybil Gile will assist Mrs. Webster in entertaining at tea after the meeting.

Women's Progress Topic Of Mrs. Fickel Monday

Mrs. June Fickel will speak on "Progress of Woman's Organizations" at the January meeting of the Chevy Chase branch of the Woman's Democratic Club of Montgomery County, Monday at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Robert E. Kline, jr., 3 Primrose street, Chevy Chase. Mrs. Fickel is assistant director of the woman's division of the National Democratic Committee. Mrs. Ralph W. Berry will preside.

Following the business meeting, a musical program will be given by Miss Helen Williams, of the Whitecroft School of Music, and Miss Janet Coons.

U.S. Employes Form Nucleus Of Orchestra

30 to Date Respond to Treasury Clerk's Call for Symphony.

Federal employes in Washington have their bowling leagues, bridge teams, baseball nines and dramatic clubs and now, if a certain young clerk in the Treasury Department has anything to do with it, they are going to have their own symphony orchestra.

And Carl Hofer, that certain clerk, has had this much to do with it in the last few weeks: He has posted in the various Government buildings notices to musicians, who must be Federal or District workers to be eligible; he has attended rehearsals of the National Symphony Orchestra to get professional pointers from Hans Kindler and he has enrolled about 30 members to date for the Federal Symphony Orchestra.

"So far," he says, "we have 11 violins, a viola, one string bass, one French horn, three trumpets, a trombone, two oboes, three flutes, two clarinets, a drummer and a pianist."

A pianist himself and formerly the conductor of a dance orchestra in Cincinnati, Hofer hopes to have upward of 50 pieces at the first rehearsal.

Auditions are being held at "headquarters," 5522 Carolina place northwest, which is the home of the orchestra's secretary, Mildred E. Saunders.

Nelson P. Webster, White House Clerk For 37 Years, Dies

Nelson P. Webster, employed at the White House for 37 years until his official retirement a few weeks ago, died yesterday at the Home for Incurables.

In failing health for more than a year, Mr. Webster's condition became serious four months ago, and he was transferred to the home. He was 74 years old.

Born on a farm in Iowa, Mr. Webster came to Washington in 1892 as a clerk in the Postoffice Department. Later he became a clerk in the War Department, where he was employed at the time he was appointed to the White House staff as a clerk in 1897, during the McKinley Administration.

Although Mr. Webster had just passed 70 when the compulsory retirement law became effective, President Hoover issued an executive order granting him indefinite extension "because of his indispensible services." At the time of his official retirement, he received a complimentary letter from President Roosevelt.

Mr. Webster is survived by his wife.

Child Awaits News Of $150,000 Prize

Joyce Cissell's Ticket May Have Won in Madrid.

"Castles in Spain" was more than just an idle phrase to 8-year-old Joyce Cissell yesterday. For by tonight this little third-year pupil at Immaculata Seminary expects to know whether she is to share in a $150,000 lottery prize originating in Madrid.

Capt. Colon Eloy Alfaro, Ecuadorean Minister to the United States, presented to Joyce for Christmas a section of a lottery ticket, purchased some time ago, which is believed to be one of those drawn on December 28. Capt. Alfaro is a friend of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Cissell, who live at the Chastleton Hotel.

As a sort of conditioner for the expected good news, Joyce was brought downtown yesterday by her mother for a hair trim and to go window shopping.

President's Son to Take Medicine as Speeder

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., son of the President, plans to go to Orange, Conn., tomorrow to "take his medicine" as an alleged speeder and red-light flouter, he said tonight.

"I will go to Orange tomorrow if it is convenient for Prosecutor Torrance," said young Roosevelt, who was "nabbed" at Orange while he and his brother, John, were hurrying to Washington for the Christmas holidays. Franklin is a sophomore at Harvard.

Paris Woman Shares In Col. Drexel Estate

Philadelphia, Jan. 4 (AP).—Mme. Helene Barth, handsome middle-aged Parisienne, is the principal immediate beneficiary of the will of Col. Anthony J. Drexel, millionaire friend of royalty, it was found when the document was filed for probate today.

He left her a $25,000 legacy and the life income from trust funds of $500,000, with the provision that most of the latter reverts to his residuary legatees at her death. Her son, Rene Jean-Pierre, receives $50,000 of it in trust at her death.

DRAFTING MATERIALS! MUTH 710 13th N.W.

EDUCATIONAL.

Shenandoah Valley Academy

A military School for Boys. Accredited by all Universities and Colleges. West Point, Annapolis. Healthy location. Experienced teachers, individual attention. Large Gymnasium. Swimming Pool, all athletics, riding lessons. For catalogue address: COL. B. M. ROSZEL, Ph. D., O. R. C., Box F, Winchester, Va.

Bank Accepts Melvin Offer

Judges Approve Woman's Proposed Settlement at Frederick.

Frederick, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Judge Arthur D. Willard, in an order filed in the circuit court, authorized John J. Ghingher, State bank commissioner and receiver for the closed Central Trust Co., to accept the offer of stock liability settlement of Mrs. Meta Lamar Melvin, of West Virginia.

The action of the court was taken on a petition of Mr. Ghingher, relating to the settlement. The petition stated that the late John C. Lamar, of this county, owned 400 shares of the Central Trust Co. stock which he bequeathed in his will to his wife, Mrs. Meta Jenkins Lamar. Later Mrs. Lamar married Dr. Melvin. In addition to the 400 shares of her husband she also owns 195 shares, all of which is subject to the $10-per-share liability assessment.

At the time the bank closed Mrs. Lamar had a savings account of $4,906.51 and a checking account of $435.25. The 6 per cent dividend made by the receiver amounted to $320.51, which was credited against her stock liability of $1,950 and a participating certificate was issued to her for the balance of her deposit, $5,021.25.

Mrs. Lamar offered to give her participating certificate in full payment of the liability assessment on the shares of stock in her name and further agreed to convert enough of the assets of the estate of her former husband, John C. Lamar, to pay the full assessment o' $4,000 on the 400 shares in his name. The court agreed to this settlement.

Suit Hits Failure To Rebuild Bridge

$10,000 Damages Asked by Property Owner.

Salisbury, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Because the Cathell street bridge has not been restored since it was destroyed in the storm of August 23, 1933, Lloyd A. Richardson has field suit asking $10,000 damages from the mayor and council and the board of county commissioners.

The declaration filed by former Judge Robert F. Duer, Richardson's attorney, asserts destruction of the bridge has made inaccessible, except by a circuitous route, a three-story building owned by Richardson and situated on Cathell street near the site of the bridge.

As a "direct result of the failure and refusal of the defendants to reconstruct the bridge," the declaration adds, "the value of the building has greatly diminished," tenants have vacated it and the plaintiff is "unable to use or rent it for any purpose whatever."

Rain Melts 'Imported' Snow, Berkeley Calls Off Ski Event

Even the Scientific Coppers Are Powerless to Help as Hillside Track Is Converted Into a Muddy Slide.

Berkeley, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP).—Rain and the rapid drip of snow melting in seven cars on the railroad tracks here tonight sounded the requiem of a projected warm weather ski tournament.

The thermometer stood not far from 60 and the spirits of 34 expert ski jumpers, all rigged up to use the snow for a track next Sunday, at zero or below.

Berkeley's widely advertised scientific police department was powerless. The Chamber of Commerce was ditto, in addition to being disappointed and so they called off the tournament.

From the cold peaks of the Sierra, 200 miles away, the snow was delivered here two days ago, heaped high and gleaming in the sunshine.

Berkeley youngsters boarded the cars yesterday and started snowball warfare. This was stopped when a squad of scientific police braved the barrage to shoo the youths away.

Came the rain. The scientific coppers threw up their hands.

The rain converted the hillside ski track into a muddy slide too slippery to be negotiated by trucks engaged to haul the snow.

Then and only then did the Auburn Ski Club, which with business interests, sponsored the event, surrender to fate and weather. The club, however, announced that it would go after more snow and hold the tournament next week, providing it doesn't rain.

Bailey Dismisses Beer Dealer's Suit

Georgian Tried to Restrain Treasury on Tax.

Justice Jennings Bailey in the District Supreme Court yesterday dismissed a suit filed by H. A. Emery, Atlanta, Ga., near beer dealer, to restrain the Treasury from assessing him a $1,000 Federal tax for operating in a dry State.

Emery asked that the Treasury be enjoined because he declared the tax was unconstitutional in that it applied to dealers of only two States.

Justice Bailey, in a written opinion, held that Emery had not "been engaged in any violations of the law of the State of Georgia."

Bennett Gives Canada Pledge Of a New Deal

Premier's Campaign Talk Outlines Program Like Roosevelt's.

Ottawa, Jan. 4 (AP).—A Canadian new deal paralleling President Roosevelt's in important essentials was promised Canada's voters tonight as Premier R. B. Bennett, in his second campaign address, outlined proposals for economic and social reform.

"There must be an end," he said, "to the reckless exploitation of human resources and the trafficking in the health and happiness of Canadian citizens.

"There must be an end to the idea that a workman should be held to his labors throughout the daylight hours. There should be a uniform minimum wage and a uniform maximum working week."

Urges Job Insurance.

Asserting the present economic system has broken down and needs radical alterations if it is to be saved, the premier listed these needed reforms:

1. Contributory employment insurance.
2. A remodeled old-age pension scheme.
3. Health, sickness and accident insurance.
4. Amended income tax laws to correct inequality of wealth distribution.
5. Minimum wage laws and maximum hours of work.
6. Further legislation in the interests of farmers.

Urges Regulation.

With regard to government intervention for the regulation and control of industry, which the premier previously had termed essential, he said:

"All I can tell you is that we will go just as far as is necessary to reform the system and to make it effectively work again."

Declaring inequality in the distribution of wealth existed, the premier said: "I think, as between non-producer and the producer, there must be devised, by some plan of taxation to be considered at once, a better balance, not only in fairness to the producer but also in the interests of the non-producer."

The prime minister said regulations to protect farmers against certain types of middlemen and distributors, "some of whose activities would properly include them within the classification of economic parasites," are being considered and will be discussed later.

Snow Avalanche Kills Four Skiiers in Italy

Innsbruck, Austria, Jan. 4 (AP).—Four skiiers of a party of ten were killed by a snow avalanche near Cortina in the Italian Tyrol yesterday. The skiiers, all from Munich, were buried in Sedaja Pass. Six survived the slide but were injured. The dead included a girl, Fraulein Truda Fritz and three men, Guide Luber, his assistant, Gnodt, and a youth named Gottsalk.

Now, for America..

A REVOLUTIONARY NEW HIGH-SPEED SAFETY CAR

New 1935 Plymouth on Display Today

This New Car Offers You:

New high-efficiency Engine . . . gives more power on 12% to 20% less gas and oil.

Highest Compression Ratio of any car . . . without the penalty of premium gasoline.

New Torpedo-type Body . . . of Safety-Steel from top to bottom. Seats 3" wider, floors 3" lower for added riding comfort.

Improved Hydraulic Brakes stop quicker. Centrifuse Drums make linings last longer.

New Syncro-Silent Transmission. New-type Clutch needs 30% less pedal pressure.

New Mola Steel Front Springs and New Weight Distribution give "Floating Ride."

New Sidesway Eliminator keeps car on "even keel"—gives new safety on curves.

The new 1935 Plymouth . . . world's most beautiful low-priced car. The first car designed to meet the Traffic Problem of today's crowded highways.

Here is Walter P. Chrysler's Answer to America's Traffic Problem. See it Today.

TODAY, PLYMOUTH ANNOUNCES a new revolutionary high-speed safety car. A new kind of automobile, engineered from the ground up, to meet modern traffic conditions.

It's a car built under the personal supervision of Walter P. Chrysler to satisfy today's critical need for safe transportation on congested highways and pedestrian-crowded streets.

In This High-Speed Age

We're traveling faster today. The average speed on the road is 20 miles an hour faster than it was in 1925. Turnpikes teem with impatient traffic.

You need speed. But speed alone is not enough. You need a car that is quick moving and fast stopping. You need much easier control and quicker response.

And to guard against the other fellow's carelessness, you need greater protection than ever before . . . both for yourself and your passengers.

Conventional car (a) swaying around curve. New Plymouth (b) taking same curve, no sway.

That's the problem Plymouth engineers set out to meet . . . many months ago. And they solved it by building this new high-speed safety car.

It's a brand-new automobile . . . from front bumper to tail-light . . . not just a reconstructed chassis.

The "Floating Ride"; What It Does

You've never before driven a car like this. It actually "glides" over the bumps and ruts in the road.

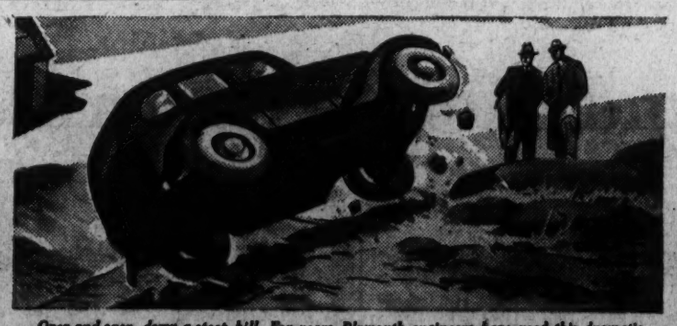
This new kind of "Floating Ride" is made possible by new, scientific weight distribution . . . the development of an ingenious new sidesway eliminator . . . and the use of new-type Mola Steel front springs. Technically, you ride at what engineers call a "lower vibration rate."

Actually, that means you don't bounce and jounce around the way you used to.

The new distribution of weight has been accomplished by placing the engine more directly over the front axle. The new-type springs reduce the oscillation frequency to 92 per minute, compared to 135 per minute in an ordinary car.

The sway eliminator at the front keeps the car on an "even keel" at all times . . . gives you new safety on curves. New "double action" shock absorbers further improve the riding comfort by controlling "spring bounce."

That's why you ride completely relaxed . . . at all speeds . . . in the new Plymouth.



Over and over, down a steep hill. For years Plymouth engineers have used this dramatic way of testing Plymouth's All-Steel Bodies. This year's Plymouth Body is even stronger.

Improved Hydraulic Brakes stop this 1935 Plymouth quickly, smoothly at all speeds.

We can't describe it . . . you've got to experience it . . . the thrill you get when you step on the accelerator of this wonderful new Plymouth.

60—70—80 and it seems like 50. The improved engine has the highest compression ratio of any car—without penalty of premium gasoline. Yet due to directional water circulation, calibrated ignition and the use of full-cylinder-length water jackets, gas and oil consumption is reduced 12% to 20%.

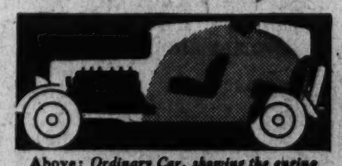
Shift the gears and notice the startling smoothness of Syncro-Silent Transmission. Even the clutch operates with 30% less foot pressure. Step on the brakes and "feel" the instant, even, Hydraulic action on all four wheels.

No wonder that this sensational new 1935 Plymouth deserves to be called "The World's Safest Low-Priced Car."

A Real Work of Art

Never before has a low-priced car been so strikingly beautiful. The whole car is streamlined . . . smartly so. It has long, graceful, flowing lines . . . and modern Airplane-type Fenders.

The body is torpedo-shaped . . . a symphony of beauty. It hurtles through the air with a minimum of wind resistance.



Above: Ordinary Car, showing the engine position. Center of weight is in the rear.

Above: Plymouth with engine and passengers moved forward. Axle loads equalized.

The entire body is made of steel . . . welded into one solid unit for your 100% safety. Frame and body are joined together in 46 places . . . and the body fits down over the frame instead of merely sitting on it as it does in ordinary cars.

Go see this new Plymouth "with your own eyes." Drive this history-making automobile. Experience its new kind of ride.

Any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer in your neighborhood will gladly demonstrate the revolutionary 1935 Plymouth.

PLYMOUTH NOW ONLY $565 AND UP F. O. B. FACTORY, DETROIT

World's Safest Low-priced Car

"THAR SHE BLOWS!"

"A dead whale or a stove boat!"

That was the battle cry in the days of Moby Dick, when 70,000 Yankee daredevils risked life and limb to capture the monster of the deep. It was a fairly even match: A 50-ton leviathan, with viciously lashing tail, fighting for his life against a handful of brave men tossing precariously in a frail open boat, harpoons ready to strike.

Miss America, 1935 model, uses no whalebone for corsets and hoop skirts. Nor does she read polite novels by the dim light of a whale oil lamp. But lusty sailors still brave the dangers of subpolar seas to round up an annual catch of 24,000 whales and satisfy her whim for perfume and soap.

In the Feature Section of tomorrow's Sunday Post, Osgood Nichols tells the thrilling story of the whaling fleets of yesterday and today. Don't miss it!

Consider the Oyster

Is the secret, solitary oyster just a stick-in-the-mud until that supreme moment when he is served up on cracked ice at dinner? Investigating the private life of the succulent bivalve, we discover there is more to the oyster than meets the eye—much more. To prove the point, here are two fascinating stories: an intimate biography in which the Chincoteague and his fellows are exposed as hard drinkers, brainless but romantic, and a colorful history of the oyster industry on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Special Articles Section

President's Message

Basing his observations on the text of the President's message to Congress, Elliott Thurston discusses probable future policies of the Administration and the outlook for the country as a whole.

Special Articles Section

Yesterday's Dandies

Amid all the hullabaloo about Well-Dressed Men, this writer rises to recall some popular Beau Brummells of yesterday . . . stylish dandies who glittered as they walked and left a trail of shattered feminine hearts.

Feature Section

Hiram Views Congress

That unabashed Mississippian, Hiram Hayseed, writes another letter to the folks back home in Possum Trot. This time he airs his own opinion of activities on Capitol Hill. See "Hayseed Letters."

Feature Section

Doomed Alibi

In court parlance, insanity means anything from imbecility to absent-mindedness . . . and many a murderer has been saved from death by pleading "not guilty, by reason of insanity." Now Washington moves to rob killers of their favorite alibi.

Feature Section

Crime Syndicate

For cruelty, cunning and ruthlessness America's most desperate outlaws are Pollyannas compared to members of the Sicilian Mafia. But that sinister syndicate of crime, three centuries old, has been crushed in three years by the strong arm of Mussolini! Here is the first of a series of thrilling articles relating hitherto unpublished tales of the world's greatest police forces. They will include new data from the files of England's Scotland Yard, France's Surete Generale and the secret police of other nations.

Feature Section

More Fun

Paris, having lately lost her laurels for unrestrained gayety to America, plans to launch a new era of fun as night clubs and revues prepare for the next great exposition to be held there.

Feature Section

Those New Year Resolutions

When Sunday comes and you're rueful over broken resolutions, take heart from "Vignettes of Life." You'll find you're not the only one to break those New Year promises.

Feature Section

Labor's Dilemma

Organized labor, as represented by the A. F. of L., faces serious trouble. The rupture which occurred in the Building Trades Department threatens the whole structure erected by Samuel Gompers.

Special Articles Section

World Court for U. S.?

Congress will soon be asked to vote on the question of whether the United States should or should not join the World Court. Franklyn Waltman offers an impartial but critical discussion.

Special Articles Section

Federal Unemployment Insurance

Unemployment insurance is expected to play a major part in the social security program contemplated by President Roosevelt. What are the pros and cons regarding this all-important question? In an analytical article, Smith Simpson discusses the recent report of the advisory council of the Committee on Economic Security which rendered a divided opinion . . . nine favoring a national plan and seven supporting the Wagner-Lewis bill.

Page Opposite Editorials

Small Garbos

Our infant prodigies of the movies have minds of their own . . . and directors are learning to handle the "juvenile Garbos" with kid gloves. Temperament? Uh-huh! And other difficulties aplenty.

Feature Section

Seeing Stars

In this week's rotogravure section: intensely interesting photographs of star nebulae and the new reflecting telescope at Washington's Naval Observatory. Also: "The Pageant of America" and other unusual pictures.

Rotogravure Section

Night Club Romance

It's a far cry from Western ranches to New York hot spots, but Holiday Calypso, night club hostess, made the grade . . . and fell for a silky-tongued gangster. A bullet brought her to her senses. Laura Vitray's weekly short story.

Feature Section

Sunday Book Page

Here are intelligent, thoughtful reviews of a wide variety of new books—both fiction and nonfiction. Included are reviews of the latest volumes by Thornton Wilder and Phil Stong.

Special Articles Section

All These and More Tomorrow . . . SUNDAY in

The Washington Post

Also . . The Post Impressionist . . Theater and Movie News by Nelson B. Bell . . Culbertson on Bridge . . the Best Comics . . Dorothea Duncan on Cooking . . Complete Sports News and Features . . Philately . . Fashions . . Sewing . . Live Editorials . . Gallery Glimpses . . Federal Diary . . Genealogy . . Real Estate News . . and Others.

ORDER YOUR COPY NOW—TELEPHONE NAtional 4200

2 Diplomats Will Depart From Capital

Simopoulos, Wife Going to London; Moscickas to Berne.

Others Will Return From Vacations or Begin New Duties Here.

By Evelyn Peyton Gordon.

There will be a number of departures of popular members of the Diplomatic Corps within the next few days, and even more members will return from vacations or arrive here to assume new duties.

The Minister of Greece and Mme. Simopoulos, who had planned to sail early last month for London, will go to New York today and will sail for England on January 9. They were extensively entertained the month before the original date of the departure, which was ten years to the day from the time they first arrived in this country. Even when the date of their leaving was not definite, the round of parties continued, for they are among the most popular of the diplomatic couples who have ever been here.

Moscickas to Sail.

The Secretary of the Polish Embassy and Mme. Moscicka will sail today aboard the Rex for Europe. They will reside in Berne, Switzerland. Mr. Moscicki, son of the President of Poland, will assume his new duties at the Polish Legation there. Mme. Moscicka is a charming person, blonde and winsome, with a rare sense of humor. Their house in Chevy Chase was a rendezvous for members of the younger diplomatic set for dances, cocktail parties and small gatherings for bridge. They will be very much missed, but there is always a hope they will return to the embassy in the not-too-distant future.

Sbernadoris to Sail.

The retiring Air Attache of the Italian Embassy and Signora Sbernadori will leave next week for New York and will sail for Italy January 15. They will go to Rome where Lieut. Col. Sbernadori will assume new duties. The Sbernadoris have been in Washington for almost four years, Col. Sbernadori having preceded his wife here by several months. At the time of his arrival he was not married, but returned to Tourin for the ceremony. Tall, handsome Magda was immediately received by members of the younger set and is among those who will be most regretted when she leaves.

The retiring Minister of Finland, Mr. L. Astrom, has left after a long tour of duty. At present he is in New York, where he will greet his successor, Mr. Eero Jarnefelt, who arrives today with Mme. Jarnefelt. They will pass a few days together in New York before coming to the Capital.

Those who will arrive within the next few days or weeks include Senor Dr. Don Guillermo Patterson, newly appointed Ambassador of Cuba, who will sail from his present post in London the middle of this month to assume his duties as successor to the late Ambassador, Senor Dr. Don Manuel Marques Sterling. Senor Patterson is a widower, but his two daughters, Senorita Zoe Patterson and Senorita Olga Patterson, will come with him. They will be welcome additions to the younger set.

The new Ambassador of Belgium, Count Robert van Straten-Ponthoz, will arrive in New York January 10, and after a few days will come to Washington. Others who will return shortly from vacations in their homelands are the Ambassador of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Mr. Alexander Troyanovsky, who has been absent for several weeks. Mme. Troyanovsky is in Honolulu where she will be joined by the Ambassador. They will return in about two weeks.

Witthoeft on Cruise.

The Naval Attache of the German Embassy, Capt. Robert Witthoeft, who has been on a holiday cruise in southern waters, will return the first of the week, as will the first Secretary of the Spanish Embassy, Senor Don Luis Olivares, who has been in Spain for several weeks. Mme. Veverka, wife of the Minister of Czechoslovakia, and her daughter, Miss Nella Veverka, who have been in Prague since the early autumn, will return shortly to rejoin the Minister in the Legation on Massachusetts avenue.

At the German Embassy there are two interesting new Secretaries, Herr Herbert Scholz, First Secretary, who with Frau Scholz has recently arrived from Berlin, and the Second Secretary, Count Rudolf Strachwitz.

Frau Scholz is a tall lovely person with pale, ash blonde hair and large blue eyes. She and her husband are making their home in the Mayflower until they find a suitable house. Young Count Strachwitz is living in Georgetown where he and Herr Gustav Struve, Third Secretary, have a house. Herr Struve will leave early next month for the West Coast where his marriage to Miss Elinor Castendyr will take place on February 23.

Spanish Military Attache Will Give Luncheon

The Military Attache of the Spanish Embassy, Maj. Jose Vidal, will entertain at a luncheon today in his apartment at the Westchester for Maj. Ramon Franco, of the Spanish Air Corps, who has arrived in the Capital to spend about a month.

On Thursday Maj. Vidal will entertain at a last cocktail party for Maj. Franco to present him to his many friends and colleagues in the Capital.

Young Members of Capital Society Recently in Florida

Wide World Photos.

Left—Mr. Gene Wadsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus B. Wadsworth, of New York; Miss Virginia Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall, of Washington; and Mr. John Tilney, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Sheldon Tilney, of New York, snapped recently at the Bath and Tennis Club at Palm Beach, Fla., where they are passing the holiday season. Right—Miss Ruth Moffett, daughter of Mr. James A. Moffett, chairman of the Federal Housing Administration, of Washington and New York, with Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, son of Mrs. Margaret Emerson, of New York, and her sister, Miss Adelaide Moffett, during their recent stay in Palm Beach. The Misses Moffet have returned to Washington with their father.

Robert Moffett Engaged to Wed Ruth M. Quigley

Betrothal, Announced at Palm Beach, Interests Capital Society.

From Palm Beach, Fla., comes an announcement of interest to Capital society, that of the engagement of Miss Ruth Marian Quigley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas Quigley, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Elsueno, Palm Beach, to Mr. Robert Arkel Moffett, of Chicago and New York, son of Mr. James A. Moffett, Federal housing administrator, and the late Mrs. Moffett, of New York.

Young Mr. Moffett has been in Palm Beach for some time with his father and stepmother, and the other members of Mr. Moffett's family, spending a holiday vacation aboard the Moffett yacht, Bidou. Mr. and Mrs. Moffett, with the former's two daughters and younger son, returned to Washington several days ago, and Mr. Robert Moffett flew to Chicago, where he is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Quigley have long been winter residents in Palm Beach, where their daughter attended the Palm Beach School for Girls before completing her education at the Montgomery School in Paris. She made her debut in Cleveland in the spring. She has one brother, Mr. Frank Kemp Quigley.

Mr. Moffett attended the Hotchkiss School and is a graduate of Princeton. He has one brother, Mr. Jackson A. Moffett, a student at Princeton, and three sisters, Mrs. Jay E. Carlisle, jr., the former Miss Margaret Moffett, of New York, and Miss Adelaide Moffett and Miss Ruth Moffett, who spend a part of their time in Washington.

OFFICIAL and RESIDENT

Society Notes

The Chief Justice and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes will entertain at dinner tonight in their home on R street.

The Ambassador of Japan, Mr. Hirosi Saito, left last night for New York, where he will make an address at the meeting of the Foreign Policy Association today at the Hotel Astor.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Haersma de With will entertain at dinner tonight in honor of the Undersecretary of State and Mrs. William Phillips.

The United States Ambassador to Argentina and Mrs. Alexander W. Weddell, who passed the holidays at their home in Richmond, Va., have arrived at the Carlton for a stay of several weeks before returning to Buenos Aires.

The former Ambassador to France and Mrs. Walter E. Edge, who have been in Atlantic City, have left for the West Coast. They will remain in San Francisco for a brief visit before sailing for a three months' cruise of the Orient.

Mrs. Wallace Hostess At an Informal Tea.

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, entertained at an informal tea yesterday afternoon in her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel in honor of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Henry C. Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Bingham, who have just returned from their wedding trip in Europe, are visiting former Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham at their home, 2604 Thirty-first street. Mr. Bingham's bride was Miss Sylvia Knox, daughter of Mr. H. H. Knox, before her marriage on November 9 at her home at Stonington, Conn.

Representative and Mrs. Frank H. Buck have taken an apartment at 2120 Kalorama road.

Representative John Y. Brown, of Lexington, Ky., is at the Raleigh Hotel.

Representative Prentiss M. Brown, of St. Ignace, Mich., is at the Raleigh.

Mrs. J. Bruce Kremer entertained at a luncheon followed by bridge yesterday at her home in Spring Valley in honor of Mrs. Bartow Sumter Weeks, of New York, who is visiting the Attorney General and Mrs. Homer S. Cummings.

Mrs. Robert O. Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kremer, will entertain at a tea this afternoon in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Stuart Bingham, of Butte, Mont.

Gen. Pershing Returns To Apartment at Carlton.

Gen. John J. Pershing has returned to his apartment at the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cutts, of Wilmington, Del., and their young son are at the Grafton Hotel.

Mrs. Emery Land, wife of Rear Admiral Land, and her mother, Mrs. Dwight Chester, will not observe their usual "at home" Monday.

Mrs. Harold Stroiz, of New York City, is at the Carlton for a few days, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davisson, also of New York.

Maj. and Mrs. Charles T. Estes, of Chicago, Ill., are at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Lieut. Col. Charles Abel, of Cleveland, Ohio, is at the Carlton for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kasehagen had as their guests for the holidays Miss Eleanor Duffy, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Royston St. Noble, of Barcelona, Spain; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Jay Shuffler, of Wilmington, N. C., and Mrs. Leo Kasehagen 3d, of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Folds have arrived from Carrollton, Ga., and are occupying a suite at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Bache Emmet, of Ridgefield, Conn., and New York City, is occupying a suite at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Young Set Attends Dinner at Embassy

French Ambassador and Mme. de Laboulaye Hosts.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. de Leboulaye entertained at dinner last night in the embassy, when their guests were a group of young people, who later attended the dance given by the former United States Ambassador and Mrs. Irwin Laughlin in honor of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Laughlin, in their home on Crescent place.

The Ambassador and Mme. de Laboulaye will entertain at luncheon today in the embassy in honor of the Commercial Attache and Mme. Garreau-Dombasle, who arrived several days ago from New York to attend the White House reception.

Baroness Wenner's Art to Be Shown

Tea and Reception Planned Tomorrow Afternoon.

A tea and reception will be held from 4 until 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Arts Club, when there will be an exhibition of portraits and paintings by Baroness Violet Beatrice Wenner. Baroness Wenner, a well-known artist, was the only pupil of the famous painter of royalty, Heinrich von Angeli, in Vienna. She received her early training in England under Sir Walter Crane. Later she studied in Munich and Paris.

Her career has been colorful. She is also a talented harpist and lecturer. She has painted many notables, including the former Kaiser, the late Franz Josef of Austria, Prince George, Princess Mary, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Herbert Hoover and many others. She was recently heralded in New York as "the painter of the Four Hundred."

Luncheon at Shoreham Honors Betty Crowell

Mrs. George G. Cornwell gave a luncheon at the Shoreham yesterday for her daughter, Miss Betty Crowell, who was graduated from Holton Arms in June.

Those present were Miss Betty Bull, Miss Patricia Jones, Miss Mary Claire de Mott, Miss Polly Wayne Wirgman, Miss Peter McHarg, Miss Frances W. White, Miss Anne Hall, Miss Suzanne Gill, Miss Emily M. Moore and Miss Rebecca Lee.

Wife and Son of Official

Hessler-Henderson, Inc.

Mrs. Julius C. Holmes, wife of the assistant chief of the protocol division of the State Department, with their young son, Allen, who is named for his grandfather, former Senator Henry Allen, of Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes have recently come to Washington from Bucharest. Mrs. Holmes was formerly Miss Henrietta Allen.

Wife at Capitol To Hear Message Of President

First Lady Afterward Guest at Luncheon Given by Garners.

Mrs. Roosevelt was in the gallery at the Capitol yesterday morning to hear the President deliver his message to Congress. She was accompanied by Mrs. James Roosevelt, sr., Mrs. James Roosevelt 2d, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall and her two children, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edgell, Miss Marguerite LeHand, Miss Malvina Schneider and Miss Grace Tully.

Later Mrs. Roosevelt was the guest in whose honor Mrs. John Nance Garner, wife of the Vice President, entertained at luncheon in the sun parlor of the Washington Hotel.

The guests were Mrs. Morris Sheppard, Mrs. Tom Connally, Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, Mrs. James F. Byrnes, Mrs. Walter F. George, Mrs. Bertrand H. Snell, Mrs. James P. Buchanan, Mrs. Fritz Lanham, Mrs. Sandlin, Mrs. William Arnold, Mrs. Edgar Howard, Mrs. Frank Crowther, Mrs. Finis J. Garrett, Mrs. Jesse H. Jones, Miss Jennie Moore, Miss Margaret Moore, Mrs. Nathaniel B. Dial, Mrs. Joseph P. Tumulty, Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Mrs. John O. Herrick, Mrs. Gunter Hardy and Mrs. Walter Chamblin, jr.

Highwood, the home of the Secretary of War and Mrs. George H. Dern, was the scene of the luncheon given on Thursday by Mrs. Dern in honor of Mrs. Roosevelt. The house was filled with a profusion of early spring flowers, with yellow predominating. On the luncheon table the decorations were low and formal with yellow snapdragons and roses artistically arranged.

The guests included Mrs. James Roosevelt, sr., Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the Secretary of State; Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury; Mrs. Julian Schley, wife of the Governor of the Panama Canal Zone; Mrs. James Helm, Mrs. Harry H. Woodring, wife of the Assistant Secretary of War; Mrs. James A. Wolf, Mrs. Thomas Q. Ashburn, Mrs. Robert B. Callan, Mrs. Robert U. Patterson, Mrs. John F. Preston, Mrs. Hugh Drum, Mrs. George Leach, Mrs. Benjamin D. Foulois, Mrs. James F. McKinley, Mrs. George S. Simonds, Mrs. Edward Croft, Mrs. Claude E. Brigham, Mrs. Arthur W. Brown, Mrs. Louis Bach, Mrs. Upton Birnie, jr., Mrs. William F. Hase, Mrs. William Tschappat, Mrs. Albert J. Breasted, Mrs. Albert E. Trubby, Mrs. C. C. Brooks and Mrs. Harry Baxter, daughter of the hostess.

Lady Mary Montague To Attend House Party

Lady Mary Montague has left for New York, where she will join the house party of Princess Dolgorouky, sister-in-law of the late Czar of Russia, at her country place in Westchester County. She will be the guest in whose honor Mrs. Vera Willo, of Youngstown, Ohio, will entertain at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mrs. Willo succeeded Mrs. John Logan as Ohio State chairman of the International Humanity League, of which Lady Montague is the founder and president.

Famous Group To Sing Here On January 19

Charleston Society to Present Spirituals to Select Audience.

Mrs. Roosevelt and a group of distinguished women will serve as sponsors for a recital to be given by the Charleston singers at the home of Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis on the afternoon of January 19 for the benefit of the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation. They are:

Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. William H. Taft, Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, Lady Lindsay, Mme. de Laboulaye, Mme. Espil, Mme. Van Haersma DeWitt, Mme. Peter, Mrs. William Herridge, Mrs. Cordell Hull, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Mrs. Claude Swanson, Mrs. Truxtun Beale, Mrs. William Cabell Bruce, Mrs. Winthrop Chanler, Mme. Cantacuzene Grant, Mrs. Jesse Jones, Mrs. Adolph C. Miller, Mrs. William Phillips, Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, Mrs. John F. Wilkins, Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mrs. Richard E. Byrd, Mrs. Jefferson Collidge, Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, Mrs. Frederick Keep, Miss Charlotte Noland, Miss Patten, Mrs. Hugh Wallace, Mrs. David Finley, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. William R. Castle, Mrs. Tracy Dows, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. Frank Noyes, Mrs. Henry Spencer, Mrs. Sumner Welles and Mrs. Eugene Meyer.

This is the first time a Washington audience has had the privilege of hearing the Charleston singers, more formally known as the Society for the Preservation of Spirituals. They have sung before enthusiastic audiences in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Wilmington, besides many cities in the vicinity of Charleston, S. C.

The Society for the Preservation of Spirituals is famed all over the South for its work in saving for posterity those fast-disappearing Negro folk songs and for its inimitable rendering of them upon the concert stage.

Members of this talented group bear the names honored in Charleston for 200 years. Names such as Drayton, Grimball, Grimke, Heyward, Huger, Hutson, Pinckney, Procher, Rutledge, Sass and Stoney. For scholarly accuracy as well as for artistic perfection concerts by this society are always noteworthy events.

Mr. Gordon is in charge of the Archives of American Folk Songs Division in the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Eustis has accepted the honorary chairmanship of this delightful performance and a limited number of invitations have been issued.

Goodwins Hosts At Chevy Chase

Judge's Sons Entertain for Miss Long.

Mr. MacDonald Goodwin and Mr. Norton Goodwin, sons of Judge and Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin, entertained at luncheon at the Chevy Chase Club, which was followed by bowling, in honor of Miss Christine Long, debutante daughter of the United States Ambassador to Italy and Mrs. Breckinridge Long.

The guests were Miss Stellita Stapleton, Miss Estherbelle McHarg, Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, Miss Valerie Prochnik, Miss Martha Davidge, Miss Louise Myers, Miss Mary Jane Stanley, Miss Marianna Dunn, Miss Mary McDowell, Miss Clara Lou Tuckerman, Mr. Stanley Reed, Mr. George Thorpe, jr., the Counselor of the Swedish Legation, Mr. Per Wijkman; Mr. James Dern, Mr. John Sweeney, Mr. Richard Bolling, jr., Mr. Robert Ellis, Mr. Ferdinand Veverka, jr., Mr. Clarence Dodge, jr., Mr. Jean de Sibour and Mr. Thomas Moorehead.

Mrs. W. C. Bryant, of Bridgeport, Conn., and her daughter, Miss Doris Bryant, are stopping at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. W. E. Sweet entertained at dinner last night at the Carlton, the company numbering 12.

Phillip-Louise
(Four Doors East of Conn. Ave.)
1727 L Street N.W.
SPECIAL FOR TODAY
GOWNS of all types $9.95
All Sizes 12 to 44
Were $16.95 to $22.75

HOSIERY REPAIRS
Highest Quality—Lowest Price
One-Thread Run—15c.
Pulled Threads—10c Inch.
While-You-Wait Service
SOUTHERN STELOS CO.
613 13th St. N.W. NAtl. 8442

FREE INSTRUCTION
CHILDREN'S SWIMMING CLASS
SATURDAY AT 10 A. M.
New Whistling YO-YOS GIVEN AWAY
Admission, 25c
AMBASSADOR SWIMMING POOL

Place Your Classified Ad Now For the Big Sunday Post Classified Section!

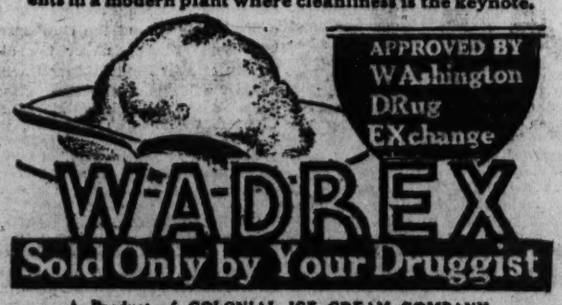
You have until 5:45 p. m. Today!

If you have a vacant room or an apartment and you are seeking a desirable tenant use Post Classified Ads. If you have an article of merchandise for sale that is now cluttering up your attic or basement, be it an electric refrigerator or a player piano, use Post Want Ads. You are certain to find a buyer speedily and economically. The Post's ever increasing family of readers are classified-minded. They shop through Post classified ads daily because experience has taught them it is a highly profitable habit. That's why Post classified advertisers are getting speedy results—and at economy prices.

When you place a classified ad you want results—speedily and economically——and results are what you get when you use Post Classified Ads. Why not phone your classified ad for the big Sunday classified section now? Call "the result number," National 4200. A courteous ad writer will gladly help you write a classified ad that will bring you speedy results.

POST CLASSIFIED ADS

The Reason Your Druggist Recommends
WADREX ICE CREAM
Your druggist recommends and sells Wadrex Ice Cream because he knows it is made from finest ingredients in a modern plant where cleanliness is the keynote.



Sold Only by Your Druggist
A Product of COLONIAL ICE CREAM COMPANY
LOCALLY OWNED AND OPERATED
For Your Nearest Dealer, Call ATlantic 6000

Fourteen Precepts Will Help Men to Become Impeccably Groomed on All Occasions

Buyers Benefit By Advice of Style Experts

Discard Any Item When There Is Doubt of Suitability.

By M. A. Weiss.

WITH THIS WEEK of the year being set aside by merchants to take stock of sartorial display and inventory of those things which lead to profit and losses, perhaps it might be a wise thing for us to do the same. We, in a fashion, are traders... merchants...trading on our personality and personability to create good will with those we contact. If we have not succeeded in this endeavor, it is quite likely that we violated some of the cardinal rules for making a favorable impression. Let us not lose sight of the fact that clothes alone don't make the man, and set down these principles which we'll endeavor to live up to as rigidly as possible.

First: We'll try to keep our suits in good press, neat and clean, repairing loose linings and buttons, hanging them away properly when we're through with them for the day.

Regular Haircuts.

Second: We'll get our hair cut regularly, and as often as it is needed, and not go 'round looking like last year's bird nest. We'll shave every morning, too, and spend some time in keeping our hair and skin in good condition. We'll keep our fingernails trim and clean.

Third: We will not go hatless. We'll wear a hat upon all street occasions so that people won't take us for something that sneaked out of a cage when the keeper wasn't looking.

Fourth: We will try to dress at all times, in keeping with the occasion, so far as it is within our purse power to own the proper clothes. We'll even go so far as to refuse gracefully invitations to those places where our wardrobe would stamp us as "out-of-place" and definitely contrive to have at least a sketchy wardrobe that would cover all events.

Avoid Eccentric Attire.

Fifth: That tho' we don't want to dress like uniformed soldiers... without individuality . . . we will avoid being eccentric and ostentatious in our choice of clothing and accessories, so that we don't stand out in a group as overdressed and vulgarly garish.

Sixth: We will avoid colors that don't become us and clothes that are not our type, since fashion does not consist of any one rigid style, but contains those which improve our appearance, regardless of type. This, of course, does not mean that we will not try for some legitimate originality in our selection of both colors and styles, but these will be selected with care and judicious thinking.

Seventh: We will not wear suits that are the products of some haywire designer's nightmares. Double-breasted suits with bi-swing backs are out because we know you can't mix dress and sports ensemble in the one garment. Dizzy buttons, braids, pleats and tucks without meaning are taboo. We might follow the rule that any extremely cut garment we choose will be of conservative pattern and coloring.

Dress to Suit Occasion.

Eighth: We will not wear our sports outfit for those occasions that call for more formality of dress, and for dressy moments we will eschew bright colors that may be more suitable for sports wear.

Ninth: We will not try to imitate someone who is not our type . . . especially movie actors . . . for the same reason that a six-foot golfer can't successfully swing a club like Bobby Cruickshank, nor can the shorter chap use the style of Whiffy Cox.

Tenth: We will buy shoe trees for every pair of shoes we own, and keep our shoes creamed, boned and polished, so preserving their life, appearance and shape.

Eleventh: We will try to get along using only three colors in any one ensemble, and strive for subtleness in well-rounded, harmonious outfits. The old brown shirt, brown tie, brown suit, shoe and hat idea is relegated to the rubbish can. We'll use colors in sequence or complementary to each other for the best results.

Twelfth: Instead of buying haphazardly, we will plan our wardrobe so that we can get the most for our money. Adding piece by piece as we can afford it until we have built up a complete sartorial structure allowing us to be properly dressed for every moment of the 24 hours.

Thirteenth: We will consult our physician and dentist at least once in six months so that we may have the proper fixtures to display our clothes and sell appearance.

Fourteenth: We will consult with those merchants who are professional and proficient stylists, benefiting by their advice, which was only gained after years of research and study. If doubt as to the suitability of any item enters our mind we will immediately discard that item and seek others.

Fourteen short rules... 14 precepts that, if practiced, will help us to become slated with those individuals whose tastes are described as impeccable. It's good for you, your purse and your ego . . . and at the same time is enjoyed by those with whom you surround yourself. So our inventory ends.

This chap, who is comfortably and properly dressed for an evening of revelry at a Southern resort, wears a shirt of white broadcloth with a white starched collar. He favors the narrowish, pointed-end tie. His jacket is of white Palm Beach cloth and his midnight blue trousers are of the same material. His shoes are patent leather and resemble pumps, with their broad, bowed laces. He wears a maroon cummerbund (which can not be seen) and a carnation of feathers to match. You'll see plenty of this outfit this summer. Particularly in the double-breasted "Kent" model.

Woman Finds $12,500 Necklace.

An English woman found a pearl necklace in York recently and thinking it to be worth only a few pounds, took it to a police station. To her suprise she was given an award that amounted to $1,250. The necklace'e value was $12,500.

What's Puzzling You?

TO BE correctly dressed for the occasion without being foppish is the mark of the gentleman. There is a modern etiquette in dress as important as the etiquette governing conduct. The men's fashion editor of The Post is prepared to answer queries on the what, when and why of sartorial good taste. Put your questions to him.

Neckwear Combinations.

MEN'S FASHION EDITOR: I have just purchased a lovat green tweed suit, three-button front, single-breasted. Will you tell me some unusual and appropriate neckwear schemes to go with it? J. D. C.

• • • •

SIR: An ivory colored shirt with a plum tie, a tan shirt with a sage green tie, a biscuit shirt with a jacquarded black knit tie are three. I suggest that you avoid satins and solid-color ties with this suit, sticking to stripings and figures in repps, foulards, mogadores, etc.—sport type ties, in other words.

Boutonnieres for Men.

MEN'S FASHION EDITOR: Why should boutonnieres be limited to maroon carnations and blue cornflowers? CURIOUS.

• • • •

SIR: They are not thus limited. However, these are safest, because through usage they have become known as "masculine" flowers . . . that is, hardy types and not giving off effeminate perfumes.

What Are Espadrilles?

MEN'S FASHION EDITOR: What are espadrilles and where can you get them? JIM.

• • • •

SIR: Espadrilles are cloth slippers with rope or fibre soles (which may or may not be covered). They are tied over the instep and receive their name from the famous marching shoes of the French Foreign Legion. For the answer to the latter part of your question send a self-addressed stamped envelope.

What Today Means

"Capricorn."

IF JANUARY 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Look out on this date that you do not misunderstand an address or a telephone number which would cause complications. People who are given to mumbling their words or speaking in such confidential tones that cause others to strain their eardrums trying to hear what they have to say will possibly cause trouble on this January 5 unless you insist on their repeating the remarks so they will be intelligent.

If a woman and January 5 is your birthday, you will gain in popularity and make greater progress socially or in a business way if you restrain any inclination to "boss" friends or business associates. It might be well to remember it is a very successful man or woman, who can satisfactorily regulate their own affairs without trying to regulate others. You are unusually efficient, witty, as well as lovable in every respect, if you forego trying to dominate people and things.

The child born on January 5, usually when it reaches Sunday school age, develops a great interest in church work. This should be encouraged, and its parents should do everything possible to set it the right example.

If a man and January 5 is your natal day, you are a naturally born executive and should be able to successfully manage not only your own but other people's financial affairs. You possess the knack of not only being able to make but also to save money.

(Copyright, 1935, by Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Women Voters Hail Welfare Proposals

THE NATIONAL League of Women Voters, through its first vice president, Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin, made the following comment today on President Roosevelt's message to Congress:

"We are pleased by the inclusion in the President's message of recommendations for unemployment insurance, benefits for mothers and children and maternity care, since this organization has long supported legislation of this general type. The league is convinced, however, that the ultimate success of the proposed program depends largely on the personnel in charge and on the methods of financing.

"Failure of the President to make any suggestion for improvement in the methods of recruiting and managing personnel to bring assurance of securing and retaining in the civil service well qualified persons was a great disappointment. The league was especially interested in the statement indicating that improvement in taxation forms and methods would be recommended to this Congress."

Women's Club of American U. To Entertain

Informal Party Tonight to Honor Male Members of Faculty.

THE FACULTY Women's Club of American University will give an informal party in honor of the men of the faculty tonight in the women's residence hall of the campus at Massachusetts and Nebraska avenues northwest.

Miss Cornelia Cotton, chairman of the entertainment committee, will be assisted by Miss Louise Morse, Mrs. H. Piquet, Mrs. Harry Johnson and Mrs. Bernice Cash.

Reception For Actors.

THE DISTRICT of Columbia League of American Pen Women will give a reception in honor of the Abbey Theater Players of Dublin, Ireland, and the Minister from the Irish Free State and Mrs. MacWhite at 9 o'clock tomorrow in the league's studio at 1120 Vermont avenue northwest.

Dr. Frances Moon Butts, president, will receive the guests.

Hospital Board Meets.

MRS. GILBERT GROSVENOR presided over the meeting of the Women's Board of the George Washington University Hospital Wednesday at the Mayflower Hotel.

Following the reports of the officers and committees, appropriations for the sunshine and furnishings committees were made and a special appropriation for the work of the Library committee which maintains a weekly library service throughout the year for the benefit of the hospital patients.

Mr. and Mrs. Constantine Brown will be the guests of honor of the International Outlook Section of the Twentieth Century Club at 2:15 o'clock Monday, when Mrs. Brown will speak on "Recent European Developments and Their Repercussions on the Pacific."

The junior group of the American Association of University Women will give a buffet supper at 6 o'clock tomorrow at the clubhouse. The Boys' Chorus, under the direction of Miss Hannah Bonell, will present a program of songs. Miss Ellen Acree and Miss Margaret Charters will be the hostesses.

The Mary Sunshine Club will hold a meeting tonight at 311 New Jersey avenue southeast.

Dr. Lester Kruger Born, head of the department of classical languages and literatures at George Washington University, will speak at 1:15 p. m. today at the meeting of the poetry section of the American Association of University Women. Dr. Born will discuss "Horace and His Lyric Art."

This BUSINESS of LIVING

What of Parents Who Justify Themselves in Having Only One Child?

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: That was a splendid letter from M. A. G. in your column Monday. Probably few of her contemporaries are as fully aware and as articulate as she, but I think many have much the same feeling about life, in spite of the far from hopeful outlook—or perhaps because of it, since difficulties are a challenge to youth when they are only a mental and physical hazard to an older generation. Anyway, this young courage and optimism are our best omens for the future, and they are the two lessons above all others that I hope to teach my own young son, now two and a half.

• • • •

I do appreciate the opposing point of view, however, about bringing children into a chaotic world, particularly when that opinion has its roots in hard experience. My husband has been practically on his own since he was 8 years old and inevitably he feels it would be unfair to our son to present him with a brother or sister when we can provide advantages only for one child. I recognize the justice of this view, especially when the immediate future is so unsettled, and in my own case I am fully reconciled.

• • • •

But if you can keep your children warm and well fed, and give them a sense of security and militant faith in themselves and in life, don't you think these are the essential things? Sincerely,

YOUNG MOTHER.

Unsound Philosophy.

DEAR YOUNG MOTHER: An admirable ambition, yours, to endow your son with a spiritual heritage of courage and optimism. But I question if one can successfully preach a philosophy one does not practice. What parents are, far more than what they say, exerts the most profound and far-reaching influence on the life-pattern of their offspring. So how can the parent with so little confidence in himself and in the future that he dare not give his only child a brother or sister, because he feels he can not provide for two the "advantages" he hopes to give to one, forcefully suggest the intrinsic value of courage and optimism? His very dubiety and caution contradicts the lesson he seeks to teach.

• • • •

Moreover, the human being who enjoys happiness and success in equal measure—and isn't that what all of us hope for our children?—is the one endowed from early childhood with a capacity for social adjustment. And none can deny that that capacity is as difficult of achievement for the privileged only child as is the camel's passage through the needle's eye.

• • • •

Indeed, one psychologist holds that the child who lives his first two years in a universe revolving around himself is inevitably headed for serious emotional disturbances during those years when he must adjust himself to objective reality.

• • • •

While I consider that an extreme pronouncement, particularly in view of the medical profession's generally accepted and well-substantiated theories concerning the necessity for intelligent spacing of children, still it is a straw which shows which way the wind blows. The only child at best is a lonely individual; and at worst he is pampered, selfish, egotistic, and socially unaware. And these latter qualities may develop into grievous antisocial characteristics.

• • • •

I agree with you that it is well to keep one's children warm and well fed, and to give them a sense of security and militant faith in themselves and in life, yet I further believe it equally necessary to give them from babyhood the continuing social discipline and experience of self-denial entailed in contemporaneous association with brothers or sisters. M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write to her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

Child Chats

By Alice Fox Pitts.

SOME ATAVISTIC instinct seems to impel children to build caves. Any hole will do nicely to crawl into if it is small and dark enough. If they can't tunnel outdoors, they will throw rugs across overturned chairs and creep into the dark recesses beneath them.

Of course, it's a "house" to them. And when the children start playing house, the living room becomes a shambles. The chairs have to be bunched together; the rugs go across them; pillows are used to stuff into open spaces. The glass top from the tea wagon in the dining room is likely to be commandeered for a window. It's all pretty irritating for mother, who has just cleaned the house and tidied the living room.

And yet, playing house in this manner will entertain the children for a longer period of time than any formal game can hold their attention. If it keeps them happily employed for an hour, it seems well worth the effort of clearing up afterward.

(Tuesday: Dancing lessons).

Woman Fights Prejudice To Conduct Orchestra

One of the few women symphony conductors in the world is Antonia Brico, above. Although she was born in America, there's a flavor about her as foreign as her name. Miss Brico is visiting in Washington for a few days with Mrs. Earl Packer, 1415 Van Buren street northwest.

WHILE ALL Washington was feverishly greeting returning members of Congress and trying frantically to identify new faces on Capitol Hill, one of the world's few women orchestra conductors slipped quietly into town for a few days' visit with an old college chum.

Antonia Brico, an American who has put symphonies on two continents through their paces, left her baton in New York when she came to the Capital.

Her trip here is purely for a reunion with Mrs. Earl Packer—they went through University of California together—and to attend to business matters at the State Department, Miss Brico explained yesterday. But when she returns to New York tomorrow night, music will engulf her again. She will plunge into rehearsals with the Women's Symphony Orchestra she has just organized. The orchestra will make its debut January 23.

The New York Women's Symphony is Miss Brico's way of battering down prejudice against feminine musicians in metropolitan orchestras; a prejudice that has outlived similar antagonism in every other field of activity, according to the woman conductor.

Prejudice Still Exists.

"No wonder women musicians are discouraged," she exclaimed. "No matter how good they are—and many of them are better than the men—they know they have no chance of playing in a symphony because silly prejudice against them still exists. I know. I have had to contend with it as a conductor." Her face was darkly serious. Mrs. Packer, sitting close by, nodded in approval.

Audiences, it seems, are the ones that have misgivings about women conductors. They find it hard to trust the baton in feminine hands.

What about the orchestras themselves?

Miss Brico made an impatient little noise which sounded suspiciously like "Bah!"

"The orchestras don't mind," she continued. "They aren't interested in the sex of their conductor. All they want is somebody who knows how to conduct, whether it's a man or a woman. Yes, it's the audiences that make it hard for a woman conductor to get along."

And yet, in spite of that antagonism, Miss Brico has managed to get along surprisingly well. She started out to become a pianist; has been soloist with several major orchestras. While she was at the University of California she decided she wanted to conduct.

After her graduation she was fortunate enough to attract the attention of Karl Muck, formerly conductor of the Boston Symphony. As his protege she studied for two years at the Berlin State Academy of Music, the only American woman conductor ever to be admitted there.

Her world debut was made in 1930 with the Berlin Philharmonic. Then California called its native daughter home. For four months she conducted the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra and the San Francisco Symphony. At the close of that engagement she returned to Europe, studied under Karl Muck for three years, conducted in Poland, Latvia, and Germany.

Her New York debut was made two years ago with the Musicians Symphony, composed of 200. Next came guest appearances with the Detroit Philharmonic, the Buffalo Symphony, and a summer season with her own orchestra in Westchester County.

Last winter she was made regular conductor of the New York Civic Orchestra. In the summer she went to Moscow on a pleasure trip. But she signed for a three months tour this fall as guest conductor of Soviet Orchestras.

Strictly Speaking

Pronounce These.

1. Elite.
2. Repartee.
3. Clandestine.
4. Reptile.

Check Here.

1. Ay-LEET.
2. Rep-ar-TEE.
3. Klan-DES-tin.
4. REP-til or REP-tile.

Set Sail for the Fashion Show of new CRUISE and RESORT Clothes Monday, Jan. 7th at 3 p. m. on the Second Floor
THE NEW Jelleff's 1214-1220 F STREET

House Visitors Are Rewarded For Patience

First Lady Is Accompanied by Mother, Daughter and Miss Cook.

VISITORS who were finally admitted yesterday to the galleries of the House of Representatives were rewarded for their patience. There was plenty going on to occupy anybody's attention.

There was, for instance, the Speaker's daughter-n-law, in a Speaker's wife in a black satin dress with which she wore an orchid; the Speaker's daughter-in-law, in a white satin tunic with an orchid on her left shoulder; the Speaker's son, a number of friends from Tennessee and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. The latter, occupying a seat in the same row with the Speaker's wife, was dressed in an oxford gray suit and a bright red hat.

The President's gallery was filled just before the Senators arrived. Mrs. Roosevelt, attired as she was the opening day of Congress—in a black suit with white tuxedo collar and wide cuffs, white gloves and a black hat, was accompanied by the President's mother, also in black and white; Mrs. Dall and "Sistie" and Miss Nancy Cooke.

Soon after the noon hour, the Senators were announced and came in two by two—now waking straight to the front, now stopping in the aisle to shake hands with freinds in the House.

Members of the Cabinet, more orderly in procedure, were next in the procession. Every male member was in formal morning attire, except the Secretary of Agriculture who was in his customary apparel—a blue business suit.

Miss Perkins, the Secretary of Labor, was more stylishly attired than on most occasions, according to the consensus of women in the gallery.

Selects Attractive Hat.

Still partial to a tricorne, Miss Perkins had selected a particularly attractive one, fashioned of black velvet. Her black coat was trimmed in Persian lamb, and she wore gray gloves and carried a large bag of darker gray.

The hum and buzz, gradually growing more confusing, died down as the Speaker (with the Vice President on his left) called the names of those who were to usher in the President.

The huge crowd stood in silence as the President approached by the ramp to the right of the Speaker's rostrum. And while the President delivered his speech, every eye turned toward him.

Mrs. Longworth Listens Intently.

Mrs. Longworth, who leaned forward, lorgnette in hand, at the beginning of the President's speech, later settled back in her chair but still apparently listened intently, now smiling broadly at some remark of the President, now displaying no emotion. Mrs. Byrns and those in her party listened with rapt attention during the entire speech. Across in the other gallery, the President's mother never took her eyes away from her distinguished son, while the First Lady leaned forward and listened with her chin in her cupped hand.

No member of Congress took in the President's remarks more attentively than the women in Congress.

In the rear corners of the House, newsreel cameramen were definitely in action. While from the galleries cameras were focused on the President and continued to click throughout his entire speech.

THE NEW Jelleff's 1214-1220 F Street

January Sales Special!

FRENCH CREPE GOWNS

$1.95

Cut extra long--53½ to 54 inches!
Cut extra full--bias or straight!
Trimmed with fine imported laces!

One of the first things you'll notice about these gowns is that the French Crepe is especially fine..a close weave that wears longer and launders better! Beautifully made from cap sleeves or sleeveless tops to hems! Tearose with dark laces. Sizes 15 to 17.

Grey Shops, Second Floor.

Market Basket Era Has Faded Into the Past

Wide Choice of Eatables is Now Available by Telephone.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

THERE was a time when good housewives on Saturdays donned their bonnets and hung their market baskets over their arms as they started out, seeking all manner of good things. But today the majority of housewives busy themselves with pencil and paper and order their supplies via telephone. Such lists of goodies they compile and such a bounteous supply of goodies they may choose from!

One store which prides itself (and justly so) on its handy little food corner, has not only a great many every-day items, but dozens of odd delicacies. From it come the following suggestions for the week-end:

First, for the busy young woman who wants a tasty midnight snack that takes about five minutes to prepare—Hung's chow mein dinner. This comes complete in a neat little package which contains chow mein, noodles, and a delicious sauce.

Spaghetti Supper.

Here's a good one to keep on hand for the cook's night off: M. Henri's spaghetti supper. Give yourself ten minutes to prepare it and you have a real feast. This, too, comes ready packed with spaghetti, cheese and sauce—and costs 29 cents. There's enough in one package to serve two or three people.

Port and sherry jellies are suggested for garnishing any dinner in the world but are especially recommended for chicken and ham. Unlike most jellies, these come in a powdery form. You add a prescribed amount of hot water, and put the mixture in the icebox to congeal. In this way you can have your jelly strong or weak as you prefer. The hostess who likes to make tea time a tasty time can use her jellies with thin slices of raisin bread, or small squares of toast and be assured she will have a rare offering for her tea callers.

Here's an Irish Stew.

For one of those very informal family luncheons few things will please the man of the house quite as well as an Irish stew. A large can of this, ample for several people, costs only 23 cents. You can dress up your stew and make a lovely luncheon platter if you serve it over a slice of toast and accompany it with a baked potato, hollowed out, mashed, refilled and covered with melted cheese. On the side, a pineapple and cream cheese salad is about all that could be desired.

Cocktail parties, being the popular type of entertainment, now naturally come in for a suggestion. A can of cocktail "franks" heated and served on a platter between buttered and toasted crackers gives an excellent balance to tipsy guests. You might serve each sausage on the end of a toothpick and make them all the more convenient for handling.

New Ideas in Candies.

Back in the days when little ladies wore pigtails and smallish gentlemen wore Buster Browns, candy was a treat When Uncle Joe or Aunt Minerva arrived with a bag of candy or a peppermint stick there was cause for rejoicing. But now that little ladies are Shirley Temples and when every little boy has his eye on "Our Gang," candy has to be more than mere candy to arouse enthusiasm.

A candy manufacturer decided that since demands had changed, so would his candy line. As a result he is tempting young sweet teeth with boxes of candy which illustrate stories. For instance, there is one box called The Three Little Pigs. Sure enough there are the pigs, and the houses, and the big bad wolf. On the back of the box there's the whole story so you can read while you eat. Another box tells the story of Cinderella. Another is about Red Riding Hood, and still another has the Hansel and Gretel theme. For little boys who prefer eating up bad pirates, there's a pirate box with candy flags, ships, and even candy gold pieces.

Rum and Butter Toffee.

Large silvery metal boxes with the Tower of London in bas relief across the top contain a pound of delicious rum and butter toffee. Hitherto this exceptionally fine candy was sold for 50 cents, but for the time being a special sale brings its price to 39 cents. You can not only enjoy the candy but after that's gone you can enjoy the box.

Old Pictures, New Frames.

Almost every home has several old pictures that have been waiting for months—or years—for a frame. As the days go by, the pictures are becoming dirtier, dustier, and probably damaged. Why not buy a frame now while the buying is good and the frames par excellence? A certain studio makes a specialty of matching frames and pictures and for the present they are giving a 10 and 20 per cent reduction. If you don't want to drop by you can call up and they will be glad to send out several frames on approval.

There are many exclusive patterns in metal and leather and a very wide selection of styles. There will be no better time to pick up good frames for very moderate amount.

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of The Washington Post, National 4200, Extension 105, for further information, or write, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope.

Pattern for Shirt of Kind That Gentlemen Prefer

Pattern No. 666.

IT'S A HOME-MADE product. And home-made products are always best, especially to the masculine way of thinking. From the feminine point of view, this pattern is a "find." It is so perfectly cut that success is assured. And a large and clear instruction chart makes the sewing very simple indeed. The collar will fit the way he likes collars to fit. The sleeves are easily adjusted to the proper length. The shirt may also be made with a detachable collar and linked cuffs.

Why not surprise him with one of these fine shirts, in the fabric he likes best to wear? The pattern is cut in neck-band sizes 14 to 17. Size 15 requires 3 yards of 36-inch material.

(Copyright, 1935, H. P. Co.)

Clip Coupon and Mail to
WASHINGTON POST BUREAU HOLLYWOOD PATTERNS
420 Lexington Ave., New York City.

Inclosed find 15 cents in stamps for Pattern No..... Size.....[ ] and 10 cents additional for Early Spring Pattern Book [ ] or, 15 cents for Pattern Book ordered separately [ ]

NAME .....

STREET .....

CITY AND STATE .....

(Print name and address clearly in pencil.)

Patterns and books may be ordered by mail only.

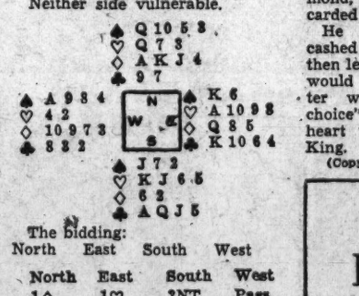
Culbertson on Bridge

1273.

It is remarkable that two different people can fulfill two very difficult game contracts through successful squeezes, and yet one of them will do so only after very careful planning and preparation, while the other player will throw out one card after another as quickly as he can and stumble into the squeeze. Hand after hand is played in which there is a sure squeeze lying somewhere under the surface and which only needs proper or lucky execution on the part of the declarer to bring it out.

On the hand below South fulfilled his three notrump contract on a squeeze play. This particular hand, I am glad to report, was not one of those where the declarer stumbled into the squeeze. He was thrilled to see the possibility and deliberately prepared for an unusual choice of sqeezes.

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1◇	1♡	2NT	Pass
3NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

The above bidding is not particularly praiseworthy, but on the other hand can not be very severely criticized. North's opening bid was pretty light, East's overcall was even lighter in view of the weakness of the heart suit itself, and South's decision to bid two notrump rather than double is somewhat open to question.

At any rate, in response to his partner's bid, West opened the heart 4. A low card was played from dummy and East played the eight, realizing that to play the Ace would set up the entire suit for the declarer. South immediately proceeded to tackle the spade suit and led a low one, playing the ten from dummy. East won with the King and now shifted to a club. South, of course, finessed the club lead and when the Jack held he now took the diamond finesse. This unfortunately lost to East's Queen and East continued with still another club, South again finessing. South still had to remove the Ace of spades, so led the Jack from his hand. West perforce won the trick with the Ace, as to stay on would enable the declarer to set up a second trick in the suit instead of just one.

West, after winning with the Ace of spades, probably should have led a club. However, he did not know that his partner did not desire another heart lead through the dummy's Queen, and he consequently led the deuce of hearts. At this point South made the star play of the hand. A great many declarers would automatically duck in dummy and hope that the East player would make the defensive error of going up with the Ace, and thus set up an extra trick for South. However, South in this instance saw a legitimate play which did not depend on a defensive error. He realized that if he could delay the play of the hand by an extra trick he might get a squeeze on the West player, who, by this time, was pretty definitely marked with four spades and four diamonds, or on East, with his four hearts and four diamonds. South accordingly went up with the Queen of hearts and East had to top the trick to prevent South from thus winning an extra heart trick. East's return at this point was immaterial. He actually led another club and South won with the Ace, and now laid down his good King of hearts. This play squeezed West, since he was forced to release either a spade or diamond, and dummy naturally discarded from the opposite suit.

He might equally well have cashed the dummy's diamonds and then led the Queen of spades, which would have squeezed East; the latter would have had "Hobson's choice" between unguarding the heart ten and releasing the club King.

(Copyright, 1934, by Ely Culbertson)

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Irving S. Cutler.

Focal Infection and Dangerous Teeth.

SOME years ago the late Frank Billings, a distinguished Chicago physician, delivered at Stanford University a series of lectures on what he termed "focal infection." He described a situation that had been found in a large number of his patients. The individuals were not quite normal in physical resistance; they tired easily. They might go about their business and function with fair efficiency, but they were below par and lacked zest and snap. Some of these persons, on careful examination, showed the presence of collections of pus in various parts of the body. Most of these pockets were so placed that bacteria had ready access to the lymph channels and the blood.

It was found that favorite sites for these infections were the mouth, throat, tonsils, and sinuses. The teeth were also frequently involved. Abscesses were often detected around the roots of teeth and virulent streptococcic were in many cases identified in these locations.

Experts in special fields are now alert to the possible existence of focal infection. Ophthalmologists recognize that certain affections of the eye may be traced to general or focal disease elsewhere in the body. Those who give special attention to diseases of the urinary tract find that infections are sometimes harbored in the kidney, the bladder and the prostate.

(Copyright, 1935, Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, Inc.)

Maple Cream Cake Recipe Takes Prize

Miss Martha Kenney Given First Award in Post's Weekly Contest.

By Dorothea Duncan.

DEVIL'S FOOD and chocolate cake had the largest representation among the deluge of cake recipes submitted in The Post's recipe contest this week.

First prize, $3, is awarded to Miss Martha Kenney, 1740 K street northwest, for her recipe for Maple Cream Cake. Second prize, $2, goes to Mrs. A. H. Fulton, Leesburg, Va., for her recipe for Filled Angel Cake, and third prize, $1, to Mrs. B. D. Adelsberger, Front Royal, Va., for her recipe for Maccaroon Cake.

Honorable mention is awarded to Miss Edna Kysar, 434 Peabody street northwest, for her recipe for Banana Cake; to Miss Abbie Todd, 1835 K street northwest, for her recipe for Fresh Coconut Cake; to Mrs. M. L. Rushlow, 1803 Biltmore street northwest, for her recipe for Tomato Soup Cake, and to Mrs. Custis R. Perry, 2018 G street northwest, for her recipe for Devil's Food Cake.

The recipes follow in the order mentioned above:

Maple Cream Cake.

½ cup butter
1½ cups brown sugar
3 eggs
2¼ cups flour
½ cup chopped walnuts.
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
½ teaspoon salt

Sift sugar to remove lumps. Blend butter with sugar and eggs. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add flavoring and walnuts. Bake in two layer cake pans in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Use sour cream icing as filling and icing.

Sour Cream Icing.

Cook two cups granulated sugar with one cup sour cream very slowly for about 20 minutes, until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Cool. Add ½ teaspoon maple flavoring. Beat until creamy. Spread between layers and cover cake. Decorate with half walnut meats.

Filled Angel Food Cake.

1 cup egg whites
1½ cups sugar
1 cup cake flour
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond flavor

Beat the eggs until frothy, add cream of tartar, beat until very stiff, but not dry. Sift sugar, flour and salt together five times. Sift gradually into the whites. Add flavoring and put in an ungreased tube pan. Place in a slow oven for 45 or 50 minutes. Invert pan, allow to stand until cold. Remove from pan and with forks remove the inside of the cake, leaving shell of sufficient thickness to hold together well. Tear the inside into small pieces and mix with 1 cup cream, whipped, 1 cup pineapple diced, 1 cup shredded coconut, ½ pound marshmallows cut into small pieces and 6 maraschino cherries, chopped. Fill the cake shell with the mixture and let stand in a cold place for 12 hours. When ready to serve, place a cupful of chopped walnut meats over the top and cover with whipped cream and garnish with six whole cherries. The dessert is sliced at the table as you would cut a round cake and served by the hostess.

Maccaroon Cake.

One-half cup butter, 2 cups sifted cake flower, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, yolks of 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, ½ cup milk, ¾ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup confectioner's sugar, 1 cup finely ground nuts, use ½ English walnuts and ½ Brazilian nuts, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 3 egg whites.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream butter and granulated sugar and add beaten egg yolks. Add to last mixture alternately flour and milk until all is used. Do not beat after eggs are added, just stir until smooth. Add flavoring. Bake in two layers and after removing from pans put layers together with any bright-colored jelly.

Beat egg whites until stiff, adding a small pinch of cream of tartar. Beat in the powdered sugar, adding powdered sugar and nuts until all sugar is used. Reserve about two tablespoons nuts to dust on the top of the cake. Spread top and sides with meringue, dust on nuts and slice in the oven until brown. This should be eaten with a fork and is delicious.

Banana Cake.

1 cup sugar
½ cup butter
1 egg
3 tablespoons sweet milk
1 full cup of mashed banana
1½ cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch of salt
1 teaspoon of soda.
1 teaspoon baking powder.

Sift last two ingredients with the flour. Use very ripe bananas and push through a strainer until free from lumps.

Mix ingredients in order given, using standard cake method. Place mixture in a well greased cake tin and bake at a moderate temperature, and frost with following icing.

Carmel Frosting.

2 cups of brown sugar
1 cup of water.

Stir together and boil till mixture threads. Don't stir sugar after placing it over fire. Take a white of an egg and beat it stiff. Gradually add hot sugar (a little at a time so not to cook the eggs) until used. Beat till cold and pour over cake.

Dorothea Duncan will be glad to help you solve your culinary problems. Write to her, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope.

The ALLEGED GREAT AUNT

By HENRY KITCHELL WEBSTER

Janet Ayer Fairbank and Margaret Ayer Barnes

Gilbert Meade has been invited to the home of Lily De Long, popular operatic star of a half century before, under the guise of writing her biography. Actually he wants to find out if she was married to his great-uncle, of the same name, who had been in love with her years before. On his death, Lily's lawyer, Charles Bradley, claimed $100,000 for her as her dower rights as Meade's widow. Young Gilbert suspects that a fraud is being perpetrated by the lawyer. He is mystified to find that Lily's companion is a girl he met on a bus, who confided to him that she had just taken a job under an assumed name. The first night in Lily's house, Meade's room is entered and the desk in it is rifled.

GILBERT shot a quick glance at Jane. Evidently she had lost no time in confiding in this stranger. "Yes," he said stiffly. "There was a burgler in my room."

"A burglar? In Stanwix Falls? You know that seems unlikely to an old resident like me." Charles Bradley was smiling with maddening reassurance. "Are you certain that it wasn't a cat? Those study windows are so low that one might easily have jumped in from the garden."

"Quite certain," Gilbert answered grimly. "Nor a dog nor a horse nor a cow." He could see that Jane was frowning at him, as if she thought he was being rude. He was, as a matter of fact. "Can you tell me where I can get some breakfast?" he asked her, making an effort to shake off his bad temper.

It was Charles Bradley who answered. "I'll attend to it," he volunteered, and, rising, he called down over the edge of the porch, "Alberto!"

From a window below them on a level with the garden beds the Italian's voice came instantly back: "Si, Signor."

Came as Companion.

"Bring Mr. Meade his breakfast."

"Momente, Signor."

"Thank you," Gilbert said, thinking that Bradley seemed entirely at home in the house.

Now, having asked Jane's permission, the older man was lighting a cigarette. "I was just begging this charming lady to tell me how we happen to have the pleasure of seeing her here," he told Gilbert.

Jane was smiling at him, plainly pleased at his flattering phrasing. "There's nothing mysterious about my being here," she told Charles Bradley, and Gilbert's mind snapped back into eager attention to what she was saying. "Miss De Long advertised for a secretary-companion who could play the piano, and I got the job. I hope that the fact that I really can play will make up for my not being much of a secretary."

"I should say," Charles Bradley told her gallantly, "that however you play, you might make your greatest success as a companion."

Lily De Long burst lently open and

Lily Was Annoyed.

He had barely spoken when the door to the porch was flung violenty open and Lily De Long burst dramatically upon them. She was obviously not long out of bed, for she still wore a flannel nightgown, well washed and worn, over which she had thrown a regal crimson velvet cloak. "Charles Bradley," she exclaimed. "I thought I heard you calling Alberto, but I couldn't believe my ears. What are you doing here?"

"We—el, I thought I might as well come home, Lily."

Jane's eyes, wide with surprise, met Gilbert's.

"We had a pretty clear understanding about that," the old lady said crisply.

Charles Bradley raised his eyebrows a trifle. "Perhaps we had better discuss this later," he suggested.

"Nonsense! We'll have it out now." The old woman turned to Jane and Gilbert. "Go on away—go anywhere you like, only get out—both of you."

Breakfast for Two.

The two young people scuttled into the house, and the door banged shut behind them.

"Well," Jane said breathlessly.

"Well!" Gilbert repeated, indignation seething within him.

"I'm glad I'm not that poor Mr. Bradley. She's a hellion."

Gilbert sniffed. "I hope she gives him hell," he said vindictively.

Jane laughed. "She will, if I know anything about women. Where are you going to eat your breakfast?"

"Lord knows. There's a balcony off my room. Suppose we try that."

"We?"

"You wouldn't let me eat it all alone, would you?"

The breakfast proved to be excellent—orange juice, good coffee, a poached egg and toast. Jane sat across the table in the morning sunshine, looking extraordinarily pretty against the background of budding elm trees. It was impossible for Gilbert not to feel more cheerful. His worst suspicions, he thought, simply couldn't be true.

Jane broke the little moment of silence. "A guilty conscience doesn't interfere with your appetite," she observed.

Jane Was Mystified.

He looked up surprised. "What do you mean—a guilty conscience?"

Jane began to laugh, quite pleasantly, even placidly.

"I hope you don't think you took me in last night with that story of a burglar."

Gilbert put down his coffee cup in amazement.

"Do you think it's my habit to walk about houses at night, carrying a poker for exercise?"

"I couldn't quite understand the poker," she admitted. "I couldn't believe that you wanted to brain her."

"Brain who?" His voice rose sharply.

"Old Lily."

"Old Lily? What would I want to brain old Lily for?"

There was a moment's pause before she answered him. "My dear Mr. Meade, I'm sure I can't imagine. But neither can I imagine why you were either going in or coming out of her room, poker in hand, when I saw you last night. I mean—I can't imagine now, out here in the sunshine, looking at you across the innocent poached egg. But up in my room, alone in the dark, I could think of a great many reasons, all of them more adequate than admirable."

Photo Was Forgotten.

To his amazement, Gilbert found himself on the defensive. "Why, good Lord!" he cried, "I was listening to her breathing. I was feeling relieved when she snored. The door was locked on the inside, and it was evident that whoever was in the house had not harmed her. I tell you—I know some one was in my room." His tone was eagerly persuasive, for her face was still incredulous. "Someone who rifled that desk after pulling the curtains across my windows, so no one could see in, some one who was probably using a flashlight. But good Lord—I had forgotten!"

He sprang up from the table and left the balcony abruptly.

In the studio he groped in the pocket of his dressing gown and his fingers closed on the edges of the photograph which he had found on the floor the night before. Jane had followed him to the doorway and was watching him with interest.

Looked Like Jane.

"See this," he said. "I found it on the floor last night. Whoever opened the desk must have dropped it." His voice died down. He stared at the photograph in his hand. He had not really looked at it before, and now he was astonished to see that it was a photograph of Jane—of Jane inconceivably posed, with bare shoulders emerging from a snowball of tulle, and her hair—but it was preposterous! Jane could never have worn her hair like that. Yet it was indubitably Jane. The implications of this discovery pressed down on him. The picture must be her property. She must have been in his room.

"What were you doing here?" he demanded.

"What was I doing where?" Jane's voice was mystified.

Gilbert did not reply. His lips pursed themselves into a silent whistle. His mazement had held back the realization that the print was old and faded and the cardboard brittle with age. A name was scrawled across a puff of tulle in barely visible purple ink—the signature of Lily De Long.

Remarkable Resemblance.

"Well, I'll—be—damned!" This, of course, was why Jane's face had seemed so familiar when he first met her on top of that Fifth avenue bus. He had been looking at old pictures of Lily De Long all that afternoon and it was natural when he met her counterpart that he had been struck by, though he had not placed, this fantastic resemblance. "Look at this," he added, and handed her the photograph.

She smiled over the quaintness of it, made out the faded signature, turned it over to see if there were any inscription on the back and then, with a frown of perplexity, handed it back to him.

"What has it to do with me?" she inquired.

"Why it might be you!" Cover that foolish hair and all those shoulders——"

She looked thoughtfully at the picture a moment and then asked, "Is it as plain as that?"

Not a Coincidence.

"I shouldn't call it plain," he answered with a grin, "but it is certainly apparent." Then, as she merely continued to smile at him gravely. "A resemblance like that can't be a coincidence. But why did you bring it to my room last night?"

Her eyes met his in honest amazement. He saw the sudden realization sweep over her that he believed her to have been the burglar. A look of undeniable relief came into her face and she began to laugh a little, softly but uncontrollably.

"Do you think it's my habit to crack safes with cabinet photographs?" Notwithstanding the strain of the situation, suddenly and unexpectedly, both young people burst into laughter. Jane was the first to speak. "Oh, dear! Oh, dear! How terribly funny! You've been suspecting me, and I've been suspecting you! Oh—how funny!"

"Funny," he agreed, "but still very mysterious. Why do you look like Lily De Long in her heyday? You can't be her daughter—you couldn't be—and if you were she'd recognize you—and I don't think she does."

"I'm not her daughter and she has no idea who I am," said Jane. "Well—who are you?"

(Copyright, 1935, New York Tribune, Inc.)

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Salad Recipes Sought in Next Contest of Post

TWO SALADS a day constitute the dietetic requirement. This means that the housewife must always be on the lookout for new salads to prevent monotony in her menus. The Post's recipe contest next week will be devoted entirely to recipes for salads.

All recipes should be sent to Dorothea Duncan, home economics editor of The Washington Post. Three prizes will be awarded, $3, $2, and $1.

Type your recipes if possible. If not, write them neatly in ink. Check all recipes carefully for omissions. Entries should be received on or before Thursday of next week. The name and address of the sender should appear on each sheet.

First Judgment Likely Wrong, Educator Says

Smart people think a long time before making decisions, Dr. Henry F. Dickenson, of Hiwasse College, Tennessee, declared at a recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

First impressions and snap judgments are usually wrong, the educator said, because they are frequently based on prejudices, superficial knowledge, or gossip.

1,500 Handkerchiefs Owned by Mrs. Gary

When clothing of the late Mrs. Elbert H. Gary was sold in New York recently for the benefit of the Opportunity Shop, 1,500 handkerchiefs were among the articles. The sale was held in accordance with Mrs. Gary's will. In addition to the flock of handkerchiefs, there were furs appraised at $50,000.

These Prices Prevail in Washington and Vicinity

WALDORF (Toilet) TISSUE 4 rolls 17c
Scot Tissue.....3 rolls 22c

SANITARY and PIGGLY WIGGLY FOOD STORES
Where Quality Counts

STANDARD TOMATOES	2 No. 2 cans	15c
BULK PRUNES	Sizes 70-80 4 Lbs.	25c
SUNBRITE CLEANSER	3 cans	13c
SANICO OATS	2 20-oz. pkgs.	15c
SUPER SUDS	4 pkgs.	25c
SANICO JELLY	3 8-oz. glasses	25c
STOKELY'S CATSUP	2 bots.	25c
LIBBY'S CORNED BEEF	2 cans	29c
LIBBY'S CORNED BEEF HASH	2 cans	29c
LIBBY'S TOMATO JUICE	4 cans	25c
LIBBY'S PEACHES	2 Lge. cans	35c
LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT	2 Lge. cans	19c
LIBBY'S TINEY KERNEL CORN	2 No. 2 cans	25c
LIBBY'S PINEAPPLE sliced	2 Lge. cans	37c
LIBBY'S PINEAPPLE JUICE	2 No. 2 cans	23c
BROOKFIELD BUTTER	Lb.	39c
SANITARY'S SPECIAL COFFEE	Lb.	19c
PURE CANE SUGAR	10 Lb. sack	49c
FRESH BREAKFAST EGGS	doz.	49c
CHUM SALMON	can	10c
NAVY BEANS	2 lbs.	9c
RED WING PRESERVES	2 1-lb. jars	35c
HILLCREST PEACHES	lge. can	15c
SANICO FLOUR	12 lb. sack	55c
SANICO PANCAKE FLOUR	2 pkgs.	15c
NEW ENGLAND SYRUP	pint bottle	17c
FRESH PORK LOINS	Whole or Half lb.	19c
FRESH HAMS	lb.	19c
CHUCK ROAST	lb.	18c
SANICO HAMS	Whole or Half lb.	19c
PRIME RIB ROAST	lb.	25c
BEEF LIVER	2 lbs.	25c
GROUND BEEF	2 lbs.	25c
END PORK CHOPS	lb.	20c
HORMEL'S SLICED BACON	lb.	31c

15 Fla. ORANGES For the Price of a dozen Priced at 19c to 35c per doz.

YORK Paragon or Winesap APPLES	4 lbs.	19c
OLD CABBAGE	2 lbs.	5c
SWEET POTATOES	4 lbs.	15c
TEXAS NEW POTATOES	4 lbs.	25c
WHITE or YELLOW ONIONS	2 lbs.	9c
FANCY BOX APPLES	4 lbs.	25c
BULK TURNIPS	3 lbs.	10c
FRESH CARROTS	2 bunches	15c
NEW CABBAGE	lb.	5c
MAINE POTATOES	10 lbs.	15c
TEXAS SPINACH	2 lbs.	19c

SANITARY & PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES
SANITARY GROCERY CO., INC.

Joint Congress Session Addressed by President + Picture News of Day's Events + Candid Camera Studies Of Accused Hauptmann

Associated Press Photo.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, as he charted his course for the Nation yesterday before the joint session of Congress. Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrns are behind the President. James Roosevelt is at the right.

Harris & Ewing.

Members of the President's Cabinet, as they were escorted into the House chamber to hear him. Left to right: Secretary of State Hull, Attorney General Cummings and Secretary Morgenthau, with Joseph J. Sinnott.

Associated Press Wirephoto.

FLEMINGTON, N. J.—Mrs. Bruno Hauptmann, wife of the man on trial for the murder of the Lindbergh baby, looks over news pictures taken of the trial.

Associated Press Wirephoto.

FLEMINGTON, N. J.—This is the first photo of the Hauptmann jury in the box,

FLEMINGTON, N. J.—These "candid camera" studies of Bruno Richard Hauptmann show many phases of the accused man's character, as revealed by the camera. They were taken yesterday. Associated Press Wirephoto.

The Washington Post

 WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, JANUARY 5, 1935

War Veteran Dies Feb. 15 For Slaying

Noah Newton Going to Chair for Killing of Woman.

Sentenced in Stafford Court After a Trial Without Jury.

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Noah C. Newton, 37-year-old World War veteran, was sentenced by Judge Frederick W. Coleman in Stafford Circuit Court today to die in the electric chair of the Virginia State Penitentiary on February 15, for the slaying of his sweetheart, Miss Josie Allen, 44, at his home in Stafford Sunday morning.

It was the first time in history in this section that an accused had been sentenced to death after trial without jury.

The special grand jury returned an indictment after 20 minutes of questioning and Newton was asked by Clerk James Ashby how he pleaded. "Guilty," was the reply.

Ready for Trial.

Newton's attorney, W. J. Gibson, said the accused was ready for trial.

With Commonwealth's Attorney G. B. Wallace present for the State, several persons in the homes of Newton and Miss Allen, which were only several hundred yards apart, were brought to the stand and questioned.

Immediately after arguments Judge Coleman pronounced sentence of death.

Gibson tried vainly to prove that the murder was not premeditated so that the life sentence might be imposed.

Newton, neatly dressed, on the stand told the story of the killing in a calm and deliberate voice without hesitation.

"I had tried to break off six months ago," he said, "but she kept coming back."

The slain woman's jealousy had been aroused, he said, when she learned only a few weeks ago that he had been going secretly with a cousin of Miss Allen.

Sunday morning, he said, Josie was called over to his home to pour some sweet oil into his mother's ear.

"When she got there," he continued, "we quarreled. I had been drinking all of Saturday night and Sunday. I pushed her away from me and then in a rage of passion I grabbed a gun and shot her."

Newton was taken to the Henrico County jail to await transfer to the penitentiary.

Furnace Blast Blamed In Briscoe Death

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP).—State's Attorney Bernard J. Wells today tentatively closed the investigation into the death of Miss Katharine Briscoe with the receipt of a report that she was killed by the explosion of a detonator cap in a furnace into which she was shoveling coal.

The report was submitted by Dr. Howard J. Madeis, Baltimore City post mortem physician; Dr. Robert W. Wood, physicist of the Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. W. B. D. Penniman, analytical chemist.

It said that in the ashes of the furnace was found a bunch of copper wire which was similar to that of other detonator caps. A piece of metal removed from the woman's body was classified as a piece of such a cap.

Most of the report was devoted to experiments conducted by the signers to determine the force of fragments blown from an exploded detonator. One test showed a metallic particle pierced a pine plank to a depth of about 3 inches.

"Our findings from the above observations," the investigators reported, "are that Miss Briscoe's death was caused by the explosion of a detonator, the end of which penetrated her lung."

540 Shoe Owners Answer Post Ad

From Alexandria, Egypt, comes the interesting news that one of its proud citizens, Mohamed Mustafa, age 23 years, has already attained the astounding height of 7 feet, 1½ inches. He is still growing at the rate of ¼ inch per month. Surgeons say this phenomenon is due to a swollen gland which they plan to cut out.

Happily, growth of Post Classified Ads is not caused by swollen glands, nor swelling heads, but to swell results as proved by the following: Mr. Albert Stein, young and progressive owner of The Enterprise Rapid Shoe Repair Co., 623 E St. N. W., has been using Post Classified Ads for the past eleven months. Results have been gratifying. Recently he opened a branch shop in Anacostia. He ran a Classified Display Ad announcing 'special values in shoe repairing. In two days, 540 Post Classified readers answered his offer.

Results are what you want—and results are what you get when you use Post Classified Ads.

If you wish to buy, sell, rent or exchange with speed and economy dial NAtional 4200 and a courteous and trained ad-writer will aid you in writing a result producing Classified Ad.

Jones Insane, Defense Says at End Of Girl Murder Trial at Fincastle

Associated Press Photo.

A detail of Virginia State police on guard at the Alleghany County Courthouse, Fincastle, Va., where Philip Jones, colored, is on trial.

Negro Not to Testify Verdict Seen Today, Violence Doubted.

Fincastle, Va., Jan. 4 (AP).—With obvious fear of risking Philip Jones on the witness stand for examination on his assertion that it was not he but a Clifton Forge white man who killed the two little Hill girls, Alice and Ellen, counsel for the Negro late today switched to an insanity plea.

This move was made in the face of a report already made to the court by three physicians of this vicinity that Jones is "sane within the meaning of the law."

After putting on four witnesses—all members of the Jones family—who testified that the defendant was weak mentally, and that he had fainting spells about twice a month, the defense rested.

While the prosecution prepared for its rebuttal, Judge Benjamin Haden announced that a night session would be held from 7 to 9 o'clock to complete the evidence. The case will go to the jury tomorrow after the preparation of instructions and closing arguments.

"White Man" Angle Dropped.

Testifying that the defendant inherited insanity from the mother's side of his family, Jone's father and his three sisters, Van Lou Johnson, Courtney Smith and Virginia Smith, were the only defense witnesses.

The change to the insanity plea apparently meant collapse of Defense Attorney T. Warren Messick's plans to prove his opening statement assertion that Jones would contend a white man, whose name and address he gave in court, "committed this hideous crime and Jones received an ugly leg wound trying to defend these little girls." The bodies of the girls, their heads battered in, were found soon after the crime was committed. The Commonwealth contends that an attempt was made to attack the older girl.

Sidney Jones, father of the accused, said the prisoner's grandfather died in the State Hospital for the Insane. The death certificate was introduced in evidence.

Sidney Jones added that Philip's mother—"before she died didn't know her own children." He said the defendant had a cousin now in a hospital for the insane, an uncle in an asylum in Cincinnati and that "Philip has been off since he was 2 years old."

"Confession" in Records.

Messick said his case would be brief and Judge Benjamin Haden, who ordered the trial moved from Covington to Fincastle after hearing reports of threatened violence, said he expected a verdict tomorrow.

The defense resorted to the insanity plea after losing its fight to prevent the introduction in evidence of a full confession purportedly made by Jones.

As admitted to evidence by Judge Haden, the confession fixes the entire crime on Jones and quotes him as saying, "It don't do no good to lie now."

A large crowd gathered at the opening of court today but dispersed after the proceedings had started behind closed doors. Police expressed some concern over the eventualities of a Saturday afternoon verdict in a small town but before the insanity angle was reinjected into the case, Judge Haden and Mayor Frank Wheeler, of Clifton Forge, said they had no fears of mob violence.

Denies Admitting Guilt.

"Even the Negroes of Clifton Forge want to see that Jones gets the full benefit of the law," said Wheeler, who arrested the defendant on the night of November 18 before the children's bodies were found.

Jones, on the stand yesterday in the jury's absence, said if he made any confession at all he didn't know about it because he was scared by threats which he said were made against him. He said the officers threatened to tie him to the rear bumper of an automobile and drag him from Roanoke to Clifton Forge and then turn him over to an angry mob which would kill him in Slaughter Pen Hollow.

The State used the hour preceding the supper recess with a parade of rebuttal witnesses, all of whom asserted they observed no insane actions by Jones.

Firemen's Leader Retires

Fred W. Forney, Officer in Friendship Company for 25 Years, Yields Captaincy; C. D. Barnett Succeeds Him.

Winchester, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Fred W. Forney, for 25 years an officer in Friendship Fire Company, 14 of which he served as captain, has retired from active leadership of the unit, Forney declined another term and C. D. Barnett, a member of 17 years' standing, was named his successor.

Other officers include Richard Boxwell, Wade Guard, Ryland Conner, George Eagle, jr., lieutenants; James Shyrock, secretary; James Loy, assistant secretary; W. C. Perry, treasurer; J. P. Reardon, counsel; Dr. C. R. Anderson, surgeon; Dr. George Snarr, assistant surgeon; the Rev. W. L. Dudley, the Rev. R. B. Nelson and the Rev. W. M. Brashears, chaplains; James P. Reardon, J. P. Haddox, William Deshow, W. E. Jones, Charles H. Harper, trustees; Lester Forney, driver; J. D. Collins, chief pipeman; Marshall Hollis, chief hoseman.

During the tenure of Capt. Forney more than $26,000 was invested in equipment and improvements to the hall, and the memebership increased from 400 to 600 members.

In 1932-33 Forney served as president of the Virginia State Firemen's Association.

Maryland Briefs

(Associated Press.)

Denton—Two domestic animals lost their lives in fire which yesterday destroyed the two-story tenant house of Miss Minnie Todd at Williston, near here. A dog refused to leave the burning house and a cat was so badly burned it had to be killed. The blaze started in a chimney.

Snow Hill—A management committee will take over the affairs of the Harrison Nurseries of Berlin, Md., at a general meeting of creditors here Tuesday. The company is one of the largest employers of unskilled labor in the section.

Frederick—No appointments of members for an efficiency and economy committee to draft legislation approved by the local farm bureau, grange and real estate board, have been made by a special group representing the three organizations. The group decided to wait until the next meeting.

Hagerstown—Recovering from gunshot wounds inflicted December 9, Mrs. Grace Peterson, 22-year-old mother of two children, has been removed to her home. Thomas Edward Tucker, 25, is in jail awaiting grand jury action in the shooting.

Firm Asks New Trial Of Compensation Suit

Frederick, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Motion for a new trial was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by Mrs. Theresa K. Ross, trading as the Conocacy Valley Canning Co. and the company's insurer, the Aetna Life Insurance Co., following the verdict of a jury the day before allowing Mrs. Florence R. Smith, this city, $5,000 compensation for fatal injuries received by her husband, the late William C. Smith, while employed at the canning plant. The jury reversed the judgment of the State Industrial Accident Commission, which previously declared that Mrs. Smith was not entitled to compensation.

That the verdict was against the evidence, that the court was in error in its ruling and instructions to the jury are among reasons given in the motion for a retrial.

'The First 1935 Baby' Showered With Gifts

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Master Osterheld has definitely clinched the title, "The First 1935 Baby," as no other claimant has stepped forward, and he was the recipient today of 30 gifts, ranging from socks to cap, donated by Fredericksburg merchants to the first youngster of the new year born in Fredericksburg.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Osterheld.

CCC Recruits Sent to Fort.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—One hundred and ninety-nine youths from Frederick and Washington Counties have been sent to Fort George G. Meade in the last two days, following their enlistment in CCC camps. Frederick County sent 79 and this county, 120. All were approved by the welfare board.

University City Plan Discarded

College Heights Joins University Park in Beating Proposal.

Proposals to incorporate College Heights and University Park in Prince George County, Md., were discarded yesterday when representatives of those communities cast a negative vote for the proposed "University City."

Members of the "University City" committee, meeting at College Park, Md., offered as an alternative the establishment of a "taxing area," or the incorporation of each of the communities.

Dr. T. B. Symons, director of the extension service of the University of Maryland and head of the committee, declared he believed the towns would be incorporated. It was decided to draw up a report to be submitted at a meeting to be held January 14.

Members of the committee who met yesterday with Dr. Symons were Dr. H. J. Patterson, dean of the college of agriculture, University of Maryland; Dr. H. B. McDonald, of the school's chemistry department, and Dr. L. B. Broughton, head of the chemistry department and president of the College Park Home and School Association.

The move to form "University City" is one of several moves to incorporate towns in the metropolitan area of Prince Georges County. Several are now being studied by various committees from the county's chamber of commerce.

Women's Benefit Body Re-elects Mrs. Burton

Mrs. M. D. Burton has been re-elected president of the Women's Benefit Association of Falls Church, Va. The new officers will be installed Tuesday night by Mrs. Mamie Flaherty of Richmond, managing deputy of the order.

Mrs. Isabel Cousins was named vice president; Mrs. H. A. Hollins, acting past president; Mrs. J. V. O'Neill, recording secretary and treasurer of the review; Mrs. Lillian Shaw, financial secretary; Mrs. Frances Shaw, chaplain; Mrs. George Middleton, lady of ceremonies; Mrs. Mary Vandermark, sergeant; Mrs. Dorothy Sterling, inner hostess; Mrs. Alfred Swift, outer hostess; Miss Margaret Kimball, junior supervisor and musician; Mrs. Pinkard, officer of the day; Mrs. George Middleton, musical director. The captain and two color bearers of the ritualistic guard will be appointed later.

Schools Get $27,846.

Waynesboro, Pa., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Out of $4,000,000 in overdue school subsidies paid by Pennsylvania, Franklin County today had in its possession $27,846.29, due last September and October.

Auto Dealer Faces Court In Code Fight

U. S. Judge Opens Hearing on Injunction Against Pine.

Defendant Accused of Selling Car Below Agreed Price.

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Judge John Paul, in United States District Court for Western Virginia, heard evidence all day in the petition of the Government for an injunction to restrain the Pine Motor Co., of Winchester, from violating the auto retailing code under the NRA.

The Court first will pass on whether interstate commerce was involved in the transactions. The Government maintains that the sales of automobiles is an act of interstate commerce and that violations of the code tend to "dam the flow" of such commerce. The defendant contends the question of interstate commerce is not involved, and, therefore, that the court has no jurisdiction.

This is the first case of its character ever heard in the western district of Virginia and has attracted wide interest in automobile circles.

Accused of Price Cutting.

The Government charges that Pine sold an automobile at $69 below the list price; that he used two automobiles without registering them as demonstrators, and that he operated a truck with the speedometer disconnected. The defendant maintains that he sold the car at a reduction because a new model had been announced, that the demonstrator cars were registered as soon as Pine was informed they had to be, and that the speedometer on the truck was defective and has not been disconnected.

It developed that Pine was "trapped" by other Winchester auto dealers in making the sale at a reduced price and a similar effort was made by Martinsburg dealers. In the latter case the transaction was not completed. Judge Paul warned that those who lead persons into violation of the law are guilty as accessories. He declared that no private citzen has a right of entrapment. Only the Government has this privilege. The Court hinted that in recurrence of such an act, he might ask the district attorney to prepare an indictment for the accessory.

Cites Court's Jurisdiction.

At the outset, the Court stated it had no jurisdiction if the transactions were not considered in interstate commerce. Judge Paul pointed out that even if the Pine Motor Co. signed the code agreement that would not make any difference. If the Federal Government has not the power to regulate a man's business, the man can not give it that power by signing an assent, he said. This must be governed by the Constitution, he added. However, the constitutionality of the NRA is not involved, judging from the testimony.

The Government sought to show that Pine's alleged violations were willful, as he had expressed himself as not being in sympatuy with the auto code. The Government, in supporting its argument that interstate commerce is involved, cited that Pine sold automobiles in West Virginia. It also contended that the dealer merely acted as the agent of the manufacturer and introduced the maker's warranty which goes with each automobile sold. The Government argued that the sale of automobiles is different from that of ordinary merchandise as there is a direct connection between the manufacturer and the buyer.

Government Witnesses.

Witnesses for the Government today were Ernest F. Taylor, of Richmond, secretary of the Virginia auto code authority; Joseph F. DeLaney, an assistant deputy administrator of the NRA; Walter E. Ernst, member of the national control committee of the auto retailing code authority; Fred B. Locker, of Charleston, auto code commissioner of West Virginia, and several Martinsburg and Winchester auto dealers.

Pine and John W. Chapman, salesman, were the only witnesses for the defendant. They took the stand after Judge Paul denied the motion to strike out all of the evidence.

The Government is represented by United States Attorney Joseph Chitwood, of Roanoke; Sam K. Funkhouser, of Roanoke, special NRA counsel; Preston King, a general counsel of the code authority from Washington, and Walter Scott, Richmond. The defendant is represented by State Senator Russell Cather and J. Sloan Kuykendall, of Winchester.

LOUIE'S
LIDO
ITALIAN-AMERICAN RESTAURANT
1208 18th St.
The Home of the Italian Dinner
Wine Included
75c and $1.00
Fresh Daily—Ravioli
Best of Sirloin Steak
Home Cooking
Also a la Carte Service
Drinks of All Kinds
Tortlar 8850

Virginia National Military Park Progressed Rapidly During '34

Average of 1,000 Workers Employed on Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania Project; Idea for Memorial Was Conceived in 1886.

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—During the year 1934 more progress was made in the building of the Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania National Military Park than in any year since a local group conceived the idea in 1886, only to see their plans frustrated by the failure of Congress to enthuse.

Under the National Park Service this year there were at work in the park an average of 1,000 men, 600 of whom were CCC workers and the salary list approximated $600,000. Contracts were let for $371,000 in road and bridge work, and much of this is nearing completion. As the park, in which are located the four great battlefields of Chancellorsville, Fredericksburg, Spotsylvania and the Wilderness, where more than 100,000 men fell, nears completion, 95 trucks and tractors are at work and the monthly supply bill for miscellanies and provisions is approximately $20,000.

While not willing to give out any official figures, Branch Spalding, acting superintendent, stated that the outlook for 1935 is encouraging.

The immediate erection of a new colonial type office building at a cost which will exceed $50,000 is one of the first projects. Markers will be placed soon on the Fredericksburg field, at an initial cost of $9,000, and within the near future it is probable that a sum many times greater will be available for more markers on this and other battlefields in the area. The allotment for the park made this fiscal year was $1,021,000.

More roads are to be built and plans for beautifying the park are now maturing.

Social and Club Notes
Of Towns and Cities in Nearby States

Richmond, Va.—The Garden Club of Virginia has again announced that it will sponsor a "Virginia historic garden week" and has set the week of April 22 for the event. The owners of more than 100 famous old estates in Virginia already have agreed to allow their places to be shown.

The tour in 1935 will be featured by the return of the James River plantation belt. Brandon, Upper Brandon and Claremont were among the estates not shown last year, which will be open for four days of the six during Garden Week. The owners all over Virginia are showing a splendid spirit of cooperation, according to Mrs. Lewis G. Larus, the chairman, who states that the finest list of places ever shown to the public will be open during 1935.

Head Nurse Weds.

Charles Town, W. Va.—Announcement was made here of the marriage of Miss Mary P. Dale, head nurse at Charles Town General Hospital for the past ten years, to Mort P. Green, of Boston, Mass. The marriage was performed in Hagerstown, Md., December 27. News was revealed in a letter from Mrs. Green to the directors of the hospital in which she submitted her resignation.

Mrs. Green left ten days ago ostensibly on a leave of absence, although it was disclosed later she had intimated to friends her intention to wed. Mr. and Mrs. Green are at present en route to California.

4-H Will Meet.

Leonardtown, Md.—The January meeting of the 4-H Club of Margaret Brent High School will be held on January 8 in the school building at Helen. An address will be made by J. C. Jenkins, chief of the 4-H work of Maryland, with headquarters at College Park. Plans for the work of the coming year will be made. James Gough is president.

Margaret Reed Engaged.

Purcellville, Va.—Mrs. Charles Reed, of Purcellville, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Margaret, to Lieut. Edward Gilbert Farrand, son of Mrs. George D. Farrand, of New Canaan, Conn.

Miss Reed was graduated from the Walter Reed Nursing School in 1928 and is now on duty at West Point, N. Y. Lieut. Farrand was graduated from West Point in 1927 and is a French instructor at that institution.

The wedding will take place in the spring.

Engineers' Auxiliary Elects.

Martinsburg, W. Va.—Mrs. W. L. Brown was elected and installed as president of the local unit of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at a public session here last night.

Other officers named and installed were: Vice president, Mrs. H. S. Prosser; secretary, Mrs. Charles Grozinger; treasurer, Mrs. W. G. Keplinger; relief secretary, Mrs. Sallie Armstrong; chaplain, Mrs. William Pyne; guide, Mrs. William Hayward; sentinel, Mrs. Jack Alderton. Appointive officers were named as follows: Musician, Mrs. E. V. Shade; flag bearer, Mrs. Sophia Ridings; pillars, Mrs. James Keesecker, Mrs. E. E. Butts, Mrs. E. R. Thompson, Mrs. L. W. Carper; marshals, Mrs. Florence Perrell, Mrs. E. B. Dorn.

To Hear Travel Talk.

Shepherdstown, W. Va.—The regular monthly meeting of Pack Horse Ford Chapter, N. S. D. A. R., will be held at the home of Mrs. H. T. Licklider on Monday.

Following the business session, a travel talk will be given by Mrs. Rolph Gerhart, of Charles Town, W. Va., who has recently returned from an extensive trip to many of the northern European countries.

Falls Church Group To Present 3 Plays

Three plays are to be presented tonight by members of the Senior Dramatic Club of Jefferson High School, of Falls Church, Va., for the benefit of the High School Library purchasing fund.

The cast of "The Dress Rehearsal," a one-act farce, includes Harold Parrott, Wesley Martin, Thomas Carter, Richard Hollins, Marvin Davis and Billy Brown. Bryne Ware, Dorothy Reynolds, Mary Hinton, Edith Robey and George Ballard will present a one-act comedy "On the Air." "Her Radio Romeo," a two-act comedy, will be given by Jean Robertshaw, Dita Davis, Ann Prior, Homer Herrman, Alonzo Allison and Wesley Martin.

Services Arranged For Mrs. J. G. Lewis

Funeral services for Mrs. J. Gertrude Lewis, who died Thursday at her home, 114 Poplar avenue, Takoma Park, Md., will be held at the residence today at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Gaithersburg, Md. The Rev. R. Paul Schearrer, pastor of the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, will officiate.

Mrs. Lewis is survived by her husband, Arthur T. Lewis, and two daughters, Miss Gertrude E. Lewis and Mrs. Mabelle A. Andrews, all of Takoma Park.

Bank Shareholders to Meet.

Leonardtown, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—A meeting of the shareholders of the First National Bank of St. Marys County has been called for January 8 for the purpose of electing directors and transacting other business.

Judge Supports Woman's Equality, Sends Her to Jail

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP).—Finding no difference in the eyes of the law between a man and a woman defendant, Judge Robert F. Stanton sentenced Miss Katherine E. Coonan, 27-year-old lawyer's secretary, to 18 months in the House of Correction for theft of $3,253 from her employer.

Judge Stanton said several persons had asked leniency because she is a woman.

You Be the Judge
For You DO Know Good Whiskey

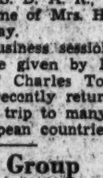
HILLCREST SPECIAL

$1.25 Pint



AMBER GOLD

This blend owes its smoothness to its abundant content of four-year-old whiskey.

Amber Gold is all whiskey and is blended with four-year-old whiskey.

WE ARE SURE YOU WILL LIKE IT

HUB LIQUOR SHOP
1349 Penn. Ave. N.W. ME. 6612

Free State Orders 10% Electric Cut

$325,000 Reduction in Annual Revenues to Result.

Cumberland, Frederick and Hagerstown Are Affected.

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP).—The State public service commission today ordered a 10 per cent cut in the gross revenues for electric service by the Potomac-Edison Co. This cut will effect a reduction of not less than $325,000 in the annual revenues derived from electric services.

Five counties served by the company will be affected by the order. They are Frederick, Washington, Carroll, Montgomery and Howard. The principal cities affected are Cumberland, Hagerstown and Frederick.

The commission set the value of the Potomac-Edison properties at $16,566,050, denying the company's claim for a $26,000,000 valuation. A 6½ per cent return on the valuation decided upon will yield $899,546, the commission found.

A full cut, founded on the new valuation, would have totaled $345,645. The actual cut made allowed a "cushion" of approximately $23,000 for possible increases in taxes and other expenses.

Municipal Plants To Be Sought.

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP).—Several Maryland municipalities are planning to seek legislative authorization during the current session of the State General Assembly for establishment of municipally owned utility plants, it was learned today.

At least three Maryland cities now have such plants and agitation for similar arrangements has been carried on in other communities recently. The electric power policy of the Federal Government, as exemplified in the Tennessee Valley Authority project, has given impetus to the Maryland plans.

Hagerstown now has a municipally owned electric and water system, Centreville has the same, and Easton owns the electric, water and gas plants.

The proposal for legislation to authorize establishment of such plants is included among many other proposals for legislation during the current session, which have been pushed into the background by the pressing problems of relief, social legislation, new taxes and State expenditures which have been major issues for several months.

County Revenues Exceed Expenses

Anne Arundel Collects $920,765 in 1934.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 4 (AP).—Collection of taxes in Anne Arundel County during 1934 totaled $920,765.03, giving the county a surplus of $45,940.55 over the $874,824.48 budget set by the board of county commissioners for the period.

C. Albert Hodges, county treasurer, reported today that during the year he had collected $607,374.02 in 1934 taxes, or 76 per cent of the $792,224.48 assigned to him for collection. A total of $313,391.01 was collected in delinquent taxes for years running from 1923 through 1933.

Hodges pointed out that collections were better than in several years, the total in back taxes received being higher than in 1932 and 1933. Current taxes collected in 1932 were 68.5 per cent of the total for that year, compared to 62 per cent in 1933.

!

Good Morning! Warm robes, gloves, mufflers, underwear, sweaters, are included in our January Clearance. The very things that you need now; the very things that are sure to "benefit" by having their prices increase under the pressure of returning prosperity.

Meyers
MENS SHOP
1331 F STREET

A New Comedy To Have First Local Showing

Sterling Cast Engaged to Enact Stellar Roles in Langners' Newest.

Reprinted From Yesterday's Last Edition.

By Nelson B. Bell.

It is all due to that long distance phone call from Anne Grosvenor Ayres speaking from New York yesterday afternoon.

I mean about this week of January 14 business at the National Theater. In this space yesterday, the week of January 14 at the National was an open date. It is far from being that this morning. I am reasonably sure of this because directly I had concluded the pleasant conversation with Anne in New York, Panjandrum Stephen E. Cochran, of the National, called up and corroborated everything I had just been told—which was something as follows and to-wit:

A week from next Monday night, following the engagement of the Abbey Theater Irish Players from Dublin, the National will present for the first time on any stage—save that of the summer theater conducted at Westport, L. I., during the past heated term, as some of us call summer—a new modern comedy by Lawrence Langner and Armina Marshall, authors of "The Pursuit of Happiness." The production will be under the auspices of Crosby Gaige and Charles Heidt.

Boasts Fine Cast.

The title of the new piece is "On to Fortune." It will have in its principal roles three admirable players in the persons of Roy Atwell, Ilka Chase and Glenn Anders. Miss Chase, at the moment, is an important member of the cast of "Revenge With Music," one of the sprightlier of the Broadway hits, but, so Miss Ayres tells me, will abandon that professional activity in order to participate in the newer play.

It is, perhaps, a bit of a dash of the old irony of fate that Roy Atwell should have sat on his Westport veranda last summer, when "On to Fortune" was being tried out, too busy doing nothing to walk down the street and see it played—and here he is now cast in the leading role!

Among the supporting players are others who are entitled to a nod, notably Myron McCormick, of the cast of "Small Miracle;" John T. Doyle, prominent in most of the casts assembled by one George Michael Cohan; Edwin McNamara, Hugh Rennie, Mary Rogers—who would be the Mary Howard who crashed the films not so long ago under a nom de theatre because she wished not to capitalize upon the popularity of her daddy, a reasonably well-known comic gentleman by the name of Will Rogers—and Worthington Miner, one of the more competent of the younger directors in whom Washington feels an especial interest by reason of the fact that in private life he is the husband of Frances Fuller, young Washingtonian, by adoption, whose last personal appearance here was with Roland Young, Laura Hope Crews and Elizabeth Patterson in "Her Master's Voice."

Mr. Miner, in this production, is both director and actor and relays the information to this department through Miss Ayres that if he is spared just this once he will never be caught acting again. On the quiet in a confidential aside, Miss Ayres drops the hint that he is extremely amusing in his part.

Now then, with the Abbey Theater Players coming in on Monday, that accounts for the National something over a month in advance, save only for the week of January 21, which still remains open at time of writing. The week of January 28, Cornelia Otis Skinner will be the National's attraction in a program of her unique character studies. On February 4, Walter Huston, Fay Bainter and Ann Sunderland will be seen in the Sidney Howard dramatization of Sinclair Lewis' "Dodsworth," and then on February 11 will come that long-awaited musical smash, "As Thousands Cheer," the Sam H. Harris revue that ran forever at the Music Box Theater in New York last season.

We Receive Another Letter.

Under date of January 2, 1925—and he refuses to make the blunder of calling it 1924—Frank Baer accepts our recent invitation to write another letter "a couple of days after New Year's," when all gratuitious contributions are received with loud huzzas by columnists of whatever ilk, New Years being what they are. Says Mr. Baer on this occasion:

Dear Nelson: No, I won't pursue the discussion of Jerome D. Kern, even though I've seen "Sweet Adeline" and admired it—in spots. Seeing the picture—which shows its finest pictorial quality in the "Lonely Feet" number—I am reminded that the film buyers and directors and bigwigs are still pretty adolescent when it comes to musical films. And they all should be made to sit by the fire some enchanting Hollywood night and read Sean O'Casey's "Within the Gates" in order that they may learn how to properly merge music and dialogue. And acquire, if they can, the art of fine dialogue and the rhythmic finesse that builds to real musical-dramatic climax.

Of course, we'll see "Within the Gates" before they do and I trust you say something by way of extended remarks before the play gets here. Mabel van Dyke has seen it and assures me it is superb. And Arling Alcine, the general stage manager for Bushar and Tuerk, writes me that the production is expertly staged and simply glows in tempo and fire. As for myself, I have read only the printed version, but that five times.

O'Casey is, I am convinced, a true Elizabethan, who feels that the theater is much greater than we moderns seem to think. Somewhere he has written: "We have become too clever by half. Our graceful and polished manner of playwrighting has sucked the life and soul out of the drama. It is now . . . the pretty chambermaid to the lascivious . . . Imagination has been lavished on the sheen of silk stockings and short chemises . . . We must go back for help and inspiration to the good and great men. We must bring back to the drama its one-time simple austerity (I think Maxwell Anderson is helping on this point—F. B.), its swinging merriment, its beauty in music of word and color of scene, and its tragedy too deep for tears. Drama must be great, or at least fine, whether she has the lance in her breast or the crown on her head . . . If we are to confine the drama to a sober and exact imitation of life, then the drama is dead, for life itself is much more interesting than its sober and actual imitation. What realists take for life is but a faintly warmed-up corpse."

If the film producers could cut away from this bald and deadly imitation and give imagination a play I truly believe that the musical films would be lifted to a higher plane, and at the same time retain their much-touted box office value. Referring to Adeline again, the backstage atmosphere was distinctly thrill-less. We have reached, statistics certainly will prove, a saturating point on grease-paint romances. Oscar Hammerstein 2d should turn his face to the wall. In both "Adeline" and "Music in the Air" he overworked that motif.

Yours for a 1935 of prosperity without inflation.

FRANK BAER.

Thanks, Frank, for the lift over the soggy spots. It seems to me, now, that the next likely spot for another "letter to the editor" would be a couple of days or so after Lincoln's birthday, which isn't a national holiday in the District, or possibly Washington's, which is. How's aboutcha?

This department makes grateful acknowledgment of cards signifying that Mr. James Brennan, secretary of the Irish Free State Legation in Washington, will receive Sunday afternoon in honor of the Abbey Theater Irish Players from Dublin, who will open a week's engagement in the National Theater on next Monday night. This is an honor which has been bestowed upon the Irish Players on all of their recent appearances in Washington—and one richly deserved. There is no finer acting company to be seen upon the English-speaking stage.

Aces on the Way.

Bing Crosby, Kitty Carlisle and Roland Young in "Here Is My Heart;" Paul Muni, with Bette Davis and Margaret Lindsay in "Bordertown," on the screen; Donald Novis, Atwater Kent audition winner the same year that Hazel Arth won the feminine award, and Rubinoff "and his violin," are the four blue-ribbon winners made known by Zone Manager John J. Payette, of the Warner Brothers' interests in Washington, as the major attractions to be looked forward to at the Earle Theater during the months of January and February.

These, it is pointed out, however, are merely forerunners of a considerable auxiliary list of attractions that will embrace Rudy Vallee in "Sweet Music," "Devil Dogs of the Air," a Cosmopolitan production with James Cagney and Pat O'Brien; "The Right to Live," with Josephine Hutchinson and George Brent and "Gold Diggers of 1935," featuring Dick Powell, Gloria Stuart and Adolphe Menjou.

So now you know.

I-Hope-You-Don't Note.

Say, you Phil Furr, Natie Brown and anybody else that can mix, how's about knocking out this upper molar that is giving me whatfor?

Yes, I heard you, but I am afraid Dentist-Judge Bob Eller would call it a draw!

Jurors' Inspection Trip Causes Retrial of Suit

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Because three jurors sitting in a damage suit went to inspect the scene of the accident during a noon recess, the court here today ordered a new trial in the case of Mrs. Helen Barr, who had been awarded $789 for alleged injuries suffered in tripping over a sidewalk door on property of the Schindel heirs here.

The court overruled the contention of plaintiff counsel that any additional information the jurors had obtained themselves had not influenced the verdict.

Their Engagements Are Continued

In the role of Lady Babbie in Sir James Matthew Barrie's "The Little Minister," Katharine Hepburn, pictured above at left, has achieved one of her major screen successes. The run of this excellent picture will continue another week at RKO-Keith's. Another star whose vehicle is setting records is Joan Crawford, above at right, who will be seen in "Forsaking All Others" for another week on the screen at Loew's Palace, where she is supported by Clark Gable, Robert Montgomery and Charles Butterworth.

Party Leaders See Wilkinson As Road Chief

Nicklin Also Mentioned for Post; Both From Allegany County.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—There is a growing opinion among Republican leaders in Allegany County, including several who have recently been in Baltimore in consultation with party leaders there, that Charles Nice Wilkinson, who led the fight for Governor-elect Harry W. Nice in Allegany County, will receive one of the main State appointments. Wilkinson's name has been connected with the chairmanship of the State roads commission, a position that has been vacant for six months. He is city collector of Cumberland.

It is thought that no more than one big State job will come to Allegany County and Wilkinson's friends believe he has the call, although Perry A. Nicklin, reelected county treasurer in November, is looked upon as a strong contender. Nicklin has had considerable experience in the matter of road construction.

County Tax Collector John J. Stump has been mentioned in connection with the position of State insurance commissioner, now held by William C. Walsh, of this city, and Gov. Ritchie's leading backer in Allegany County, but it is the belief the appointment will go to another part of the State, most likely Baltimore.

For Cumberland peoples' court magistrates, two to be named, those most prominently mentioned are Paul M. Fletcher and Julius E. Schindler, both members of the Allegany County bar.

A woman has been mentioned in connection with the judgeship of the Allegany County juvenile court. She is Mrs. James H. Cook, superintendent of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Sanitarium and chairman of the sunshine committee of the Woman's Civic Club. Another being considered for this place, leaders say, is former City Councilman James M. Conway. Mrs. Cook has been prominent as a party worker and at one time served on the State central committee. There may be a compromise, whereby the matronship of the juvenile court would go to her.

It is announced that a number of Allegany County Democrats who supported Nice during the campaign are going to Annapolis with a group of local Republican leaders for the inauguration next Wednesday. This party, numbering about 60, will occupy a special Baltimore & Ohio coach. It is expected that 200 will go from this section.

1,332 Acres Left By Liskey's Will

7 Farms, Worth $90,000 in Virginia Estate.

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—The will of J. R. Liskey, filed for probate in the Rockingham clerk's office here, leaves seven farms, aggregating 1,332 acres, to his widow and five children.

His estate is appraised at $90,000 and is one of the largest recorded here for several years. Mr. Liskey was regarded as Rockingham's largest land owner. He also owned an interest in valuable real estate in Harrisonburg. All of the farm property is located within a few miles of Harrisonburg.

During his life Mr. Liskey was one of the most substantial contributors to the First United Brethren Church, of which he was a trustee. He also was a trustee of Shenandoah College.

Girl Is Shot to Death By Brother in Home

Franklin, W. Va., Jan. 4.—The 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Riggleman, of Upper Tract, this county, was killed at the home when her brother, 15, accidentally discharged a shotgun.

The shot entered the girl's head.

The mother was away from home on a visit, and the father also was absent when the tragedy occurred. The children were playing in the one-room log cabin home. No inquest was ordered.

Death Claims Captain Moon, Hero of Seas

Civil, Spanish War Veteran Enlisted at 14; Once Saved 14 in Storm.

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP).—Capt. Thomas Orlando Moon, 86-year-old master mariner, Civil and Spanish-American Wars veteran and hero of several rescues at sea, died today at his home in Lansdowne, near here.

Capt. Moon, a native of Virginia, was schooled for the ministry, but at the age of 14 years—during the Civil War—he appeared at a naval recruiting station. He had eaten enough bananas to get his weight to a point where he could pass the enlistment requirements.

The boy told a sad story of being an orphan, and was finally accepted and assigned to the cruiser Nansemond as a ship's boy, in which capacity he served in several of the hottest engagements of the war. Returning to school after the war, he stayed only a few months, running away to sea again.

As mate of the three-masted schooner Carrie A. Lane on a 171-day passage around Cape Horn, Moon had to fight a mutiny with a capstan bar as a club and in the middle of a terrific gale forced his men to work to save the ship.

As master of the steamboat Hercules in the Spanish-American War he located the Spanish fleet in the harbor of Manila and reported their whereabouts to Admiral Schley. He later followed the Merrimac, commanded by Richard Pearson Hobson, into Santiago Harbor in an attempt to block the Spanish fleet's only way of escape.

Capt. Moon, in January, 1902, rescued 14 persons from two barges he was towing in a blinding sleet and snowstorm off the Diamond Shoals lightship, later being forced to let his tows sink. During the World War he commanded coastwise and transatlantic ships, being too old for naval service.

Services for Miss Whitmer.

Culpeper, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Miss Nettie A. Whitmer, who died at her home in Takoma Park, Md., after a brief illness of pneumonia.

She is survived by a brother and three sisters, Charles Whitmer, of Charles Town, W. Va.; Miss Cora Whitmer, Mrs. William Hite and Mrs. William Hughes, of Takoma Park, and an aunt, Mrs. Randolph P. Rixey, of Culpeper.

Mrs. Hungerford Buried.

Leonardtown, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Funeral services were held yesterday for Mrs. Reeder Hungerford, 72, who died on January 1, at her home near Wayside.

Mrs. Hungerford was a member of a prominent Charles County family and is survived by her husband, John Hungerford, and one son, Reeder Hungerford, of Washington, D. C.

Markley Will Head Martinsburg Unit

C. S. Rainey Elected Vice Grand of Tuscarora.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—E. F. Markley was elected noble grand of Tuscarora Lodge, No. 24, I. O. Odd Fellows, at the annual session here last night. Other officers named were vice grand, C. S. Rainley; secretary, Robert Mason, jr.; financial secretary, W. P. Snyder; treasurer, C. L. Jackson; trustee, D. S. Mason.

At the same time Horeb Encampment, No. 12, elected the following officers: Chief patriarch, C. W. Siler; high priest, J. Wesley Rice; senior warden, L. P. Manspeaker; junior warden, C. S. Rainey; scribe, J. B. Heck; treasurer, John E. Oliver.

These officers of both branches and those to be appointed later will be installed later in this month.

Mrs. Barton Resigns Welfare Board Post

Winchester, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Mrs. Robert T. Barton, chairman of the Winchester and Frederick County board of public welfare since it was created in 1922, has resigned and Mrs. Lewis H. Hyde, one of the members of the original board, has been named to serve as her successor, it was announced today by Miss Margaret Hurst, director.

In accepting the resignation of Mrs. Barton, members of the board warmly commended her record and success in shaping the policies of the board through recent trying years. Other members of the board are C. I. Brumback, Logan Fay, M. M. Lynch, John Rosenberger, jr., and Mrs. Fred Whitacre.

True Story

Man Tells Reporter He's Going to End Life, Then Is Saved.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—After telling a newspaper reporter that a Roanoke (Va.) girl had jilted him after he had divorced his wife for her and describing plans for his suicide, Frank F. Kershner, 40, of Alderson, was prevented from doing so in a room of a downtown hotel.

The newspaperman, who had been summoned to the hotel by Kershner for the "advance" story of his death, called police, and they later broke down a door of the hotel room and found Kershner had tried to make the story good. The windows were tightly closed, Kershner was lying on a bed and a gas jet was wide open.

Police found two notes in the room addressed to the man's former wife and his sweetheart.

Broadway

By Ed Sullivan

Manhattan Promenade

IT IS June in January, to borrow the words of the latest popular song hit . . . The sun, slanting between the dignified buildings of genteel Park avenue, finds most of New York afoot, much to the disgust of the cab drivers, crouched morosely behind the wheels of their gaily colored conveyances.

Of all the city boulevards, Park avenue has the most swagger . . . It has an air of Ronald Colman sleekness about it . . . Parting it precisely in the middle is a thin, patrician strip of park, the only park that was built as a face-lifting operation.

Underneath the strip of park are the tracks of the New York Central and New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads that carry passengers down east to staid New England, or west to bustling Chicago . . . The huge Waldorf-Astoria, on the east side of the street, is part of this New York Central empire of steel bands, a colossal tribute in stone to the business of carrying animal and human freight.

Passing directly in front of it now is Nathan Burkan, one of the more famous lawyers of the era . . . He is the city's most accomplished sleeper, oddly enough . . . He gets to bed promptly at 6 o'clock every evening and he rarely goes out at night.

Three years ago, he would have expressed contempt for such an existence, because three years ago, Burkan was up at 6 a. m., riding a spirited mount along the leafy aisles of Central Park . . . At 3 p. m. you'd find him at an indoor or outdoor tennis court . . . You know the type, a middle-aged professional man who modestly believes that he could belt out Dempsey in a free-for-all . . . The doctors warned him one day, after a heart attack, that the exercise must stop . . . He stopped it immediately . . . He looks better and feels better than he's felt in all his life, and he came through the Whitney-Vanderbilt case, which required him to be on his feet five hours a day, in great shape . . . Other middle-aged men who think they're athletes might take a lesson from Nathan Burkan.

A BLOCK AWAY, peering into a smart haberdashery, is Will Stewart, New York clubman, cosmopolitan and closest friend of Vincent Astor . . . He is in real life what Adolphe Menjou would like to be . . . Independently wealthy, he lives an exciting and glamorous life, quietly . . . His bachelor apartment at the River Club is probably the handsomest in town.

Stewart, who has accompanied Astor and President Roosevelt on more than one yachting trip, has an unusual hobby . . . He collects labels from liquor bottles, and is inordinately proud of his own patented process for sweating off the labels . . . One entire room of his apartment is entirely covered with them, ceiling and walls . . . If he is on a party and he sees a rare label, it is dollars to cents that before the night is over, he'll have it.

On the other side of the street is Nick Schenck, powerfully built dynamo of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization . . . He is still chuckling over the New Year's Eve party which he tendered to some close friends at Atlantic City.

A. C. Blumenthal, one of his guests, could have saved him the expense of a piano player . . . Blumenthal is one of the best amateur pianists in the city . . . At 5, he was a child prodigy and when John Philip Sousa, on tour, visited in San Francisco, Blumenthal, the child prodigy, composed a march for his band . . . He is boyishly proud of the University of California class books which show him as a midget member of the U. of C. band.

THE DAPPER gentleman striding by is Bill Erb, one of the tycoons of the Tyson ticket agencies . . . Years ago, he was the all-American quarter back at Leland Stanford University, the same Stanford that battled Alabama in the Rose Bowl.

Harry Richman breezes along, a yellow muffler setting off a lamb-skin coat . . . Shortly he goes South with his aeroplanes to bask in the Miami sun, and live the life of a feudal lord in the home he bought from the yeast empire, the Fleischmann mansion . . . Richman has a hobby too . . . In his Long Island home, the downstairs bar has a curtain made entirely of strings of champagne corks.

Limping along on a cane is Charlie Winninger, costar of the Libby Holman show . . . He cracked his ankle, rested for two weeks and then returned to the New Amsterdam stage . . . It was only a minor tragedy to him, because Winninger remembers the night at the George M. Cohan Theater when newsboys, in the middle of a Blanche Ring musical, tore down the center aisles with the "extras" that screamed the news of the Titanic sinking.

Lady Furness and Gloria Vanderbilt alight from a limousine . . . The partly opened door reveals the knitting Gloria has dropped in the seat . . . She and her sister are two of the greatest needle-workers in the city . . . During the long trial, Gloria knitted a sweater for 10-year-old Gloria . . . The youngster got the sweater, but her mother didn't get her daughter back . . . It is June in January in Manhattan, and the sun spreads a golden blanket on the sidewalks of New York.

(Copyright, 1935.)

Carroll Share Of U. S. Grants Set at $260,134

Federal Land Bank Loans Only Are Estimated at $97,800.

Westminster, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—A survey of the court records of Carroll County has revealed that a total of $260,134.43 was loaned to property owners throughout the county during 1934 by various Federal agencies, including the Federal Land Bank, Land Bank Commissioner, Home Owners Loan Corporation, Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, and the Frederick Production Credit Association.

During the past year, Federal Land Bank loans, which required 5 per cent of the loan to be made in land bank stock, totaled $97,800. Loans secured from the Land Bank Commissioner, requiring no purchase of stock, amounted to $89,800. The Home Owners Loan Corporation, in the same period, granted loans totaling $60,686.09, while loans for the purchase of seed, fertilizer, and farm supplies from the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, and the Frederick Production Credit Association, amounted to $11,848.34 in 1934.

When a review of Federal loans in the county was made last spring, it was estimated that practically 50 per cent of the loans made by the Federal Lank Bank, and the Land Bank Commissioner, could be traced directly to the closing of several county banks which forced a large number of mortgagers to take advantage of this system in order to save their properties. The remaining 50 per cent of the loans, it was disclosed, went to mortgagees who wished to be relieved of their liens, and to farmers who wished to refinance their indebtedness.

Since the first Federal Land Bank mortgage was recorded here in 1923, loans totaling $275,800 have been made to 79 persons in the county. The land covered by these loans was in excess of 9,400 acres. At the present these mortgages cover more than 7,500 acres, owing to the fact that 13 mortgages involving $38,500, have been released, and foreclosures have been made in five instances. The foreclosures involved loans totaling $22,200 on approximately 600 acres of land.

Eddy Named Manager Of Hospital Campaign

Winchester, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Richard K. Eddy has been appointed manager of the Winchester Memorial Hospital campaign for group hospitalization.

Mr. Eddy, who is a graduate of Washington and Lee University, declared today that the group hospitalization plan is attracting considerable interest here. Hospital attaches declare it will make available hospitalization for many who otherwise would be unable to avail themselves of such facilities.

3,000 Opposing Sunday Movies

Churches in Hagerstown Sponsor Fight on Blue Law Repeal.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan 4 (Spl.).—Petitions bearing the names of 3,000 persons opposed to the legalizing of Sunday movies in Hagerstown will be sent to the General Assembly Monday, the Rev. Frank G. Coleman, president of the Washington County Ministerial Association, announced today.

County churches also are circulating petitions to be sent to the Assembly.

The petitions in the churches were put in circulation after several local theaters circulated cards among patrons asking them to signify whether or not they desired Sunday movies here. Approximately 4,000 voted in favor of Sunday movies in the first week the cards were circulated. These will be placed in the hands of Washington County's representatives in the General Assembly, who have given no indication of their sentiments on the question.

Any action that would be taken in the Assembly would provide for a referendum at the next election, it was indicated.

2 Churches Install New Pastor Jan. 13

Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin to Assume Duties.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—The Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin will be installed as the pastor of the Shepherdstown and Kearneysville (W. Va.) Presbyterian Churches on Sunday, January 13, to succeed the Rev. J. W. Witherspoon, retired.

The Rev. Mr. McLaughlin was named at a special session of the Winchester (Va.) Presbytery this week.

The commission appointed to conduct the installation includes the Rev. Dr. J. A. McMurray, Hedgesville, chairman; the Rev. Dr. G. G. Sydnor, of Charles Town, and the Rev. E. B. McGirkin, Winchester, with the Rev. H. H. Leach, moderator, of Shenandoah Junction, as ministerial alternate. There also are two elders on the commission, chosen to represent the two congregations.

Alexandrian Seized As Numbers Runner

Charged with operating a lottery, Robert Lee Nowland, 33, of Alexandria, Va., an alleged "numbers" runner, was arrested at Grant road and District avenue northeast, late yesterday.

He told police he made about $7 a day. They found about $87 in cash and a number of slips in his possession, police said. Nowland had not made bond late last night.

Fire Killing Six Under Inquiry For Negligence

Blaze Takes Lives of Boys in Baltimore; 13 Firemen Hurt in Blast.

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP).—An investigation was started to day to determine whether there was any criminal negligence in a fire that took the lives of six colored boys trapped in the basement of a cleaning establishment here.

While grief-stricken relatives identified the death victims of last night's blaze and a seventh youth was in a critical condition at a hospital, Coroner J. S. H. Potter asserted:

"I will investigate every angle of the fire to ascertain whether anyone is guilty of criminal negligence."

In the meantime, 13 firemen, injured by two explosions in another fire here last night, were still in a hospital for treatment. Two of the more seriously injured were Theodore A. Seward, his abdomen punctured by flying glass, and Wilburt Pulker, his skull possibly fractured.

An element of mystery attached to the explosion, described by firemen as a "sudden roar and a flash." The blast occurred while the firemen were battling a blaze which swept a dress shop. Fire Chief Edward H. Warr said it also would be investigated.

Firemen reported that because of the intensity of the cellar fire it was impossible to rescue the colored youths. Burned from head to foot, Richard Smith, 12, the sole survivor, gasped out an explanation of how the blaze started.

He said the seven had gone into the basement to play cards. One of them, handling a hot furnace poker, happened to drop it in a bucket of celluloid buttons nearby. There was an explosion and soon the entire room was blazing.

Smith managed to scramble outside. Firemen later found the bodies of his companions floating in three feet of water in the drenched cellar.

The six victims were identified as Reginald Wilson, 10; Ralph Hinton, 12; William H. Reddick, 11; Wilmer Sutton, 14; Edward Robinson, 14, and Andrew White, 11.

Husband Is Cited On Alimony Count

Accused of Not Paying Pending Divorce Suit.

Frederick, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Mrs. Catherine D. Joy, near Libertytown, has filed a petition in the circuit court asking that John T. Joy be declared in contempt of court for failing to make alimony payments pending his suit for divorce, which was dismissed by the court December 3.

She alleges that the court issued an order June 22, after Joy filed his suit, requiring him to pay her $40 per month during the tenure of the case. She declares that he complied with the order in June, July and August, but owes for October and November, and also $14 for two weeks' support of their child.

Judge Arthur D. Willard signed an order requiring Joy to show cause by January 8 why he should not be judged in contempt of court for failing to comply with the alimony payments.

662 Needy Receiving Relief at Salisbury

Salisbury, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—With the winter relief roll nearing its peak, 662 persons were being given part-time employment at the close of December, Lieut. Brady J. Dayton, chairman of the county Federal relief board, said today.

Of the number, 600 were men and 62 women.

AMUSEMENTS.

EGON PETRI
Famous Dutch Pianist
Sun. Jan. 6, 3:30, National Theater
Tickets, $1.10, $1.65, $2.20. T. Arthur Smith Bureau, 1330 G in Kitt's. Na 3700

GAYETY BURLESK
Starting This Sunday Matinee
JEAN BEDINI'S PEEK-A-BOO CO.
Added Attraction
ANN NORTON
The Beautiful.

RKO KEITH'S 15TH AT G
2ND WEEK!
HEPBURN
in Sir JAMES M. BARRIE'S
"The LITTLE MINISTER"
Coming
GINGER ROGERS FRANCIS LEDERER
"ROMANCE in MANHATTAN"

Warner Bros. EARLE
NOW
Successor to "It Happened One Night"
Warner BAXTER • Myrna LOY
in FRANK CAPRA'S COLUMBIA PICTURE
"BROADWAY BILL"
• On Stage •
PAUL ASH
& "VARIETY REVELS OF 1935"
25c to Noon
"BROADWAY BILL" CAN ALSO BE SEEN TOMORROW, MONDAY, TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY AT THE AMBASSADOR

Warner METROPOLITAN
Last 2 Days
Zane Grey's
HOME ON THE RANGE
A Paramount Picture with RANDOLPH SCOTT JACKIE COOGAN EVELYN BRENT
Also Select Short.
Coming Monday
Laura La Plante
In Warner Film
"CHURCH MOUSE"
With IAN HUNTER
Smoking Permitted—Prices, Mat. 25c—Eve. 25c to 40c

AMUSEMENTS.

NATIONAL
Nights, 83c to $2.75. Matinee Today, 83c to $2.20
Tonight at 8:20
Gilbert Miller and Lee Shubert Present a Comedy
Laburnum Grove
Following a year's run in London and prior to New York production
By J. B. PRIESTLEY
Author of "THE GOOD COMPANIONS," "DANGEROUS CORNER" etc.
EDMUND GWENN
and distinguished company
Next Week, Ber. Mon. Seats Selling
ELBERT A. WICKES Presents
Abbey Theatre Players
Mon., Tues., Sat. Eves. and Wed. Mat.
"The Plough and the Stars"
Wed. Eve. "Drama At Inish"
Thurs. Eve. "Juno and the Paycock"
Fri. Eve. "The Colleen" and "The Playboy of the Western World"
Sat. Mat. "The Whiteheaded Boy"
Nights, Orch., $2.20; Bal., $1.65 & $1.10; 2nd Bal., 55c. Wed. & Sat. Mats., Orch. $1.65; Bal. $1.10; 2nd Bal., 55c.

IT'S COLOSSAL Loew's FOX FAT 14TH
Wallace BEERY Mae
with ADOLPHE MENJOU JANET BEECHER VIRGINIA BRUCE The MIGHTY BARNUM
Stage
N.T.G.'S NEW YORK PARADISE CAFE REVUE
with JAY C. FLIPPEN • 36 N.T.G. GIRLS
AND A CAST OF 40
FRIDAY
WILL ROGERS "COUNTY CHAIRMAN"
Plus Great Vaudeville Show

Loew's PALACE Fat 13th
NOW
Joan CRAWFORD
Clark GABLE
Robt. MONTGOMERY
"Forsaking All Others" with CHARLES BUTTERWORTH
Next Friday
SHIRLEY TEMPLE in "BRIGHT EYES"
with JAMES DUNN

Loew's COLUMBIA Also Comedy Cartoon News
NOW
W. C. FIELDS
BABY LE ROY in "IT'S A GIFT"

Cash and Gems Loot in Thefts At Hagerstown

4 Homes in Suburbs Are Robbed; Virginia Store Is Burglarized.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Loot valued at several hundred dollars was obtained in four burglaries early today in the suburban section, believed by police to have been the work of the same persons.

Homes burglarized were those of J. Frank Bell, who awoke when the floor to his bedroom creaked and gave chase; the intruder escaped, however, with cash and clothing; N. E. Rottler's, where cash and a number of Christmas gifts were taken; Mrs. Hazel Downs, where $87 in cash, diamond ring and other jewelry were taken, and Ira Bachtelt's, where money and watch and jewelry were taken.

Entrance was effected in each case through first-floor windows.

Grocery Firm Robbed.

Woodstock, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—For the fourth time in several years the Boyer Grocery Co. here was burglarized at an early hour today and several hundred dollars worth of goods, mostly cigarettes and tobacco, were stolen.

An investigation made by Sheriff Luther G. Sheetz, of Shenandoah County, and other officers led to the conclusion that the stolen goods were carried away in a car.

There have been a number of store robberies and kindred crimes in this and adjoining counties during the past year and several who have been implicated in these robberies are awaiting trial at the Shenandoah court term in January.

Watkins Elected By Fire Company

Named to Tenth Term by Mount Airy Unit.

Mount Airy, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—His tenth consecutive term as president of the Mount Airy Volunteer Fire Company was begun today by Asa H. Watkins, who was reelected without opposition last night at the annual banquet meeting of the local organization.

In his message to the gathering of several hundred firemen in their hall here, Mr. Watkins pointed out that the company, organized in 1924, after the town had suffered several disastrous fires, now owned property valued at $34,000. Firemen's Hall and two motor pumpers comprise the major portion of the property value, he explained. The company during the past year reduced its indebtedness by $4,000.

Officers elected in addition to the president included: First vice president, Charles A. Ogle; secretary, Walter L. Spurrier; assistant secretary, Carlos S. Warfield; financial secretary, A Dewey Zimmerman; treasurer, Henry G. Hood; chief, Herman S. Beck; first assistant chief, Paul Beall; second assistant chief, Dr. Carl M. Vaa Poole.

Corn-Hog Checks Mailed.

Warrenton, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Two hundred and seventy-eight checks have been received and paid out to Fauquier County farmers on corn-hog reduction contracts. The checks aggregated $16,151, and represented the second payment on the contracts. The first payment amounting to $24,451, was received and distributed to the Fauquier farmers several months ago.

Armour Leads Miami Golf Field With Brilliant 66, Four Under Par

This Morning...

With Shirley Povich

BASEBALL was, I suppose, considered a rather low and indolent form of entertainment when Horatio Alger was penning his success tales. The author who glorified the bootblack, the newsboy and the poor but honest ragamuffin could hardly be expected to concern himself with the professional athlete. But, methinks, he would have two noble baseball subjects if he were living and writing in this day and age.

WERBER.

CRONIN.

None of Mr. Alger's heroes ever succeeded in fiction to any greater degree than a couple of lads who next season will be playing side by side in the Boston Red Sox infield, have succeeded in fact. I speak of Joe Cronin and Bill Werber, who at this writing would probably fetch as a purchase price more coin of the realm than any shortstop-third base combination in the big leagues.

I doubt, either, if any of Mr. Alger's heroes ever overcame any greater obstacles or succeeded in their chosen professions in the face of any greater adversities than beset young Mr. Cronin and young Mr. Werber in their early baseball careers. These two lads, who are quite the best shortstop and quite the best third baseman in the American League, were, in their rookie days, colossal flops.

Eight years ago, Joe Cronin's baseball future was about as bright as Bruno Hauptmann's. He had been labeled a failure after three years in the big leagues, and shipped to the minors. Three years ago, young Werber was no less a flop, dismissed from the big leagues, tried and found wanting.

CRONIN was back in Kansas City, struggling to make good in the minors after the Pittsburgh Pirates had attempted in vain to discover more than a spark of big league talent in his ungainly frame. In 1925, they plucked him from the sandlots of California, farmed him to Johnstown in the Middle Atlantic League, to New Haven in the Eastern League, and recalled him to Pittsburgh in the hope he had developed.

For two years, young Cronin sat on the Pirates' bench, chafing at his inactivity but resigned to the fact, apparently, that he was not yet a big leaguer. His hopes of breaking into the Pirates' line-up were dashed early in 1928 when the Pittsburgh Club, giving up hope, released him to Kansas City.

And now, eight years later, we hear of this same Cronin as the man who was bought by the Boston Red Sox for the record purchase price of a quarter of a million dollars in recognition of his talents. For he had become the American League's greatest shortstop of the era; had blossomed not only as a sensational hitter and fielder, but as a pennant-winning manager. The late Mr. Alger would have enobled young Cronin to American boyhood, I think.

Hardly less sensational has been the rise of Bill Werber, the local boy who has made good. No less dark than Cronin's future had been was Werber's in 1932 when he, too, was dismissed from the big leagues by the New York Yankees after the New York Club had waited patiently for six years for Werber to justify its faith in him.

SENT packing to Buffalo by the Yankees at the start of the 1932 season, Werber might well have been impressed by his failure.

It was, in fact, his second failure with the Yanks, but that is getting ahead of the story. Anyhow, Werber's early baseball fortunes were not calculated to imbue him with any great sense of his own skill.

The Yankees had placed great store by Werber's promise of baseball greatness when they whisked him off the Washington sandlots, handed him a $5,000 honorarium for signing a New York contract, and financed his four-year education through Duke University, expecting to capitalize on his skill as an infielder after his graduation.

At the end of the college year in 1930, Werber finally joined his mentors. But from the start he was a flop. He participated in only four games with the Yankees when they farmed him to Albany for seasoning, a bit disappointed but biding their time with him. He was young yet. The next year they recalled him. But it was the same story. Werber was not a big leaguer. To Toledo they shipped him for more seasoning. Back he came to the Yanks at the end of the 1931 season.

With high hopes the Yanks installed him in their infield in 1932, only to see him hit weakly and field wobbly. Within a month he was shipped back to Albany. He popped up again with the Yanks in midsummer of '32. They could not, under the rules, farm him out for a fourth time. They must retain title to him or release him outright. The Yankees wanted Macfayden, of the Red Sox. They threw Werber into the deal as if he were the thirteenth bun in a baker's dozen.

That is the sad saga of Bill Werber's early baseball career. And now, if you were to shop about for a big league third baseman, and you wanted the best, you would want Bill Werber. When third basemen are being mentioned in this day and time, the name of Bill Werber—er, what's that one about Abou Ben Ahdem?

Why Shudder at Turning Pro? It Brings Money, Popularity

By Jimmy Powers
(Pinch Hitting for Paul Gallico).

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—My friends, let's have no more of this artificial respectability. Let's not be so coy about earning a few dimes. Here our nice white news columns are getting all cluttered up again with denials from Helen Jacobs, Eileen Bennett Whittingstall and Fred Perry that they are positively not going to turn pro. Why, the very idea! Why, the insolence, the gall of that William O'Brien person. Tut, tut and a tush—tush.

The cables lugged in a mess of verbiage yesterday from London and Australia, all crammed with pretty little phrases tied up in pink ribbons. Miss Jacobs just lost her amateur standing. She shudders (at 14 cents per word per shudder) at the very idea of barnstorming at $15,000 or even $20,000 per year. Mrs. Whittingstall was languidly devastating. Really, the idea! And so it went. We heard all this tripe before from George Lott, Lester Stoefen, Vincent Richards, Bill Tilden, Mary K. Browne and Susie Lenglen. They were just as indignant; they were just as hurt, deeply, deeply hurt. And all the while they were secretly playing peek-a-boo with some man's check book.

We have the word of honor today from William Patrick O'Brien that he did discuss a professional tennis contract with Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Whittingstall. Mr. O'Brien is a Celt and an honest one, so far as we have been able to discover. He maintains office in Times Square and he conducts tennis tours at a profit. His net on one Tilden tour alone was $180,000. His is no fly-by-night business. He has had Madison Square Garden packed to its copper eaves. He will very likely fill it again next week when George Lott makes his debut. The point we are trying to make here is that O'Brien—who once used to go about the country smelling of wintergreen liniment in his capacity as a muscle agitator for C. C.

Continued on Page 20, Column 8.

Warburton Would Consider Pro Bid

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (AP).—Given an attractive offer, Irvine (Cotton) Warburton, fleet-footed midget of the University of Southern California football team, might consider joining the professional gridders.

"But I haven't had any offers yet," he said today, spiking rumors he is going to join the Chicago Cardinals.

O'Brien Still Hopes to Sign Trio

Promoter Insists Perry and Girl Stars to Join Pros.

'Ridiculous,' Miss Jacobs Answers to Bid of $20,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP).—A trifle groggy from the instantaneous denials of Helen Jacobs, Fred Perry and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall that they would do any such thing, Bill O'Brien, professional tennis promoter, still doggedly insisted today he had every reason to believe that all three amateur tennis stars will enlist shortly in the professional cause.

"Why, I cabled offers to Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Whittingstall yesterday," he said, "and I cabled Miss Jacobs again today. I told her not to be foolish, that $20,000 was large money. But I haven't heard from either of them yet."

In the cold afterlight of O'Brien's announcement last night that these three had agreed to forsake the amateur ranks, it appeared today as if the wish had been father to the thought. From Melbourne, Australia, Perry, Wimbledon and United States amateur champion and top ranked world amateur, said any such announcement was "unauthorized." He insisted he would play for England in defense of the Davis Cup in July.

Calls Bid Ridiculous.

Miss Jacobs, national women's champion, said in London:

"O'Brien's statement that he offered me $15,000 and I demanded $20,000 is ridiculous. I have not the slightest intention of turning professional this year."

Mrs. Whittingstall, long a star in British women's tennis circles, said: "I would not dream of forsaking my amateur status."

All of this left the effervescent O'Brien untouched.

Although the first offer, on which he based last night's announcement at a celebration dinner to his latest converts, George Lott and Lester Stoefen, was only 24 hours old, he promptly dispatched another today to Miss Jacobs as follows:

"Raise offer to $20,000 guarantee and all-expense tour March 20 to June 1. Do not be foolish. This is real money. Please cable answer collect."

Confident of Perry.

He also cabled Mrs. Whittingstall lifting his offer to her from $5,000 to $10,000. As far as Perry was concerned, Melbourne, Australia, presented a problem in communications O'Brien couldn't solve.

The Perry situation, O'Brien said, was not involved.

"After the nationals last fall, Perry made several excuses when I talked to him," he said. "He was afraid his standing would be ruined in England. He didn't want to embarrass his fiancee. He said he was pledged to this Austalian tour.

"Apparently these objections have disappeared, because he did notify my Pacific Coast representative that the deal could be closed upon return from Australia February 23. I have that definite."

Meanwhile O'Brien has rented Madison Square Garden for the start March 20 of the triumphant tour. He says he has no intention of canceling that date—yet.

Noisy Welcome Waits Tide Today

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 5 (AP). This college town tonight was on edge to greet the victorious University of Alabama Rose Bowl football heroes.

Victory has come to be the rule rather than the exception of Crimson Tides, but when they invade the Rose Bowl as defenders of Eastern football prestige and win—then celebration time is at hand.

Around loud speakers the faithful followed the brilliant play of Millard Howell, Don Hutson and others, and were jubilant New Year's day, but tomorrow at 9 a. m. the celebration begins, for all from Howell down to the last reserve who played only a moment or so.

Capt. Bill Lee, Coach Frank Thomas and others of the party will speak, and the home folk will speak, and most everyone in Tuscaloosa will join in the shouts of welcome.

Band to Lead Parade.

The university band, that has thrilled thousands of football fans, will blare forth the Tide's battle songs and lead the victory parade through Tuscaloosa and out to the university.

Tuscaloosa's first Rose Bowl celebration was back in 1926, when the Tide invaded the Rose Bowl as the first Southern team ever selected for the honor. The tie with Stanford dimmed the brilliance of the celebration in 1927, but in 1931 the welkin rang again, but this time it will be a double celebration, breaking the deadlock with Stanford and also winning national recognition.

And after public demonstration, these doughty warriors will have an opportunity to hear the private congratulations of the "girl friends" who stayed at home.

Class work will be resumed at 10 a. m.

Basket Ball Scores

Maryland, 35; South Carolina, 21.
Wilson Teachers, 36; Medical College of Virginia, 25.
New York U., 45; Johns Hopkins, 12.
Michigan State, 31; Wayne U., 17.
Baldwin-Wallace, 47; Adrian (Mich.), 28.
Bluffton, 31; Wittenberg, 30.
Akron, 38; Toledo U., 32.
Mount Union, 46; Kent State, 19.
Defiance, 36; St. John's (Toledo), 33.
Western State, 37; Earlham (Ind.), 22.

	G	FG	P
Daly, f	2	0	4
Farrell, f	4	0	8
Billings, c	3	0	6
Mulitz, g	4	1	9
Roland, g	3	0	6
Totals	16	1	33

	G	FG	P
Payne, f	5	0	10
Rund, f	3	1	7
Wisher, c	5	3	13
Steinback, g	0	0	0
Mikeljunas, g	1	0	2
Totals	14	4	32

	1	2	F
McKinley Tech	2	5	14
Southern High	11	8	8

8—33
7—32

Tech High Rallies To Beat Southern

Triumphs, 33 to 32, After Trailing at Half.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Staging a brilliant rally in the last two periods after trailing at the half, 17 to 10, Tech High of Washington nosed out Southern High's basket ball team tonight, 33 to 32, i nthe Southern gym.

The Baltimore school was handicapped by the loss of Capt. Edgar Hubbard, who was ill, but put up a great battle against the invaders only to be nosed out late in the game. Wisher, with 13 points, led the Southern attack, while Mulitz, with 9 points, was high scorer for the Capital five.

"Boy, If We Ever Meet—"

Associated Press Wirephoto.

Max Baer, world's heavyweight champion, points significantly to his devastating right fist as he talks things over with the sensational young Detroit colored fighter, Joe Louis.

N. Y. Ring Solons Alter Position on Baer Bout

By Jack Miley.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Today was go-bury-your-head-in-the-sand day for those nonsensical Neds, the State boxing commissioners.

After Big Ed Flynn, their political padrone, promised his puppets they could stumble undisturbed through two more years of official tomfoolery, the Three Dumb Dukes put their skulls together and came up with these splendid specimens of cockeyed cogitation:

1. Maxie Baer, whose exhibition bouts were frowned upon a few days ago, was assured he could bring his tumbling act to town without fear of interference.

2. Backward Bob Olin, denied the privilege of staging over-the-weight hippodromes here, was given permission to tussle with John Henry Lewis in a non-title tete-a-tete on January 18.

3. Lou Ambers, designated as the No. 1 lightweight contender recently upon condition that he meet all comers at 135 pounds over the 15-round route, was told he could fight Harry Dublinsky at 140 next Friday.

Equal Par for Course.

How the sockseers reached these confusing conclusions was not explained, but the Messrs. Bill Brown, D. Walker Wear and Gen. John J. Phelan succeeded in reversing themselves thrice in a single session, which is par for the course.

After the reappointments of these tangled thinkers had been confirmed by Secretary of State Flynn, they went into a huddle that was their dizziest debate to date.

Galloping out of a double wing back formation, the perplexing Phelan faked a lateral to Wear, went into a spinner and then sliced off Tackle Brown with this bewildering comment on his Baer bulletin:

"Maxie can fight exhibitions here, but his title must be at stake. Decisions must be given in these bouts and opponents can't be tankers, push-overs or set-ups. In other words, he must box men of the caliber of Steve Hamas, Art Lasky, Max Schmeling or Primo Carnera—fellows with reputations, I mean!"

More Puzzles.

How Bear is going to persuade any of the above-mentioned contenders into brief brawls for cake money, when they're all holding out for championship shots for $100,000 purses, is something the good General didn't mention.

His beneficence to Olin was also puzzling, since Brown vowed only a few days ago that when Bashful Bobby climbed into a local ring his shabby 175-pound shako would be at stake. As for the General's favoritism to the unknown Ambers, an up-State club fighter, who has never had a main bout here, the cauliflower experts along Forty-ninth street muttered:

"That Ambers must know the right politicians!"

Harvard Is Due To Pick Coach In 3 Days

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 4 (AP). After living like a goldfish for five weks, Bill Bingham probably will be a very happy athletic director three nights hence when he tells the Harvard committee on the regulation of athletic sports his choice for the Crimson's head football coaching vacancy.

Since December 3, when Eddie Casey's resignation was accepted, Bingham has had as much privacy as the fishes in your living room. He has been forced to race up and down the football highways, with a pack of football observers in full cry at his heels, and almost every time he talked to a coaching prospect—and he talked to many—his conversation was immediately distorted into the rumors that have been flying back so thick and fast from Midwestern points.

Little Held Unlikely.

Just who Bingham will recommend, he alone knows. Most Harvard men would like to see him get Columbia Lou Little, but Bingham has yet to discuss a Harvard berth with that standout coach, who probably wouldn't be interested in even hearing about it.

It is probably true that Bingham is greatly impressed by Clark Shaughnessy, who succeeded the veteran, A. A. Stagg, at Chicago. They discussed the subject during the recent football meetings in New York, but since that Big Ten mentor returned home, his superiors seem determined to keep him there.

Bingham's blast against big-time football, during the New York meetings seems to eliminate any chance of the so-called career type, which includes Dick Hanley, who has left Northwestern, and Dick Harlow, of Western Maryland, from getting the job. Both of those coaches have been frequently mentioned as prospects.

Views Yale Plan.

While in New York, Bingham spent so much time with Mal Farmer, his Yale colleague, that many close to the Cambridge situation wondered if he was getting data on the Eli's highly successful experiment of surrounding a graduatae high coach with high-grade assistants.

If such has been the case, it may be that Arnie Horween will be asked to give up his Chicago leather business again and return to the stadium, or Charley Buell or Tack Hardwick be called upon to maintain the Crimson's 0-odd-year graduate caching policies.

But Bingham still refuses to talk.

The very latest of today's rumors named Lynn Waldorf, Kansas State coach and former Syracuse tackle, for Casey's job.

Meanwhile, Casey is looking for another one.

Stewards Demand Ride; Coucci Does

Santa Anita Park, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP).—In the fourth race here today, the presiding stewards ordered G. E. Ewins and M. Lee, owners of Gold Step, to replace Jockey Ned Merritt with a strong rider. The horse was disqualified several weeks ago from the same reason. Silvio Coucci, runner-up for championship honors in 1934, replaced Merritt and brought Gold Step to the wire, with Risky Miss second, and Bonnie Grafton, third.

Portsmouth Picked.

Norfolk, Jan. 4 (AP).—The Binghamton Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League will train in Portsmouth next spring, it was learned here today.

Baer Clowns Four Rounds With Foe

Champion Refuses to Show $3 Customers His Title Punch.

18,000 Fans See Hunt Act as Foil; Gate Is $25,000.

Detroit, Jan. 4 (AP).—Joe Louis, the 20-year-old Detroit Negro heavyweight, who bounced up from the amateur ranks six months ago, moved in among the country's leading fighters tonight by decisively outpointing Patsy Perroni, of Boston, here in a 10-round bout.

DETROIT, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Max Baer, world's heavyweight champion, staged a four-round exhibition tonight with Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., before an estimated crowd of 18,000 persons in which he did more acting than fighting.

It was a good exhibition of posing, clowning and kidding, in which Baer gave the crowd a run for its money, but not as a fighter.

"There was a big crowd here tonight," said Baer after the bout, "and they got to see the world's champion for $3 in the ringside seats, and some got in for as little as $2 and $1. Do they expect to see my championship punch for that kind of dough, "Im saving it for my two championship battles later this year. Well, we had a lot of fun, didn't we?"

Card Draws $25,000.

The gross receipts were estimated at more than $25,000, more than five times the amount any bout has drawn in Detroit in three years.

Baer weighed 215, five pounds more than when he won the title from Primo Carnera last summer. Hunt, a veteran of many ring battles, scaled 201½.

Only once or twice did Baer open up with any serious fighting, and then only for a moment. He was content most of the time to let Hunt hit him, wrestle the tall Oklahoman around or clown and pose. Hunt's nose was bloddied in the last two rounds. Both fighters wore 8-ounce gloves. The rounds were of 2 minutes' duration.

Dances and Grimaces.

There wasn't a single display of the vicious attack with which Baer slashed down King Levinsky a week ago tonight in Chicago. More than once he played the part of a punch drunk fighter and staggered as if he were falling without being hit. He did pivots, givots and two steps. He laughed and grimaced. He yelled at the crowd. He wouldn't sit down between rounds, taking his rest standing up.

Buddy Baer, the champion's kid brother, continued his triumphant ring career by knocking out Jack O'Dowd, Detroit, after 2 minutes 10 seconds of the second round. Baer weighed 240, O'Dowd 211.

Referee Elmer (Slim) McClelland stopped the bout with O'Dowd on his knees. O'Dowd was down five times in the first round, several times without being hit. Once McClelland made O'Dowd get up without giving hi ma count. O'Dowd not only was the softest kind of a touch for Buddy, but he wouldn't even fight.

Broken Kneecap Keeps Yarosz Idle

3-Month Rest Is Ordered for Champion.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 4 (AP).—Teddy Yarosz, the fiddle-playing fighter from the nearby steel town of Monaca, Pa., who won the middleweight boxing crown from the veteran Vince Dundee last September, was advised today by his doctors to hang up his gloves for at least three months.

The champion's trouble is in his right knee, injured in his surprising defeat at Scranton, Pa., on New Year's night at the hands of Babe Risko, youthful Syracuse, N. Y., "unknown."

Three physicians took X-ray pictures of Yarosz's limb and disclosed the knee cap had been broken, and that an enforced vacation from the rigors of ring warfare will be necessary. The knee is in a cast.

Yarosz said he had no alibis for the Scranton defeat, which did not affect his status as champion since the bout was a nontitle affair.

He praised Risko as "a strong fighter and a good hitter."

Lenore Kight Sets Mark.

Nassau, Bahamas, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., established a new A. A. U. 500-meter free-style record today in the British colonial aquatic meet. Her time was 6 minutes 59.8 seconds.

Paces Golfers.

Associated Press Photo.
TOMMY ARMOUR.

Judge Wants Va. to Ban Pro Coach

Aluminus Says College Athletics Should Be Strictly Amateur.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Addressing the annual meeting of the Charlottesville Chapter of the University of Virginia Alumnae Association tonight, Judge Archie D. Dabney, of the Corporation Court, suggested that the University of Virginia lead the way in a movement to abolish professional coaches in colleges. College sports, he said, should be returned to an amateur basis. Professional football teams today, he declared, are stealing the thunder of college teams.

Athletic teams of the University of Virginia should play amateur teams that are no better equipped than themselves, said the judge. Have a league composed of amateur players and meet no others. Paid coaches who subsidize teams should be banned.

Capt. Walker Elected.

Capt. E. W. Walker was elected president of the local chapter. Other officers chosen were, vice president, Hunter Faulconer; secretary; Melcolm Luck; treasurer, E. L. Jones.

The above officers, together with Jesse Wilson and W. R. Duke, were elected as delegates to the advisory council, which will meet at the university January 12, when it is hoped that alumnae sentiment will be crystalized into a constructive program.

A resolution, offered by Hunter Faulconer, former football star at the university, that any student eligible to enter the university be allowed a scholarship from an alumnae chapter so long as he fulfills his academic requirements, was unanimously adopted.

Commission O.K.'s Sarron Bout Delay

Alexandrian Is Ordered to Fight When Ready.

The District Boxing Commission yesterday consented to the withdrawal of Petey Sarron, Alexandria featherweight, from his 10-round fight with Eddie Burl, originally scheduled for Tuesday night at the Auditorium. Sarron, injured in a workout Wednesday and under doctor's orders to refrain from boxing for two weeks, must meet Burl or some other fighter approved by Promoter Joe Turner "as soon as he is physically ready," the commission ruled.

Dr. John S. Knowlton, the commission's physician, examined the featherweight at his home and agreed with the fighter's doctor, W. L. Schafer, of Alexandria, that the boxer is suffering from a bruised left rib and intercostal muscles. Petey Hayes still remained the probable choice of Matchmaker "Fat" Cornell to substitute for Sarron against Burl with California Joe Rivers, a Mexican featherweight, as a possible alternative selection.

Baer, Londos Invited To Vie in Mixed Bout

Ogden, Utah, Jan. 4 (AP).—Max Baer, world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Jim Londos, king of the heavyweight wrestlers, were invited today by Mayor Harman W. Peery to meet in a mixed bout during the pioneer days celebration, July 20 to 24.

Daffy Dean and Wife, Dusty From Travel, Snubbed by Hotel

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 4 (U.P.). You never can tell what's beneath a whole lot of dust and grime. A clerk at a downtown hotel here last night learned that in an impressive way.

A grimy looking young man and woman walked into the hotel, all travel-worn and certainly not in the neatest of appearances. Behind them walked a flashily dressed and dignified looking man. The clerk took one look and gave preference to the man behind.

The young man was ruffled no end at this affront and stamped out of the hotel, leading the young woman, his wife. They registered at another hotel.

There, newspapermen attempted to interview the young man. But he was perturbed and disgusted with that "lousy" hotel which had insulted him.

It was Daffy Dean speaking—and in no uncertain terms.

"I came near not stopping in this town, after that," said the younger member of the St. Louis Cardinals' star team of brother-pitchers, his eyes flashing.

He did say, however, that his honeymoon is still "going on," and that he had not yet signed his contract with the Cardinals for the 1935 season.

Five Birdies Collected In Round

Chicago Pro Is Home in 32 to Miss Record by One Stroke.

Mehlhorn Is Second as Play Starts in $2,500 Event.

MIAMI, Jan. 4 (AP).—Setting a fast pace, Tommy Armour, of Chicago, today posted a 66, four under par, to lead the field of 172 golfers at the end of the first 18 holes in the $2,500 Miami Open tournament here.

Armour, the present Canadian Open champion and winner of the title in the Miami tournament in 1932, toured the first nine holes in 34, one under perfect figures, and came back in an even better 32 on the par 35-35—70 course.

In his round, which was within one stroke of equaling the course record of 65, established by Johnny Revolta, of Milwaukee, in 1932, Armour picked up five birdies and was over par on only one hole, the eighteenth, where he was down for a 4.

Misses Several Putts.

Despite his par-bursting card, Armour missed several putts that should have dropped, but he made up for that with iron shots that were near perfect.

Pressing the Medina Club star hard at the finish came Bill Mehlhorn, of Louisville, Ky., who came in to post a 67 for second place. Mehlhorn duplicated Armour's 34 on the outgoing nine, but had to be content with 33 coming home.

Willie Klein, of Wheatley Hills, Long Island, who won the Miami Open in 1926 with a 72-hole score of 289, stroked his way around the 6,210-yard course to wind up in next place with 68, tied with Jules Huot, of Quebec, Canada. Each posted a pair of 34's.

Henry Ciuci Has 69.

Henry Ciuci, of Flushing, Long Island, was the only other player in the field who succeeded in cracking par for the round. He took a 69, going out in 32 and returning in 37.

Bracketed in a tie at even par 70 were L. P. Schalk, of Hamilton, Ohio; Dave Tosh, of Chicago, and Charles McAllister, of Forest Hills, Long Island. Each posted a pair of 35's for his round.

Picard, Summerfeld Win in Coast Golf

Victoria Club, Riverside, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP).—East met West and teamed together in rare fashion today as Henry Picard, Hershey (Pa.) pro, and Ken Summerfeld, San Diego amateur, won the first qualifying round of the Riverside $2,000 golf tournament with an amazing best-ball card of 63.

Their score was nine strokes under par for the 6,341-yard par-72 layout.

Summerfeld, 48-year-old member of the San Diego Country Club, made three of his four handicap strokes good as he and the North-South champion came swinging home in the rain, the last of a field of 48 teams to start.

Picard shot a 68 in his own right, and collected first prize money of $100 out of the $500 posted for the first qualifying round.

Tied for second place were two teams, Henry Kaiser, Racine, Wis., pro, and R. D. Skelley, president of the local club, and Charles Guest and Al Barbee, Hollywood, with cards of 65. Kaiser and Guest divided $125 in cash.

Tied for fourth were three teams: Ben Loving, Petersburg, Va., and H. G. Pattee, Riverside; Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., and H. G. Strathearn, Hollywood, and Emory Zimmerman, Portland, Oreg., and Red Connally, Los Angeles, with 66s.

Except for some fine play by their amateur partners, some of the stars would have found themselves out of the tournament. Among these were Walter Hagen, whose teammate, Lyn Lary, Washington shortstop, gave him a lift of three strokes to the 69 division, and Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, who received help from Richard Arlen, Hollywood motion picture star, in shooting a 71, just under the qualifying wire.

The remainder of the field of approximately 100 teams will play tomorrow. Included are the Ryder Cup players, Paul Runyan, Harry Cooper, Leo Diegel, Ky Laffoon, Craig Wood and Denny Shute, who will make their first appearance in the State since returning from a barnstorming tour of Australia, New Zealand and Hawaii.

Wilson Teachers Win Over Virginia Medicos

Richmond, Va., Jan. 4 (AP).—The smooth-passing Wilson Teachers College quintet, from Washington, defeated the Medical College of Virginia, 36-25, on the floor of the Central Y. M. C. A. here tonight. Ollie Tipton and Cliff Keyser, former Central High stars, did most of the scoring for the visitors.

Johnny Doyle showed fine defense work for the Medics.

	G	FG	P
Wilson
Fox	2	3	7
English	0	0	0
Keyser	4	2	10
Backe	0	0	0
Tipton	5	7	17
Newton	1	0	2
Totals	12	12	36

	G	FG	P
Medical Col.
Jarrett	1	2	4
Grossman	3	1	7
Wright	0	0	0
Doyle	1	1	3
Hanna	3	3	9
Front	1	0	2
Daugherty	0	0	0
White	0	0	0
Totals	9	7	25

Referee—Baddow (M. C. U.).

Freddy Miller Stops Augier in Paris in 7th

Paris, Jan. 4 (AP).—Freddy Miller, American featherweight, knocked out Francis Augier, former French champion, in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round bout tonight. Miller weighed 127 pounds and Augier 122.

Jockey Gilbert Rides Three Winners, Including Royal Duchess, at Tropical Park

Filly Repeats To Score in Feature

Hogans Fox, Hastinip Other Winners for Kansas Rider.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., Jan. 4 (AP).—Johnny Gilbert, olive-skinned Syrian from Pittsburg, Kans., who led all American riders in 1932, had a banner day in the saddle here this afternoon. Johnny accepted four mounts on the program. He won three races and finished fourth with the outsider, Energetic Boy, in the other event. The triple was completed in the fifth race, in which Gilbert guided Miss M. E. Henderson's filly Royal Duchess to her second straight triumph. As in the case of his other winners, Gilbert's mount paid very acceptable odds, this one returning $11 for a $2 ticket.

Royal Duchess, admirably rated off the leaders until the head of the stretch, closed full of run and scored by a length over Little Argo. The latter beat Minna, the favorite, by a head for second money. The time for the 6 furlongs was 1:12 3-5.

Wins With Hogan's Fox.

Gilbert's other winners were Hogans Fox, $10.60, in the first race, and Hastinip, $16.80, in the third, this combination winning the daily double for another feather in Gilbert's cap. Incidentally, Johnny had the pleasure of beating out Wayne Wright and Don Meade in the fifth dash.

Meade had Minna out in front for the greater part of the race but the favorite faltered in the stretch drive. Royal Duchess forged to the front and held Little Argo at bay in the final strides. Little Argo had to make up many lengths and may have been best.

Hogan's Fox, a gray 3-year-old son of the speedy Westy Hogan, raced a big field of sprinters dizzy in the five and a half furlong dash that opened today's program. With Gilbert sitting still after busting clear of the field just after the start, the $10.60 for $2 shot breezed along on top to score by three lengths. Dandy Jay, a field horse and a tip, chased the winner home and saved the place by a length and a half from the highly fancied Baby Chard.

Favorite Triumphs.

Scotch Gold, standout favorite at $3.50 for $2, was the second straight gray horse to register. The gelded son of Duncan Gray showed speed and gameness to score by a length. He ran Pryor into defeat and refused to falter when Opinion, a victim of early difficulty, closed fast in the stretch. Pryor was beaten five lengths for the place and lasted to stave off the closing rush of Energetic Boy, one that made up a big gap.

Johnny Gilbert, the solemn Syrian, accomplished the feat of riding both winners in the daily double, which is on the first and third contests. The Kansas saddle artist booted home Hastinip in the second half of the combination and holders of winning doubles tickets received $65.50 for $2. Hastinip alone paid $16.80. The filly reached the front early and sped away from her field to win by three lengths. Sun Chance beat Contrast a length for the place.

My Purchase, veteran sprinter, with Earl Porter in the pilot house, made a show of his rivals in the fourth. Nicely rated off the pace in the early running, the son of Purchase ran over the tiring leaders when ready and just galloped through the stretch to click by three lengths. He returned $13.80. The heavily played Highest Point made up a lot of ground and earned the place by a half length over Standout, which also finished gamely.

Fair Grounds Entries.

(Associated Press.)

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $400; claiming; for 3-year-olds.

1	Shland Poet	109	10 Kurdair
2	Miss Delba	109	11 Had Penny
3	Costlier	114	12 Grand Poise
4	Misht Surprise	106	13 *Dew Rock
5	Dosentine	109	14 Mask'd Chess
6	*Tar Bucket	104	15 *Lier
7	Manan	104	16 *Bellona
8	Edith Walker	109	17 Butterfly
9	Lynn	106	18 David S.

SECOND RACE—One mile; purse, $400; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	Racketeer	112	10 Nials
2	Marvina	104	11 Hereward
3	More Power	112	12 Dusky Lass
4	Sodzie	112	13 Holland
5	Dutchy	110	14 Miss Upset
6	Alma S.	107	15 Proud Princess
7	Prate	109	16 Perry's Peggy
8	Spoiled Boy	111	17 Yarnallton
9	Persuader	110	18 Smooth

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $400; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	Neil Kuhlman	106	10 Burnoo
2	*Mueller	111	11 *Sugar Jar
3	*Kelly Farrell	111	12 Charming Sir
4	*Sorcery	111	13 Creole Bird
5	*Royal Pchase	106	14 Preferred
6	Try Klutz	107	15 Jean Brown
7	*Transeau	104	16 *D'ny Johnny
8	Two Brooms	114	17 Double Nutzest
9	*Cloido	102	18 David W

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $400; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	*Coldsteel	109	7 *Inflate
2	Grattan	107	8 *Heavy Susan
3	Sir Kal	112	9 *Occult
4	*Full Tilt	107	10 *Luck In
5	Kubera	107	11 Eo
6	Atmosphere	112

FIFTH RACE—One mile; purse, $500; allowances; for 3-year-olds.

1	McCarthy	109	6 Mystic Mongul
2	Goody Goody	106	7 Post Prince
3	Glittering	103	8 Silver Blue
4	Gunwale	106	9 All Bays
5	Grace	98

SIXTH RACE—One and one-half miles; purse, $600; the Martin Behrman Memorial; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	Luke Com'oner	104	5 Ladys Way
2	Bo'rbon Prince	95	6 Ma'k Stockings
3	Brass Buttons	101	7 Prince Reno
4	Lion Hearted	103

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles; purse, $400; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	Concole	110	10 *Allevretto
2	Admiral	110	11 Schimitar
3	Kanzas Hope	110	12 Mimon
4	Catalone	107	13 Navro
5	Sprinx	104	14 Trotwood
6	Mills	110	15 Sweet Oak
7	Mills	110	16 *Hykins
8	Dick Porter	113	17 Her Pat
9	Rachster	105	18 Lazy Mary

EIGHTH RACE—Substitute; to be used if necessary; divided; mile; purse, $400; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	Sanbourne Plan	109	10 Little Bubbles
2	Coral Heart	112	11 Dodibob
3	Post House	112	12 Transfix
4	Miss Bobbs	107	13 Rascalaway
5	Dixie Dimes	107	14 Canteron
6	Vensel	112	15 Relch Rose
7	Carabou	116	16 Easy Bid
8	Young John	107	17 Bonny Cas
9	Persuader	104

*Apprentice allowance claimed.
Weather, threatening; track, fast.

Takes Saddle Honors in Florida

Associated Press Photo.

JOHNNY GILBERT,

Pittsburg, Kans., jockey, who rode three winners in four tries at Tropical Park yesterday, including both ends of the daily double.

Chart of Tropical Park Races

Friday, January 4, 1935 (Associated Press).

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, FAST.

FIRST RACE—Five and a half furlongs. Purse, $600. Claiming prices, $1,500 to $1,200. For 3-year-olds and upward; maidens. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:07. Off at 2:12. Winner, H. T. Archibald's gr. c. (3), by Westy Hogan—Candy Fox. Trained by G. L. Arvin. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:06 2-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight
HOGANS FOX	114	2	2	1½	1½	1½	1¹	Gilbert	$4.30
DANDY JAY	110	11	3	3½	2½	2½	2¹½	J. Renick	*6.10
BABY CHARD	111	5	6	5¹	4½	3²	3¼	Merritt	2.25
SCOTCH TOM	116	1	7	7½	6¹	5¹	4½	Louman	25.85
SLEEK	110	10	1	2½	3½	4²	5ʰ	Garner	7.80
MASKED QUEEN	109½	12	9	8ʰ	9½	6¹	6¹	Hunter	29.65
LUCKY BILL	105	6	4	4½	5²	7ʰ	7½	Bryson	*
GAMMON	111	7	10	9ʰ	8²	8½	8½	Burke	24.55
BARBARIAN	116	4	5	6¹	7¹	9²	9¹	Malley	9.10
CHERRY FLIGHT	110	8	12	11½	11²	11½	10½	Fowler	*
MAPLE JANE	105	9	11	12	12	12	11²	Haines	27.60
HOWELL	116	3	8	10²	10½	12	S. Renick		117.75

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HOGANS FOX, $10.60, $5.40, $4.40; DANDY JAY (field), $8.50, $4.00; BABY CHARD, $2.80.

HOGANS FOX, rushed into lead, opened wide gap, saved ground and was easily best. DANDY JAY, well up from the start, held on well. BABY CHARD failed to get away on her toes, but closed a big gap.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600. Claiming price, $1,250. For 4-year-olds and upward; horses and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:43½. Off at 2:44. Winner, Mrs. K. Jesberger's gr. g. (6), by Duncan Gray—Rhinegold. Trained by J. Jesberger. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:12

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight
SCOTCH GOLD	107	1	3	1½	2²	1½	1¹	Lynch	$0.75
OPINION	112	6	4	5½	4²	3¹	2¹	Arcaro	6.35
PRYOR	112	9	6	3¹	2ʰ	2ʰ	3½	Haines	3.40
ENERGETIC BOY	112	3	9	9	7²	7½	4¹	Gilbert	34.40
SWIMALONG	115	8	2	2ʰ	3ʰ	4²	5¹	Landolt	10.65
VICTORIUM	112	5	8	7²	8²	5¹	6²	Kneessi	91.05
CAPT. JERRY	112	2	5	4½	5²	5¹	7½	Prior	22.25
GNOMNIE	110	4	7	8ʰ	9	9	8²	Horn	105.65
MINT FARAGON	112	7	1	6²	8¹	8²	9	Prain	248.95

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SCOTCH GOLD, $3.50, $3.00, $2.60; OPINION, $5.40, $3.90; PRYOR, $2.70.

SCOTCH GOLD broke well, raced PRYOR into defeat, and gamely stood off the determined challenge of OPINION. The latter suffered early interference, was taken around field, and finished fast. PRYOR had plenty of speed, but weakened in last furlong.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600. Claiming price, $1,250. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:13. Off at 3:16½. Winner, Mrs. S. A. Ketchell's b. f. (3), by Haste-Quelle Est Belle II. Trained by A. Ketchell. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:13.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight
HASTINIP	115	6	6	5¹	1½	1²	1²	Gilbert	$7.40
SUNCHANCE	112	3	3	6½	5²	2ʰ	2¹	Hardy	5.20
CONTRAST	112	2	2	4ʰ	2²	3ʰ	3¹	Arcaro	3.15
DOVE OF PEACE	112	9	2	1ʰ	3ʰ	4²	4³	Critchfield	3.00
APPLE FRITTER	108	4	11	9ʰ	6½	6¹	5²	Rainey	45.95
WICCES	107	12	1	3½	8½	7½	6ʰ	Feden	31.20
SWINDLETH	110	8	12	12	12	11	7ʰ	Parvin	*55.65
CONCHITA	112	10	4	2ʰ	1½	5²	8²	Wrist	3.05
MAIDWELL	107	7	9	8½	7²	9½	9½	Meade	48.60
CHANCE FAVOUR	110	11	8	11²	9½	10³	10²	Lynch	*
MAPLE CIRCLE	102	5	10	10½	11²	11½	11¹⁰	Bryson	*
JEANE FAY	107	1	5	7²	11²	12	12	S. Renick	148.10

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HASTINIP, $16.80, $7.70, $4.40; SUNCHANCE, $7.20, $3.80; CONTRAST, $3.10.

HASTINIP circled field turning out of back stretch, assumed long lead in last quarter-mile, and won nicely in hand. SUNCHANCE closed very fast. CONTRAST was abruptly blocked as the field swung into the stretch, but closed fast when clear.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600. Claiming price, $1,250. For 4-year-olds and upward; horses and geldings. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:48½. Off at once. Winner, Mrs. M. Colford's ch. h. (6), by Purchase—Whim. Trained by M. Colford. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:12 2-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight
MY PURCHASE	112	2	5	4½	3½	1¹	1¹	Porter	$3.20
HIGHEST POINT	117	5	9	8½	5²	3½	2¼	Arnold	2.10
STANDOUT	112	6	10	9²	7½	5¹	3²	Hunter	64.05
FLAMING LIGHT	110	1	6	7²	6¹	6¹	4½	Fichon	5.65
VISHNU	112	8	1	1ʰ	2½	2ʰ	5½	Jones	3.70
BORDER KNIGHT	115	3	7	8¹	8²	8²	6¹	R. Watson	9.10
CABOCHON	112	9	3	7²	9²	6½	7ʰ	Bethel	13.10
BAKERS DOZEN	115	4	4	3½	4ʰ	4½	8²	Meade	9.20
HONEY FLIGHT	112	7	8	10	10	9¹	9¹⁰	Cowley	109.95
GOOD JEST	117	10	2	6ʰ	9½	10	10	McTague	545.05

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY PURCHASE, $13.80, $6.40, $4.60; HIGHEST POINT, $3.60, $3.50; STANDOUT, $18.40.

MY PURCHASE, on the outside, moved up fast, went a bit wide entering stretch, assumed lead in final furlong and won drawing away. HIGHEST POINT broke slow, but closed rush on inside and finished with a rush. STANDOUT, badly outrun to the stretch, came around field and was a fast-going third. FLAMING LIGHT ran a fair race. VISHNU was used ur racing BAKERS DOZEN into defeat and tired.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600. Claiming price, $2,000. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:22½. Off at 4:25. Winner, Miss M. E. Henderson's ch. f. (3), by Royal Minstrel—Grey Duchess. Trained by C. M. Henderson. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:12 3-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight
ROYAL DUCHESS	110	3	4	4¹	4½	2²	1¹	Gilbert	$4.50
LITTLE ARGO	113	5	9	11²	9ʰ	4²	2ʰ	Wright	8.65
MINNA	108	4	3	3²	3½	3²	3¹	Meade	3.50
SHOW BOY	110	10	8	7²	7½	6¹	4²	R. Watson	6.75
HANK MacTAVISH	108	8	5	5½	5²	5¹	5½	Rainey	*47.00
MANUAL	108	9	2	2½	2½	3½	6ʰ	Austin	*
NELL BARTON	110	6	6	6½	8¹	7½	7½	Kacala	4.20
CHARLIE DAWN	108	11	7	8²	7²	9½	8¹	Parra	12.45
BALAPIN	110	6	12	12	12	10²	9½	Litzenberger	15.75
LUCKY TURN	105	1	11	10½	11²	11²	10²	Critchfield	*
EL BANDIDO	105	2	1	1¹	1ʰ	3½	11²	Corbett	184.95
SPOT LIGHTS	105	12	10	3²	10½	12	12	Jones	17.05

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROYAL DUCHESS, $11.00, $4.80, $3.50; LITTLE ARGO, $5.70, $3.60; MINNA, $3.30.

ROYAL DUCHESS, well up and clear of interference, ran into lead entering stretch, but was doing her best to win. LITTLE ARGO, away in a tangle and shuffled back, was third at last turning out of back stretch, came around field, and was a fast second. MINNA was rushed into lead, but tired badly. SHOW BOY came from fast back. MANUAL had plenty of speed. He is worth noting. EL BANDIDO showed flash of early speed.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $800. The Canaveral. For 3-year-olds. Start poor. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:35. Off at 4:36. Winner, Belair Stud's ch. f. (3), by Gallant Fox—Agnes Gard. Trained by V. Mara. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:38 3-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	¾	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight
FOXY AGNES	109	2	7	7	7²	6²	2¹	1½	G. Watson	$5.95
STEGAL	110	5	5	5²	3½	2²	1²	2²	Jones	11.90
DOWDY DELL	110	3	6	6²	5²	4²	3²	3¹	Rainey	4.80
STICKHANDLE	110	7	3	3½	4²	5²	4½	4²	Baugh	12.50
ELWAWA	113	6	2	2ʰ	1¹	1½	5½	5ʰ	Manifold	90.00
JUDGE BLAKE	113	1	1	1ʰ	2¹	3¹	6ʰ	6ʰ	Meade	2.05
DARK LADY	108	4	4	4²	6²	7²	7²	7²	Wright	2.70

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FOXY AGNES, $13.90, $6.40, $3.80; STEGAL, $8.30, $4.80; DOWDY DELL, $4.40.

FOXY AGNES was practically left at the gate and trailed far out of it to the far turn, where she began to move up, came to inside around turn, then was taken wide entering stretch, closed fast, and won going away. STEGAL, running in much improved form, held on well. DOWDY DELL, well up all the way, had no mishap. STICKHANDLE displayed good speed and is sure to improve.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $700. Claiming prices, $1,250 to $1,000. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 5:24. Off at 5:24½. Winner, J. S. Summers' ch. f. (4), by Happy Arco—Idleness. Trained by owner. Value to owner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:52 3-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	¾	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight
IDLE ALONG	100	6	5	2½	1²	1²	1½	1ʰ	Lindberg	$2.90
FLYING DERE	103	5	6	6²	3²	2²	2²	2ʰ	G. Watson	2.25
YELLOW METAL	111	4	3	5²	5²	3²	3²	3½	Prain	12.25
JUST AMERICAN	110	1	1	4²	4½	5½	4½	4ʰ	S. Renick	6.20
LIMBUS	112	3	2	1ʰ	2¹	4½	5¹	5ʰ	Arnold	8.65
BANDERLOG	107	2	4	3²	7	7	6²	6²	Lynch	7.00
CANDLE FLY	104	7	7	6½	6²	7	7	7	Bryson	6.35

Two-dollar mutuels paid—IDLE ALONG, $7.80, $5.50, $3.20; FLYING DERE, $4.30, $2.60; YELLOW METAL, $3.90.

IDLE ALONG, rated off the early pace, moved into lead at far turn and stood long drive gamely. FLYING DERE closed fast around turn and was wearing the winner down. YELLOW METAL came through on inside and was next best.

Arlington Will Open Spring Meet March 28

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 4 (AP).—The annual spring racing meeting of Arlington Downs will be held March 28 through April 20, Trav Daniel, resident manager of the Texas Jockey Club, announced today.

The Texas Derby, feature race, will be contested over 1⅛ miles on the final day of the 21-day meeting. Purse for the event will probably be either $15,000 or $25,000, Daniel said. Daniel said the purse of weekly stakes probably will be increased with several $5,000 handicaps.

Glynson Wins at $6.10 In Alamo Downs Race

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 4 (AP). Glynson, winner of one race and third in his other start at Alamo Downs, today carried the silks of F. J. Estes to a popular victory in the 6-furlong test which topped the card at the Texas course.

Forging to the front in the stretch, the 5-year-old son of Chance Play stepped the three-quarters of a mile in 1:13 flat to beat a field of nine other older sprinters. J. A. Gilmore's Barcardi Sweep was second and Baldy from the Texas stable third.

Racing Selections

Alamo Downs.
(For fast track.)

1—Chinese Custom, Betty Wee, Darkest Hour.
2—Chain, Zarana, Even Play.
3—By Product, Black Strap, Crowned Head.
4—The Pelican, Money Getter, Indian Salute.
5—Stroll Along, Zenka, Sandwrack.
6—Twill, Little Joyce, Sergeant D.
7—The Break, Fingal, Southard.
8—Pionie, Port o' Play, Infanta.
9—Wyack, Wanderoo, Lady Federal.
Best bet—The Pelican.
—Louisville Times (A.P.).

Fair Grounds.
(For fast track.)

1—Butterfly, Maiden, Southland Poet.
2—Dutchy, Sedzie, Racketeer.
3—Mueller, Double Nugget, Preferred.
4—Kubera, Occult, Luck In.
5—High Monarch, Poet Prince, All Bays.
6—Bourbon Prince, Luke Commoner, Brass Buttons.
7—Blind Hills, Backstep, Simon.
8—Bonnie Cap, Royal Sport, Young John.
Best bet—Bourbon Prince.
—Louisville Times (A.P.).

Havana.
(For fast track.)

1—Hasty Girl, Runaway Kid, Jas King.
2—Dick Weidel, Nelson, Loyola.
3—Little Turtle, Bettina H., Bobby P.
4—Miracle, Adolph Krasa, Starellus.
5—Honest John, Imahishone, Miss Delight.
6—Slevie's Pride, Barcelona Pete, Sydka.
7—La Golondrina, Minj Magi, Tullihoo.
Best bet—Little Turtle.
—Louisville Times (A.P.).

Santa Anita.
(For slow track.)

1—Leano, Bonhonest, Bowcroft.
2—Claremont, Electric Gaff, Red Vest.
3—Culloden, Royal Julian, The Petter.
4—Eisenberg, Reso, Las Palmas.
5—Eunine, Le Miserable, Source Circle.
6—High Glee, Twenty Grand, Rock X.
7—Sweeping Light, Mad Frump, Thomasville.
8—Babee, Crystal Prince, Eight Pole.
Best bet—Sweeping Light.
—Louisville Times (A.P.).

Santa Anita Entries.

(Associated Press.)

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs (chute); purse, $300; claiming; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1	*Mooney Brook	100	7	Sals	120
2	*Royal Chef	118	8	*Bonhonest	110
3	*Swift Return	115	9	*May Rap	100
4	*Bowcroft	115	10	Myron H.	120
5	*Leano	110	11	Geo. Holiday	115
6	*Xinxu	110	12	Pavean	110

SECOND RACE—Seven furlongs (chute); purse, $800; claiming; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1	Red Vest	120	7	Strolling Miss	100
2	Electric Gaff	120	8	*Veruzza	110
3	*Justice Loran	115	9	*Claremont	115
4	*Young Bill	115	10	*Moon Rose	110
5	*Seven Up	115	11	*High Pockets	115
6	*Bright Penny	110	12	Go Forth	120

THIRD RACE—One and three-quarters miles; purse, $800; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	The Petter	107	5	Opium	105
2	Royal Julian	110	6	Enzimatic	103
3	Speckle	110	7	Bell Man	103
4	Culloden	105

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs (chute); purse, $800; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	*Gene D	107	7	Souer Blanche	107
2	*Peterkin	103	8	*Las Palmas	106
3	Gertie	106	9	*Lynnewood	111
4	More Anon	108	10	Johnnie D.	108
5	*Sh'p Thoughts	107	11	*Eisenberg	103
6	*Bing Crosby	111	12	Rego	112

FIFTH RACE—One mile; purse, $800; allowances; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	High Tension	112	6	Sand Baby	112
2	Source Circle	100	7	Le Miserable	104
3	Pacific Blues	104	8	Respect	105
4	Grayback	108	9	Euxine	103
5	Golden Words	112

SIXTH RACE—Seven furlongs (chute); purse, $2,500 added; the Santa Margareta Handicap; for 3-year-olds and upward.

1	Twenty Grand	126	8	Jabot	106
2	Blue Beard	102	9	Sun Archer	103
3	Tenacious	103	10	Peradventure	95
4	Pitter Pat	104	11	*High Glee	114
5	Ted Clerk	101	12	Marooned	110
6	Sensashore	101	13	Rock X	94
7	Royal Blunder	105	14	Warpaths	94

†W. R. Coe and Mrs. C. Phillips entry.
‡C. V. Whitney entry.
§Greentree Stable entry.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $1,000; the Elizabeth Montgomery Handicap; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	Mad Prump	110	4	Soicson	102
2	Swing Light	109	5	Redress	94
3	Thomasville	110

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $800; claiming; for 4-year-olds and upward.

1	*Fair Orb	102	7	Our Princess	107
2	Indian Red	110	8	*Our Admiral	109
3	Crystal Prince	112	9	*Pair Billy	107
4	*Bright Knot	111	10	*Winslow	111
5	*Eighth Pole	104	11	*Morsel	111
6	*Ana X	104	12	Babee	107

*Apprentice allowance claimed.
Weather, cloudy; track, slow.

Tropical Park Entries.

(Associated Press.)

FIRST RACE—Three furlongs; purse, $600; maiden 2-year-old fillies.

No.	P.P.	Horse and Jockey.	Wgt.	Odds
4	1	Galloping (Arcaro)	115	6-1
5	2	Blue Donna (Fisher)	115	5-2
3	3	Seven Pines (Wright)	115	6-5
7	4	Hi Nelli (Gilbert)	115	10-1
8	5	Hiatus (Wright)	115	6-5
9	6	Hastemond (Manifold)	115	8-1
1	7	Clapping Jane (Jones)	115	3-2
2	8	Polly Royal (Parvin)	115	10-1
6	9	Monks Gold (Meade)	115	10-1

FL. R. Keiter entry.
‡J. E. Widener entry.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $600; claiming; 4-year-olds and upward.

14	1	Peace Treaty (Madeley)	105	20-1
11	2	*Sir Rain (Rainey)	111	6-1
13	3	Fred Almy (Meade)	116	6-1
12	4	*Panbula (Lindberg)	100	20-1
1	5	Prince Drake (Watson)	114	6-1
2	6	Nefetiti (Wilena)	112	20-1
7	7	Firereel (Fallon)	112	12-1
4	8	Our David (Arcaro)	114	6-1
5	9	Sun Cloister (Haines)	116	20-1
6	10	Chief A. (Meade)	110	10-1
7	11	*Squeeze Out (Bryson)	104	12-1
8	12	De Valera (Wright)	112	4-1
9	13	*Smooth C'ing (Lynch)	107	8-1
10	14	Wed. Ring (J. Renick)	112	10-1
11	15	Flowery (Pascuma)	109	20-1

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse, $600; claiming; 4-year-olds and upward.

16	1	Chris'er (Lindberg)	107	20-1
12	2	*Affirmative (Rosen)	107	20-1
15	3	Klitamond (Cowley)	106	20-1
17	4	Anna V. L. (Haines)	107	3-1
1	5	Peggy Kay (Smith)	107	10-1
2	6	Noelwood (Wall)	112	5-2
3	7	Morning Pair (Fowler)	105	20-1
4	8	Chaumont (Wright)	112	8-1
5	9	Cuisine (Manifold)	107	20-1
10	10	Pencader (Merritt)	112	8-1
7	11	Gadaround (J. Renick)	112	20-1
8	12	Guid. Light (Crfield)	106	10-1
9	13	*Barkatine (Parvin)	110	20-1
10	14	Blondino (Malley)	110	20-1
11	15	Relativity (Madeley)	105	4-1
12	16	Rep'tative (S. Renick)	112	8-1
13	17	Flam. Light (Pichon)	112	15-1

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $600; claiming; 4-year-olds and upward.

4	1	*Desert Call (Parvin)	107	4-1
5	2	Impromptu (Gilbert)	112	6-1
6	3	Moane Keala (Lynch)	102	10-1
7	4	General A. (Arcaro)	112	8-1
8	5	Captain Joy (Wall)	112	8-1
9	6	Wooly West (Cowley)	112	10-1
10	7	Eddo Lee O'Donnell	110	20-1
1	8	Candescent (Smith)	107	8-1
2	9	Gallic (Litzenberger)	112	10-1
3	10	Herowin (R. Watson)	112	3-1

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs; purse, $700; claiming; 3-year-olds.

8	1	Dress Haus (Wright)	110	4-1
7	2	Tearout (Hanka)	112	15-1
6	3	Mac Sk'ing (S. Renick)	103	12-1
5	4	Figt. of Gold (J. Renick)	112	8-1
4	5	Gallic (Haines)	103	4-1
3	6	*Epaulet (Rainey)	111	10-1
2	7	Seawick (Merritt)	103	4-1
1	8	Gamaliel (Hunter)	107	6-2

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs; the Sunwater Handicap; purse, $1,000; 3-year-olds and upward.

6	1	Kawagoe (Hunter)	118	2-1
5	2	Hope to Do (Merritt)	111	3-1
4	3	Golden Fate (R. Watson)	105	6-1
3	4	Browning Glory (Porter)	106	4-1
2	5	Ashen (Litzenberger)	98	10-1
1	6	Bold Lover (Meade)	112	6-1

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-

Eight D. C. Bowlers Among Entrants in $1,000 U. S. Stakes at Atlanta Today

Event Slated In Dixie for First Time

15 Games on Schedule; First Block Will Be Rolled at 2 P. M.

ATLANTA, Jan. 4 (AP).—Many of the country's finest bowlers will compete here tomorrow in the fifth annual United States duckpin sweepstakes for the championship and a prize of $1,000 that goes with the title.

At least 25 bowlers are expected to participate in the national event, held in the South for the first time.

George Isemann, secretary of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress, announced that assured entries include:

Nick Tronsky, Willamantic, Conn.; Jack White, New Haven, Conn.; Bozo Dente, Bridgeport, Conn.; Bennie Kosky, Bridgeport; Ray Barnes, Baltimore; Ray von Dreele, Baltimore; Wilmer Robey, Baltimore; Harry Shreck, Baltimore; Bill Arnold, Annapolis; Eddie Espey, Ed Blakney, Lee Rothgeb, Johnny Anderson, Howard Parsons, Washington, D. C.; Tony Santini, Washington; Astor Clarke, Washington; Joe Harrison, Washington; Gordon Caldwell, Richmond, Va.; and several Atlantans, including C. L. Renfroe, George Tyler, Walter Lawson, Dewey Bowen, Carl Tidwell, John S. Blick and A. J. Sossong.

Fifteen games are on the schedule. They will be bowled in groups of five, the first block beginning at 2 p. m. tomorrow, the second at 5 p. m. and the last at 8 p. m.

Silver Spring Five Scores With Rally

Defeats Gaithersburg by Score of 15 to 13.

Silver Spring rallied in the last quarter yesterday to spoil Gaithersburg's debut in the Montgomery County Basket Ball League and take a wild and woolly 15-to-13 decision at Silver Spring.

Trailing at the half, 6 to 3, and behind 11 to 7, as the last quarter got under way, the Taksils, playing without the services of their diminutive star, Johnny Fitzgerald, tied the score on a field goal and pair of fouls by Alfred Shorb, and went into the lead in Mose Turner's sensational basket in the last two minutes. Capt. Wolfe then froze the ball until the final whistle.

Shorb's 6 points won scoring honors.

Silver Spr.	G	FG	P	Gaithersburg.	G	FG	P
Wolfe,f	0	2	2	Hardy,f	0	1	1
Robertson,f	0	1	1	Walker,f	0	0	0
Dietle,c	0	0	0	Reed,f	2	1	5
Turner,c	2	0	4	Smith,f	0	0	0
Scoville,c	0	0	0	Beall,c	1	0	2
Reynolds,g	1	0	2	Perrell,g	0	0	0
Pincham,g	0	0	0	Hamman,g	1	3	5
Johnston,g	0	0	0
Shorb,g	2	2	6	Totals	4	5	13
Linkins,g	0	0	0
Totals	5	5	15

Referee—Whittlesey. Umpire—L. Fitzgerald.

Schedule Announced By Martinsburg High

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.). A revised schedule for the Martinsburg High School basket ball team was released today by Coach John C. Cobourn.

The revision was necessary because of conflicts in dates and the presence of the sectional and zone tournaments here early in March. Other than the selection of a date on which Paw Paw is to appear here, the card is complete with 16 games listed.

The revised schedule:

January 11, Charles Town, there; 18, Allegany, here; 22, Harpers Ferry, here; 25, Keyser, here; 26, Paw Paw, there; 30, Shepherdstown, there.

February 1, Hagerstown, here; 6, Harpers Ferry, there; 8, Waynesboro, here; 13, Shepherdstown, here; 15, Keyser, there; 16, Charles Town, here; 22, Hagerstown, here; 23, Berkeley Springs, here; 26, Waynesboro, there.

Hagerstown High Five Opens Card on Friday

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.). The Hagerstown High School basket ball team will open its home season Friday, January 11, with Hanover High.

Coach Eddie Semler has announced the following have made the squad: Murray, Meighan, Norment, Keller, Farra, Basore, Knode, Crockett, Hilton, Ayers, Humphries, Eves, Worth, Statton and Day.

The schedule:

January 19, Allegany, of Cumberland, here; 25, Waynesboro High, away; 26, Frederick High, here.

February 1, Martinsburg High, away; 8, Harrisburg Academy, here; 15, Waynesboro High, here; 19, Hanover High, away; 22, Martinsburg High, here; 23, Frederick High, away.

March 1, Harrisburg Academy, away.

Warrenton A. C. Five Defeated by Comets

Warrenton, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.). The Comet Athletic Club, of Washington, defeated the Warrenton Athletic Club boys' basket ball team, 29 to 23, in the opening game of the season for the Warrenton club.

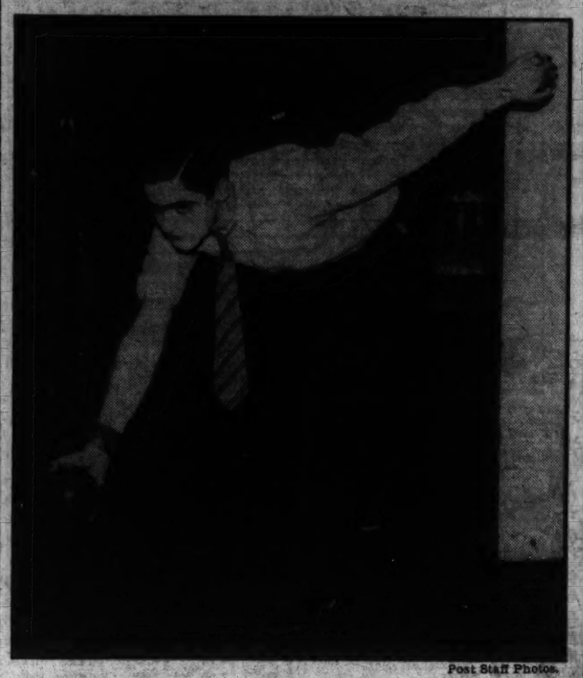
The Warrenton Athletic Club girls' team was scheduled to open its season with Aldie Athletic Club, the visitors failed to appear. Both girls and boys will play each Wednesday, and desire games with teams of the District and nearby Virginia.

N. C. State's Boxers Face South Carolina

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 4 (Spl.). North Carolina State College's opening boxing match, scheduled here with South Carolina on January 12, has been switched to Columbia, S. C., the date remaining the same.

South Carolina fought here two times in a row and this year's meeting will make things even as North Carolina State met the Gamecocks at Columbia last year, dropping the match 4½ to 3½.

Capital Hopes in $1,000 Sweepstakes at Atlanta



Post Staff Photos.

Eddie Espey (above) and Tony Santini (right), stars of the Washington contingent, are ranked among the favorites in the United States duckpin sweepstakes to be staged today at Atlanta. A prize of $1,000 will go with the title. The field will roll 15 games in three five-game blocks and includes virtually every outstanding duckpin bowler in the Nation.

V. M. I. Quintet To Open With St. Johns

Coach Summers Will Use Two Complete Teams in Tilt Tonight.

LEXINGTON, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—V. M. I.'s winter sports campaign, calling for 45 varsity and freshman contests in basket ball, boxing and wrestling, will open tomorrow night when the Cadet varsity quintet entertains St. John's College, of Annapolis, in '94 Hall.

Coach Frank Summers, former all-'round star at V. M. I. and, for 10 years a successful mentor at Staunton Military Academy, plans to use two complete teams against the Johnnies. "It is not because we have a wealth of material," Summers hastily explained, "but because the boys will not be in shape to play a full game at top speed only three days after returning from Christmas furlough."

Two Letter Men.

Capt. Bill Downey, guard, and Charlie Hancock, switched from center to forward, are the only letter men on the Cadet squad. Teamed with them on the "A" five are two sophomores, Tony Merola, center, and Morris Haas, forward, and one junior, Frank Raffo, a reserve guard last year.

The "B" team, which may start, is composed of the following sophomores and last year's substitutes: Stan McKibben, senior, and Joe LeMasurier, sophomore, at forward; Tucker Watkins, senior, at center; Nelson Ackerly, junior, and Wayt Clark, sophomore, at guard.

Gridiron Players.

All of the "A" team players except Downey were members of the football squad, and McKibben is the only non-football man on the second-string outfit. For this reason the Cadets have had comparatively little practice in preparation for their 17-game schedule.

Next week V. M. I. will tackle three tough opponents in four days. Maryland will be met at College Park on January 8, and Navy at Annapolis the next day. Returning to Lexington, the Cadets will play North Carolina on January 11.

V. M. I.'s varsity boxers and wrestlers will not get started for another week. The boxers will meet Maryland at College Park on January 11, and the matmen will face Duke here on January 14.

Bailey, W. & L. Star, Gets Blocking Award

Lexington, Va., Jan. 4 (AP).—Jack F. Bailey, of Maysville, Ky., captain of next year's Washington and Lee football team, today was given the first Clovis Moomaw award for "excellence in blocking."

The award, a picture of Moomaw, former W. and L. football star, and an accompanying scroll, was donated by Lawurene Witten, W. and L. alumnus, of Cincinnati. The award is to be made annually.

Smaller Schools in 3 States May Set Up New Conference

RICHMOND, Jan. 4 (AP).—Talk of a new athletic conference of from 10 to 16 members to provide a haven for the smaller schools in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina filled the air today.

Agitation for such a conference was understood to be particularly keen in North Carolina, where a cluster of smaller schools are seeking a league in which to play, but it was learned that four Virginia schools also had been approached.

If the plan succeeds it would toss the Virginia Conference and the Chesapeake Conference into the discard, taking two members from each of them and making the loops too small for successful operation.

Emory and Henry and Roanoke, of the Virginia Conference, and Hampden-Sydney and Randolph-Macon, of the Chesapeake Conference, were the four schools approached in Virginia, with the last two named understood to be regarding the proposal with more than casual interest.

Other schools mentioned are Appalachian, W. Carolina, Lenoir-Rhyne, Catawba, Elon, Guilford, Erskine, Presbyterian, Wofford and Newberry.

G. W.'s Quintet Faces Drake Tonight

LIKE an antiquated medicine show troupe rumbling out of the West with its Indian herbs and cure-alls, Drake University's basket ball squad pitches camp tonight at Tech High School for a bit of experimenting with George Washington's hoopsters. The curtain rises at 8 o'clock.

George Washington's freshmen and Washington-Lee High School of Ballston meet in a preliminary game at 6:30 o'clock. The Frosh have lost only one game—to Tech—thus far, and reign heavy favorites over the Virginians who are not as strong this season as they were last.

Drake's remedies thus far have produced a violent reaction from the patients, for not in six games, or since Coach Ev Williams and his boys set out on their 3,000-mile trek, have they been victorious. But it appears to be only a case of tackling the best teams rather than pushovers.

Under Ev Williams' direction the Bulldogs tied for fourth place in the Missouri Valley Conference championship race last season. Williams expected greater things of his men this season, but injuries and illness, which struck almost half the squad at the start of the season, have seriously handicapped the team.

George Washington will swing into action without the services of Milt Schoenfeld, midget guard, who turned an ankle in practice Thursday and will be on the bench for the next several days. His place will be taken by Dallas Shirley, who will team with Walter Bakum.

Hal Kiesel will start at center, and Capt. Jim Howell and Ben Goldfadden at forwards complete the Colonial line-up.

Pete Bostwick, Europe-Bound, To Train for Grand National

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP).—When George H. (Pete) Bostwick, wealthy amateur jockey and polo player, mounts Castle Irwell for the grand national steeplechase at Aintree, Eng., March 29 he will be astride a horse bred in a country that has sent out many winners of the difficult four-mile test of horse flesh.

The horse is 7 years old and was bred in Ireland.

"He seems to me to have the stuff and word comes from my trainer at Melton Mowbray that he is in first-class shape," said Bostwick as he prepared to sail for England today with his wife, his uncle, F. Ambrose Clark and Louis E. Stoddard, jr. Last year Bostwick rode C. V. Whitney's dusty foot, but fell at Becher's Brook.

"He showed his best stuff in winning the Molyneaux Chase, which is the only big steeplechase in which he ever performed. As for myself I hope to be racing within a week after we arrive. You know they run three hurdle and two steeplechase races over there every week at this time of the year."

Bostwick also indicated that Stoddard, son of the chairman of the United States Polo Association who was injured while riding in England last year, would ride in the National if he can get a mount.

"Much of my training over there will be done riding in hurdle races," said Bostwick. "I think I have the best hurdle horse in England. His name is Flaming and he is a 7-year-old colt I claimed out of a flat race at Aqueduct. He has been abroad for three years and has established a great record. He is American-bred but has a strain of English blood."

Bostwick also is taking with him Canandaigua, a veteran jumper, while Stoddard is shipping Free Wheeler and Dellwood.

Alexandrians Hosts in Twin Attraction

Fredericksburg High Boys and Girls Teams to Invade Tonight.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Alexandria High School plays host to Fredericksburg High School in a double-header attraction, beginning at 7 p. m. tomorrow in Armory Hall.

Girls' teams representing the two schools will meet in the opening attraction. The Twins sextette has been working out daily under direction of Miss Frankhouser. The line-up probably will be Shapiro and Shu, forwards; Mosier and Gorham, centers, and Smith and Capt. Weiner, guards.

In this feature game the Twins will play their third game in three days. They will rely chiefly on Benny Burrell and Nappy Nugent, who have set the scoring pace in their previous contests.

Fredericksburg will pin its hopes on Sheppard, Hoskins and Fenlon, all veterans. The Fredericksburg team has been setting a hot pace in their games to date, while the Twins have suffered two defeats, both at the hands of Roosevelt High.

An all-star team, composed of former Howard University stars, and the Washington Yellow Jackets, will meet in Baggett's Stadium at 2:15 p. m. Sunday.

Six former Howard captains will be in the Sfars' line-up: McGruder and Coles, cocaptains, 1933; Peyton and Grund, cocaptains in 1931; Johnson, in 1932, and Mack, in 1930. Big Scott, 300-pound triple threat full back; Man, Taylor, Greene, Brent, Clarke, Howard and Speed Boy Sheppard will complete the line-up.

Washington-Lee High Defeats Hyattsville

Washington and Lee High walked away with a 28-to-12 decision yesterday at Hyattsville in the official opening of the newly formed Inter-Suburban High School League.

Led by Capt. Cooper, veteran forward, the Arlington County representatives compiled a 20-to-3 lead at the half.

Wash.-Lee.	G	FG	P	Hyattsville.	G	FG	P
J.Cooper,lf	5	1	11	Moran,lf	3	2	8
R.Cooper,lf	1	0	2	Kirkpatrick,lf	1	1	3
Wheeler,rf	1	0	2	C.Joyce,rf	0	0	0
Biggs,rf	1	0	2	Osterman,c	0	1	1
Blake,c	1	0	2	Reed,lg	0	0	0
Rice,c	0	0	0	Burke,lg	0	0	0
Evers,lg	0	0	0	Barker,rg	0	0	0
Birch,lg	1	0	2
Withson,rg	0	0	0	Totals	4	4	12
Boswell,rg	2	1	5
Korszrev,rg	0	0	0
Milstead,rg	1	0	2
Totals	13	2	28

Referee—B. Cozar.

Potomac State Five Has 13 More Games

Keyser, W. Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.). The Potomac State College basket ball team has 13 games remaining on the card as arranged by Coach Harley Staggers.

Staggers is developing his team around John Casey, Floyd Payne and Harold "Pee Wee" Miers.

The schedule:

January 4, Davis and Elkins, away; 11, Frostburg Teachers, here; 17, Shenandoah, here.

February 4, Broaddus, away; 5, New River, away; 6, Concord, away; 7, Emory and Henry, away; 8, Roanoke, away; 9, Shenandoah, away; 16, Broaddus, here; 21, West Liberty, here; 22, Davis and Elkins, here; 26, Shepherd, away.

March 2, Broaddus, here; 8, Shepherd, here.

Martinsburg Booking.

Games with strong unlimited court teams are wanted by the Southern Athletic Club of Martinsburg, W. Va. Teams interested should communicate with Manager Mike Minor at Martinsburg.

Western Tops Bethesdans By 32-17

Erases 10-8 Lead at Half; Brennan and Allen Lead in Attack.

BETHESDA-CHEVY CHASE HIGH, considered one of the strongest teams in the Washington suburban area and holders of the Montgomery County 1934 championship, lasted for just half the game against Western yesterday and then fell before the sharp-shooting of Joe Brennan, Clarence Allen and their teammates to lose, 32 to 17.

Leading at the end of the first quarter, 8 to 4, and at the end of the half, 10 to 8, the Bethesda five found itself swept under in the third quarter as the Georgetowners romped about their home floor to score 13 points while holding their visitors to one basket and go into the final period leading, 21 to 12.

Brennan, Allen Star.

Brennan, lanky Western center, was instrumental in keeping Western within striking distance of Bethesda in the first half. He and Allen started off the second half with a basket apiece to overcome the Marylanders' lead and, aided by Phil Maloney and George Burns, proceeded to complete the process of turning the tables on the Twins.

Lodge, Bethesda center, and Johnson, forward, were bothersome to Western in the first half, but after the intermission Coach Cliff Moore's boys found their defensive game as well as their eye and the battle took on a different hue.

Western.	G	FG	P	Bethesda.	G	FG	P
Allen,lf	3	0	6	Johnson,lf	1	3	5
Podderidge,lf	1	0	2	Harris,rf	1	0	2
Burns,rf	2	0	4	Lodge,c	3	1	7
Mayo,c	0	0	0	Pinlayson,c	0	0	0
Brennan,c	5	0	10	Putman,lg	0	0	0
Hanley,c	1	0	2	Sozatoni,rg	1	1	3
Maloney,lg	3	0	6
Page,lg	1	0	2	Totals	6	5	17
Wells,rg	0	0	0
Daly,rg	0	0	0
Totals	16	0	32

Referee—Kail.

Western High Tankmen To Meet Calvert Hall

Western High's swimming team will meet Calvert Hall of Baltimore at 3:15 p. m. today in the Central Y. M. C. A. pool. Victors over Friends School of Baltimore last month, the Western natators are favored to chalk up their second conquest of the season.

With Jack Rait in the sprints, Forest Harding and Bob Carney in the dive and Lew Clay in the breast stroke, the Georgetowners present a quartet of sure point-winners The team is rounded out by a flock of youngsters including Dorman, R. and J. Brown, Moyneló, Eagel, G. and H. Reinberg, Bonham, Russell and Bowley.

Davis, 2 Utility Men Sign Giant Contracts

New York, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—The New York Giants announced today that Outfielder George "Kiddo" Davis and two utility infielders had sent in their signed player contracts for 1935.

The infielders are Joe Malay, first baseman, who was optioned to Galveston last season, and Al Cuccinello, second baseman, purchased after the season from Nashville.

N. C. State Fives Hosts.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—The varsity and freshmen basket ball cagers of State College will open their winter scedules here tomorrow night in Frank Thompson gymnasium, the varsity meeting Wofford College and the freshmen engaging Raleigh High School.

Bethesda Girls Win.

Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School girls basket ball team got off to a flying start yesterday, swamping Mount Rainier High School, 60-32. Winkler, with 37 points, starred for the winners.

Mt. Rainier.	G	FG	P	Bethesda.	G	FG	P
Sager,f	12	2	26	Lee,f	0	0	0
L.Garlill,f	3	0	6	Winkler,f	18	1	37
Powell,f	0	0	0	Gilleland,f	0	1	1
Boaunan,c	0	0	0	Curtiss,f	10	0	20
MacGregor,c	0	0	0	Hurley,c	0	0	0
Gasman,c	0	0	0	Finlevson,c	0	0	0
Wynn,sc	0	0	0	Smoot,sc	0	0	0
May,sc	0	0	0	Bishop,sc	0	0	0
Mr.Miller,g	0	0	0	Rizza,g	0	0	0
Mr. Miller,g	0	0	0	Bennett,g	0	0	0
				Bozza,g	0	0	0
Totals	15	2	32	Totals	29	2	60

Referee—Mrs. Crocker.

Big Ten Will Open Its Season Tonight

Purdue and Northwestern Favorites for Title.

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP).—Another Western Conference basket ball campaign gets under way tomorrow night, with Purdue and Northwestern, which have dominated Big Ten hardwood floors for the last five seasons, picked to battle it out for the title again.

The Bailermakers, defending champions and victors in their six preconference games this season, meet Wisconsin at Madison. Indiana goes to Illinois, while Ohio State plays Iowa at Iowa City. In major nonconference warfare Minnesota entertains Notre Dame and Chicago tackles Marquette at Milwaukee.

Northwestern does not pile into action until Monday night, when it meets Wisconsin at Madison. Purdue moves on to Illinois, Chicago meets Iowa at Iowa City, and Michigan opens its campaign at Ann Arbor against Ohio State, in the other Monday tussles.

Randolph-Macon Lists Basket Ball Schedule

Front Royal, Va., Jan. 4 (Spl.). Randolph-Macon Academy will open its basket ball season next Friday on the local court with Swavely School, of Manassas.

Three of last year's squad, Capt. McFall and Jones, letter men, and Banks, are fairly secure for gaining places on the team. Among the new men aspiring for positions are Schoolfield, Thacker, Robinson, John, Gregory and Mears.

The schedule:

January 12, Swavely, here; 16, Harpers Ferry, here; 19, Fishburne Military School, in Waynesboro; 26, Dormont Athletic Club (Pittsburgh), here; 30, Swavely, in Manassas.

February 2, Falls Church High School, here; 6, Shenandoah Valley Academy, here; 9, Woodberry Forest, here; 16, Western High School (Washington), here; 20, Shenandoah Valley Academy, in Winchester; 23, Fishburne Military School, here.

Central Routs Calvert Hall, 42 to 12

Is None Too Impressive, However; Plays Today in Richmond.

By John Vosburgh.

AS a polishing-off process for its tournament play in the University of Richmond scholastic basket ball carnival, Central High easily disposed of Calvert Hall School, of Baltimore, yesterday, 42 to 12, on the Central court.

Central and Eastern, the other Washington teams entered in the tournament, leave for the Virginia capital early today. Eastern is the first local team to go into action, meeting John Marshall High, of Richmond, at 2 p. m. today, while Central is listed to play an hour later against the powerful Benedictine Prep School team, also of Richmond.

Erases Earlier Defeat.

Central's victory yesterday came somewhat as balm for the 26-to-13 defeat the Maryland team handed the local five in Baltimore on December 21. It was Central's fifth victory in six starts this season, but was none too impressive a performance.

The Central passing and teamwork was rather ragged, particularly in the first half, and only the fact that Calvert Hall was woefully ineffective accounted for the 30-point margin of victory. Occasionally, however, the Mount Pleasanters flashed enough real basket ball to show that Coach Jack Ray's green youngsters are gradually learning the art of smooth team play.

Get 10 Points Apiece.

Johnnie Munhall and Charlie Nau tallied 10 points apiece for the scoring honors, Nau giving the best individual performance of any man on the floor. Central led at the end of the first quarter, 8 to 4, and widened the lead to 16 to 6 at the half, Calvert Hall scoring only twice from the floor. The visitors added four points in the third period to make the count 24-10 as the last quarter started, but were held to one basket in the final session while Central continued to score at will.

Central.	G	FG	P	Calvert Hall.	G	FG	P
Munhall,lf	5	0	10	Diehl,lf	1	0	2
Katz,lf	1	3	5	Joe Yakel,rf	1	0	2
Fox,rf	0	1	1	Mantz,c	1	0	2
Hexester,rf	1	0	2	Jer. Yakel,lg	1	0	2
Marcellino,rf	1	2	4	Reichard,lg	0	2	2
Thompson,c	1	2	4	Maus,rg	1	0	2
Nau,lg	4	2	10
Vermillion,rg	2	2	6	Totals	5	2	12
Totals	15	12	42

Referee—Caruso.

Irene's Bob Wins At Fair Grounds

Triumphs by 4 Lengths, Pays $5.20 Mutuel.

New Orleans, Jan. 4 (AP).—Irene's Bob, a heavily campaigned 6-year-old son of The Turk, won his fourth straight race at the Fair Grounds today, making a show of his field to capture the 6 furlongs of the Oakland Handicap for Mrs. E. B. Shipp.

Under 109 pounds, the veteran sprinter stepped to the front at the rise of the barrier and at the finish of the dash was 4 lengths in front of "Butsy" Hernandez's Chief's Pride. Counselor Crane was third in the field of six.

Well played at $5.20 to win, Irene's Bob ran the distance in the good time of 1:12.

Turner—Thy Name Is Charity

District Promoter Gives $3,213 While Losing $4,000 on Fights.

JOE TURNER is Santa Claus without whiskers. An all-year-'round Santa Claus who, in the 12 months just passed, gave, by actual record, $3,213.69 to this worthy cause and that worthy cause, not to mention four or five hundred dollars donated off the record.

Does a children's camp need funds? Does someone need money to buy smokes for the unemployed? Is a widow in financial distress? See Joe Turner. He'll promote a benefit.

TURNER.

Turner's books show that he has given $2,041.58 "off the top" from his boxing shows in 1934—$2,041.58 off the top of the same boxing shows that put him some $4,000 in the red. From his wrestling cards he has donated $1,172.11—$1,172.11 in a year when wrestling wasn't drawing so well.

The largest single donation was made from the Risko-Brown fight card, Washington's first legalized outdoor show. A fund to provide milk for children profited from this show to the extent of $920.

From the Hughes-Frattini show at the Auditorium, Turner donated $334.80 to the widow of Allen B. Wilson, the newspaper route agent slain from ambush by mobsters. The Washington Post Smoke Fund profited to the extent of $282.78 from the Bass-Sarron bout.

The children's milk fund also drew the lion's share of contributions from wrestling, receiving $783.86 from a show presented at Griffith Stadium last July.

Turner's personal donations, of which no record is kept, are understood to have reached about $500 during 1934. In addition to the "dollar here and dollar there" contributions, Joe paid $110.00 funeral expenses for an unfortunate. This particular unfortunate happened to be a girl, who died penniless and was to be cremated. Turner didn't like the idea of anyone being cremated, so he paid for the burial.

Below is given a list of Turner's contributions throughout the year. This is the same list that prompted one well-known sportsman, who took into consideration the fact that Turner had dropped a large wad on boxing, to remark "Huh, its about time somebody gave a benefit for Joe Turner."

Boxing.
Milk fund, Risko-Brown (June 4)	$920.00
Washington Post smoke fund, Sarron-Bass (August 27)	282.78
American Legion (Allen B. Wilson), Hughes-Frattini (November 2)	334.80
Basket fund, Imp.-Gallagher (November 30)	217.00
Junior Board of Trade (Children's camp) (July 30)	155.80
Veterans of Foreign Wars	131.50
Total	$2,041.58
Wrestling.
Ladies of Charity milk fund (February 8)	$194.78
Milk fund (July 20)	783.86
Milk fund (September 6)	193.47
Total	$1,172.11

Stewart's Five Winner.

Alexandria, Jan. 4 (Spl.).—Stewart's Pharmacy administered a 30-to-17 beating to the Columbia Firemen here tonight in Armory Hall. In a preliminary game the DeMolays nosed out the Centrals, 14 to 13. Taylor, Stewart forward, was the high scorer with 10 points.

Stewarts.	G	FG	P	Firemen.	G	FG	P
McVean,lf	2	0	4	West,lf	0	0	0
Pineran,lf	1	0	2	Hamilton,rf	0	0	0
Henderson,rf	2	0	4	Brenner,rf	2	0	4
Taylor,rf	4	2	10	McM'man,c	1	1	3
Calliher,c	3	0	6	Sinclair,c	1	0	2
Moreslis	0	0	0	W.Travers,lg	1	0	2
Genderson,rg	2	0	4	Williams,lg	1	0	2
				H.Travers,rg	2	0	4
Totals	14	2	30	Totals	8	1	17

Post Mortems . . .

Clark Griffith blames Monte Weaver's inability to win consistently on his aversion to eating the hardier meats—steaks, chops, etc. . . . Weaver was under weight throughout the 1934 season, but steadfastly refused to alter his vegetable diet . . . "If Weaver had Dave Harris' appetite, he'd be the best pitcher on the team," opines Griffith . . . the news that Notre Dame has tightened eligibility requirements is reviving the old question of whether the Irish will ever obtain membership in the Big Ten . . . Jockey Sonny Workman will entrain this morning for California, where he will ride Equipoise in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in March . . . in Tom Kearney's future book on the race, Cavalcade is quoted as the 4-to-1 cofavorite with Equipoise and Time Supply . . . Kearney is quoting Twenty Grand at 6 to 1 . . . the Thistlethwaite family is football minded . . . Daddy Glenn is coach at Richmond University, one son is an end on the Thomas Jefferson High School team, and another stars in the backfield of a midget team . . . Frank Dobson, former Richmond coach, is being considered as the successor to Billy Laval at South Carolina . . . numbers racket operators in Washington refused the other day to accept any wager on numbers ending in 9 . . . the buttons on the horns of Ford cars are made from soya beans raised on Ford's Michigan farm. And Just 25 Years Ago Today: Thirty-three automobiles left Richmond at 6 a. m. in an endurance race, expecting to reach Fairfax, 175 miles away, by 5 p. m.

WEAVER.

South Carolina Bows, 35-21, To Md.

Old Line Five Coasts to First Conference Win of Season.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

MARYLAND opened its Southern Conference campaign last night at College Park with a ridiculously easy victory over a weak and erratic South Carolina quintet. The final score was 35-21, but it might well have been twice as large.

For a time it was difficult to figure out just what the boys were doing. The game resembled a cross between a W. C. Fields' comedy and Laurel-Hardy farce. There wasn't much basket ball, but they had a lot of fun, and after all that's all they play for—the fun of it.

Leads 25-10 at Half.

Carolina never got within striking distance of their hosts. For a time the visitors had a tough time getting into the game. Maryland took possession of the ball at the outset and held it long enough to ring up seven points before Carolina tallied. At the half, Maryland was in front by a 25-10 count and just coasting.

The few times Carolina did get the ball it hardly knew what to do the Southerners tossed it to Maryland, the referee and even into the crowd, but to no avail. There seems to be a rule that a team must score its own points.

Maryland off Form.

Maryland wasn't at its best either. Coach Burt Shipley's men were guilty of numerous errors. They seemed to enter into the spirit of the affair. Vic Willis and Bill Andorka were ejected on fouls 10 minutes from the finish, but it made little if any difference.

Between Maryland's guarding and Carolina's erratic shooting, the visitors made only five field goals. Tom Craig was the only one to get two. Bill Guckeyson, the reformed half-back, led Maryland in scoring with 11 points.

Maryland.	G	FG	P	So. Carolina.	G	FG	P
Waters,f	3	1	7	Henderson,f	1	3	5
Buscher,f	3	0	6	Laurie,f	1	1	3
Guckeyson,f	4	3	11	James,f	0	1	1
Scheele,f	0	0	0	Craig,c	2	1	5
Sothoron,f	0	0	0	Skidmore,g	0	1	1
Willis,c	1	0	2	Gooding,g	0	3	3
Keller,c	1	1	3	G.Taylor,g	0	0	0
Headley,g	0	0	0	Rowland,g	1	1	3
Andorka,g	0	0	0	W.Taylor,g	0	0	0
Daly,g	0	0	0
				Totals	5	11	21
Totals	15	6	35

Referee—Keppel. Umpire—Enright.

Cunningham In '35 Debut Tonight

To Run in K. of C. Meet; May Meet Bonthron Five Times Later.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP).—Whether or not they can reproduce the thrills or record-smashing performances that marked their footracing duels last year, Kansas Glenn Cunningham and Princeton Bill Bonthron are certain to be the headliners for a banner indoor track season this winter.

Their rivalry, one of the keenest ever developed among American mile runners, probably will be renewed in the classic Wanamaker mile at the Millrose games in Madison Square Garden, February 2, and may involve no less than five races on the Eastern boards. Last winter they met only twice, in the Baxter mile of the New York A. C. games and in the National A. A. U. 1,500-meter championship, with honors divided in two eyelash finishes.

May Extend Clashes.

This winter's duels between the two, if they yield to the pressure for more competition, will include not only the Millrose meet, but also the Hunter mile in the Boston A.A. games, February 9; Baxter mile, New York, February 16; National championship 1,500 meters, New York, February 23, and the Columbian mile of the K. of C. games, New York, probably on March 16. It was in the Columbian mile, last March, that Cunningham lowered the world indoor mile record to 4:08.4. The Kansan set a new world's outdoor mark of 4:06.7 when he trimmed Bonthron at Princeton.

Cunningham makes his indoor debut tomorrow night at Brooklyn in the Knights of Columbus meet. He competes in an 800-meter special, but Bonthron won't be among his competitors. Neither wants to try conclusions with the other, at any distance until he is "in the pink." Short of work, Cunningham is likely to be hard-pressed on the boards tomorrow, especially by Harry Williamson, of North Carolina, the Southern Conference half-mile champion.

May Crack Record.

Fantastic as it would have seemed a few years ago, the prospect now is that Cunningham and Bonthron, if and when they shoot the works from start to finish, may crack 4:06 for the mile on the fast, sharply banked Madison Square Garden track.

They have the stop-watches at their mercy any time either is willing to set the necessary early pace for a record performance.

There's an outside possibility that the battle for indoor mile-running honors will be four-cornered. Pennsylvania's Gene Venzke is being groomed for another comeback. Venzke has yet to duplicate his 1932 indoor form when he set a world mile record of 4:10. The fourth possible entry is Luigi Beccali, Olympic 1,500-meter champion who has been invited by the A. A. U. to try the American boards. Beccali declined two invitations to race here last year, but then came over on an Italian student tour, too late to encounter any of the top-notchers.

Wheat Values Move Higher After Message

Cotton Is Unchanged to 4 Points Net Higher, Following Dip.

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP).—President Roosevelt's message to Congress accompanied setbacks in wheat prices today, but the market rallied later and scored some net gains.

Transient downturns of wheat values were associated more or less with the circumstance that the President made no direct reference to the currency, and that he also appeared to leave in doubt several other market factors. Buying for domestic mills helped to rally wheat prices at the last.

Wheat closed steady, unchanged to ⅜ up, compared with yesterday's finish, May, 99⅝-99¾; corn at ¼ decline to 1½ advance; May, 89⅝; oats unchanged to ⅝ higher, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

Numerous speculators were disappointed that the President in his message said nothing as to inflation. Earlier, the wheat market had climbed nearly a cent a bushel owing to revival of belief as to likelihood of inflationary measures at Washington and because of unexpected strength shown by the Liverpool wheat market today.

Futures Price Range.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
Wheat—
January	....	....	....	97⅛
May	99⅛	1.00¼	99	99⅝
July	93⅝	93⅞	92⅝	93⅛
September	92⅛	92⅝	91¼	91⅝
Corn—
March	....	....	....	92½
May	89⅝	89⅞	89¼	89⅝
July	85⅝	85⅞	84⅝	84⅞
September	81⅝	82	81⅝	81½
Oats—
May	53¾	54	53⅝	53⅜
July	48	48	47⅝	47⅝
September	43¼	43⅞	43¼	43⅝
Rye—
May	75¾	76⅛	74¾	75⅛
July	75⅝	76⅛	74⅝	75⅛
September	76¼	76¼	74½	74½
Barley—
May	....	....	....	79½
July	....	....	....	73¾

Cash Grain.

WHEAT—No. 2, hard, 1.08½.
CORN—No. 3, yellow, 94; No. 5, white, 90.
OATS—No. 2 white, 59.
SOY BEANS—No. 2 yellow, 1.19 (net track country station).
BARLEY—74@1.22.
TIMOTHY SEED—16.50@17.75 per hundredweight.
CLOVER SEED—15.65@22.90 per hundredweight.

Cotton Market

New York, Jan 4 (AP).—Cotton was quiet today with price movements narrow. The close was steady net unchanged to 4 points higher.

An early dip of 2 to 3 points brought in a little trade buying, but business then tapered off and trading was very quiet during the afternoon, with fluctuations small.

Interest naturally centered on the President's message to Congress, which was carefully studied, but the consensus among traders appeared to be that it pointed to no material change in the Government's agricultural program.

Reports from Worth Street indicated a continued quiet but steady market for cotton goods.

Exports today 44,531, making 2,599,379 so far this season. Port receipts, 20,829. United States port stocks, 3,027,602.

Futures Price Range.

	High	Low	Last
January	12.59	12.55	12.58*
March	12.71	12.66	12.69-70
May	12.78	12.73	12.76-77
July	12.82	12.77	12.81
October	12.66	12.60	12.66
December	12.70	12.69	12.71*

Spot steady; middling, 12.85.
*Nominal.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was firm today, but after selling at new high levels for the year and from 9 to 14 points above the previous close in sympathy with the upturn in lard and firmer crude and tallow markets, prices reacted under increased liquidation and selling by Southern and Western interests. Final levels were 2 to 4 points net higher with sales of 78 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; January closed 10.96; March, 10.89; May, 10.94; July, 10.98.

Money Markets

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Foreign exchange easy. Great Britain in dollars; others in cents:

Great Britain—Demand, 4.92⅛; cables, 4.92⅛; 60-day bills, 4.92⅜.
France—Demand, 6.63½; cables, 6.63½.

Demand Rates.

Italy	8.59	*Austria	19.00
Belgium	23.51	*Hungary	20.86
Germany	40.37	Rumania	1.01½
Holland	68.00	*Argentina	32.80
Norway	24.71	*Brazil	8.67
Sweden	25.36	Tokyo	28.71
Denmark	21.96	Shanghai	35.00
Finland	2.19	Hongkong	43.15
Switzerland	32.61	Mexico City (silver peso)	27.85
Spain	13.75	Montreal in New York	100.68¾
Portugal	4.48	New York in Montreal	99.31¼
Greece	1.94½
Poland	19.05
Czecho-vakia	4.20¼
Yugoslavia	2.30

*Nominal.

New York.

Call money steady; 1 per cent all day. Time loans steady; 60 days-6 months, ¾@1 per cent.
Prime commercial paper, ¾.
Bankers' acceptances unchanged.
Rediscount rate, New York Reserve Bank, 1½ per cent.
Bar silver steady, unchanged at 54⅛.

London.

Bar gold advanced 7½ pence to 142s 1d. (United States equivalent, 34.84.)
Bar silver firm, ⅛ higher at 24 1d. (United States equivalent, 54.70 cents.)
Money, ¼ per cent.
Discount rates: Short bills, ⅝; three-month bills, ⅝@⅞ per cent.

Paris.

Three per cent rentes, 82 francs 45 centimes; 4½ per cent rentes, 94.75.
Exchange on London, 74.15.
The dollar was quoted at 15.07½.

Chicago Stocks.

(Furnished by W. B. Hibbs & Co.)

	Bid.	Asked.
Yellow Taxi	11¼	12
Thompson	3⅜	5¾
Wahl	2¼	2¾
Butler Brothers	7¼	7⅝
National Leather	....	1¼
Swift	19	19¼
Swift International	34½	35¼
Libby, McNeil & Libby	7¼	7⅝
Midwest Oil	....	⅛
City Ice & Fuel com	....	¼
City Con. pfd	1	2
Edison	46½	48¼
Public Service, $100 par	15	16¼
Public Service, No Par	15½	16½
Quaker com	128	128¼
Quaker pfd	134	....
Pendlng	6¾	7¼
Sore-Warner	30½	30¾
Illinois Brick	7	8
U. S. Gypsum	46	52
Great Lakes Dock & Dredge	17⅜	17¾
Conso. com	....	⅛
Conso. p(c	2	3
Centric Household	12	16
McCord	....	....

Treasury Certificates.

(Reported by Chas. D. Barney & Co.)

Rate.	Maturity.	Bid.	Offer.
1½	Mar. 15, 1935	101 4-32	101 6-32
1½	June 15, 1935	101 27-32	101 29-32
1½	Aug. 15, 1935	101 5-32	101 7-32
1½	Sept. 15, 1935	101 5-32	101 7-32
1½	Dec. 15, 1935	101 13-32	101 15-32
1½	Mar. 15, 1936	101	101 2-32
1½	June 15, 1936	101	101 2-32
1½	Aug. 15, 1936	101	101 2-32
1½	Sept. 15, 1936	101	101 2-32
1½	Dec. 15, 1936	101	101 2-32
1½	Mar. 15, 1937	101	101 2-32
1½	June 15, 1937	101	101 2-32
1½	Sept. 15, 1937	101	101 2-32
1½	Dec. 15, 1937	101	101 2-32
1½	Mar. 15, 1938	101	101 2-32
1½	June 15, 1938	101	101 2-32

Finance, Business, Economics

New York Superintendent of Banks Discusses Problems on Branch System and Rates; Considered of Interest in National Field.

By Special Writer of The Post.

The annual report of the able superintendent of banks of New York State, Joseph A. Broderick, who is retiring from office, discusses a number of problems that are of much more than local interest. In view of Senator Glass' criticism of the efforts of the Federal Reserve Board and the FDIC to establish a uniform 2½ per cent rate of interest upon all time and savings deposits in member banks, Mr. Broderick's opinions on this subject are exceptionally timely. He notes that the problems confronting the banks in the early stages of depression were greatly aggravated by the practice of accepting deposits upon which high rates of interest were paid. Most institutions, he says, were longer than they should have been in learning that the funds in question were a burden instead of an advantage, since it was impossible for them to find sound investments upon which a profit could be realized. In the last two years, however, the banks have come to realize the importance of establishing uniform maximum rates of interest at a level justified by their earnings. The action taken last fall by the Federal Reserve Board and the State banking board, respectively, in fixing 3 per cent as the maximum rate was welcomed by the banks as a means of avoiding unsound competition in payment of interest. The banks have also responded favorably to a further limitation of interest to 2½ per cent. Protection of the depositor's principal is, in Supt. Broderick's opinion, the primary consideration, taking precedence over the question of yields.

The objections raised by Senator Glass to a Nation-wide uniformity of deposit interest rates are, of course, met by Supt. Broderick's indorsement of the uniform rate policy as applied to New York State. His objections go deeper, being directed against a policy which would tend to weaken the authority of the Federal Reserve Banks by ignoring geographical differences that might justify local variations in deposit rates, as well as in discount rates.

Valuable Suggestions Made On Extending Branch Banks.

In discussing plans for extending branch banking, the Broderick report also makes constructive suggestions that will be of value to those who wish to secure an extension of the branch banking system on a larger scale. The Stephens act, passed last May, divides New York State into nine districts within whose limits branch banking for both State and national banks is now permitted. While favoring a Statewide system of branch banking, Mr. Broderick thinks that the present act has proved to be satisfactory and recommends a further test of it, before introducing changes. As a result of the passage of the law, 11 communities entirely without banking facilities have been served. It is recommended that banks and trust companies be permitted to operate branches or stations open for only one or two days in places that do not need a full-time branch.

Especial emphasis is placed upon the value of cooperation between State and national authorities in harmonizing the provisions of the Stephens act and the branch banking provisions of the Federal statutes. Before authorizing the establishment of a branch of either a State or national bank, the approval of both State and national authorities has in all cases been obtained and given only after study of the situation. One of the strongest of the arguments in favor of an extension of branch banking is the fact that it facilitates the absorption of small local banks by stronger units and their conversion into branch offices. The Stephens act has not accomplished a great deal so far in that direction, according to the report, but its potential importance as an aim to consolidations is emphasized as a means of rendering improved banking service at lower costs, thereby permitting a higher margin of profit and affording better protection to depositors.

Superintendent Urges Uniformity In Supervisory Policies.

In addition to the measures noted for bringing State and national bank policies into conformity with one another, the superintendent emphasizes the desirability of uniformity in supervisory policies. It has long been the policy of the department, according to the report, to make its examination reports of member banks available to the Federal Reserve bank and to permit Federal Reserve examiners to conduct examinations jointly with those made by the State department.

The same practice has been followed to some extent, too, in dealing with the FDIC.

Since Superintendent Broderick favors the unification of banking through making all institutions members of the Federal Reserve system, he notes with satisfaction that the New York State banks and trust companies are now subject to substantially the same legal requirements as apply to national and State member banks. Existing disparities will, he thinks, tend to disappear as banks having Federal deposit insurance enter the Reserve system, as they must, if they wish to remain insured after 1937.

Baltimore Securities.

Baltimore, Jan. 4.—Closing prices:

Stocks.

Arundel Corp	18⅞
Black & Decker	8¼
Black & Decker pf	24½
Con G E L & P 5% pf	104¾
Northern Central R R	91½
Penn Water & Power	83½
U S Fidelity & Guaranty	5⅞

Bonds.

Baltimore City 4 '61 (sewer)	107½
United Rys El 1st 4 ctf	14

Chicago Egg Futures.

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP).—Egg futures, refrigerator standards, January, 21¼; October, 22⅝; fresh graded firsts, February, 20½; storage packed firsts, April, 21.

Bond Market Gains Despite Profit Taking

President's Message Failed to Affect Trading; Sales, $13,660,000.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—The President's message to Congress today apparently had little effect, one way or the other, on the bond market.

Prices generally continued to improve despite scattered profit taking in those issues that have recently recorded sharp advances. Secondary bonds were again the favorites, although prime loans were not neglected and a number of these edged into new high territory for the past year or longer.

The swift trading pace of the previous session gave way to a more sedate movement and transfers totaled only $13,660,000, par value, against $21,505,000 Thursday. Slack dealings in the Federal list, however, accounted for most of the decline in volume. The Associated Press averages showed a gain of .25 of a point for 20 rails, .68 for 10 industrials, .06 for 10 utilities, .05 for 10 low-yield issues, and .03 for 10 foreign loans. Advances of 1 to 2 or more points were shown by some loans.

Only about $2,000,000 of U. S. Government securities changed hands, compared with some $10,000,000 yesterday, and small advances were in the majority.

Another break in the Brazilians was the feature of the foreign department. Brazilian Government 8s of 1941 dropped 6¼ points at 31½ and other issues of the republic were off 2 or more. This group was still depressed by the announced failure of Brazil to acquire sufficient foreign exchange to pay interest on external debts.

Wool Market.

Boston, Jan. 4 (AP) (U. S. Dept. Agriculture).—Fair quantities of bulk French combing 64s and finer territory wools were moving at 68-70 cents scoured basis for average lines of graded wools, and at 67-70 cents for average to good French combing in original bags. Graded French combing 58s, 60s in good territory wools also were having a fair call at 68-70 cents scoured basis. The longest staple of these grades and most all wools of the lower grades were very slow.

U. S. Treasury Receipts.

(Associated Press.)

The position of the Treasury on January 2 was: Receipts for January 2, $254,713,627.77; expenditures, $282,030,506.20; net balance, $2,536,528,939.03; customs receipts for the month, $11,044,008.11.

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $1,853,866,738.23; expenditures, $3,588,349,009.99, including $1,854,112,923.09 of emergency expenditures. Excess of expenditures, $1,734,480,261.76; gold assets, $8,242,682,842.06.

Dried Fruits Steady.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Dried fruits steady, unchanged.

Message Stirs Mixed Views In Wall Street

Rails Show Response on Regulation Recommendation; Bonds Steady.

By Claude A. Jagger.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Wall street pondered President Roosevelt's message to Congress with a mixture of satisfaction and misgivings today.

Rails were the only important group in the securities markets to show much response. Here prices advanced a little, after the President's recommendation of unification of regulation of all forms of transportation.

While some of the so-called hard money circles regarded the President's plan to transfer the unemployed from a "dole" to employment on public works as possibly portending eventual inflation, they noted the President explained that the Government's credit would be protected. Prices of United States Government bonds were steady in the New York Stock Exchange, and the dollar was firm in foreign exchange dealings.

On the whole, most quarters in Wall street thought the message was "about as expected," in view of recent Washington reports. Some quarters said they were more interested in the budget message, to be delivered to Congress next week. Leading bankers and industrialists said that they preferred not to issue formal comment, at least until they had had time for further study of the program.

Securities Averages.

(United Press.)

	50 Stocks.	20 Inds.	20 RR's.	90 Utl.	Ttl.
Today		91.0	38.0	49.3	75.5
Yesterday		91.3	37.6	49.5	75.6
Week ago		90.0	37.6	49.1	74.7
Month ago		89.3	36.9	54.0	75.3
Year ago		91.1	42.1	64.9	78.9
Two years ago		53.9	27.7	93.5	56.8
High, 1934		105.0	54.3	90.3	93.8
Low, 1934		76.0	34.1	47.1	66.4
High, 1933		102.1	58.0	113.7	96.9
Low, 1933		42.3	23.5	61.1	43.9

(1926 average equals 100).

	Bonds. 20 Inds.	20 RR's.	20 Utl.	60 Ttl.
Today	86.4	85.2	89.6	87.1
Yesterday	86.2	84.7	89.5	86.8
Week ago	85.5	83.1	88.4	85.6
Month ago	84.6	82.9	88.8	85.4
Year ago	72.9	74.8	77.2	75.0
Two years ago	63.3	60.0	82.9	68.7
High, 1934	85.9	90.0	90.6	88.1
Low, 1934	72.6	74.1	77.2	74.8
High, 1933	77.1	84.9	88.5	83.4
Low, 1933	58.3	57.0	74.1	63.6

(1926 average equals 100).
(Copyright, 1935, Standard Statistics Co.)

The Markets at a Glance

What the Stock Market Did.

	Fri.	Thur.
Advances	268	410
Declines	332	213
Unchanged	174	152
Total issues	774	755

Stocks—Trading volume slowed down. Prices were shaded slightly, .18 of a point off, but the market generally held to a dead center. Sales totaled 965,420 shares.

Bonds—The message failed to affect trading and bonds continued to move forward. Prices averaged higher despite profit taking. Sales volume dropped to $3,660,000.

Curb—Prices irregular. The list paid little heed to the message. Alcohols met profit taking. Sales volume dropped to 193,000 shares.

Wheat—Roosevelt's message was followed by a slight rally in wheat. The market closed net unchanged to ⅜ up. January wheat sold at 97¾; May, at 99⅝.

Cotton—Trading was quiet, with price movements narrow. The market closed unchanged to 4 points up. January sold at 12.58; May at 12.76.

Sugar—Raw sugar was quiet, unchanged. Offered at 2.82; refined sold at 4.30 for fine granulated with moderate demand.

Coffee—Spot coffee was quiet. Santos, No. 4, sold at 11¼; Rio, No. 7, sold at 9½.

Silver—Bar silver was steady in New York, unchanged at 54⅛. In London it sold at 1-6 higher at 24s 11-16d. (United States equivalent, 54.70 cents.)

Gold—Bar gold in London advanced 6½ pence to 142s 1d. (United States equivalent, $34.84.)

Dollar—The United States dollar gained on foreign exchanges yesterday. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.92 to the English pound; 6.63½ cents to the French franc, and 40.37 cents to the German mark.

Bank Stocks

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—(New York Security Dealers Association):

Bank and Trust.	Bid.	Asked.
Bank of Manhattan (11½)	22	23½
Bankers Trust (3)	54½	56½
Bklyn Trust (4)	78	83
Cen Hanover Bk & Tr (6)	103	107
Chase National (1.40)	24¾	26¼
Chem Bk & Tr (1.80)	38	40
Commercial (8)	134	140
Cont Bk & Tr (.80)	11½	13
Corn Ex Bk & Tr (3)	45½	48½
Empire Tr (1)	17	18
Fifth Ave (34a)	1000	1080
First Boston Corp	20¾	22¼
First Natl (100)	1485	1525
Guaranty Tr (20)	298	303
Irving Trust (1)	14	15
Manufacturers Tr (1)	21½	22¾
National City (1)	22¼	23¾
New York Trust (5)	95	98
Public (1½)	4	5½
Title G & T	4	5
United St Tr (70a)	1580	1630
Insurance.
Aetna Cas (2½)	57¾	59¾
Aetna Fire (1.80)	46½	48½
Aetna Life (2a)	18¾	20½
Agricultural (2.40)	62	64½
Am Reinsur (2½)	23	25
Am Surety (1)	28¾	29¾
Boston (16)	545	565
Conn Gen Life (.80)	20	21½
Fid & Dep (3a)	45	47
Frank Fire (1.10a)	24¼	25¾
Glens Falls (1.60)	33	35
Globe & Rut	23	25
Great Amer (1)	20½	22
Halifax (.90)	17½	19
Hanover (1.60)	34½	37¼
Hartford Fire (2)	35¾	37¾
Home Ins (1.18a)	27½	29
Mass Bond	12½	13½
National Fire (2)	52¾	55¾
National Liberty (½a)	6½	7½
N Y Fire (1.20a)	13	14
North River (85c)	23¾	25¼
Phoenix (2.90)	49½	51½
Prov Wash (1.10a)	30¼	32¼
St Paul Fire (2)	171	175
Springfield (4½)	100	103
Title Guar	23	24
Travelers (16)	215	225
U S Fire (1.70a)	45¼	47¼
Westchester (1.40a)	29	30½

(a) Including extras.
(c) Declared or paid so far this year.

Montreal Silver Futures.

Montreal, Jan. 4 (AP).—Silver futures:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
Jan.	54.85	55.00	55.00	55.00
Mch.	55.00	55.30	55.00	55.00
Apr.	55.20	55.25	55.20	55.25
May	55.40	55.60	55.40	55.50
June	55.60	55.60	55.60	55.70

*Bid; †Nominal.

Transactions on N. Y. Bond Market

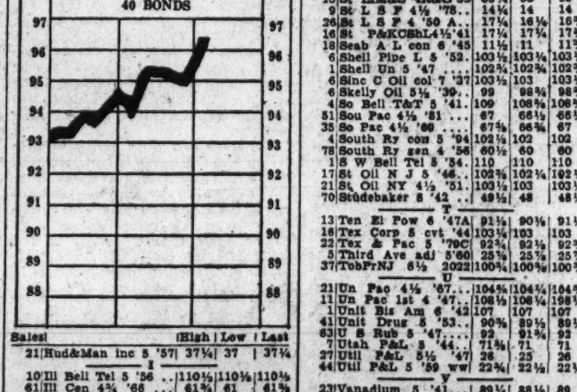
(Associated Press.)

Total bond sales today, $13,660,000; previous day, $21,505,000; week ago, $10,572,000; year ago, $14,398,000; two years ago, $13,038,000. January 1 to date, $44,782,000; year ago, $54,292,000; two years ago, $46,386,000.

U. S. GOVERNMENT BONDS.
(Dollars and 32ds. Sales in $1,000.)

Sales			High	Low	Last
		Liberty.
49	3½	'32-47	103.21	103.17	103.17
10	3½	reg '32-47	103.14	103.14	103.14
19	1st 4¼	'32-47	103.16	103.11	103.11
1	1-2 4¼	'32-47	103	103	103
1	4¼	'32-47	103	103	103
13	4th 4¼	'33-38	103.23	103.21	103.22
5	4th 4¼	'33-38cid	101.26	101.26	101.26
		Treasury.
209	4¼	'47-52	113.16	113.13	113.14
189	3¼	'43-45	103.2	102.29	103.2
107	4	'44-54	109	108.29	108.30
29	3¾	'46-56	107.8	107.4	107.8
5	3⅜	'40-43 June	104.16	104.16	104.16
8	3⅜	'43-47	104	104	104
15	3¼	'41-43 Mch	104.19	104.14	104.14
277	3¼	'41	104.24	104.21	104.24
55	3¼	'44-46	103.1	102.29	103
8	3¼	'46-49	101.31	101.29	101.29
840	3⅛	'49-52	101.24	101.19	101.24
425	3	'46-48	101	100.27	101
78	3	'51-55	101.1	100.29	101.1
110	Fd F Mtg	3 '49	99.24	99.19	99.22
26	F F Mtg	3¼ '64	101.18	101.14	101.18
9	Home O L	4 '51	100.31	100.28	100.30
99	Home O L	3A '52	99.25	99.22	99.24
271	H O L	2¾ '39-49	98.29	98.24	98.26
		CORPORATION BONDS.
		A
28	Alleghany	5 '50	28	25⅜	26
48	Am & For P	5 2030	60	59	59
22	AmIGChem	5½ '49	105¾	105½	105½
29	Am Roll M	5 '38	111½	110¾	110¾
21	Am Smelt	5 '47	104¾	104	104¾
2	Am T & T	5½ '43	112¾	112½	112¾
26	Am T & T	5 '65	111¾	111¼	111¾
10	Am T & T	4½ '39	107½	107	107
35	Am W W & E	5 '44	95⅞	93½	93½
15	Arm 4½	'39	102¼	102	102
6	AT&SF cvt	4½ '48	107⅞	107½	107½
29	AT&SF	4 '95	108	107½	108
17	A C Line 1st	4 '52	100¾	100¾	100¾
12	Atl Refin	5 '37	107½	107½	107½
		B
32	B & O rfg	6 '95	84¼	83¾	84⅛
58	B & O 1st	5 '48	107¼	106⅞	106⅞
62	B & O cvt	4½ '60	58	57¼	57⅞
7	B & O	4 '48	102¼	102¼	102¼
3	Bell T Pa	5 '48 B	114	113⅝	114
2	Beth Stl rfg	5 '42	108	108	108
10	Boston&Me	5 '67	75¾	74⅞	75¾
6	Bklyn Ed	5 '52 E	108½	108¾	108½
22	Bklyn M Tran	6 '68	104¾	104½	104¾
12	Buf Gen El	4½ '81	109½	109	109½
16	Buf R&P	4½ '57	69¾	69½	69½
		C
3	Can Nat Ry	4½ '56	115⅝	115⅜	115⅝
12	Can Nat Ry	4½ '68	105½	105	105½
9	Can Nor	7 '49	107½	107	107½
45	Can Pac	4½ '60	97¾	97½	97¾
25	Can Pac	4 perp	86⅞	86⅝	86⅞
6	Cen Ill E&G	5 '51	73	72	72
17	Cen Pac	5 '60	79	78½	78½
10	Cen Pac	1st 4 '49	99⅝	99	99⅛
34	Certain-td	5½ '48	73	72	72¾
38	Chesap Corp	5 '47	105¾	105¼	105¾
2	C&O	gen 4½ '92	115⅝	115⅛	115⅝
19	Chic Gt West	4 '59	33½	33	33½
153	CMSP&	Pac 5 '75	25½	24¾	24¾
251	CMSP&P	ad 5 2000	7⅝	7½	7½
122	Chi & NW	cv4¼ '49	22	21¼	21¾
21	CRI&P	cvt 4½ '60	7¼	7	7¼
10	C R I & P	rfg 4 '34	16⅝	16	16⅝
42	Chile Cop	5 '47	82⅛	80½	81¾
11	Cinn Gas & E	4 '58	104	103¾	103¾
6	CCC&StL	4½ '77E	78½	78	78½
27	ClevUnTerm	4½ '77C	90⅝	90	90⅝
6	Colon Oil	6 '38	42¼	41	42⅛
5	Col Indus	5 '35	26	25½	26
14	Colombia G	5 '52May	83	82½	83
21	Colombia G	5 '61	83¾	83¼	83¾
17	Colombus RP	4½ '57	99⅜	98¾	99⅜
16	Com'l Inv Tr	5½ '49	110¾	110¾	110¾
26	Con Gas NY	5½ '45	106¼	106¼	106¼
35	Con Gas NY	4½ '51	99⅝	99⅝	99⅝
3	Crown Cork	6 '47	108¼	108¼	108¼
58	Cub Cane Pr	6 '50	1¼	1½	1¾
		D
191	Del & Hud	rfg 4 '43	94½	93⅞	94
8	D & R G	4 '36	28	28	28
3	Det Ed	5 '52	105½	105½	105½
12	Dodge Bros	6 '40	107	106¾	106¾
12	Duque L	4½ '67 A	108⅛	108⅛	108⅛
		E
40	Erie	rf 5 '75	73¼	72⅝	73
20	Erie	gen lien 4 '96	78¾	78¼	78½
		G
7	Gen Cable	5½ '47	87⅝	87	87⅜
1	Gen Petrol	5 '40	102⅞	102⅞	102⅞
13	G Bkl Cast	5½ '49	89½	89	89½
3	Goodrich	6½ '47	108⅛	108⅛	108⅛
15	Goodyr T&R	5 '57	105	104½	105
2	Gr T Rr Can	6 '36	106⅝	106⅝	106⅝
45	Gt Nor Ry	7 '36	94½	93¾	93¾
48	Gt Nor	4½ '77 E	78¾	77¾	78¼
		H
19	Hudson Coal	5 '62A	44¼	44	44½
19	Hud & Man	rfg 5 '57	88¼	88	88

Bond Averages Daily



Sales		High	Low	Last
	A
21	Rud&Man inc 5 '57	37¼	37	37¼
	I
10	Ill Bell Tel 5 '56	110½	110½	110½
61	Ill Cen 4½ '66	61¾	61	61⅝
42	IC&CStL&NO 5 '63A	77⅛	77	77
3	Ill Steel 4½ '40	106⅞	106⅞	106⅞
1	Inland St 4½ '78 A	104¾	104¾	104¾
1	Interb R Tr 6 '32	61	61	61
33	Interb R Tr rfx5'66	82½	81¾	82½
60	Int Cement 5 '48	100	99½	100
24	Int Hydro El 6 '44	49¾	49	49¾
37	Int Paper 5 '47	77	74½	76
58	Int T&T 4½ '52	63	62	63
87	Int T&T deb 5 '55	68¼	67⅝	68¼
	K
5	K C P&L 4½ '61	110¾	110⅝	110⅝
8	K C South 5 '50	73	73	73
27	K C Term 4 '60	106	105⅝	105⅝
23	Kans O&E 4½ '80	101	100⅝	101
	L
3	Lac Gas 5½ '53	64	63½	63½
3	Lautaro Nit 6 '54	9⅝	9½	9½
2	Liggett & M 7 '44	131½	131½	131½
4	Loew's Inc 6 '41	105¾	105⅝	105⅝
12	Louis & N 4 '40	104½	104½	104¾
	M
2	Manhat Ry 4 '90	58	58	58
52	McKes & Rob5½'50	94¾	94½	94¾
11	Midvale Stl 5 '36	102¾	102¾	102¾
14	MSP&SSM con 4'38	32	31½	31½
25	Mo Pac 5½ '49	....	7½	7⅝
22	Mo Pac 5 '77 F	28¾	26	28¾
17	Mo Pac gen 4 '75	10½	9⅞	9⅞
17	Mo Pac 5 '81 I	28¾	28¼	28½
32	Mont Pw rfg 5 '43	95½	95	95½
	N
57	Nat Dairy 5½ '48	102¾	102½	102⅝
14	Natl Steel 5 '56	107	106½	106½
26	N Eng T&T 5 '52	116⅝	116⅜	116⅝
18	N O P & S 5'58	56⅞	56½	56½
4	N O T&M 5½ '54	27	26½	27
55	NYC cvt 6 '35	112¾	111¾	112
34	NYC rf 5 2013	68¾	67⅝	68
23	NYC con 4 '98	86⅝	86½	86½
47	NYC&HR 4½ 2013	62	61¼	61⅝
82	NY C&StL 4½ '78	64½	63¾	64
10	NY Edis 6½ '41	113¼	113¼	113¼
11	NY O El R&P 4 '43	117	116¾	117
11	NY L & W 4 '73 A	100	99⅝	100
17	NYNH&H cvt 6 '48	50½	49¾	50
11	NYNH&H 4½ '67	43¾	42¾	42¾
11	NY Tel 4½ '39	108¾	108⅜	108⅜
27	NY W&Bos 4½ '46	30½	29¾	29¾
4	Niagara Sh 5½ '50	64	64	64
1	Norf & W 4 '96	110¾	110¾	110¾
26	N Am Co 5 '61	82½	81½	82¼
23	N Am Ed 5½ '52	79	79	79
62	N Pac 6 2047	100½	99⅞	100⅛
36	Nor Pac 4 '97	103	102⅝	103
2	Nor States Pw 5 '41	103¾	103¾	103¾
	**

Stocks Hold To Dead Center After Message

Roosevelt's Stand About as Expected; Sales 965,420 Shares.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—The President's message to Congress was about as expected in Wall Street and failed to jar markets off dead center today.

A canvass of Wall Street opinion disclosed that the reaction to the speech was probably slightly favorable on balance, despite the fact that a number of points were regarded as a stand-off.

In some quarters it was felt that those sections of the message dealing with public works carried an intimation of eventual inflation. On the other hand, the assertion that expenditures would be "within the sound credit of the Government" was a source of comfort to those who feared wild spending.

Work and Relief.

Those parts of the speech which stressed that the "Federal Government must and shall quit this business of relief" and cited the desire of the Administration not to offer made-work jobs at wages more attractive than private work were hopefully interpreted.

The mention of a return to "sound conditions in the public utilities field" was not disquieting to the industry, while the advocacy of unified control of all phases of transportation and elimination of grade crossings lent some spirit to railroad shares.

Railroad issues were the only group to brace up, although the rise was slight. Both the industrials and utilities declined, but losses were so trifling as to excite little interest. The Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks was shaded .18 of a point to 40.78. Trading activity was less than yesterday at 965,420 shares, a drop of about 97,000.

Demand for Preferred.

A feature of the stock list was the rather brisk demand for preferred issues, which scored gains of 1 to 7 points. Included in this group were American Radiator, General Cigar, Johns - Manville, Pacific Telephone, Standard Brands, Sun Oil and United States Steel.

Most industrial leaders showed little or no change. Issues which gave up fractions were American Can, American Smelting, Anaconda, Chrysler, General Motors, International Harvester, Montgomery Ward, Sears, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Union Carbide. U. S. Steel was ⅜ lower at 38⅜.

American Telephone lost 1¼ at 104⅞. Consolidated Gas was shaded ⅛ to 20.

Although the usual postholiday recession in retail trade occurred, the decline was the smallest in a number of years, Dun & Bradstreet reported. A good response to promotional efforts was cited as evidence that buyers are showing more robust confidence. The review described retail trade as "off to the most auspicious start that has marked the beginning of any year since 1929."

Sterling was unchanged; the gold currencies a little lower.

New Can Plant Planned.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Continental Can Co., Inc., will erect a new plant at Elwood, Ind., at a cost of approximately $500,000, it was announced today. The new factory is expected to be completed and in operation in time for the next canning season.

Local Stocks

(Furnished by W. B. Hibbs & Co.)

Sales.

Mergenthaler Linotype, 6 at 30.

Public Utility.

	Bid.	Asked.
Amer Tel & Tel 4½ '39	107	.....
Amer Tel & Tel Col Tr 5s	109	.....
Anacostia & Pot 4½ R R 5s	78	79
Anacostia & Pot sugar 5s	101	.....
C & P Tel of Va 5s	104	.....
Capital Traction R R 5s	89½	90
City & Suburban 5s	78	79
Georgetown Gas 1st 5s	107½	.....
Pot Elec Pow cons 5s	104	.....
Pot Elec 6s 1953	109¼	.....
Wash Gas 5 1958	102¼	102½
Wash Gas 5 1960	109¾	.....
Wash Gas 5s, 1980	109¾	.....
Wash Gas 6s, series B	103¼	.....
Wash Rwy & Elec	98¾	100

Miscellaneous.

Barber & Ross Inc 6½s	35	.....
Chevy Chase Club 5½s	102	.....
Columbia Country Club 5½s	100½	.....
D C Paper Mfg 6s	15	.....
W M Cold Storage 5s	92¼	.....

Stocks.

Public Utility.

Amer Tel & Tel (9)	106	.....
Capital Transit Co	26	27
N & W Steamboat	77	.....
Wash Gas Light Co (3.60)	57	63
Pot Elec Power 6% pfd	109½	111
Pot Elec Pow 5½% pfd	110½	111½
Wash Ry & El com (7)	95	.....
Wash Ry & El pfd (5)	100	100¾

National Bank.

Capital (4)	90	.....
Liberty (3)	75	82
Lincoln (5)	150	.....
Riggs com (8)	210	220
Riggs pfd (5)	105	.....
Washington (6)	100	.....

Trust Company.

Amer Sec & Tr Co (8)	195	210
National Sec & Trust	100	.....
Wash Loan & Tr (8)	183	195

Savings Bank.

Com & Savings (4)	150	.....

Fire Insurance.

American (12)	175	.....
Corcoran (2.50)	90	.....
Firemen's (1.60)	21¾	.....
National Union (.70)	9½	.....

Title Insurance.

Columbia (.30)	4¼	.....
Real Estate (6.00)	82	.....

Miscellaneous.

Carpel Corp (1)	12	13
D C Paper Mfg pfd	60	.....
Emer Bromo-Seltz "A" (2)	16	21
Lanston Monotype (4)	48	.....
Mergenthaler Linotype (4)	80	91½
Peoples Drug St pfd (6.50)	110	111¼
Real Est M & G pfd	9	.....
Security Storage (5)	*9	.....
Ter Ref & Wh Corp (3)	*33½	.....
Wdwd & Loth com (1.50)	25½	.....
Wdwd & Loth pfd (7)	109	.....

*Ex dividend.

Bank Stock Record.

New York, Jan. 4.—After having reached in the spring of 1934 levels close to the 1933 peak, New York City bank stocks declined in the latter part of 1934, but closed with a moderate net gain on the year, Holt, Rose & Troster report.

The weighted average of 17 representative issues, opened January 2 at the year's low of 39.69, and on April 26 reached the year's high of 57.43, compared with 1933 high of 62.19 on January 10, 1933. Subsequently, however, a declining trend developed, which carried the average down to 40.33 on September 18. The close on December 31 was 44.09, a net gain of 11.1 per cent over January 2, 1934, and 25.8 per cent over the 1933 low on December 26, 1933. The range for the year was as follows:

Bank Stock Range, 1934.	Open and low, Jan. 2.	High, Apr. 26.	Close, Dec. 31.
Bankers Trust	50¾	68½	53½
Brooklyn Trust	67	115	280
Cent. Hanover	109½	137	104½
Chase National	19¼	33¾	24¼
Continental	12½	15¾	.....
Chemical	26¾	42¼	38¾
City	21¾	31	22
Commercial Natl	112	147	132
Corn Exchange	41	56½	43½
Empire Trust	15	20¼	17½
First National	1,185	1,735	1,497
Guaranty Trust	251	360	296
Irving Trust	13¾	19¾	14¼
Manhattan	23¼	34¾	32
Mf'ctures Tr	17¼	25¾	21¼
N. Y. Trust	75¾	106¾	96
Public Natl	19¾	35¾	30¾
Weighted ave	39.69	57.43	44.09

1933 Range.
High, January 10	62.19
Low, December 26	38.06

Bear Market Low.
May 31, 1932	31.94

Complete Transactions Yesterday on New York Stock Exchange

(Associated Press.)

Total stock sales yesterday, 965,420 shares; previous day, 1,062,546 shares; week ago, 1,276,071 shares; year ago, 1,075,810 shares; two years ago, 1,141,810 shares; January 1 to date, 2,906,896 shares; year ago, 4,936,170 shares; two years ago, 3,864,143 shares.

1935 High	1935 Low	Name and Dividend Rate	Sales Add 00	High	Low	Close	Net Ch'ge.
		A
111	80	Abr & Stra pf (7)	.80	110¼	110	110	.....
11⅛	6	Adams Exp	6	7¼	7⅛	7⅛	.....
86	70¼	Ad Exp pf (5)	.50	86	86	86	.....
34⅞	16	Adams-Millis (2)	1	33¼	33⅛	33⅛	— ⅛
11⅜	6¾	Addressog	15	9⅛	8½	8½	— ⅛
9¾	4⅞	Affiliat Prod (.80)	3	7	7	7	.....
114½	91¾	Air Reduc (3)	4	114¾	113¾	114½	+ ⅝
3⅝	1¼	Air-Way El Ap	5	1⅝	1⅝	1⅝	.....
23⅞	16¾	Alaska Jun (⅝b)	17	19½	19	19¼	.....
5¼	1¼	Alleghany	28	1¾	1⅝	1⅝	+ ⅛
16⅛	4⅞	Alleg pf $30 ww	2	7	7	7	+ ⅛
180¾	115½	Al Chem & Dye (6)	4	130¼	130	130	— 1
130	122½	Al Chem & Dye pf (7)	1	124	123¾	124	+ 1
23⅜	10⅝	Allis-Ch Mfg	9	16¾	16⅛	16⅛	— ⅜
20½	11½	Alpha P Cem (1⅛g)	22	19¼	18	19	— ⅜
7⅞	3⅛	Amal Lea	1	3⅜	3⅜	3⅜	— ⅛
56⅝	39	Amerada (2)	3	51	51	51	.....
50½	25¼	Am Ag Ch Del (2)	13	50⅝	49⅞	50⅛	— ⅛
25¼	11½	Am Bank Note	4	15	14⅝	15	.....
38	19½	Am Brake Shoe (.80)	3	29½	29¾	29⅝	.....
117⅝	90¼	Am Can ($5)	10	116⅛	115¾	116	.....
152	120½	Am Can pf (7)	1	151¾	151¾	151¾	— ¼
33⅞	12	Am Car & Fdy	6	18⅝	18	18⅝	— ⅛
56½	32	Am Car & F pf	4	40½	40	40	.....
70⅝	46⅛	Am Chicle (3½b)	1	68	68	68	+ ¾
92½	29¾	Am Coml Alco	10	33	31½	31½	— 1⅝
13½	6½	Am Crystal Sug	5	8½	7⅞	7⅞	— ⅛
72⅜	48½	Am Crystal S pf	50	60⅝	59	60½	+ 1⅝
5	1⅝	Am Encaus Til	38	3	3¾	3¾	.....
10½	3	Am Europ	14	5	5	5	+ ⅛
13⅜	3⅞	Am & For Pow	13	5⅝	4¾	4¾	.....
30	11¾	Am F P $7 pf	11	20⅝	20	20	.....
17½	6½	Am & F P 2 pf	4	8½	7⅞	7⅞	— ⅛
10½	3½	Am Hide & Lea	1	5½	5½	5½	+ ⅛
42¼	17⅝	Am Hi & L pf	6	25¼	24¼	24¼	— 1½
36⅝	26½	Am Home Pr (2.40)	7	32½	32	32	.....
10	3	Am Ice	1	3¾	3¾	3¾	+ ⅛
45¼	25¾	Am Ice pf (6) XD	1	30	30	30	+ 2⅝
1½	⅝	Am-La Fra & F	2	⅝	⅝	⅝	.....
10	3¼	Am-La Pr pf	60	4½	4½	4½	.....
38⅝	14½	Am Loco	9	18⅝	18⅜	18⅝	.....
23¾	12⅜	Am M & Fdy (1g)	11	23½	22⅝	22⅝	— ⅛
10	4½	Am Mach & M ctf	4	7	6⅞	7	.....
27⅝	12⅝	Am Metal	7	16⅛	15¾	15¾	— ⅛
91	63	Am Met 6%	12	78	75	78	+ 4
34⅝	21	Am News (1½)	1	23¾	23½	23½	— ⅛
29⅞	11⅜	Am P&L $6 pf (1½)	11	14	13¼	13¼	— 1⅛
36¼	9½	Am P&L $5 pf (1¼)	9	12	11½	11½	— ⅛
17⅝	10	Am Rad & St S	52	15⅞	15⅛	15⅜	+ ⅛
138	111⅛	Am Rad & St pf (7)	10	138	136	136	+ 3
28¾	13½	Am Roll Mill	45	23¼	22⅛	22⅜	— ⅜
68	36	Am Safety Raz (4)	1	67	67	67	.....
2⅜	⅝	Am Ship & C	3	⅞	¾	⅞	+ ⅛
30	17⅞	Am Ship Bldg (2)	3	50	24	22¾	24	+ 1⅛
51¼	30¼	Am Smelt & R	60	39⅜	38⅝	38⅝	— ⅝
125	100	Am Smelt pf (7)	1	123½	123½	123½	.....
71	48¾	Am Snuff (3¾b)	1	67	67	67	— ⅛
26½	10⅞	Am Stl Fdrs	7	16¾	16⅜	16⅜	— ⅛
92	50⅝	Am Stl F pf (2)	10	92	92	92	+ 1¼
44¾	37	Am Stores (2½b)	1	41⅞	41⅞	41⅞	+ ⅛
72	46	Am Sugar Ref (2)	3	67	67	67	.....
24⅝	13¾	Am Sumat Tob (1)	15	24⅜	24	24	— ⅜
125¼	100⅜	Am Tel & Tel (9)	57	106¾	104½	104⅞	— 1¼
85½	65¼	Am Tob (5)	7	84	83½	84	+ ⅛
99	67	Am Tob B (5)	18	86	85½	86	+ ⅝
130¾	107¼	Am Teb pf (6)	21	130¼	129¾	130¼	+ ⅛
13	3	Am Type Fdrs	2	5	5	5	.....
28¾	7¾	Am Type F pf	10	14½	14¼	14½	— 1
27⅝	12⅜	Am Wat Wks (1)	15	14⅜	14⅛	14⅜	+ ⅛
54	24	Am W W 1 pf (6)	1	59	59	59	— 1
17⅛	7	Am Woolen	8	16	15	15	.....
63¾	36	Am Wool pf	5	44⅞	44¾	44¾	— ⅝
4¼	1	Am Wtg P	4	1½	1⅜	1⅜	.....
17½	2⅝	Am Wtg P pf	3	4⅞	4¾	4¾	.....
9	3¼	Am Zinc L & S	3	4¾	4¾	4¾	+ ⅛
17⅝	10	Anaconda	80	18	17¾	17¾	— ⅛
24⅜	13⅛	Anchor Cap (.60)	1	17⅝	17⅝	17⅝	+ ⅛
106	84	Anchor Cap pf (6½)	.80	104	103	103	— 1¼
10½	4⅜	Ando Cop	2	5	5	5	.....
7⅞	2	A P W Paper	8	3	2	2	.....
39⅛	26¼	Arch-Dan-M. (1¼b)	8	38¾	38⅝	38⅝	+ ⅛
118¼	110	Arch-Dan-M pf (7)	1	118¼	118¼	118¼	+ 1¼
103	76¼	Armour Del pf (7)	2	100⅞	100⅞	100⅞	.....
6¾	3½	Arm Ill	36	6	5⅝	5¾	.....
71¼	46¼	Arm Ill pr pf (6)	7	69¼	67½	67½	— 1½
8	3	Arnold Const	5	6¼	6¼	6¼	.....
18¼	7¼	Asso Dry Gds	4	12½	12¼	12½	+ ⅛
90¼	46	Assd D Gd 1 pf	3	90¼	90	90¼	.....
65¾	36	Assd D Gd 2 pf	5	65¾	64½	65¾	+ 1⅛
73⅝	45¼	Atch T & S F (2e)	47	55⅛	53⅜	54⅜	+ ⅜
97	70½	Atchison pf (5)	4	86¼	86	86	.....
84¼	44¾	Atl Cst Line	27	37¼	36⅛	36⅛	— ⅛
35½	21½	Atl Refin (1)	6	25⅛	25	25	— ⅛
55½	35¼	Atlas Pow (2)	2	40	40	40	.....
16¼	5½	Atlas Tack	3	7	6⅞	6⅞	.....
37⅜	16½	Auburn Auto	6	28¾	25⅜	25⅝	— ⅜
55	33¾	Aust Nich pr A (5)	1.20	63	63	63	.....
10¾	3¾	Aviation Corp	24	5⅛	5⅛	5⅜	— ⅛
		B
16	4½	Baldwin Loc	29	5⅞	5⅝	5⅝	— ⅛
64⅝	16¼	Baldwin Loc pf	3	23¾	23½	23½	+ ⅛
34½	12¾	Balt & Ohio	43	14⅜	14¼	14¼	+ ⅛
18⅝	8	Balt & Ohio pf	6	17⅜	16¾	17⅛	+ ⅛
102⅜	86	Bamberger pf (6½)	10	101½	101⅛	101⅛	— ⅜
38½	16⅛	Barker pf	1.50	36	35⅝	36	.....
10	5⅞	Barnsdall	20	6⅞	6¾	6¾	.....
45¾	23	Bayuk Cigar (1)	1	43	43	43	.....
19¾	10¼	Beatrice Cr	1	17⅜	17⅛	17⅜	— ⅜
15¼	8⅞	Belding-Hem (½e)	7	12⅝	12½	12⅝	— ⅛
23⅝	9¾	Bendix Aviat	32	17¼	16⅞	16⅞	— ⅛
19½	12⅜	Bendix Ind Ln (1½)	1	17⅛	17	17⅛	.....
40	26	Best & Co (1½)	1	38¾	36½	36½	— ⅝
49½	24½	Bethlehem Stl	76	32½	31⅝	32	— ⅛
40	19¼	Bigelow-San (1e)	1.20	24½	24	24	+ 1
26	17	Blaw-Knox	7	11	10⅞	11	.....
109	88	Bloomingdale (.40)	10	21½	21½	21½	.....
60¾	34	Bloomingdal pf (7)	10	108	108	107¾	— ⅛
13¾	6¾	Blumenthal pf	10	37	37	37	.....
44⅛	21	Boeing Airpl	11	9⅝	9⅜	9½	— ⅛
125¼	100⅜	Bohn Alum (3)	1	59¼	59¼	59¼	.....
85½	65¼	Am Smelt & R (5b)	30	95	95	95	.....
28¾	19⅜	Am Tob (5)	7	84	83½	84	+ ⅛
31⅝	16⅛	Am Tob pf (6)	18	88	85½	86	+ ⅝
130¾	107¼	Am Teb pf (6)	21	130¼	129¾	130¼	+ ⅛
13	3	Am Type Fdrs	2	5	5	5	.....
28¾	7¾	Am Type F pf	10	14½	14¼	14½	— 1
27⅝	12⅜	Am Wat Wks (1)	15	14⅜	14⅛	14⅜	+ ⅛
54	24	Am W W 1 pf (6)	1	59	59	59	— 1
17⅛	7	Am Woolen	8	16	15	15	.....
63¾	36	Am Wool pf	5	44⅞	44¾	44¾	— ⅝
4¼	1	Am Wtg P	4	1½	1⅜	1⅜	.....
17½	2⅝	Am Wtg P pf	3	4⅞	4¾	4¾	.....
9	3¼	Am Zinc L & S	3	4¾	4¾	4¾	+ ⅛
17⅝	10	Anaconda	80	18	17¾	17¾	— ⅛
24⅜	13⅛	Anchor Cap (.60)	1	17⅝	17⅝	17⅝	+ ⅛
106	84	Anchor Cap pf (6½)	.80	104	103	103	— 1¼
10½	4⅜	Ando Cop	2	5	5	5	.....
7⅞	2	A P W Paper	8	3	2	2	.....
39⅛	26¼	Arch-Dan-M. (1¼b)	8	38¾	38⅝	38⅝	+ ⅛
118¼	110	Arch-Dan-M pf (7)	1	118¼	118¼	118¼	+ 1¼
103	76¼	Armour Del pf (7)	2	100⅞	100⅞	100⅞	.....
6¾	3½	Arm Ill	36	6	5⅝	5¾	.....
71¼	46¼	Arm Ill pr pf (6)	7	69¼	67½	67½	— 1½
8	3	Arnold Const	5	6¼	6¼	6¼	.....
18¼	7¼	Asso Dry Gds	4	12½	12¼	12½	+ ⅛
90¼	46	Assd D Gd 1 pf	3	90¼	90	90¼	.....
65¾	36	Assd D Gd 2 pf	5	65¾	64½	65¾	+ 1⅛
73⅝	45¼	Atch T & S F (2e)	47	55⅛	53⅜	54⅜	+ ⅜
97	70½	Atchison pf (5)	4	86¼	86	86	.....
84¼	44¾	Atl Cst Line	27	37¼	36⅛	36⅛	— ⅛
35½	21½	Atl Refin (1)	6	25⅛	25	25	— ⅛
55½	35¼	Atlas Pow (2)	2	40	40	40	.....
16¼	5½	Atlas Tack	3	7	6⅞	6⅞	.....
37⅜	16½	Auburn Auto	6	28¾	25⅜	25⅝	— ⅜
55	33¾	Aust Nich pr A (5)	1.20	63	63	63	.....
10¾	3¾	Aviation Corp	24	5⅛	5⅛	5⅜	— ⅛
		B
16	4½	Baldwin Loc	29	5⅞	5⅝	5⅝	— ⅛
64⅝	16¼	Baldwin Loc pf	3	23¾	23½	23½	+ ⅛
34½	12¾	Balt & Ohio	43	14⅜	14¼	14¼	+ ⅛
18⅝	8	Balt & Ohio pf	6	17⅜	16¾	17⅛	+ ⅛
102⅜	86	Bamberger pf (6½)	10	101½	101⅛	101⅛	— ⅜
38½	16⅛	Barker pf	1.50	36	35⅝	36	.....
10	5⅞	Barnsdall	20	6⅞	6¾	6¾	.....
45¾	23	Bayuk Cigar (1)	1	43	43	43	.....
19¾	10¼	Beatrice Cr	1	17⅜	17⅛	17⅜	— ⅜
15¼	8⅞	Belding-Hem (½e)	7	12⅝	12½	12⅝	— ⅛
23⅝	9¾	Bendix Aviat	32	17¼	16⅞	16⅞	— ⅛
19½	12⅜	Bendix Ind Ln (1½)	1	17⅛	17	17⅛	.....
40	26	Best & Co (1½)	1	38¾	36½	36½	— ⅝
49½	24½	Bethlehem Stl	76	32½	31⅝	32	— ⅛
40	19¼	Bigelow-San (1e)	1.20	24½	24	24	+ 1
26	17	Blaw-Knox	7	11	10⅞	11	.....
109	88	Bloomingdale (.40)	10	21½	21½	21½	.....
60¾	34	Bloomingdal pf (7)	10	108	108	107¾	— ⅛
13¾	6¾	Blumenthal pf	10	37	37	37	.....
44⅛	21	Boeing Airpl	11	9⅝	9⅜	9½	— ⅛
125¼	100⅜	Bohn Alum (3)	1	59¼	59¼	59¼	.....
85½	65¼	Bon Ami A (5b)	30	95	95	95	.....
28¾	19⅜	Borden (1.60)	28	24⅞	24½	24½	+ ⅛
31⅝	16⅛	Borg-Warner (1¼b)	13	30¾	30¾	30½	— ⅛
19½	3¼	Boston & Me	1	7½	7½	7½	+ 1¼
3	⅞	Botany C M A	1	1¼	1¼	1¼	+ ⅛
28⅝	12	Briggs Mfg (2)	40	28¾	27½	27⅝	— ⅜
27½	14	Brisgs & Strat (2)	3	24⅞	24½	24⅜	— ⅛
37½	26	Bristol My (2.10b)	2	35	35	35	.....
8⅝	3⅛	Bklyn & Qu T	4	3¼	3¼	3¼	— ⅛
44⅞	28¼	Bklyn-Man T (⅝g)	2	39½	39½	39½	— ⅜
97	82⅝	Bklyn-M T pf (6) EX. .90		91	91	91	.....
10⅜	4	Brunswick-Bal	1	5½	5½	5½	.....
9⅜	3½	Bucyrus-Erie	1	6	5⅞	5⅞	.....
14½	6	Bucy-E cvt pf	26	12⅛	11½	12⅜	— ⅛
75	50	Bucy-E 7% pf (2)	30	69	69	69	— 1
7¾	3	Budd Mfg	2	5½	5⅜	5½	— ⅛
44	16	Budd Mfg pf	20	29¾	29¾	29¾	— ⅛
5⅜	2	Budd Wheel	6	6⅜	6⅜	6⅜	.....
15½	5⅜	Bullard Co	6	14⅜	14	14	— ⅛
19½	10½	Burr Ad Mch (.40a)	5	15⅜	15¼	15¼	— ⅛
3	1	Bush T 7% deb	3	3⅜	3⅜	3⅜	.....
21	5⅝	Bush T Bldg pf ctf	10	18	18	18	— ⅛
5½	1½	Butte Cop & Z	1	1¾	1¾	1¾	.....
4¾	1¼	Butterick	4	1¾	1¾	1¾	.....
32¾	13¾	Byers Co	10	19¾	19¼	19½	— ⅛
67½	40	Byers pf	10	59¼	59¼	59¼	— 5¼
		C
44⅜	18¾	Calif Pack (1½)	7	40½	39¼	39½	— ⅛
1¾	½	Callahan Z-Ld	1	1	1	1	.....
6¾	2¾	Calumen & Hec	19	3⅞	3⅝	3⅝	.....
15⅜	6	Campbell Wy	2	11½	11½	11½	.....
19½	10⅝	Can D G Ale (1)	3	16	15⅞	15⅞	.....
18¼	10⅝	Canad Pac	127	12⅞	12⅛	12⅞	+ 1
38¼	28½	Cann Mills (2)	2	34	34	34	.....
10¼	5⅜	Cap Adm A	1	6	6	6	.....
39	26¾	Cap Adm pf A (3)	90	34⅛	34	34½	+ ⅛
86⅜	55	Case (J I)	48	86½	86	86½	.....
38⅞	21	Caterpill Tract (1⅛b)	16	38¾	38	38¾	— ⅛
44⅞	17⅛	Celanese	37	34⅝	33¾	33¾	— ⅜
5⅞	1⅛	Celotex	1	4	4	4	.....
4	1	Celotex ctf	7	2⅞	2⅞	2⅞	+ ⅛
22⅜	6½	Celotex pf	2.80	19½	19	19¼	— ⅛
23⅜	7¼	Cent Aguir	4	23¾	23¼	23⅜	.....
92	53	Cent R R N J	1	85½	85½	85½	.....
110	82	Century Rib pf (7)	10	104	104	104	— 2
46⅜	30¼	Cerro de Pas (2)	65	46⅛	45½	45½	— 1¼
7⅝	3¼	Certain-teed	3	5¾	5⅝	5⅜	— ⅛
35	17½	Cert-teed pf	20	28¾	28¼	28¾	+ ⅛
48⅜	39¼	Ches & Ohio (2.80)	31	45	44½	44⅝	— ⅛
48⅛	34	Ches Corp (2½)	6	44⅞	43¾	44	— ⅛
7	1⅝	Chi & E Ill	1	3	3	3	.....
8	1⅜	Chi & E Ill pf	2	2¼	2¼	2¼	+ ⅛
15	3¼	Chi & N W	20	5⅜	5	5⅛	+ ⅛
28	6¾	Chi & N W pf	3	10¼	10	10¼	.....
5½	1½	Chi Gt West	3	2	2	2	.....
11½	3	Chi Gt W pf	9	4⅛	4	4⅛	+ ⅛
8	2	Chi M St P & P	11	3	2⅞	2⅞	+ ⅛
13½	3	Chi M St P & P pf	38	4¾	4½	4⅝	+ ⅛
9⅝	3¾	Chi Pneu Tr	14	4¾	4¾	4⅝	+ ⅛
28¾	14¼	Chi Pneu T pf	26	23¾	23¼	23⅜	— ⅛
6¾	4	Chi Rk Is & P	1	2¼	2¼	2¼	.....
8	1¾	C R I & P 6% pf	1	2⅞	2⅞	2⅞	+ ⅛
9¾	3¾	C R I & P 7% pf	1	3¼	3¼	3¼	+ ⅛
30¾	19¼	Chick Cot Oil (2)	3	29½	29½	29½	— ⅛
11⅝	3¾	Childs Co	2	8¾	8½	8½	.....
60⅝	29¼	Chrysler (1)	182	42¼	41⅜	41⅝	— ⅝
92½	67	City I & F pf (6½)	30	90	90	90	.....
2⅜	⅝	City Strs	6	1⅝	1	1	.....
1¼	⅜	City Strs ctf	100	1	1	1	.....
5⅝	2¼	City Strs A	2	5	5	5	.....
2	⅜	City Strs A ctf	1	5	5	5	.....
45	24⅞	Clueett Pea (1)	1

Curb's Prices Turn Mixed; Volume Drops

Alcohols Meet Drive for Profits; Sales Cut to 193,000 Shares.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—President Roosevelt's message to Congress had little influence on curb exchange prices today, and the list generally showed irregular changes at the finish. Dealings were moderately active.

Alcohols met a little profit-taking encouraged by the advance the day before. Distillers Corporation-Seagrams and Hiram Walker yielded fractionally. Among metals, New Jersey Zinc extended its advance of Thursday by 2 points.

Pepperell Manufacturing regained 4 of the 9 points lost earlier in the week. Fajardo Sugar, Lerner Stores and Selected Industries were up 2 to 4. American Cyanamid B, Sherwin-Williams, Swift & Co., Newmont and Electric Bond & Share were slightly lower.

Transfers approximated 193,000 shares, against 226,000 yesterday.

Local Produce

(Prices paid shippers f. o. b. Washington.) (By the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.)

Live Poultry.

Fowl: Colored, large, 14@16: mediums, 12@14; Leghorns, 10@12; roosters, 7@9. Chickens: Plymouth Rocks, all sizes, 16@18; mixed colors, 15@16. Spring broilers, Plymouth Rocks, 18@20.

Eggs.

Current receipts, 28@29; hennery whites, 31@33; Government graded and dated white eggs: U. S. extras, large, 36; U. S. extras, mediums, 35; U. S. extras, small, 27; U. S. standards, large, 36; Government graded and dated brown eggs: U. S. extras, large, 35.

Fruits.

APPLES—Bushels: Virginia, Staymans, U. S. No. 1, 2¼-inch minimum, 1.10@1.25; 2½-inch minimum, 1.35@1.50. U. S. No. 1, minimum, 1.50@1.65; Yorks, U. S. No. 1, 2¼-inch minimum, 50@1.00; 2½-inch minimum, 1.15@1.25; 2¾-inch minimum, 1.25@1.50; Black Twigs, U. S. No. 1, 2¼-inch minimum, 1.00@1.10; 2½-inch minimum, 1.35@1.40; 2¾-inch minimum, mostly around 1.50; Grimes, U. S. No. 1, 2¼-inch minimum, 90@1.00; 2½-inch minimum, 1.00@1.25; 2¾-inch minimum, 1.35; Golden Delicious, U. S. No. 1, 2¼-inch minimum, 1.15@1.25; 2½-inch minimum, 1.35@1.50; 2¾-inch minimum, 1.65@1.75; Jonathans, U. S. No. 1, 2¼-inch minimum, 90@1.00; 2½-inch minimum, 1.00@1.25; Delicious, minimum, 1.10@1.25; 2½-inch minimum, 1.35@1.50; 2¾-inch minimum, 1.50@1.85; Bonums, U. S. No. 1, 2-inch minimum, 65@75; 2¼-inch minimum, 90@1.00; 2½-inch minimum, 1.10@1.25; Pennsylvania, Staymans, U. S. No. 1, 2½-inch minimum, 1.35@1.50; 2¾-inch minimum, 1.50@1.60; 3-inch minimum, 1.50@1.60. Boxes: Washington, medium to large sizes, extra fancy, Staymons, 1.75@1.85; Delicious, extra fancy, 2.25@2.35; Romer, fancy, 1.50; Virginia, Delicious, combination, extra fancy and fancy, 1.75@2.00; C grade, 1.50@1.75; Staymans, combination, extra fancy and fancy, 1.65@1.85; C grade, 1.50@1.65; Jonathans, combination, extra fancy and fancy, 1.35@1.50.

STRAWBERRIES—Florida, pony, refrigerators, 30@35, per pint.

PINEAPPLES—Cuba, crates, Red Spanish, 2.00@4.50, according to size.

ORANGES — Florida, boxes, 2.00@3.00, few higher, according to grade and size.

GRAPEFRUIT — Florida, boxes, 1.75@2.25, according to grade and size; few special lots higher.

TANGERINES — Florida, 4-5 bushel boxes, 2.00@2.50, according to size.

AVOCADOS — Florida, boxes, 75@1.00, few higher.

Vegetables.

ROMAINE—Florida, 1½-bushel hampers, fair condition, 2.00@2.25.

COLLARDS — Virginia, bushel baskets, 40.

KALE—Virginia, bushel baskets, 40.

CAULIFLOWER — California, crates, mostly around 1.50.

BROCCOLI — California, crates, 2.75; poorer lots.

CARROTS—California, Western lettuce crates, 2.25@3.50; fair condition, 3.00.

BEETS—Texas, ½ crates, 1.50@1.60.

CABBAGE—1½-bushel hampers, pointed type, South Carolina, freight receipts, 1.35@1.60; truck receipts, 1.25; fair condition, 1.00; Florida, 1.35@1.50; Texas, ½ crates, domestic, round type, 1.50. Old stock: New York, 80-lb. sacks, Danish type, 75@80; poorer lower.

CELERY—California, ¼ crates, washed, 2.25@3.00@3.25; 5-4 dozen, 3.50.

LETTUCE—California, Western crates, Iceberg type, 4-5 dozen, fair condition, 3.50@4.00; few best, 4.25@4.50.

SWEET POTATOES — North Carolina, bushel baskets, Puerto Ricans, 1.75; Maryland, Anne Arundel County, bushel hampers, Jersey type, U. S. No. 1, 1.30@1.35.

TOMATOES — Florida, wide range in quality and condition, lug baskets, wire and carning, wrapped, truck receipts, 6x6 and larger, 2.00@2.50, few higher; 6x7, 1.75@2.00; poorer, all sizes, 1.50.

BEANS—Virginia, bushel baskets, 1.25@1.35; fair condition, 1.10.

LIMA BEANS—Cuba and Florida, express receipts, bushel hampers, fair condition, 4.00.

ONIONS—New York and Ohio, 50-lb sacks, yellows, U. S. No. 1, 2.00@2.25; Colorado and Utah, 50-lb. sacks, Valencias, U. S. No. 1, 3 inches and larger, mostly around 1.50.

PEAS—California, bushel hampers, Telephones, 4.75.

POTATOES—Old stock: 100-lb. sacks, Round Whites, U. S. No. 1: Pennsylvania, 90@1.00; Maine, 1.00@1.05; New York, 100-lb. sacks, Cobblers, U. S. No. 1, 1.10@1.15, few 1.25; Idaho, 100-lb. sacks, Russet Burbanks, U. S. No. 1, 2.10@2.15. New stock: Florida, bushel hampers, Bliss Triumphs, U. S. No. 1, mostly around 2.00; U. S. No. 2, 1.50@1.75.

(Quotations from other sources.)

Butter.

One-pound prints (92 score), 33; tub, 32; 1-lb. prints (90 score), 32; tub, 31; 1-lb. prints (88 score), 30; tub, 29.

Game.

Rabbits, per doz., 1.50@1.80.

Live Stock.

Hogs, light, 6.50@7.00; medium, 7.00@7.25; heavy, 6.50@7.25; roughs, 3.00@5.00; pigs, 5.50@6.00; calves, 4.00@8.00; lambs, 4.00@7.00.

Meats.

Beef, 10@15; veal, 12@14; lamb, 19@20; pork loins, fresh hams, 18@23; smoked hams, 19@20; strip bacon, 24@25; lard, 14½@15; compound, 12¼@13¼.

Baltimore Markets.

Baltimore, Jan. 4 (AP).—APPLES—Bushel baskets, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Yorks, U. S. firsts, 2½-in. minimum, 1.10@1.25; Grimes Golden, 2½-in. minimum, 1.25@1.35; 2¾-in. minimum, 1.00@1.10; Delicious, U. S. firsts, 2½-in. minimum, 1.50@1.65; Staymans, U. S. firsts, 2¼-in. minimum, 1.25@1.40; various fall varieties, unclassified, 2½-in. minimum, 75@1.00; 2¾-in. minimum, 80@75.

CATTLE—Receipts, 35; steady; slaughter steers, good, 5.50@7.00; medium, 4.50@5.40; common, 3.50@4.50; low cutter and cutter, 2.75@3.50. Cows, good, 3.35@4.15; common and medium, 2.25@3.25; low cutter, 1.75@2.75. Bulls, good (beef), 4.00@4.50; common and medium, 3.25@3.85; cutter, 2.75@3.25.

CALVES—Receipts, 15; steady; vealers, good and choice, 8.00@8.50; medium, 5.00@7.75; calf and common, 4.00@5.00.

HOGS—Receipts, 775; higher. (Quotations on good and choice unless otherwise specified.) 140 to 160 pounds, 7.40@8.00; 160 to 180 pounds, 7.85@8.20; 180 to 200 pounds, 7.90@8.40; 200 to 220 pounds, 7.85@8.35; 220 to 250 pounds, 8.00@8.50; 250 to 290 pounds, 7.95@8.50; packing sows, 275 to 425 pounds, good, 6.75@7.00; 275 to 425 pounds, medium, 5.75@6.50; pigs, 100 to 130 pounds, good and choice, 6.75@7.00.

SHEEP AND LAMBS—Receipts, 35; steady; lambs, 90 pounds down, good and choice, 8.00@8.50; common and medium, 5.75@6.50; pigs, 100 to 130 pounds, good and choice, 6.75@7.00.

SHEEP AND LAMBS—Receipts, 35; steady; lambs, 90 pounds down, good and choice, 8.00@8.50; common and medium, 5.75@6.50; pigs, 100 to 130 pounds, good and choice, 6.75@7.00.

New York Produce.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—EGGS—Receipts, 25,443; firm; mixed colors, special packs 1@2c higher; fresh receipts, 33@36; standards and commercial standards, 34; firsts, 30; dirties, No. 1, 42 pounds, 30@32; average checks, 23; refrigerators, standards, 29@30; firsts, 24½@24¾; seconds, 23@24½; mediums and dirties, 23@23½; white eggs, nearby and Midwestern hennery, exchange specials, 34½@35; nearby hennery, exchange packs, standards, 34; checked mediums, 31@33; pullets, 28@30; other whites and all browns, unchanged.

BUTTER—Receipts, 10,210; firm; creamery, 92 score (and higher), 33¾@34¼; extra (90 score), 33¼; first (88-91 scores), 29@32; seconds (84-87 scores), 27½@28; centralized (86 score), 31; unsalted, 33½@34; receipts, 133,567; steady to firm; prices unchanged.

SUGAR—Raw was quiet early today, but undertone was firm. Refiners were said to be willing to pay 1-32 cent above previous prices, or 2.78 for sugar in suitable position, but offerings continued light. It was believed that one cargo at least was available at 2.82. No sales were reported.

Refined prices were unchanged at 4.75 for fine granulated with demand only moderate on a hand-to-mouth character.

COFFEE—Quiet; Rio, No. 7, 9½; Santos, No. 4, 12¼.

Transactions on N. Y. Curb Market

(Associated Press.)

Total stock sales yesterday, 193,000; year ago, 166,845; total bond sales yesterday, $2,700,000; year ago, $2,401,000.

Sales in hundreds		High	Low	Close
	A
3	†Aero Sup Mfg B	2⅝	2½	2⅝
9	Ainsworth (1¼e)	19¼	18¾	19¼
.30	Ala Pow $6 pf (6)	37	37	37
26	Allied Mills	13¼	13¼	13¼
3.50	Alum Co Am	51¼	51	51¼
1	Alum Ltd	20½	20½	20½
6	Am Capital P	½	½	½
1	†Am Cit P&LA (3h)	30¼	30¼	30¼
39	Am Cyan B (.10g)	17	16½	16½
4	Am Founders	⅝	⅝	⅝
38	Am Gas&El (1.20b)	20½	19¾	19¾
.25	Am G&E pf (6)	83¾	83¾	83¾
1.50	Am Laun Mch (.40)	15¾	15½	15½
3	Am Light&T (1.20)	9½	9¼	9¼
24	†Am Maracaibo	⅛	⅛	⅛
2	Am Pot&Chem	19½	19½	19½
67	Am Sup Power	1¼	1¼	1¼
1	Am Sup P 1 pf	53¼	53¼	53¼
3	Am Sup P pf	12	12	12
2	Ark Nat Gas A	⅞	⅞	⅞
4	Armstrons Ck (¼e)	24	23¾	23¾
1	†Art Met Wks(.45b)	4	4	4
2	As El Ind (.10e)	5¾	5¾	5¾
1	As G&E	½	½	½
10	†As G&EL A	½	½	½
1	†As Rayon	2¼	2¼	2¼
12	Atl Cst Fish	10¼	10¼	10¼
7	Atlas Corp	9¾	9¼	9⅜
	B
.50	Babcock&Wil (.40)	37½	37½	37½
6	Baldwin bond rts	2⅛	2⅛	2⅛
4.25	Bell T-l Can (6)	130	129½	129¾
2	Bliss E W	5	4⅞	5
3	†Blue Rid cv pf(3h)	37⅝	36½	37⅜
1	Bower R Bear (1)	17½	17⅜	17½
1	†Bridgpt Mach	4⅛	4⅛	4⅛
1	Brilo Mfg (.60)	6¼	6¼	6¼
2	Br Am Tb B (.945e)	31½	31½	31½
1.50	Brown Co pf	8½	8	8
1	Buckeye P L (3)	32	32	32
5.25	Bunk Hill & S	33¼	32¾	32¾
2	Butler Bros	7½	7⅜	7½
	C
6	†Cab El Prod vtc	¾	¾	¾
2	Can Ind Alc A	8	7⅞	7⅞
2	Can Ind Alc B	7	7	7
4	Can Marc Wire	2½	2	2⅛
16	Carib Syn	2¼	2⅛	2¼
1	Carnation (1)	17	17	17
2	Carrier Corp	16½	16½	16½
3	†Catalin Am	5¾	5¾	5¾
4	Celanese 1st pf (7)	104¾	104½	104½
1	Cen Hud G&E (.80)	9	9	9
8	Cen El	⅛	⅛	⅛
.50	Cen St E cv pf p	1½	1½	1½
1	†Centrif Pl (.40)	4¼	4¼	4¼
4	Chi Riv&Meh (⅛e)	15⅜	15	15
1	Chief Consol	⅞	⅞	⅞
.20	Childs pf	27	27	27
19	Cities Service	1½	1⅜	1½
1	Cit Serv pf	12½	12½	12½
1	Cleve El Ill (2)	23¾	23¾	23¾
2	Cleve Tract	6¼	6	6¼
1.50	Colts Pat F (1½b)	27	26⅞	27
.25	Columb G&E pf (5)	61¼	61¼	61¼
12	Colum O & O vtc	½	½	½
3	Comwith Eds (4)	48	48	48
9	Comwith & So war	⅛	⅛	⅛
2	Compo Sh M (½)	14¾	14¾	14¾
6	Cons Aire	10	9¾	10
2	Con Auto M vtc	⅛	⅛	⅛
4	Cons G&E Bal(3.60)	53½	53½	53½
2	Coop-Bess pf	18¾	18¾	18¾
4	Cord Corp (¼e)	4	4	4
5	†Cosden Oil Me	¾	¾	¾
1	Crane Co	10⅝	10⅝	10⅝
3	Creole Pet	13¼	13¼	13¼
10	Crocker Wh	6¼	6¼	6¼
31	Croft Brewing	1½	1⅜	1½
6	Crown C Intl A	8⅜	8¼	8⅜
1	Cuban Tob	2½	2½	2½
119	†Cusi Mex	2½	2⅜	2⅜
	D
1	†Derby Oil	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛
2	Dist Co Ltd (.75fe)	23	23	23
96	Dist Corp Seagr	18½	17⅜	17½
2	†Doehler D Cast	13⅜	13⅛	13⅜
2	Dow Chem (2)	90	90	90
1.50	Duke Power (3)	37¼	37	37
1	Duval Tex	9½	9½	9½
	E
1	†Easy WashMB(½g)	3¼	3¼	3¼
3	East St FwB pf	6½	6	6½
2	†Eisler Elec	⅝	⅝	⅝
54	El Bond & Sh	7¾	7	7
1	Economy Groc Strs	20	20	20
7	El Bond & Sh pf(6)	39½	39½	39½
3	El Bo&Sh S pf (5)	35	34½	34½
1	Electrographic	6	6	6
2.25	†Elect Sh pf	40¾	40½	40¾
.25	Emp G&F 6 pf	13	13	13
10	†Equity Corp pf	1½	1⅜	1½

Sales in hundreds		High	Low	Close
1	Eureka Pipe (4)	34	34	34
7	†Ex-cello A&T	7¼	7⅛	7⅛
	F
8	Fairchild Av	8¾	8½	8¾
.50	Fajardo Sug	75	73	75
3	Falstaff Brew	3	2¾	3⅛
1	Fanny Fmew(31¼b)	9	9	9
1	†Fidello Brew	¾	¾	¾
9	Fisk Rub	11¼	10⅝	11
.80	Fisk Rub pf (6)	84	84	84
.80	Fla P&L 7 pf	12½	12½	12½
13	Ford M CanA(1¼e)	30¼	29¼	29¼
.50	FordM CanB (1¼e)	37	37	37
1	Ford Mot Ltd	9	9	9
	G
1	Gen Alloys	1½	1½	1½
2	Gen Firepfg	5½	5¼	5½
2	Gen Invest	⅝	½	½
.70	Gen Pub S pf	30	30	30
2.75	Gen T & Rub	68⅞	68⅝	68⅝
2	†Gilbert (AC)	2½	2½	2½
6	Glen Alden (1¼b)	23⅝	22½	23⅜
3	†Gold Seal Elec	¾	¾	¾
26	Goldfield Con	⅝	⅝	⅝
1	Gorh Mfg vtc (⅛g)	17¾	17¾	17¾
1	Gt Atl&P nv (7b)	137½	137½	137½
14	Greyhound	23⅝	23⅛	23¼
1	Gyromatic, Y, & Alab	7	7	7
26	Gulf Oil Pa	60¼	60	60
	H
2	†Hartman Tob	1⅜	1⅜	1⅜
2	†Hecla Min (.40)	6¾	6¾	6¾
1	Helena Rubin	⅞	⅞	⅞
1	Heyden Chem (1¼b)	39	39	39
20	†Hir Walker	29⅛	28	28⅝
19	Hollins Gold (.70b)	20	19¾	19⅞
7	Horn & Hard (3.60)	23½	22	22
.10	Horn & Hard pf(7)	104½	104½	104½
22	†Hudson Bay M&S	13¼	12⅞	12⅞
1	Humble Oil (1)	47¼	47⅛	47¼
1	†Hygrade Fd	2¾	2¾	2¾
.75	Hygrade Sylv (2)	26¼	26¼	26¼
	I
25	Imp Oil Can (.65b)	17⅛	17	17
1	Imp P Brit (1.039e)	35⅛	35⅛	35⅛
2	Ins Co N Am (2)	54	54	54
1	Int Cig Mch (2e)	30¾	30¾	30¾
.50	Int Hyd-El pf	8	7¾	8
2	†Int Mining (.15e)	14	13½	13½
1	†Int Mining wts	1½	1½	1½
21	Internat Pet (1.50b)	31¾	31¼	31¼
1	Int Pet rez (1.56b)	31¾	31¾	31¾
1	†Inter S Rat B(¾e)	1½	1½	1½
13	Inter Util B	⅝	⅝	⅝
7	†Ital Superpow A	1	1	1
	J
13	†Jonas & Naum	½	⅜	½
1	Jonas & Naum pf	8½	8½	8½
26	†Jonas & Lau Stl	25¾	25¾	25¾
	K
3	Kirby Pet (.10e)	2¾	2¼	2¼
2	Kirk Lake GM(.03e)	11	11	11
	L
6	Lake Shore M(2½b)	54½	54½	54½
1	Lakey Fdy & M	1¼	1¼	1¼
2	Lehigh C&N (½)	7⅞	7	7
33	†Leonard Oil	⅝	⅝	⅝
2	†Lerner Strs	42	41¾	42
1	Lib McN & L	7⅜	7⅛	7⅜
9	Long Star Gas	5¾	5½	5½
4	Long Is Lt	2⅝	2⅝	2⅝
10	Long Is L pf (7)	50	50	50
2.50	Long Is L pf B (6)	39¼	38¼	38¼
37	†Louis L & E	7	7	7
1	Lynch Corp (2)	35¾	35¾	35¾
	M
8	†McCord Rad B	7	6¾	7
1.50	McWill Dreg (1½b)	22½	22½	22½
1	Mangel Strs	8½	8¼	8½
.40	Mangel Tr pf ww	51	50½	50½
1	Marion St Shov	2⅝	2⅝	2⅝
5	†Mavis Bott A	⅛	⅛	⅛
5	†Memph N G (.10e)	2¾	2⅝	2⅝
1	†Mexican Sug	⅛	⅛	⅛
3	Mid St Pet A vtc	1½	1½	1½
4	Mid West Util	⅛	⅛	⅛
1	†Mohawk-Hud 1pf(7)	38	36	38
18	†Molybdenum vtc	9⅛	8⅞	8⅞
1	Mount Prod (.60)	4¾	4¾	4¾
	Murphy Co (1.60)	73¼	72	72
	N
14	†Nat Bellas Hess	2½	2½	2½
1	Nat Fuel Gl (1)	13	13	13
2	Nat Inves war	½	½	½
6	†Nat Rub Mch	5¾	5½	5¾
1	†Nat Un Rad	1	1	1
1	†Natomas Co (¾b)	8⅞	8⅝	8⅝
.25	Neisner Bros pf (7)	92	92	92
1	New Bradford (.20)	2½	2½	2½
9	N J Zinc (2)	58¾	57	58¼
2	N Mex & Ariz	1⅝	1½	1⅝
5	†Newmont Min (1e)	40	39½	39½
22	Niag Hud Pow	3¼	3¼	3¼
1	Niag Hud B war	⅛	⅛	⅛
1	Niag Sh Md B	2⅜	2⅜	2⅜
3	Niles-Bem-P	13¼	13¼	13¼
.40	Nor NY Ut 1stpf(7)	51	51	51
	O
1	Outbrd Mot B	¾	¾	¾
	P
4	†Pac Eastern	2⅝	2⅝	2⅝
13	Pac G&E 1 pf (1½)	20¾	20¾	20¾
.80	Pac Lighting pf (6)	71¾	71¾	71¾
1	Pac Pub Svc pf	8⅛	8⅛	8⅛
5	†Pan-Am Air (⅛e)	40¼	40	40
8	†Pantepec Oil	2⅛	2	2
3	Parke Davis (1½b)	33⅜	32½	32½
1.50	Park Rust-Pr (3a)	58¼	57½	58¼
26	Pennrad	2	1⅞	2
90	Pepperell (6)	84⅜	83½	84½
1	Phila Co (.80)	8	8	8
22	Philip Morris Cons	18¾	18⅝	18⅝
3	†Phoenix Sec	2	1⅞	1⅞
11	†Pioneer Gold (.80)	11¼	11⅛	11⅛
24	Pitts-Bowes (.20)	5⅛	5¼	5¼
10	Pitts Lake E (2½)	58¾	58¾	58¾
7.50	Pitts Pl Gl (1.60)	56⅜	55⅞	55⅞
1	†Potrero Sugar	⅝	⅝	⅝
1	Powdrell & Alex	7¼	7¼	7¼
11	Premier Gld (.12)	1⅜	1⅜	1⅜
11	Prod Roy (.025e)	¼	¼	¼
2	†Pruden Inv	6	6	6
.50	Pure Oil pf	44½	44½	44½
	R
26	Reliable Strs	7½	6¾	7
1	Reynolds Inv	1¾	1¾	1¾
1	Rich Oil pf	1	1	1
10	†Roosevelt Pd	1½	1½	1½
1	Ruberoid (1¼b)	41	41	41
	S
7	St Regis Pap	1⅞	1⅞	1⅞
.20	St Regis Pap pf	25¼	25¼	25¼
1	Salt Cr Con (.10e)	1	1	1
1	Salt Cr Prod (.80)	6¼	6¼	6¼
5	Sec Corp Gen	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛
1	†Selected Indus	1½	1½	1½
3.50	†Sel Ind(al-ctf)(3½)	53⅜	53	53
1	†Sel Ind pr pf (3½)	55	54½	55
4	†Seton Leather	5½	5⅜	5⅜
3	†Shenandoah pf	17¼	17⅛	17⅛
.50	Sherwin-Wms (3)	89½	89¼	89¼
.50	Sherw-W AA pf (6)	108	108	108
.10	Singer Mfg (8½b)	239¾	239¾	239¾
1	†Smith A O	31¼	31	31¼
1	Smith Corona vtc	7¼	7¼	7¼
2	†Sonotone	2⅛	1⅞	1⅞
44	So Am G&Pfl (.30e)	4¼	4¼	4¼
5	So Penn Oil (1.20)	23½	23¼	23½
13	So C Ed pf (1½)	18¼	17⅞	18
11	Swift & Co (¾b)	19⅝	18⅞	18⅞
2	†Southland R (¼b)	5	5	5
50	Spicg M S pf (6½)	96	96	96
8	St Oil Ky (1½b)	18½	18	18¼
1	St Oil Ohio	14¾	14½	14¾
2	†Starrett	½	½	½
2	†Stein Cosmetics	⅛	⅛	⅛
.25	Stetson (J B)	12½	12½	12½
1	†Stutz Mot Am	2⅜	2⅜	2⅜
5	†Sunray Oil	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛
15	†Sunshine M (.60b)	12¼	12¼	12¼
11	Swift & Co (¾b)	19⅝	18⅞	18⅞
1	Swift Int (2)	35	35	35
2	Swiss Oil Corp(.30e)	2½	2½	2½
5	†Tastyeast A	½	½	½
1	†Technicolor	13⅝	13⅜	13⅝
5	†Tech-Hush C (.40)	4¼	4	4
8	†Texon Oil (.60)	6⅞	6¾	6¾
.25	†Thermoid pf	27	27	27
2	Todd Ship (2)	25½	24½	24½
13	Transcont Air stpd	1⅛	1	1
6	†Trans-Lux (.20e)	2⅝	2⅝	2⅝
1	Tubize Chat	6¼	6¼	6¼
	U
1	Union Gas Canada	4½	4½	4½
2	Union Tob	⅛	⅛	⅛
1	†Unit Chem pf pf	23	23	23
4	Unit Corp war	⅜	⅜	⅜
5	Unit Founders	⅜	⅜	⅜
43	United Gas	1¾	1½	1⅝
1	Unit Gas war	⅛	⅛	⅛
1	†Un Ind Pow A	1⅛	1	1
10	Un Lt & P cv pf	6¼	6	6
10	Un Molasses Ltd	4½	4¼	4½
1	†Un Prof Sh	¾	¾	¾
1	Unit Shoe M (4½b)	71	71	71
8	U S & F Sec pf	49	49	49
8	U S Elec Pow	¼	¼	¼
8	U S Elec Pow war	3-32	3-32	3-32
4	U S Foil B (.60)	13⅝	13⅜	13⅜
1	†U S Lines pf	¾	¾	¾
2	Unit Stores vtc	1⅜	1⅜	1⅜
1	Unit Verde (.40)	3⅜	3⅜	3⅜
3	†Unit Wall Paper	2½	2½	2½
6	Utah Apex M	1⅛	1⅛	1⅛
.50	Utah P&L pf (2¾k)	16½	16½	16½
1	Util Power & Lt	⅛	⅛	⅛
1	Ut P & Lt B ctf	⅜	⅜	⅜
2	Ut P&L pf	4	4	4
2	Utility & Ind	1	½	½
1	Util & Ind pf	1⅝	1⅜	1⅝
	W
5	†Wenden Cop	⅛	⅛	⅛
1	†West Va C & C	3⅞	3⅞	3⅞
1	West AutoSup A(3)	53½	53½	53½
.50	Westvaco Ch pf (7)	100	100	100
4	†Williams R C (1)	17½	16½	17½
1	Woolwth Ltd (.74e)	28	28	28
44	Wright Harg (.45b)	9⅝	9¼	9⅜

Bond Transactions on N. Y. Curb

Sales		High	Low	Last
	A
24	Ala Pow 5 '46	88½	88¼	88¼
2	Abbott Dai 6 '42	102	102	102
2	Ala Pow 5 '51	85	85	85
4	Ala Pow 5 '58	74½	73½	74½
2	Ala Pow 4½ '57	67	66¾	67
6	Alumin Co 5½ '52	107	106¾	106¾
15	Alumin Ltd 5 '48	97⅞	97¼	97⅞
3	Am & Cont 5 '43	94	94	94
82	Am G & E 5 2028	90¼	89½	89¾
3	Am G & Pow 6 '39	26¾	26	26
9	Am G & Pow 5 '53	22⅜	21½	21⅝
39	Am P & L 6 2016	52¼	51½	51½
24	Am Roll M 5 '48	98	97½	97¾
6	Am Seat 6 '36	75¾	74	74½
13	Appal El Pw 5 '56	102	101¾	102
16	Ark P&L 5 '58	75¾	74¼	73⅝
22	As Elec 4½ '53	32¾	32	32¼
20	As G & E 5 '50	16½	15⅝	16
13	As G & E 5 '68	17	16¼	16⅝
10	As G & E 4½ '49C	15	14⅜	15
6	As Tel Ut 5½ '44	16¼	16	16
21	As Tel Ut 5½ '44stf	16⅛	16⅜	16⅛
46	As T&T 5½ '55 A	61	59	61
9	Atlas Plyw 5½ '43	84½	84	84½
	B
12	Baldw Loc 6 '38 ww	73¼	72¾	72⅝
11	Baldw Loc 6 '38 xw	63⅞	63	63
10	Bell T Can 5 '55 C	112½	112½	112½
3	Birm El 4½ '68	70½	70	70
4	Birming Gas 5 '59	56	56	56
2	Bost Con Gas 5 '47	108½	108½	108½
2	Broad Riv P 5 '54	75½	75	75
2	Bflo G El 5 '39	109	109	109

Weather Conditions.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau.

Washington, Friday, Jan. 4, 8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Fair and warmer Saturday; Sunday cloudy and warmer; gentle to moderate southeast and south winds.

For Maryland—Fair and warmer Saturday; Sunday cloudy and warmer.

For Virginia—Fair and warmer Saturday; Sunday cloudy and warmer.

Conditions.

The disturbance that was over New England and the St. Lawrence Valley Thursday night has moved east-northeastward to Newfoundland, Belle Isle, 29.37 inches. A disturbance of wide extent is centered tonight over southern Alberta moving eastward, Medicine Hat, 29.28 inches, and pressure remains quite low over western and southern Alaska, St. Paul, 29.62 inches. These disturbances have been attended by rain in the Pacific States and by light local snows in the lower lake region and the northern Appalachian region. An extensive area of high pressure is moving eastward over eastern Ontario, western Quebec and the Eastern and Southern States, Albany, N. Y., 30.90 inches, and pressure remains high over Yukon and the District of Mackenzie, Yukon, 30.30 inches. The temperature has risen from the Pacific States eastward to Indiana and Michigan, while it has fallen in the Atlantic and East Gulf States. The weather has become much colder in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States.

Local Weather Report.

Temperature—Midnight, 39; 2 a. m., 33; 4 a. m., 28; 6 a. m., 26; 8 a. m., 25; 10 a. m., 25; 12 noon, 28; 2 p. m., 30; 4 p. m., 30; 6 p. m., 30; 8 p. m., 28; 10 p. m., 28. Highest, 39; lowest, 24.

Relative humidity—8 a. m., 43; 2 p. m., 34; 8 p. m., 35. Rainfall (8 p. m. to 8 p. m.), none. Hours of sunshine, 9.5. Per cent of possible sunshine, 100.

Departures From Normal.

Accumulated excess of temperature since January 1, 1935, 10 degrees.

Excess of temperature since January 1, 1935, 10 degrees.

Accumulated excess of precipitation since January 1, 1935, .62 inch.

Excess of precipitation since January 1, 1935, .02 inch.

Temperatures and Precipitation.

Temperatures and precipitation for 24 hours ended Friday, 8 p. m.:

	Highest Fri.	Lowest Thur.	Fri. 8 p.m.	Rainfall
Washington, D. C.	32	22	30	....
Asheville, N. C.	50	30	36	....
Atlanta, Ga.	54	34	46	....
Atlantic City, N. J.	36	20	22	....
Baltimore, Md.	36	22	30	....
Birmingham, Ala.	56	32	48	....
Bismarck, N. Dak.	36	10	30	....
Boston, Mass.	34	8	14	....
Buffalo, N. Y.	18	6	14	0.01
Chicago, Ill.	26	8	24	....
Cincinnati, Ohio	30	14	26	....
Cheyenne, Wyo.	42	26	44	....
Cleveland, Ohio	28	0	24	....
Davenport, Iowa	28	4	28	....
Denver, Colo.	60	36	54	....
Des Moines, Iowa	34	6	30	....
Detroit, Mich.	20	6	18	....
Duluth, Minn.	20	—12	20	....
El Paso, Tex.	68	36	52	....
Galveston, Tex.	62	52	56	....
Helena, Mont.	46	26	44	....
Indianapolis, Ind.	32	16	28	....
Jacksonville, Fla.	70	50	54	....
Kansas City, Mo.	40	16	36	....
Little Rock, Ark.	40	28	38	....
Los Angeles, Calif.	58	54	56	0.26
Louisville, Ky.	38	18	32	....
Marquette, Mich.	16	0	16	....
Memphis, Tenn.	40	26	38	....
Miami, Fla.	78	66	74	....
Minneapolis, Minn.	30	—4	30	....
Mobile, Ala.	54	46	44	0.06
New Orleans, La.	62	52	54	....
New York, N. Y.	34	14	18	....
North Platte, Nebr.	44	18	38	....
Omaha, Nebr.	38	12	36	....
Philadelphia, Pa.	36	18	22	....
Phoenix, Ariz.	70	44	66	....
Pittsburgh, Pa.	28	16	26	....
Portland, Me.	8	4	2	....
Portland, Oreg.	48	40	46	0.16
Salt Lake City, Utah	52	24	46	....
St. Louis, Mo.	34	16	30	....
San Antonio, Tex.	60	42	54	....
San Diego, Calif.	68	52	62	....
San Francisco, Calif.	58	44	54	1.54
Santa Fe, N. Mex.	44	20	34	....
Savannah, Ga.	58	44	50	....
Seattle, Wash.	50	44	48	0.54
Springfield, Ill.	30	10	28	....
Tampa, Fla.	76	56	70	....
Vicksburg, Miss.	56	40	46	....

DIED

ANDERSON—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at his residence, 1241 Potomac avenue southeast, DANDRIDGE, beloved husband of Agnes Mabel Anderson and father of Dorothy C. Anderson.

Services at the S. H. Hines Co. funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 2 p. m. Interment Oakwood Cemetery, Falls Church, Va.

BARBEE—On Friday, January 4, 1935, at Georgetown University Hospital, CHARLES E., the beloved son of John E. and Martha Ann Barbee.

Funeral from his late residence, 6310 Thirty-third street northwest, on Monday, January 7, at 9:30 a. m., thence to the Blessed Sacrament Church, where mass will be sung at 10 a. m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Mount Olivet Cemetery.

BARNETT—On Friday, January 4, 1935, at her residence, 1661 Crescent place northwest, FANNY E. BARNETT, the beloved sister of Claribel R. Barnett.

Funeral services will be held at the W. W. Chambers Co. funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 3 p. m. Interment at Kent, Ohio.

BENNETT—On Friday, January 4, 1935, LOUISE I., beloved daughter of B. Frank and Rose Bennett.

Funeral from the W. W. Chambers Co. Southeast funeral home, 517 Eleventh street southeast, on Monday, January 7, at 2 p. m. Relatives and friends are invited to attend. Interment Congressional Cemetery.

BITNER—On Tuesday, January 1, 1935, HELEN E., beloved daughter of Mary E. and the late Trone Bitner.

Remains resting at the residence of her aunt, Sarah A. Powell, 4217 Canal road northwest. Funeral from above residence on Saturday, January 5, at 9:30 a. m.; thence to Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church, Conduit road northwest, where mass will be said at 9 a. m. Burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery. Relatives and friends invited.

BOGIE—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at her sister's residence, 1154 Fourth street northeast, DOROTHY M., beloved wife of Thomas Bogie and mother of Howard and Carl Bogie.

Remains resting at the W. W. Chambers Co. Southeast funeral home, 517 Eleventh street southeast, until Saturday, January 5, at 11:30 a. m. Services and interment at Stafford Court House, Va., at 2 p. m. Relatives and friends are invited to attend.

CARL—On Wednesday, January 2, 1935, at 11:45 a. m., at Children's Hospital, EVELYN MAE, the dearly beloved daughter of John M. and Anna R. Carl.

Funeral from her parents' residence, 1626 V street southeast, on Saturday, January 5, at 8:30 a. m., thence to St. Teresa's Catholic Church, Thirteenth and W streets southeast, where requiem mass will be offered at 9 a. m. for the repose of her soul. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Cedar Hill Cemetery. Services by the W. W. Chambers Co. Southeast funeral home.

COLLINS—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at her residence, "Seeks Corner," Silver Spring, Md., MARTHA A., beloved wife of the late James M. Collins, in her seventy-fourth year.

Body resting at Warner E. Pumphrey's funeral home, 8424 Georgia avenue, Silver Spring, Md. Funeral services at the St. John's Catholic Church, Forest Glen, Md., on Saturday, January 5, at 10 a. m. Interment at church cemetery.

COUPAL—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at Walter Reed General Hospital, Dr. JAMES F., beloved husband of Martha L. Coupal.

Funeral from the W. W. Chambers Co. funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 9 a. m., thence to Walter Reed Chapel, where mass will be offered at 9:30 a. m. for the repose of his soul. Interment Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors.

DAVIS—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at his residence, 3722 Morrison street northwest, SAMUEL DAVIS, brother of Mrs. M. J. Vaughan, John E. Davis, Chris D. Davis, William R. Davis and Mary A. Davis.

Services at his late residence on Saturday, January 5, at 3 p. m., to which friends are invited. Interment private. Please omit flowers.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS.

J. WILLIAM LEE'S SONS CO.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
CREMATORIUM
4th St. and Mass. Ave. N.E. Lincoln 8200.

Frank Geier's Sons Co.
1113 SEVENTH ST. N.W. Telephone
Modern Chapel. NATIONAL 2473

THOS. S. GERGEON
1011 7TH ST. N.W. Telephone NAT. 1090

CHAS. S. ZURHORST CO.
301 EAST CAPITOL ST. LINCOLN 0372

JAMES T. RYAN
317 PA. AVE. S.E. ATlantic 1700.

FUNERAL DESIGNS.

J. H. SMALL & SONS
FLORAL TRIBUTES. $2.50 up DELIVERED
North 7000. Dupont Circle.

GEO. C. SHAFFER 900 14TH ST. NW
Expressive Floral Emblems Phone
Moderate prices. Open eve & Sun. Nat. 0106

GUDE BROS. CO., Florists
1212 F STREET National 4276.

Wirephoto—Saar Greets German-Americans

Associated Press Wirephoto.

Giving the Nazi salute, this crowd is shown greeting a large contingent of German-Americans arriving at Saarbruecken. They will take part in the January 13 plebiscite, being allowed to vote by virtue of their former residence in the Saar territory.

Along the Tri-State Trail

With

C. B. Carr

Post State Editor.

DOWN in Big Laurel, Va., a stranger walked into a restaurant, picked up a bottle and drained its contents.

"Funny tasting beer," he announced, turning the bottle in his hand for inspection. "What kind is it?"

"That isn't beer," the waiter told him, "it's vinegar."

Traced by a pair of eyeglasses he had dropped at the scene of the crime, William Grime, Halltown, W. Va., was arrested by police and charged with the burglary of a gasoline station in Charles Town Monday night.

Richmond police have discovered that cleanliness is not always next to godliness.

The R. F. & P. Railway reported that someone broke into a boxcar standing in the local yards and removed 900 cakes of soap valued at $15.

Roger Brooke Taney, famous Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, who lived in Frederick, Md., prior to his death in 1864, has just received a letter, according to Edward S. Delaplane, president of the memorial association which has converted Taney's home into a national shrine.

The sender, a poultry food dealer in southern Colorado, wrote that he understood that Mr. Taney was interested in genuine Paisley shawls and added that "he wanted to offer him a large one, 133 by 66 inches, with a beautiful pattern."

Mr. Delaplane sent him a number of pictures of the Taney home and pointed out the Chief Justice had been dead more than 70 years.

DIED.

FISHER—Suddenly, on Thursday, January 3, 1935, at Casualty Hospital, ADA C., beloved wife of William R. Fisher. She is also survived by 11 sons and daughters.

Funeral services from the W. W. Chambers Co. Southeast funeral home, 517 Eleventh street southeast, on Saturday, January 5, at 8:30 a. m., thence to St. Peter's Catholic Church, where mass will be said at 9 a. m. for the repose of her soul. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Cedar Hill Cemetery.

HOWERTH—On Tuesday, January 1, 1935, at his residence, 1112 Euclid street northwest, DWIGHT G., beloved husband of Dorothy Pletcher Howerth.

Funeral services at the above residence on Saturday, January 5, at 2 p. m. Interment at Rock Creek Cemetery.

HUTCHINSON—Suddenly, on Thursday, January 3, 1935, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Martin, 1729 Hobart street northwest, WILLIAM LOUIS, beloved husband of the late Caroline G. Hutchinson and father of Mrs. Elizabeth H. Martin and step-father of Sister Mary Farafrwin L. and J. Conrad Jacobs.

Funeral from the above residence on Saturday, January 5, at 9:15 a. m., thence to St. Martin's Church, North Capitol and T streets, where requiem mass will be offered at 10 a. m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment St. Mary's Cemetery.

JONES—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at her residence, 204 Canal street southwest, Washington, D. C., VIOLA, beloved wife of Joseph Jones.

Remains resting at the Ritchie Bros. funeral home, Upper Marlboro, Md., until Saturday evening, January 5, thence to the home of Francis Jones, Mitchellville, Md. Funeral on Sunday, January 6, at 1 p. m. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

KENDRICK—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at Georgetown Hospital, CHARLE E., beloved husband of Tillie Kendrick (nee Killian) and devoted father of Katie Franklin and Killian Kendrick.

Brief services at his late residence, 1361 Harvard street northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 7:30 p. m. Funeral services at the Presbyterian Church, Ashburn, Va., on Sunday, January 6, at 2 p. m. Interment at church cemetery.

KULLE—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at his residence, 903 Virginia avenue southwest, LOUIS F., beloved husband of the late Elisabeth M. Kulle and father of Mary Kulle.

Funeral from his late residence on Monday, January 7, at 8:30 a. m. Solemn high requiem mass at St. Dominic's Church at 9 a. m. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

LEHMANN—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at New Rochelle, N. Y., FRANCIS SCOTT 2d, son of Francis Scott and Josephine Lupton Lehmann.

Services at 1719 Euclid street northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 2:30 p. m. Interment Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

LEWIS—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at her residence, 114 Poplar avenue, Takoma Park, Md., J. GERTRUDE LEWIS (nee Thomas), beloved wife of Arthur T. Lewis.

Funeral from the above residence on Saturday, January 5, at 2 p. m. Interment at Gaithersburg, Md.

McCAFFREY—On Friday, January 4, 1935, at his residence, 1409 North Capitol street, CHARLES, beloved husband of the late Mary McCaffrey (nee Flanagan).

Remains resting at the above residence. Funeral from the above residence on Monday, January 7, at 8:30 a. m. Requiem mass at St. Aloysius Church at 9 a. m. Interment Mount Olivet Cemetery.

McKENNEY—On Wednesday, January 2, 1935, at his residence, 785 Irving street northwest, JAMES, beloved husband of Mary McKenney and father of Julia M. Miller and James and Arthur McKenney.

Funeral from the W. W. Chambers Co. funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 8:30 a. m., thence to Sacred Heart Church, where requiem mass will be offered at 9 a. m. for the repose of his soul. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Mount Olivet Cemetery.

MELERA—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at her residence, 2133 F street northwest, Gioavannina, the beloved wife of Celso Melera and mother of William Melera.

Funeral from her late residence on Saturday, January 5, at 8:30 a. m., thence to St. Stephen's Catholic Church, where mass will be offered at 9 a. m. for the repose of her soul. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Mount Olivet Cemetery. Services by the W. W. Chambers Co.

METZNER—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, URBANA M. METZNER (nee Hollicay), beloved wife of Clifton George Metzner.

Funeral from her late residence, 1207 Emerson street northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 9:30 a. m. Requiem mass at St. Mary's Church at 10 a. m. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment St. Mary's Cemetery.

MITCHELL—Suddenly, on Wednesday, January 2, 1935, JEAN E. MITCHELL, of 1222 Jefferson street northwest, widow of William Oscar Mitchell.

Remains resting at the S. H. Hines Co. funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Funeral services at the Sixth Presbyterian Church, Sixteenth and Kennedy streets northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 2 p. m. Interment at Glenwood Cemetery.

Transfers

Appointments Announced for Army and Navy.

(Associated Press.)

Navy orders yesterday included:

LIEUTENANTS (JG).

John L. Chew, U. S. S. Overton, to U. S. S. Monaghan. Charles J. Hardesty, jr., U. S. Manley, continue treatment Naval Hospital, Boston, Mass. Robert E. Hudson, continue duty, U. S. S. Astoria. George H. Wales, U. S. S. S-11, to U. S. S. S-16. Sinclair B. Wright, U. S. S. Detroit, to U. S. S. Aylwin.

ENSIGN.

Alton E. Parker, U. S. S. Texas, to U. S. S. NS-11.

Army orders included:

COLONEL.

William R. Smedberg, jr., National Guard Bureau (Cavalry), retired for age with rank of Brigadier General.

LIEUTENANT COLONELS.

John B. Anderson, M. C., to duty with Governor, Panama Canal Zone. Leigh C. Fairbank, D. C., to general dispensary, Washington, D. C.

MAJORS.

Harry E. Smalley, D. C., to Vancouver Barracks, Wash. George R. Tressel, D. C., to Fort Winfield Scott, Calif. William H. Siefert and Charles M. Taylor, D. C., to Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C.

CAPTAINS.

Dale R. Ridgely, D. C., to Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y. Robert H. Knapp, F. A., ordered to Hawaiian Department. William A. Gearner, M. C., to Panama Canal Zone. Walter F. Heine, M. C., to Chanute Field, Ill.

SECOND LIEUTENANT.

Richard Case, M. A. C., to Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

DIED

O'CONNELL—On Wednesday, January 2, 1935, at his residence, 4115 Arthur street northeast, CHARLES MICHAEL, beloved husband of Annie P. O'Connell (nee Merrill).

Funeral from the above residence on Saturday, January 5, at 8:30 a. m. Mass at St. Martin's Church, North Capitol and T streets, at 9 a. m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

REDMAN—On Friday, January 4, 1935, at Emergency Hospital, NICHOLAS T., husband of the late Corinne Redman (nee Holloway) and father of James E. Redman and grandfather of Edna Marie Austin.

Services at the S. H. Hines Co. funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest, on Monday, January 7, at 9 a. m. Interment at Aberdeen, Md.

SHERWOOD—On Wednesday, January 2, 1934, at his residence, 3408 Fairfax, Va., GEORGE FRANKLIN, beloved husband of Minnie Waple Sherwood.

Funeral from his late residence, Saturday, January 5, at 2 p. m. Interment Fairfax Cemetery.

SISTER MARY ANNUNCIATA—On Friday, January 4, 1935, at Georgetown University Hospital, Sister MARY ANNUNCIATA (Murphy), Order of St. Francis.

Funeral mass will be held at Georgetown University Hospital Chapel on Monday, January 7, at 8:30 a. m. Interment Mount Olivet Cemetery.

SOULE—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, EMMA V. SOULE, beloved mother of Mrs. Jean L. Bennett, of 1028 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Services at the chapel of Joseph Gawler's Sons, 1750 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, on Saturday, January 5, at 2 p. m. Interment at Dubuque, Iowa.

STEELE—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at Garfield Hospital, HENRIETTA (PAULDING), beloved wife of James Robert Steele and daughter of Etta A. Warder.

Funeral services at her late residence, 1611 Eastern avenue northeast, on Saturday, January 5, at 2 p. m., thence to the Kenilworth Presbyterian Church at Kenilworth and Quarles avenue northeast, where services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Glenwood Cemetery. Funeral by the W. W. Chambers Co. Southeast funeral home.

TROTH—On Friday, January 4, 1935, at her home, 265 Raymond avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., EMMA JANE, beloved wife of the late Horace E. Troth, sr.

Funeral services at the Chevy Chase M. E. Church, Sunday, January 6, at 3 p. m. Interment Rockville Union Cemetery.

WALSH—On Wednesday, January 2, 1935, at his residence, 507 L street northwest, JAMES WALSH, employe of the dairy farm of the United States Soldiers' Home.

Funeral services at the W. W. Chambers Co. funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest, on Monday, January 7, at 10:30 a. m. Interment Mount Olivet Cemetery.

WALTER—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at his residence, 4104 Garrison street northwest, JOHN L., the beloved husband of Emma S. Walter.

Remains resting at the W. W. Chambers Co. funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest. Funeral services at All Saints Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase Circle and Western avenue, on Saturday, January 5, at 2 p. m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Cedar Hill Cemetery.

WALTON—Suddenly, on Friday, January 4, 1935, at his residence, 1737 H street northwest, JOHN G. WALTON, Commander, U. S. Coast Guard, retired, beloved husband of Mary E. Walton and father of John G. Walton, jr., Mrs. Georgia Marie Knighton, Mrs. Myrtle May Heltman and Mrs. Elizabeth W. Hancock.

Remains resting at the S. H. Hines Co. funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Notice of funeral later.

WATHEN—On Friday, January 4, 1935, at Sibley Memorial Hospital, J. FORD, beloved husband of Stella E. Wathen (nee Otterback), and father of Kenneth Wathen.

Funeral from his late residence, 311 Webster street northwest, on Monday, January 7, at 9:30 a. m., thence to St. Gabriel's Church, where requiem mass will be offered at 10 a. m. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment Arlington National Cemetery.

WEBSTER—On Friday, January 4, 1935, NELSON PERLEY, husband of Elizabeth D. Webster.

Services at the chapel of Joseph Gawler's Sons, 1750 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, on Monday, January 7, at 2 p. m. Interment Rock Creek Cemetery.

WILLIAMSON—On Thursday, January 3, 1935, at his residence, 301 D street northeast, GEORGE, beloved son of Josephine Williamson (nee Beach) and the late Walter Williamson.

Remains resting at the Wm. H. Sardo & Co. funeral chapel, 412 H street northeast. Funeral from the above funeral chapel on Monday, January 7, at 8:30 a. m., thence to St. Joseph's Church, where mass will be sung at 9 a. m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Two on House District Group Facing Ouster

Ditter, Powers, Minority on Appropriations, May Lose Places.

The House District Appropriations sub-committee yesterday was threatened with the loss of both present Republican members and the possible substitution of one Republican with priority.

The two members are Representatives D. Lane Powers, of New Jersey, and J. William Ditter, of Pennsylvania.

While the Republican members of the Appropriations Committee had not been filed yesterday, the Ways and Means Committee in announcing new Democratic members of the Appropriations Committee revealed that Republican membership had been cut from 14 to 9.

As both Powers and Ditter are at the bottom of the Republican membership list, they would ordinarily be the first to be eliminated. The other three vacancies already exist because of losses in the November elections.

The two Republicans participated in the hearings on the 1936 District budget last month, and last year Ditter championed the cause of the District in a futile fight for a larger Federal contribution and an adequate appropriation for the Public Utilities Commission.

New members of the Senate and House District Committees are expected to be announced today, but it appeared yesterday that enough vacancies exist on the Republican side to make unnecessary any deletions in compliance with the proportional representation policy of the Democrats.

The Senate District Committee has but one vacancy, that left by Senator Kean (Republican), of New Jersey, and this probably will not be filled. An additional Democrat will be added, it was said, to change the ratio from 9 to 6 to 10 to 5.

The House District Committee lacks three Democrats and three Republicans, but the Republican quota is not expected to be filled.

Jury Weighs Damage Asked In Comer Case

Thomas Denies Improper Relations in Trial of Frederick Suit.

A jury was given the task yesterday afternoon of deciding whether G. Frank Thomas, Frederick (Md.) business man, should pay a Frederick milk dealer, Walter Comer, $75,000 on charges he seduced Mrs. Nellie I. Comer.

Judge Charles W. Woodward, in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, trying the case, ruled out the corollary complaint of Comer regarding alienation of Mrs. Comer's affections because the couple are still living together.

The trial began Thursday, and at that time Mrs. Comer testified that she had had an affair with Thomas while employed by him ten years ago. She said she married Comer seven years ago.

Thomas took the stand yesterday to deny that there had been anything improper in his relations with Mrs. Comer in 1931, saying his calls at the Comer home then were for business reasons.

The case went to the jury at 4:10 until 7:30 p. m. Counsel for the plaintiff included William M. Storm and Samuel E. Lewis, of Frederick, and State Senator Stedman Prescott, of Rockville. Counsel for Thomas were Leo Weinberg, of Frederick, and Thomas L. Dawson, of Rockville.

Dr. Cooper to Speak On Films at Bethesda

Dr. William John Cooper, former U. S. commissioner of education and now professor of education at George Washington University, will discuss motion pictures at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Bethesda Elementary School Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the school.

Robert E. Bondy, chairman of trustees of the school, will explain existing school conditions of the community. It is expected that fathers as well as mothers of the children of the school will attend the meeting.

Vital Statistics

Births.

William and Fannie Little, boy.
Joseph and Dorothy Grigsby, boy.
George and Catherine Resta, boy.
Frederick and Florence Altemus, boy.
Clarence and Mary Duvall, girl.
Charles and Marguerite Cox, girl.
Anthony and Helen Miller, girl.
James and Adelaide Orme, girl.
Dominic and Lula Mullyo, girl.
James and Heleu Sullivan, girl.
James and Josephine Coleman, girl.
William and Mazzie Smith, boy.
Roosevelt and Dorothy Bailey, girl.
Joseph and Margaret Waddy, girl.
Earl and Roberta Rogers, girl.
Amendes and Janie Robeson, girl.
Roy and Viola Munson, girl.
Odia and Mary Childs, girl.
Bernard and Eleanor Rieks, girl.
Ernest and Olea Williams, girl.
John and Carrie Shields, boy.
James and Desirie Jones, boy.
John and Ethel Jenkins, boy.
Sennis and Alice Roy, boy.
Roland and Dorothy Curtis, boy.
Thomas and Miley Morris, girl.
Herbert and Esther Smith, girl.

Deaths.

Hester A. Connor, 91 yrs., 1245 W st. ne.
Mollie Rosenberg, 80 yrs., 901 9th st. ne.
Sophia Thomas, 72 yrs., 528 9th st. sw.
Louis Kulle, 72 yrs., 903 Va. ave. sw.
Margaret L. Leonard, 70 yrs., Gallinger Hosp.
James H. Bowles, 70 yrs., 3113 35th st. nw.
Charles M. O'Connell, 62 yrs., 144 U st. ne.
Nell G. McChord, 58 yrs., the Mayflower Hotel.
Elinor A. Nolan, 53 yrs., Sibley Hosp.
Joseph A. Hill, 52 yrs., 2850 Wis. ave. nw.
James C. Coupal, 50 yrs., Walter Reed General Hosp.
Anna Murray, 44 yrs., Gallinger Hosp.
Gilbert M. Stimax, 40 yrs., Mount Alto Hosp.
James S. Dezelle, 28 yrs., U. S. Naval Hosp.
Laurence McCann, 25 yrs., Gallinger Hosp.
Helen Bitner, 10 yrs., Gallinger Hosp.
Mollie Cooper, 63 yrs., Gallinger Hosp.
Rachel Hawkins, 61 yrs., 604 4th st. ne.
Robert Blake, 55 yrs., Gallinger Hosp.
William Frazier, 54 yrs., 5001 Ayres pl. se.
Malachi Taylor, 54 yrs., Gallinger Hosp.
Mattie Houston, 50 yrs., 201 I st. nw.
Garfield Barnes, 43 yrs., Freedmen's Hosp.
Melina Pickens, 29 yrs., 318 Pleasant, ct. ne.
Evelyn Turner, 19 yrs., Tuberculosis Hosp.
George E. Lipscomb, 18 yrs., 1933 18th st. nw.

Licensed to Marry.

Lenwood Hallet Murphy, 24, 308 C street northwest, and Phyllis May Knode, 24, same address. The Rev. R. J. Nicholson.
Percy D. Blubaugh, 20, 1226 Neal street northeast, and Ruby K. Chapman, 23, 1288 Oates street northeast. The Rev. S. B. Dougherty.
Louis Elmer Torreyson, 21, 901 Twenty-fourth street northwest, and Ethel Lewis Jenkins, 25, same address. The Rev. J. H. Dunham.
Francis Lucas Westbrook, 25, Naval Hospital, and Margaret Hannah Moore, 21, Wilson, N. C. The Rev. J. W. Spence.
Alvin J. Cooney, 23, and Emma LaRue Wade, 23, both of Baltimore, Md. The Rev. J. S. Spence.
George Piereen, 58, 1280 Second street southwest, and Carrie Jackson, 40, 1023 Second street southwest. The Rev. J. G. Miller.
Walter Hebert Wilson, 37, and Audrey Virginia Sagar, 29, both of Severena Park, Md. The Rev. A. F. Poore.
William Stalley, 27, and Sarah Stewart, 28, both of Philadelphia, Pa. The Rev. J. E. Graham.

Marriage license issued in Arlington County:

Carl Fred Haas, 23, of Fort Myer, Va., and Laverla Stewart, 21, of Alcova Heights, Arlington County.

Licenses issued at Rockville, Md.:

Lancelot E. Reid, 27, and Lillian Boyd Grimm, 21, both of Winchester, Va.
James W. Mattson, 26, Youngwood, Pa., and Crystal M. Wilcox, 22, Jamestown, N. Y.
Alfred D. Rathbone 4th, 37, and Mary Frances Puffenberger, 28, both of Washington.

Death Claims Emma Troth, Church Leader

Charter Member of Chevy Chase M. E. Church to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Mrs. Emma Jane Troth, charter member of the Chevy Chase Methodist Episcopal Church and for 26 years a leader in the community's social and civic life, died early yesterday. She was 76.

Funeral services will be held at the church tomorrow at 3 p. m., with all living former pastors and the present pastor, the Rev. Edward G. Latch, officiating.

The Rev. J. Turnbull Spicknall will come from Baltimore to participate with the Rev. A. S. Mowbray and the Rev. J. Luther Neff, of Washington, other former pastors, in the rites.

Six of Mrs. Troth's nephews will be pallbearers. They will be Lester, Donald and Robert Simpson, Ralph Bubb, William Beall and W. L. Orem, jr. Burial will be in Rockville Union Cemetery.

Mrs. Troth was the widow of Horace E. Troth, jr., and a native of Virginia. She lived in Montgomery County for 35 years and throughout her residence there took a leading part in church and welfare activities.

Her sons were Horace E. Troth, jr., J. Ezra, Frank and Lawrence; her daughters, Mrs. Lillie Offutt, Mael E. Troth, Lydia and Mrs. Elmer Hall. There also are 12 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Ship Movements

At New York
Arrived Yesterday.

President Van Buren, from world cruise.

Sail Today.

American Shipper, for Liverpool.
City of Fairbury, for Helsinki.
Georgic, for Liverpool.
Gorm, for Oslo.
Lafayette, for Havre.
Rex, for Genoa.
Volendam, for Rotterdam.

Sails Tomorrow.

Black Heron, for Antwerp.

Sails Monday.

Gerolstein, for Antwerp.

Reported by Radio.

Washington, from Hamburg; due at pier 60, North River, today.

LEGAL NOTICES.

PEELLE, LESH & DRAIN, B. WOODRUFF WEAVER, Attorneys.
1422 F Street Northwest.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, holding an Equity Court. Lily Scott, et al., plaintiffs, vs. Frank Tomlinson, et al., defendants. Equity No. 37606. Order of publication. The object of this suit is to secure the substitution of trustees under two deeds of trust, one dated October 25, 1930, covering lots 33, 806 and 807, in square 211 and recorded in Liber 6196 at folio 353 et seq., securing payment of promissory notes totaling $200,000, made by Frank Tomlinson, the other dated September 15, 1930, covering lot 806 in said square 211 and recorded in Liber 6484 at folio 315 et seq., securing an indebtedness in the sum of $7,000 to the Union Trust Company of the District of Columbia, as trustee under the will of Katherine E. McNally, deceased; to have foreclosure sales thereunder; to have a money decree against Frank Tomlinson for any deficiency due on the notes secured by the deed of trust first above mentioned after such sale for foreclosure sales, and for other purposes. It is, therefore, this 4th day of January, 1935, ordered, that the defendants Frank Tomlinson and Beulah B. Tomlinson appear in this court on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the day of the first publication of this order, otherwise, as to them, the cause will be proceeded with as in the case of default. Provided, that a copy of this order shall be published at least once a week for three successive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post, other or further publication being dispensed with for good cause shown. JESSE C. ADKINS, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By HARRY M. HULL, Assistant Clerk. 5.12.19

EDWIN C. DUTTON, Attorney.
Insurance Building.

SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia, holding Probate Court. No. 47452. Administration. This is to give notice that the subscriber, of the District of Columbia, has obtained from the Probate Court of the District of Columbia letters testamentary on the estate of Henry Wurdeman, late of the District of Columbia, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof, legally authenticated, to the subscriber, on or before the 17TH DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D. 1935; otherwise they may by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. Given under my hand this 17th day of December, 1934. HENRY C. WURDEMAN. 1201 Connecticut avenue northwest. Attest: (Seal.) THEODORE COGSWELL, Register of Wills for the District of Columbia. Clerk of the Probate Court. 5.12.19

ROBERT WATSON and WILLIAM H. MacDONALD, Attorneys.
1001 Fifteenth Street Northwest.

SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia, holding Probate Court. Estate of Nellie V. Hawvermale, deceased. No. 47455. Administration Docket 103. Application having been made herein for probate of the last will and testament of said deceased, and for letters testamentary on said estate to Nellie Kramer it is ordered this 3d day of January, A. D. 1935, that the unknown heirs at law and next of kin of Harrer Kramer, deceased, and all others concerned, appear in said court on MONDAY, the 11th day of February, A. D. 1935, at 10 o'clock a. m., to show cause why such application should not be granted. Let notice hereof be published in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post, once in each week for three successive weeks before the return day herein mentioned, the first publication to be not less than thirty days before said return day. F. DICKINSON LETTS, Justice. Attest: (Seal.) THEODORE COGSWELL, Register of Wills for the District of Columbia, clerk of the Probate Court. 5.12.19

Alvin L. Newmyer & Joseph A. Kaufmann, Attorneys,
1001 Fifteenth street northwest.

SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia. Holding Probate Court. No. 47,577. Administration. This is to give notice that the subscriber, of the District of Columbia, has obtained from the Probate Court of the District of Columbia, Letters of Administration c. t. a. on the estate of Lawrence Engel, late of the District of Columbia, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof, legally authenticated, to the subscriber, on or before the 17th DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D. 1935; otherwise they may by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. Given under my hand this 17th day of December, 1934. ARCHIE D. ENGEL, 1416 F street northwest. Attest: (Seal.) THEODORE COGSWELL, Register of Wills for the District of Columbia, Clerk of the Probate Court. 5.12.19

JOHN P. LABOFISH, Attorney.
1410 H St. NW.

SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia, holding Probate Court. No. 47351. Administration. This is to give notice that the subscriber, of the District of Columbia, has obtained from the Probate Court of the District of Columbia, letters of administration on

Read Post Classified Ads For PROFIT—Use For RESULTS!

ROOMS—FURNISHED 30
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.
(Continued.)

CALIFORNIA ST. NW., 2119—Private homes; comfortable room; cont. h. w.; reasonable; also basement room. POt. 2499.

CENTRAL—Clean, well-furn., comfortable, homelike rms. or suite, in high-class, exclu. house; piano, fireplaces, phone, cont. h. w.; jan.; adults; refs. 1626 17th.

CLEVELAND PARK—3432 Lowell st. Two nicely furnished rooms and bath; private family. CLeve. 0547.

CLIFTON ST. NW., 1307—Large, sunny rm.; 2d fl.; prv. home; near bath; breakfast.

CLIFTON ST., 1431—Room adjoining bath. Instantaneous hot-water; private family; gentleman. COl. 4613.

COLORADO AVE. NW., 5823—Nicely furnished large front bedroom; private home. Beautiful location; reas. GE. 0155.

COLUMBIA RD., 1754—Attractive double room, very reasonable, in owner's home; employed person; a. m. i.

COL. RD., 1834—$3 wk.; single rms.; 4 baths; c. h. w.; stm. ht.; men. AD. 10213.

EUCLID ST. NW., 1312—Comfortable front rm.; for 2; twin beds; 4 windows; next bath; a. m. i.; unlim. phone. AD. 9283.

FIRST ST. NW., 2322—One large double room and one large single for men; a. m. i.; newly papered; Simmons bed.

H ST. NW., 917—Clean, well-furnished room, h.-w. h., to employed man, $3.

1746 K ST. NW.—Apt. 56. Large double rm.; private home, near Mayflower Hotel; DI. 4620.

L ST. NW., 1322—Large, bright, front l. h. k. rooms, with alcove kitchenette; running water; near bath; reas.

LARGE corner room, furni.; for 1 or 2 occupants; next to bath; also large single room, with piano; practice privilege for music students; young ladies only. 831 18th st. nw.; ME. 2511.

LARGE, bright front room, next to bath; nicely furn.; $3.50 single; $5 double. Apt. 22. 1133 24th nw. West 0931.

LOGAN HOTEL—13th at Logan Circle. 50 rms. 38 baths; rms. with running water, $1 day up; with bath, $1.50 up; special weekly rates. NOrth 2000.

N ST. NW., 1207—Large, clean, neatly furnished rooms, single or double.

NEAR Wardman and Shoreham Hotels; priv. home; beautiful rm.; adj. bath; gentlemen; all conv.; $20. COl. 6746.

O ST. NW., 1213—Walking distance downtown; cheerful, clean rm.; l. h. k.; $6 wk.; single rm., $3.25 wk.; settled adult.

OAK ST. NW., 1346 (near Park Rd.)—Large front room, near bath; private family; suitable for 2. Ad. 1528.

PARK RD. NW., 1822—Attractive, large front, 2d floor, private home.

PORTLAND HOTEL—Vt. ave. & Thomas Circle; comfortable, pleasant; downtown; quiet, clean; $8 wk., $32 mo. up.

SPRING ROAD NW., 1405—Large, front room; southern exposure; reasonable. AD. 9903. Also garage.

W ST. NW., 45—Nicely furn. room with porch, adj. bath; employed gentleman; $20 mo., incl. garage. Private family. POt. 1834.

13TH NW., 5514—Comfortable room, next to bath, c. h. w.; conv. to transp.; desir. naborhood; gentleman; reas. GE. 7245.

16TH ST. NW., 3500—Large, attractively furn. front rm.; bath; conv.; hot water, unlimited phone; reasonable.

16TH ST. NW., 1825—Newly furnished double room, twin beds. NO. 1552.

16TH ST. NW., 1836—Attrac. furn. rm.; inclosed sleeping porch; use of piano; 1 or 2; home privileges; reasonable.

21ST ST. NW., 1706—Large front room; 2d floor; best residential section.

1125 14TH ST. NW.—Small, neat room, near bath; $3.50.

1329 M ST. N W.—Sleeping room, front, $12 month.

1310 SPRING RD. NW.—Lovely furnished, single room, near bath. COl. 4888-R.

2 NEWLY furn. sleeping rms.; $18 each. 146 Bryant st. nw.

MERRILL MANSIONS.
1361 Fairmont nw. Attrac. sleeping rooms adj. bath; l. h. k. if desired; $8.50.

HOTEL INN 608 9th $1-$1.50-$2 per day; $5-$10 wkly

COLORED—Lovely large room, refined home; gentleman preferred. 1320 Q nw

ROOMS—UNFURNISHED 32
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

O ST. NW., 1202—2 large housekeeping rooms and kitchenette, next to bath; elec. gas, heat, h. w. Pot. 1649-J.

ROOMS and BOARD 34
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

ATTENTION—Business people and Govt. clerks. Excellent rooms, board. Walking distance depts. 1124-1134 12th nw.

FRENCH FAMILY offers excellent single or double room; twin beds; board; semi-private bath; reasonable. POt. 0458.

BETTER HOUSING PROGRAM

Increase the Value of Your Home

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE FEDERAL HOUSING PLAN

YOU can beautify and improve the comfort, appearance and utility of your home. New materials and new methods of construction for renovizing will increase its value.

The expert services and materials advertised here will put "new value" into your home and every job you have done will decrease unemployment and add to the progress of the community.

Consult the firms listed here for information about easy plans to renovize on easy terms.

RECOMMENDED SERVICE 77
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

Brake Relining

SCIENTIFIC BRAKE RELINING. CHEV., 1418 DE.; FORD, $4.45 UP. W. S. PRATT, 1017 17TH ST. NW.

Builders—Contractors

ALTERATIONS—HOME IMPROVEMENT. ABC CONSTRUCTION CO. 418 Colorado Bldg NA 2805.

REPAIR AND MODERNIZE YOUR HOME
Reroof / Insulation / Remodel — Our Low Monthly Payments Fit ANY Budget.
CAREY ROOFINGS.
HUDSON SUPPLY & EQUIPMENT CO. 7th and T Sts. N.E. PO. 1412.

ALTERATIONS—ADDITIONS.
ROYAL CONSTRUCTION CO.
907 15th St. N.W. NA. 3803. Nite AD. 8529

E. J. COFFEY — COL. 9154
Remodeling and Building Contractor. Plans and Estimates Furnished. 305 Rock Creek Church Rd NW.

ALTERING, RENOVIZING, REPAIRING
NATIONAL ENGINEERING CO.,
TOWER BLDG. NAt. 3030.

REDECORATE—REMODEL.
MONTHLY TERMS.
GENERAL CONTRACTING CO., INC.
925 N. Y. Ave. N.W. Dist. 3373-3374

HOME IMPROVEMENTS—Papering, painting, general house repairing done on small monthly payments. HOME DECORATORS, Inc., 1009 9th nw.; ME. 0634.

Carpenters

Jobs $1 up Carpentry, brick, cement, roofing, sign painting. DI. 6479

Electrical Work

Electric Wiring Old houses, including fixtures (on display). 156 Seymour Levy, 4414 Ga. av. Co. 9624.

Heating

ASBESTOS Coverings for Boilers and Heating Pipes.
ASBESTOS COVERING & ROOFING CO.
4104 GEORGIA AVE. N.W. AD. 2337

Master Plumbers Association

ROBERT E. ANDERSON
Heating—Plumbing
Phone LI 8304
800 Maryland ave. N. E.

Painting—Papering

PAINTING Papering, roofing, general repairing; reas. prices. M. L. SMITH, 1734 Webster nw.; AD. 7106.

RECOMMENDED SERVICE 77
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

Radio Service

RADIO SERVICE, $1 WEst 1250
Georgetown Radio Co., 3235 M St. N W

Renovating

BEDDING, MATTRESSES—Box springs and pillows reno.; best prices; prompt del. Wash. Mattress Co., 319 L sw. NA. 6679.

Repairing

VACUUM CLEANERS
Repaired, Tested: $1 Up. NO. 4624.

Rugs

RUGS ALL KINDS WASHED by experts 9x12, 8x10 $2.75
Capital Carpet Cleaning Co. NAtional 2985

RUGS DOMESTICS 9x12—$3.00
SHAMPOO 8x10—$2.50
LUWIN CO., 1725 7TH ST. NO. 9160.

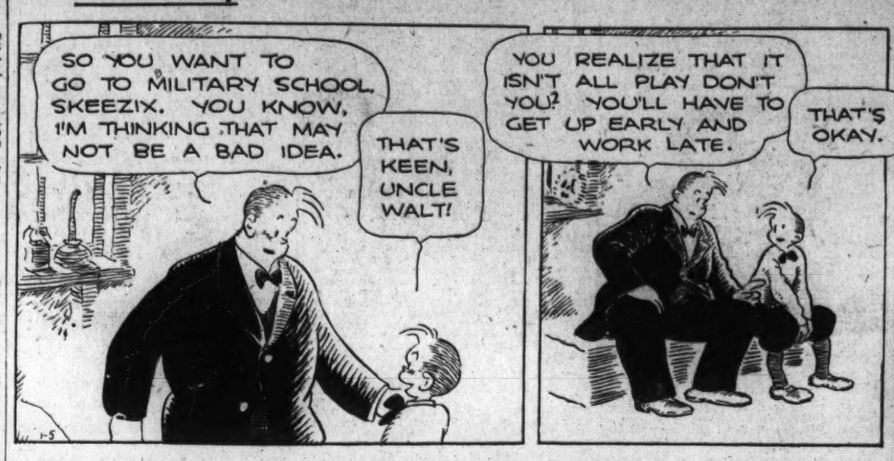
Typewriters

TYPEWRITERS RENTED — All standard makes, $3 a month; 3 months, $7.50; free delivery; no deposit. Typewriter Sales & Service, 811 17th nw.; NA. 5666.

Weatherstripping

WEATHER-STRIPPING
Coffey Bros Screen Co NAt. 8160.

Gasoline Alley



Looks Like a Sale

ROOM and BOARD 34
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200
(Continued.)

K N. W., 1333—Adjoining Hamilton Hotel; double and single; like home; plenty hot water; excellent meals; reasonable.

KALORAMA RD. NW., 1806—Beautiful, well furn. single and double rms.; twin beds; desirable location; excellent meals.

LARGE, newly furnished double front room; suitable for 2 young men. Excellent meals. Phone AD. 4368.

MASS. AVE. NW., 1220—Best home-cooked meals; 2 vacancies; single and double; large reception and dining rooms; home atmosphere; laundry; reasonable.

NEWTON ST. NW., 1444—Rms., $3-$4 wk.; priv., Protestant, congenial home; convenient to cars; good meals; $30-$35 mo. COl. 7733.

RANDOLPH ST. NW., 1307—Refined Jewish home; excellent table; single rm.; gentleman.

VT. AVE NW., 1326—Attrac. double rms.; twin beds; excellent cooking; $25 up.

WANTED—ROOMS—BOARD 43
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

ROOM, board and care for 2 children and unfurnished room without board for employed mother; private family; Northwest preferred; reasonable. Box 42, Washington Post.

YOUNG MAN desires board and room with Swedish-speaking family. Address Box 175, Washington Post.

1 OR 2 housekeeping rooms; in NW.; reasonable. Phone POt. 5560, Apt. 205.

MOVING and STORAGE 44
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

ANDERSON VAN LINES, 11th st. and N Y. ave. nw.; NA. 3699. Long distance, local moving. Special rates N. Y., Boston.

SPECIAL return load rates on full, part loads to all points to 1,500 mi. Nat. Del. Assn., 1317 N. Y. ave. NAt. 1460.

APARTMENTS—Furnished 45
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

ATTRACTIVE, downtown; 2 rms., bath, kit.; Frigidaire; responsible party. Dist. 1796, eves. or Sunday.

AVAILABLE January 15: 2 bedrms., kit. and bath, fully equipped; gas and light included; $65. COl. 3391.

DESIRABLE location, attractive, completely furn. apt.; living, dining, 2 bedrms., kitchen, pantry, sun porch, sleeping porch and bath. Cleveland 2993.

FREE RENTAL AGENCY, CAR & GUIDE FREE. APTS. ALL SECTIONS. DAY & EVE. GE. 4896; 409 FARRAGUT NW.

KALORAMA RD., 1847—Attractively furn. 3-room apt.; formerly occupied by Congressman.

ST. PLEASANT section; entire 3d floor; private bath; adults; reasonable. Box 174, Washington Post.

14TH ST., NW., 2544—2 large rms., kit., Frigid elec., gas incl.; $55.

15TH ST. NW., 1035—1, 2 and 3 room furnished apts. Gilliland, DI. 7066.

21ST ST. NW., 1340—Large front bedroom, 5 windows; running water; privilege of grill. Suitable for couple.

2501 QUEEN'S CHAPEL RD. NE.—3 rms., semibath; a. m. i. DE. 0261-J.

APARTMENTS—Furnished 45
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.
(Continued.)

NEAR 17TH AND PARK RD.
1 room, kitchen, bath.....$55
NEAR 17TH AND MASS. AVE.
2 rooms, kitchen, bath.....$65
CALL NATIONAL 0470.

A CAR AND GUIDE FURNISHED
Furn. and Unfurnished Apts. and Houses
DISTRICT RENTAL BUREAU.
927 15th St. N.W. Room 306. Nat. 8717.

Francis Scott Key, Apt. Hotel
20th and F sts. nw.; 1 room, kitch., bath; completely furn.; linens, silver; Frigidaire; day, week, month. NAtional 5425

Furnished or Unfurnished 46
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

ATTRACTIVE, unfurn. and furn. apts.; reas. rates; modern bldgs.; best locations. NA. 5437, BASKIN & CO., 1424 K st.

APARTMENTS—Unfurnished 47
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

APARTMENTS and house for rent; white and colored. Weaver Bros., Washington Bldg.; Dist. 9486.

APARTMENTS and houses for rent. Weaver Bros., Washington Bldg., Dist. 9486.

DOWNTOWN—3 rooms, kitchen and tile bath; Completely modern and convenient to all Govt. departments; $45.00. CHAS. D. SAGER, 924 14th st. nw. NA. 0036.

DESIRABLE apts. in well-located buildings. BLISS PROPERTIES.
1811 Columbia Rd. N.W. ADams 3500.

G N. W., 2142—5 rooms; bath; back porch; frigidaire; price, $45 mo.

THE CONCORD, 1701 Oregon ave. nw.—3 rooms, kitchen and bath; also 5 and 6 rooms, kitchen and bath, $63.00 to $110.00. Electric refrigeration on house current; elevator. Resident Manager.

WE HAVE A FEW apartment vacancies for quick rental; 2 rooms and bath; rooms, kitchen and bath. Reasonable. Call National 2627.
Toledo Guaranty Corp.

16TH ST. NW., 1830—Apt. 2. Apartment of 5 large rooms, bath and porch; nicely furnished; rent reasonable.
LINKINS CO.,
DIst. 3522. 1733 De Sales St.

1511 PARK RD. NW.—Near churches, buses, stores and cars; 5 rooms, rec. hall and bath; open fireplace; $65.
WALTER A. BROWN.
1400 H St. NW. NAt'l 1652.

2116 KALORAMA RD.—4 rms., k., b. and p.; $82.50; 3 exps.; elevator; refrigeration on house current; resident mgr.

3220 CONN AVE.—2 rooms, reception hall, kitchen, bath; $69.50. Call Manager, CL. 0764.

2505 13TH ST. N.W.
Living room, bedroom dinette, kitchen, bath and reception hall. Electric refrigeration $70 to $75.
See Resident Manager, Apt. 205.

1483 NEWTON ST. N.W.
3 rooms, kitchenette and bath.....$45.00
General Electric Refrigerator.
GEORGE F. HANE, INC.,
1422 F St. N.W. NAt'l. 3964.

THE VAN CORTLANDT.
1417 BELMONT ST. NW.
Two large rooms, kitchen and bath, $55. Refrigeration on house current; elevator. Close to Meridian Hill Park, near Central High School. For lease to adults only.
H. G. SMITHY CO.,
$11 15th st. nw. NAt. 5904.

$80.00 4 rooms, kitchen and bath; large reception hall, 3 exposures; gas, electricity and refrigeration.
MONMOUTH.
1819 G St. N.W. Metropolitan 5630.

DOWNTOWN
1314 14TH ST. N.W.
3 rooms, kitchen and bath.....$33.50.
Resident Manager.
BOSS & PHELPS.
1417 K St. N.W. NAtional 9300.

BEVERLY COURTS
1736 Columbia Rd. 4 rooms, kitchen, bath and small porch, $70, $75 and $82.50. Electric refrigeration. Resident manager.
H. L. RUST COMPANY,
1001 16th St. N.W. NAt'l. 8100.

THE ALBEMARLE
$75 Very desirable and attractive 4-room, kitchen and bath apt.; elec. refrig. on house current and elevator service; newly dec. Phone DEc. 2931 or WEst 2044.

COLORED
2 rooms, kitchenette and bath.....$28.50
GEORGE F. HANE, INC.,
1422 F St. N.W. NAt'l. 3964.

The Connecticut
$150.00 1150 Conn. Ave.
Apt. 32—6 rooms, kitchen, 2 baths. Large rooms, 3 exposures. G. E. refrigeration.

The Elkton
$55.50 515 Seward Square S.E.
5 rooms, kitchen and bath.

1236 Shepherd St. N.W.
$50.50
Apt. 1—3 rooms, kitchen and bath. Refrigeration.

The Home
$50.00 640 K St. N.W.
Apt. 40—3 rooms, kitchen and bath. Frigidaire.

AMERICAN SECURITY AND TRUST COMPANY
Real Estate Department.
15th and Pa. Ave. N. W. NA. 4815

OFFICES for RENT 50
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200
(Continued.)

DESIRABLE OFFICE SPACE—One or more rooms at very reasonable prices, in Boss & Phelps Bldg., 1417 K st. nw.

H ST. NW., 1716—Approximately 1,500 sq. ft. floor space, entire floor divided into 3 private offices, reception room with walnut glassed partitions, carpeted throughout; ideal location for professional men.
PERCY H. RUSSELL CO.,
1731 K St. NW. NAt. 1581.

BUSINESS PROPERTY—Rent 52
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

GASOLINE SERVICE STATION for sale, well located near Dist. of Columbia.
MUNGER-HOLLINGSWORTH CO.
Bank Bldg., Bethesda, Md. WIsc. 4652.

STORES for RENT 53
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

1114 CONN AVE.—18 feet front, new bldg. Unusual chance. $125 a month.
HERMAN E. GASCH,
923 15th st. nw. NAt. 3239.

HOUSES—Rent—Furnished 54
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

CHEVY CHASE—Attractive detached home, 7 rooms, inclosed sleeping porch, bath, lavatory; oil burner, electric refrigeration; 2-car garage; 2 blocks from school. Phone Cleveland 3215.

OLD Georgetown home: 3-story brick, attic, large dining and reception rooms, 3 bedrooms, sleeping porch, 2 baths, sun parlor; rose garden; garage; $125 mo.; refs. Phone WEst 2539.

VERY desirable furn. house in NW. section; 6 rms.; built-in garage; elec. refrig.; h.-w. h.; immediate possession; from 4 to 6 months. Phone CL. 4067.

WISCONSIN AVE., near Cathedral; 6 rms., kitchen and bath; 2 screened porches; garage; elec. refrigeration; hot-water heat; $135 month.
NORTHWEST HOUSING SERVICE.
3524 14th st. nw. COl. 3600.

WESLEY HEIGHTS
Eight rooms, 2 baths, servant's quarters, oil heat, electric refrigerator, air conditioned; beautiful gardens, etc. Inspection by appointment only.
C. H. HILLEGEIST CO.
1621 K st. nw. NAt. 8500.

IF YOU WANT a furnished house in a desirable section of the city—We have it. $90 up. Call National 2627.
Toledo Guaranty Corp.
1026 WOODWARD BLDG.

Furnished or Unfurnished 55
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

VICINITY Conn. Ave. Bridge; modern; 4 bedrooms, sleeping porch; oil heat; Frigidaire; garage. ADams 0099 for appt.

WE HAVE attractive furnished and unfurnished houses now available for rent. Representative with car at your disposal.
DIXIE REALTY CO.
1417 L st. nw. NAT. 8880.

HOUSES—Rent—Unfurnished 56
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

D ST. SE., 1514—5 rooms and bath; h.-w. h.; a. m. i.; very reasonable. Key next door. Linc. 1919-M.

OLD GEORGETOWN, attractive house; large drawing room, dining room, kitchen, pantry, 5 bedrooms, 3 baths; elec. refrigerator; garage. Phone North 0132 between 10 and noon.

SPLENDID CORNER, 8 rooms and bath house; desirable Northwest location; all modern equipment, including oil heater; $75.00 month. CHAS. D. SAGER, 924 14th st. nw. NA. 0036.

WITHIN walking distance of Capitol and Library; 6 rooms, bath, hot-water heat, electricity and built-in garage. Rent $50.
BOSS & PHELPS.
1417 K St. N.W. NAtional 9300.

8TH ST. NW., 5629—Corner, 6 rooms and bath, built-in garage; newly decorated. For appt. call Nat. 3365.
WASHINGTON REALTY CO., INC.

40 ADAMS ST. NW.—6 rooms, 2 baths, h.-w. h., electricity, sleeping porch and 2-car garage; $60 per month.
WASHINGTON LOAN & TRUST CO.,
9th and F Sts. N.W. NA. 3440.

CHEVY CHASE MODERN HOMES.
Six rooms and bath to 10 rooms and 3 baths, moderate rentals; auto service for inspection. LESLIE D MEASELL, Cleveland 4733 or Cleveland 3465.

3328 19TH ST. NW.
Overlooking Rock Creek Park; 6 rooms, bath; h.-w. h.; $57.50.
LEE D. LATIMER CO.,
722 Investment Bldg. NAt. 4146.

CHEVY CHASE
4 bedrooms, bath and lavatory; hot-water heat, electricity, garage. Unusually large rooms, ample closet space, house in perfect condition; convenient to schools, stores and transportation.
NAT'L MORTGAGE & INVEST. CORP.
Natl. 3833 1004 Vermont Ave.

HOUSES—RENT or SALE 57
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

CONGRESS HEIGHTS (539 Mellon st. se.)—$60 month; 8 rooms and bath; cellar under the entire house.
SALES AND RENTALS.
WAGGAMAN-BRAWNER REALTY CO.,
1700 Eye st. nw. ME. 3860.

SUBURBAN for RENT 58
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

HERNDON, VA.—Two 6 (six) room houses; elec. and town water; rent, $12 month; low commutation rates. BUELL FARM AGENCY, Herndon, Fairfax Co., Va.

LYON VILLAGE—Large 7-rm. brick home; reas.; also others; immediate possession. Call C. W. CLEVER, Clarendon 322.

WANTED—TO RENT 62
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.
(Continued.)

APARTMENT WANTED—Furnished, heated, ground floor, for 2 adults. Two bedrooms, living room, kitchenette and bath. Preferably in Alexandria or outskirts of Washington. Garage desirable. References. Write particulars to Box 57, Sheffield, Mass.

HOUSES AND APTS. wanted in all sections. Your listing is solicited.
A. M. COOPER.
820 11th st. nw. NAt. 1332.

STORE or office room, good location, suitable for watch and clock shop; must have alternating electric current and water. Horologist, Box 45, Wash. Post.

OFFICES for RENT 50
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

DESIRABLE OFFICE SPACE—Entire floor of 1,500 square feet; also 1 to 3 rooms.
J. C. WEEDON CO.
1727 K st. nw. ME. 3011.

WANTED—TO RENT 62
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.
(Continued.)

WE NEED DWELLINGS FOR RENT—Chiefly small and medium size; would appreciate your listings.
LOUIS P. SHOEMAKER.
1719 K St. nw. NA. 1166.

WE HAVE reliable clients waiting to rent your furnished or unfurnished houses and apartments. Any type, any section. We will appreciate your listings. Personal service given. Call NAtional 2626.
Toledo Guaranty Corp.
1026 WOODWARD BLDG.

YOUNG married couple desires furnished housekeeping apt., 1 or 2 rms., good naborhood; excel. refs. DI. 8822, Ext. 645.

INVESTMENT PROPERTY 65
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

GET our list of investment properties and homes that can be sold on very easy terms.
JOHN F. DONOHOE & SONS.
314 Penna. ave. se.

25% YEAR on $12,000 invested! Downtown income property subject to 1st trust $13,000. Phone AD. 8555 or NA. 7946.

HOUSES FOR SALE 66
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

BUNGALOW—5-room modern brick bungalow; price, $5,450; $300 cash, balance like rent. G. W. Irving, CL. 5003.

DESIRABLE HOUSES in the Northwest section. Wm. H. Saunders Co., Inc., 1519 K st.

5-ROOM brick; new hardwood floors; new Oxford kitchen cabinet; new gas cabinet stove; new wall paper and paint; $5,500—$500 cash, $45 month.
MORGAN E. MORGAN. NAt. 9453.

FOR A NEW HOME.
Any Size, Any Section—See
WAPLE & JAMES, INC.
(Builders and Brokers),
1226 14th st. nw. DIst. 3347.

1333 HARVARD ST. N.W.
Open this afternoon and tomorrow, 8 rooms; 2 baths, 2-car garage. This ought to pry your purse open at the price; only $6,950. The assessor values it $8,215.
LOUIS P. SHOEMAKER.
1719 K St. NW. NAt. 1166.

COLORED—Brick house; 4 rooms; electricity; NW. section, near Florida ave. Price, $1,500; $500 cash, $10 monthly.
O. B. ZANTZINGER CO.,
945 K St. N.W. At. 5371.

COLORED—T. near 12th; 8 rooms, tile bath; h.-w. h., elec.; price, $6,500; small cash and terms. DEcatur 1160.

LOTS for SALE 69
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY PARK—Very desirable location; on grade, all improvements; bargain at $1,100.
FRANK M. DOYLE, REALTOR.
927 15th St. NW. DIst. 7983.

LEE HEIGHTS, VA.—Will sacrifice very desirable residential building lots, 50x135 ft., in restricted subdivision, 3 miles from White House; worth $1,250, but must raise cash; will accept first bonafide offer for $595. To inspect, call National 2626.

LYON PARK, VA.—Building lots, 40x150, on macadam street with cement walks; electricity, gas, water and sewerage fronting property. Walnut 8955.

SUBURBAN for SALE 70
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

FOR BARGAINS or service, real estate or insurance, see Morrison Agency, Citizens' Bank, Takoma Park; SHep. 3444.

I HAVE several brick houses with 3 or 4 bedrms., 2 tiled baths, ranging in price from $6,950 to $9,850. If you are looking for an up-to-date house, let me show you these.
G. T. REEVES, Phone Falls Church 223.

FARMS—LAND for SALE 73
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

LARGE LISTING farms, suburban and waterfront property. R. D. LILLIE, 266 Carroll st., Takoma, D. C. Ge. 3300.

FOR FARMS, homes and business property, call Herndon 69, or 51-J.
R. C. PRINTZ, HERNDON, VA.

VERY good farm, 140 acres; lot bldgs.; orchard, streams; productive; sacrifice, $50 an acre; North Mont. Co. R. B. Farquhar, COl. 0037.

6-ROOM house; 13 miles D. C.; 27 acres; 10 acres in woods; $2,800; terms.
GEO. T. McNAB, Falls Church 408.

8 ACRES; facing gravel road; $50 down, $10 monthly; 7½ miles D. C.; price, $635. Call Nat. 3753 or ATl. 5205-J.

FOR SALE—OUT of TOWN 74
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

FLORIDA—75 miles south of Jacksonville; 106 acres, in cultivation; bargain; no agents. DE. 4770, No. 107.

WANTED—REAL ESTATE 76
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

BEFORE YOU SELL, consult me. I pay all cash for houses, large or small, in any condition. NAt. 7060.

I PAY CASH for Wash., D. C., real estate; no commission and quick settlement. E. A. Garvey, 1126 Vt. ave.; DI. 4508.

WANT TO BUY building lots in Georgetown or Wesley Heights. Apply A. S. Gardiner, 1510 K st. nw. NAt. 0334.

WE HAVE the buyers. What we need is more small homes and investment properties. List your properties. Walter A. Brown, 1400 H st. Nat. 1652.

DOGS—CATS—PETS 79

POLICE PUPS (thoroughbred); male, $10; female, $5. 428 15th st. se. De. 2563-W.

MISCELLANEOUS for SALE 83
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

BABY GRAND—A handsome little piano we have just repossessed. It is one of the latest and most popular models and is exactly as if new. Can be purchased by any one who will take over the unpaid notes of $2.50 weekly (totaling $292.50). Don't miss this unusual value. Homer L. Kitt Co., 1330 G st.

BED—Single metal, complete, like new; bargain. 16 7th st. se.

CASH REGISTERS, bookkeeping machines; new and rebuilt. NATIONAL CASH REGISTER CO., NAt. 1376; 1206 H st. nw

FRIGIDAIRE—5 cubic ft.; splendid condition. $44.50. Electrical Refrigeration Service Co., 2030 14th st. nw. DEc. 1611.

MISCELLANEOUS for SALE 83
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.
(Continued.)

GAS RANGE (new); $29.50 and your old gas range; originally $39.50. Capital Range & Heating Co., 1524 L nw. Nat. 8905.

CLEARANCE SALE TYPEWRITERS—Portables a specialty; ideal gift; lowest prices; open eve. 1431 E. Capitol. LI. 6082.

OFFICE FURNITURE—A large assortment of used pieces at low prices. H. Baum & Son, 616 E st. nw.

TYPEWRITERS — Rebuilt; guar. 1 year, $12.50 up; we rent, repair, exchange. Standard Typewriter Co., 723 10th nw.

TYPEWRITER—Corona portable, $33.50; others as low as $17.50. "United," 813 14th nw. NA. 6063.

WALL PAPER—Special room lots, $1.25; sufficient for ceiling, side walls, border; room 10x12x8; wide selection. Walter Morgan Co., Inc., 421 10th nw.; NA. 7888.

WOOD, seasoned, oak, any length, $11 per cord; MINUTE SERVICE. Associated Enterprise, Inc., Wis. 3316.

PAINT—Pure linseed oil, 80c gal.; washable gloss paints, $1.45 gal.; white and green, $1.65. 1119 9th nw.; NAt. 4174.

PIANO—We have a fine, little Colonia model baby grand, repossessed, that can be bought by simply assuming the unpaid notes of $12.50 monthly. This piano is one of the better makes and is exactly as if new. The total price is $462; substantially less than the new price. Seldom are we able to offer such value in a really fine piano. See it. Homer L. Kitt Co., 1330 G st. nw.

PIANO—Hallet & Davis midget grand; in good condition; $175. An ideal size for the smaller apartment. Pay $5 down, balance monthly. Kitt's, 1330 G st.

PIANO—Apartment upright; very slightly used; reduced to $195. This beautiful little instrument is one of the latest models and an unusual value at this price. Pay $5 down, $2 weekly. Kitt's, 1330 G st.

PIANOS—We have several real values in reconditioned uprights and players priced from $49 up. Terms, $1 down, $1 weekly. Kitt's, 1330 G st.

PIANO—Fischer mahogany finished Ampico in good condition; $395. An unusual value considering that new this piano sold for $1,050; guaranteed and for sale complete with music rolls and bench. Pay $5 down, balance monthly. Kitt's, 1330 G st.

PIANOS FOR RENT—Up., $3.50 and $4 mo. Finest rental stock in Washington. NA. 3659, W. W. Kimball Co., 721 11th nw.

STOVES—Coal, gas, oil heaters at lowest prices. Your old stove accepted in trade; free delivery. New Philadelphia Junk Co., 1436 H st. nw. Linc. 1031.

STUDIO couch; closing out floor samples of Englander. Reg. $42.50; now $29.50. Ideal Bed, 622 E. st. nw.

WASHER—Spinner-Dryer; apartment size; $19.75; terms. F. S. Harris Co., 2900 14th st. nw. COl. 0100.

FORCED TO VACATE
Building to be demolished.
ENTIRE STOCK OF—
Office furniture, restaurant fixtures, china, cash registers, store fixtures—
TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION!
Starting Monday, Jan. 7, and continuing until sold.
EDGAR BAUM, Inc.
914 E St. N.W.

POWER TOOLS For home use. Rudolph & West Co., 1332 N. Y. ave. nw.; NAt. 4870.

MERCHANTS' SPECIALS 84
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

CENTRAL CLEANERS
Hats cleaned and blocked, 50c COl. 5312.

HALF SOLES, 50c.
Liberty Valet, 1412 H St. N.W.

COAL 84A
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200

KEEP THE HOME FIRES BURNING. Select fireplace stove. Kindling wood, coal. Potomac Home Improvement Co., 504 Maine ave. s.w.; NAt. 3910, DI. 0385.

L. P. STEUART & BROS.
"Complete Heating Service."
138 12th St. N.E. LIncoln 1203.

ARLINGTON COAL CO.
2,240 Lbs. to Ton.
Coal Carried to Bin Free.

Blue Banner Egg Clean	$ 8.50
Pa. White Ash Egg	13.50
Pocahontas Egg or Lump	9.50
Pocahontas Washed Stove	9.50
Pocahontas Run of Mine, lumpy	7.50
Smokeless Run of Mine, lumpy, 4-ton lots	7.00

Deliveries in District or Anywhere.
Yard and Off., Alex., N'way, So. Wash., Va.
WALNUT 9213

3d Yr.—Money-Saving Coals—Guaranteed.
COAL
HUFNAGEL COAL YARD
Phone WALNUT 8861.
Direct From Mines—No Substitutions.

50% Lump Coal	6.90
75% Lump Coal	7.50
87½% Lump Coal	8.00
Dustless Pa. Steam Egg	8.50
Hard Coal—Va. White Ash, Pea	$8.75
Hard Furnace Blend white Ash	10.25
Hard Coal—Va. White Ash, Nut	11.25
Hard Coal—Va. White Ash, Stove	11.50
Smokeless Egg—80%	$8.75; Egg 9.75
Pocahontas Egg	$8.75, $9.25 9.75
Pocahontas Run-of-Mine	7.50
Penna. Anthracite Blend	12.50

UNQUESTIONABLE QUALITY.
FULL WEIGHT, LONG TON.
H. E. GLOTZBACH CO.
Lowest Rates. Best Coals. Wood. Fuel Oil.
923 12th St. NE. LI. 0033.

WANTED—TO BUY 87
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.
(Continued.)

OLD GOLD, silver, platinum, diamonds bought by oldest estab. Wash. dealers. Louis Abrahams, 711 G st. nw.

GOLD OR PLATINUM JEWELRY AND SILVERWARE AND GOLD TEETH, ANY CONDITION. WE HAVE U. S. GOVT. LICENSE TO BUY GOLD, AND PAY CASH. A. KAHN, INC., 42 YEARS AT 935 F ST. NW.

WE PAY CASH FOR OLD GOLD & DIAMONDS
PHILIP SURES & CO., 1404 N Y Ave NW

SPOT CASH PAID IMMEDIATELY.
OLD GOLD, SILVER, WATCHES, DIAMONDS
Discarded jewelry, gold teeth. U. S Government license to buy and sell.
SELINGER'S, 818 F St. N.W.

WANTED—AUTOMOTIVE 88
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

CASH FOR YOUR CAR
BARNES MOTOR CO.
Highest cash prices paid for your Ford or Chevrolet or any other make, or will pay unpaid balance and give you difference in cash. See Mr. Barnes, 1729 14th st. nw.

GARAGES 89
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

GARAGES, $3.
Individual garages, located at rear 1907 15th st. nw. Apply janitor.

AUTO ACCESSORIES 94
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

GUARANTEED windshield installed in Model A Fords and Chevrolets, $3, this week only. Door glass for 4-door car, $1.50; 2-door car, $2. Our glazer has 15 years' exp. Robt. Herson Auto Ex., Inc., 72 Fla. ave. ne. NO. 10408.

NATIONALLY KNOWN auto accessories at less than "mail-order" prices. Manhattan Auto, 1706 7th st. nw.

AUTO TRUCKS—TRACTORS 97
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

DODGE—2-ton, dual wheel, long wheelbase, stake-body truck; cheap. Potomac Sales Co., WEst 2166. 21st & Va. ave.

FORDS
Stake Bodies, 1929 to '32 $150 to $350. Three to choose from. All in good condition. Dual wheels
ANACOSTIA MOTOR CO.
LIn. 2077. 1325 Good Hope Rd. SE

GOOD USED TRUCKS
Reconditioned. Duals; various type bodies. Also batteries for farm light plants.
STERRETT OPERATING SERVICE, INC.
30 M St. N.E. MEt. 0505.

AUTOMOBILES for SALE 98
Post Classified Ads.—National 4200.

BUICK
34 Cordova gray sedan; mileage, low—luxurious body; car perfect in every respect; model 857; price, $985.00.
Handley Motor Co.
3730 Georgia Ave. AD. 6060.

BUICK 1930 model 30-57 sedan; 5-pass.; beautiful condition; $325; terms and trade.
NORTHEAST MOTOR CO.,
920 Bladensburg rd. ne. ATlantic 0200.

BUICK—1931 Coupe. Outstanding car in perfect condition. Fully guaranteed; good tires; fine engine

BENNY — All Set — By J. Carver Pusey

"Cap" Stubbs — A Mistake — By Edwina

LET HER BE 'SHAMED WHEN MRS MAXWELLEN COMES TO CALL — I DON'T CARE HOW TH' HOUSE LOOKS —
SHE WON'T LET YOU PAINT TH' KITCHEN, AN' —?
NAW — SHE SAID I'D GET MORE PAINT ON ME THAN ON TH' WALLS! HOW DOES SHE KNOW!
SHE DON'T!
ALL I'M CHARGIN' IS A DOLLAR'N A HALF — AN' SHE SAYS IT'D BE CHEAPER TO GET A PAINTER TO DO IT RIGHT IN TH' FIRST PLACE —
GEE! HOW'S SHE FIGURE THAT!
The George Matthew Adams Service, Inc.
1-5

Today's Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS.

1 Snake
4 Light beds
8 Ancient Irish city
12 Metal form used in stamping
13 Medley
14 Style of poetry
15 Decoration
17 Confined
18 Warmth
19 Transmits
20 Small cut and polished surface of a gem
23 Devoured
25 Wild ox
26 Border
27 Masculine name
30 Large American vulture
32 Thinks
34 Abstract existence
35 Haul
37 Writing table
38 Ordinary form of language
40 Tries
41 Member of a religious order
43 Ostrich
45 Merry adventure; colloq.
46 Bald
50 S-shaped molding
51 Egyptian solar disk
52 Imitate
53 Marries
54 Army meal
55 Uncooked

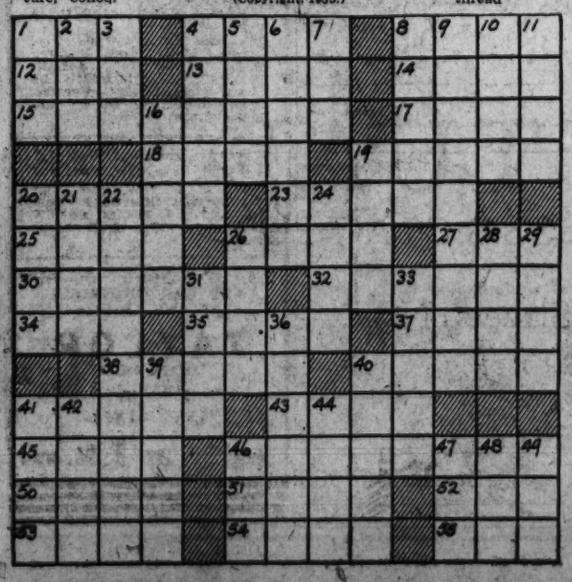
DOWN.

1 Commotion
2 Title of a knight
3 Writing implement
4 Celestial body
5 Genus of the olive tree
6 Colored
7 Drunkard
8 Indian wigwam
9 Italian mountains
10 Outer covering
11 Plays on the stage
16 In the lead
19 Face
20 Countenance
21 Presently
22 Plotted
24 Excited with expectation
26 Makes a mistake
28 Repose
29 Requests
31 Scent
33 All that could be wished
36 Charge with gas
39 Garden implements
40 Sea birds
41 Run
42 Fury
44 Hurries
46 Kind of meat
47 Auditory [illegible]an
48 Mineral spring
49 Use needle and thread

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

S	L	O	P	P	Y		U	N	S	A	F	E
M	O	R	A	L	E		R	O	O	M	E	R
A	R		S	O	L		B	E	D		T	O
R	I	P		P	L	E	A	S		H	I	D
T	O	E	S		I	N	N		D	O	S	E
S	T	A	T	I	N	G		M	O	T	H	S
			A	N	G	L	I	A	N
S	P	A	R	K		I	N	T	O	N	E	S
L	A	N	K		A	S	S		R	E	N	T
O	D	D		A	S	H	E	S		E	T	A
O	D		O	P	S		C	U	B		R	R
P	L	E	A	S	E		T	E	E	H	E	E
S	E	X	T	E	T		S	T	E	R	E	S

(Copyright, 1935.)



Walt Mason, Himself

Bad Memory.

A man came to me with the blues; he sorely needed decent shoes; the ones he wore had passed their prime 'way back in William Bryan's time; the uppers and the heels were gone, the soles unfit to walk upon. He told his tale as one who knows the bitterness of human woes; I couldn't well his prayer refuse; I handed him a pair of shoes, a handsome pair with brazen nails, quite fit to deck the Prince of Wales. And two weeks later, as I sat upon the porch and stroked the cat, the same sad man came to my door, his face was drawn, his feet were sore. He handed to me word for word the same sad story I had heard; to distant parts he'd like to cruise, but couldn't till he had good shoes. I gave the man a wicked prod, and said he was a fake and fraud. "Two weeks ago, you sordid soul, you sprung the same old rigmarole; my confidence was hurt and bruise; what have you done with those good shoes?" "I must be slipping," he replied; "I've hit the long toboggan slide; my memory is on the bum if to a fellow's house I come, and hand him, at his open door, a story I have told before. When I was at my best, by jings, I never did such foolish things. I never would forget a face, and now I feel in deep disgrace. I should have asked you for a hat, but that my mind was running flat." He uttered then such doleful hoots, I handed him a pair of boots.

(Copyright, 1935.)

APPLE MARY — Post Comics on the Air—Sundays, 8:45 a. m.—WMAL — By Martha Orr

YEP, I'M MAKIN' A TRIP OUT PAST GREENACRES NEXT WEEK, AWRIGHT— AN' AS FER YER COMIN' ALONG TO SEE YER GRAN'MA'S OLE HOME, WELL— WOT D'YER FOLKS THINK OF UT?
I HAVEN'T ANY FOLKS— ONLY GRAN'MA—
OF COURSE SHE'D COME TOO —
WHOA! HOLD ON A MINUTE! GRAN'MA IS OUT. BAD ENOUGH TAKIN' A LI'L SHAVER LIKE YOU— BUT GRAN'MA, NIX!!
BUT MISTER BILL, YOU'D LIKE HER.
OLE LADIES IS OLE LADIES, AN' A TRUCK AIN'T NO PLACE FER 'EM.
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.; Copyright, 1935, by Publishers Syndicate
APPLE MARY! IS APPLE MARY YER GRAN'MA??
LOOK, HERE SHE COMES NOW.
YES, I'M HIS GRAN'MA, AN' I WANT T'KNOW WHAT YOU'RE DOIN' WITH HIM OUT HERE IN THE COLD?
MARTHA ORR

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — Big News — By Harry J. Tuthill

YES, LONG DISTANCE, I'M STILL WAITING FOR SUGAR CREEK. HELLO.....HELLO PEGGY!...WHO..? IRMA? THIS IS JOSIE, IRMA! YOUR SISTER, JOSIE!
ASK ABOUT FRED. TELL HIM I SAID...
YES, IRMA, I WANTED TO TALK TO PEGGY.....OH SHE'S OUT AT A DANCE. YES... YES...YES...WELL HOW IS SHE? AND YOU AND FRED?
P-SST! WHAT ABOUT THE MONEY? ASK.....
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. 1-5
YES IRMA, WE HEARD ABOUT FRED'S UNCLE JULIUS. YES IT IS VERY SAD. YES, YES, YES..
SHE'S TELLING ME HOW HEART-BROKEN THEY ARE. HEAR HER?
ASK HOW MUCH...
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.
YES.....OH FRED'S UNCLE LEFT YOU ALL HIS MONEY? WELL I SUPPOSE IT WAS A LARGE AMOUNT... YES.... YES...
ALL OF IT? MY WORD! MILLIONS! LET ME TALK TO FRED.
GEORGE, KEEP STILL WHILE I'M TRYING TO FIND OUT HOW MUCH....
YES...YES, IRMA.. WELL HE WAS QUITE WEALTHY, WASN'T HE?
ASK HOW MUCH... LISTEN, LET ME TALK TO FRED.
HELLO FREDDIE! HOW'S THE KID? YES, I SUPPOSE YOU ARE VERY SAD. AH....HOW MUCH DID YOU..... HOW MANY FIGURES? OH, SEVEN! YES.... YES... YES..
SEVEN FIGURES! IRMA TOLD ME IT WAS SIX! LET ME TALK TO HER AGAIN SO I'LL GET THINGS STRAIGHT.

JOE PALOOKA — Jail Friends — By Ham Fisher

THE PRISONERS ARE BEING ALLOWED A MINUTES EXERCISE, AND JOE FINDS HIMSELF AMONG A MOTLEY CREW OF THUGS.
1-5
NOW YOUSE BEND OVER AN' TOUCH THE FLOOR WITH YOUR HANDS AN' THEN PUT 'EM OVER YOUR HEAD.
WILL I GIT STRONG MUSCLES DOIN' THIS?
PUFF
PUFF
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.
SAY, YER ORL RIGHT, MATE. WE'RE ALL STRONG FUR YER. I BEEN A TOUGH UN IN ME DAY— BUSTED A LOTTA SAFES AN' COPPERS BUT NEVER A GEL.
I KNOWED YOU WAS GENTILMEN EVEN IF YOU WAS— ESCUSE ME— CROOKS.
WE'RE FER YE, LIKE "SOUPY" SED. WE'VE LOOKED YER OVER AN' WE FINK YER 'STOUT'.
PSSST— LISSEN QUICK B'FORE TH' GUARD KETCHES US WHISP'RIN.' ME AN' "DARTMOOR" AN' "PARSON" ARE GITTIN' OUT SOON— THEY AINT GOT NUFFIN ON US--
?
AN' WE'LL GIVE THIS 'ERE SOTT GUY THE BIZNESS SO 'E CAN'T H'APPEAR 'GAINST YER.' A QUICK KNIFE POKE IN 'IS RIBS AN'---
NO— NO— GRACIOUS SAKES THAN KYOUSE, FELLAS, BUT NOTHIN' LIKE THAT.
'ERE-'ERE- BREAK IT H'UP THERE.
HAM FISHER

DIXIE DUGAN — Sounds Fine! — By J. P. McEvoy and J. H. Striebel

WHILE DIXIE AND HER FOLKS ARE MARVELLING AT THE AMAZING ABILITIES OF "LADDIE"..... THAT MYSTERIOUS GENT- HORACE FLUSHMAW- WHO, FOR REASONS STILL UNKNOWN WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR FOISTING THE INFANT UPON THEM— NOW LANGUISHES IN JAIL.— 1-5
AH, MORDECAI! 'TIS YOU! — BUT HOW DID YOU KNOW-?
WHEN Y'DIDN'T SHOW UP, I FIGGERED YOU'D BE HERE! — I JES' KNEW WE'D GIT INTA TROUBLE WID DAT FOOL IDEE —
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.
NO-NO— IT'S NOT ON THAT ACCOUNT I'M HERE! IT'S FOR NO REASON WHATSOEVER —A RIDICULOUS PREPOSTEROUS, TRUMPED-UP SUSPICION REGARDING A WIDOW'S PALTRY FUNDS
AN' T'AIN'T ACCOUNT O' LADDIE? —THEN WHERE IS HE?
INDUBITABLY SAFE IN THE CARE OF THE CHARMING YOUNG LADY YOU SAW! —ALAS, I WAS PREVENTED FROM FOLLOWING HER AND LEARNING WHERE SHE LIVES, BUT FEAR NOT! —THE MOMENT THAT JUSTICE TRIUMPHS AND I AM FREED FROM THIS DURANCE VILE I SHALL LOCATE HER AND —
HEY, YAP! HERE'S YER BREAD AN' JAVA—
GULP— HAVE FAITH, MY FRIEND! IT WILL NOT BE LONG BEFORE OUR PLAN WILL BE IN FULL SWING AND YOU AND I AND LADDIE SHALL BE LUXURIATING IN SUMPTUOUS CHAMBERS, DINING ON QUAILS AND WINING ON CHAMPAGNE—GULP- GULP—

THE GUMPS — Now on the Radio—Post Comics—WMAL, Sundays, 8:45 a. m. — There's A Reason

WELL— HOW IS THE BLISSFUL BRIDEGROOM TODAY? STILL AS MUCH IN LOVE AS YOU EVER WERE?
1-5
MORE THAN EVER-ANDY- I JUST WISH YOU COULD HAVE SEEN HOW SWEET MILLIE WAS LAST NIGHT WHEN I CAME HOME- THE MOST DELICIOUS SUPPER I EVER TASTED- ALL THE THINGS I LIKE BEST- MY PIPE FILLED AND LIT WITH HER OWN LITTLE HANDS AFTERWARDS- MY SLIPPERS OUT- A FOOTSTOOL BY MY FAVORITE CHAIR- NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES AT MY ELBOW-
THERE WASN'T A SINGLE COMFORT IN THE WORLD MISSING- I TELL YOU ANDY, THAT LITTLE GIRL MADE ME FEEL LIKE A PRINCE IN PARADISE LAST NIGHT—
Copyright, 1935, by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Syndicate Inc.
WELL— WHAT'S THE REST OF THE STORY? WHAT HAD SHE BOUGHT FOR HERSELF— A NEW COAT OR A GRAND PIANO?
JIMMY SMITH

DICK TRACY — New Battle Lines

FROM HIS HOTEL ROOM, BORIS ARSON MAKES A LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE CALL....
HELLO-YES OPERATOR- HELLO- IS THIS YOU, G-4? THIS IS A-1. YEAH-- THINGS ARE PLENTY HOT- I'LL EXPLAIN WHEN I SEE YOU. I WANT YOU TO GET IN TOUCH WITH C-7 IN ST. LOUIS AND D-3 IN CHICAGO. I WANT YOU ALL HERE TOMORROW. FLY! TELL THE BOYS TO TAKE THE FIRST PLANES. THAT'S ALL.
1-5
NOW TO TRIM THIS BEARD!.. NO- I'LL SHAVE IT ENTIRELY OFF.. I'VE GOT TO CHANGE MY WHOLE APPEARANCE.
BUT TRACY- YOU MEAN I'M GOING TO GET A CHANCE TO DO SOME REAL DETECTIVE WORK?
EXACTLY. AND IF YOU'RE GAME- YOU AND I AND OSCAR THERE WILL CATCH THE GREATEST CRIMINAL IN THIS COUNTRY!
IS THAT WIG FOR ME?
RIGHT! WE'RE BOTH GOING TO BE DISGUISED! I'M GOING TO BE A BLIND MAN AND YOU AND YOUR DOG WILL LEAD ME. BORIS ARSON'S DAYS OF FREEDOM ARE GOING TO BE VERY BRIEF!

WINNIE WINKLE, the Breadwinner — Putting Up a Good Front

I WAS IN TH' NEIGHBORHOOD AN' I THOUGHT I'D DROP IN AN' GO HOME WITH YOU, WINNIE !!
I'VE GOT TO MODEL THIS GOWN AND THEN I'LL BE RIGHT WITH YOU FAWTHAW!
1-5
GOSH, THAT'S A SWELL DRESS! I DIDN'T KNOW Y'HAD THEM KIND OF DRESSES HERE!
WHY, WHAT DO YOU MEAN?
I MEAN THAT'S A SENSIBLE DRESS! RESPECTABLE AN' DECENT!! IT DON'T EXPOSE YER WHOLE ANATOMY !!
WELL, I'M GLAD YOU LIKE IT, FAWTHAW!
BRINKLEY

Boiler Repaired After Mothers Picket School

Explosion Peril Gone at Seat Pleasant; Other Conditions Decried.

Repairs to the furnace boiler safety valve at the District Line Elementary School, Seat Pleasant, Md., scheduled to be made today, will send more than 400 school children back to their classes Monday morning.

But whether it will satisfy approximately 30 mothers and members of the local Parent-Teacher Association, who picketed the school doors yesterday and refused to allow school to convene, remains to be seen.

Although the danger of an explosion from the valveless boiler was given as the immediate cause for the enforced strike, Mrs. G. R. Exton, leader of the picketing mothers, explained that the contention dated from a two-year-old fight for a new school.

Conditions Called Unbearable.

She pointed out that the furnace explosion danger was the climax of a series of unbearable conditions suffered by the school children for years. The Parent-Teacher Association, she said, felt that Seat Pleasant had been slighted in the county's school building program.

"Two years ago the Prince Georges County School Board converted the assembly hall into classrooms. At that time they promised us a new assembly hall in place of the old. When we reminded them of their promise they told us it would take an act of the Legislature to get the funds.

Since then we have made many appeals for a new addition or a new school to relieve the overcrowded conditions, but no one will pay any attention to us. The school is not nearly big enough to accommodate 406 pupils and the equipment is entirely inadequate. And unless something is done immediately about the boiler valve, this school won't open Monday."

Boiler Branded Unsafe.

The immediate trouble started after Benjamin Freeman, an engineer at the Treasury Department, described as a patron of the school, inspected the furnace and said the boiler might explode any time.

He then is said to have gone to Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools, who dispatched a man last Wednesday to make repairs. The repairman, however, found that A. J. Todd, school janitor, had fired the furnace for the opening of the post-holiday session.

Consequently it was decided to wait until today, when the furnace fire could be allowed to die, before making the repairs.

But rumor of a possible furnace boiler explosion had spread through the town and countryside, and after two uneasy nights and days anxious mothers decided to call a halt.

The picketing delegation appeared bright and early yesterday to see that not even one child found access to the "dangerous" building where Mrs. Blanche Ficker, school principal, and her corps of teachers waited patiently to "do their duty." The picketers remained at their posts until the closing hours of the school.

7 Fishermen Perish As Ship Rams Boat

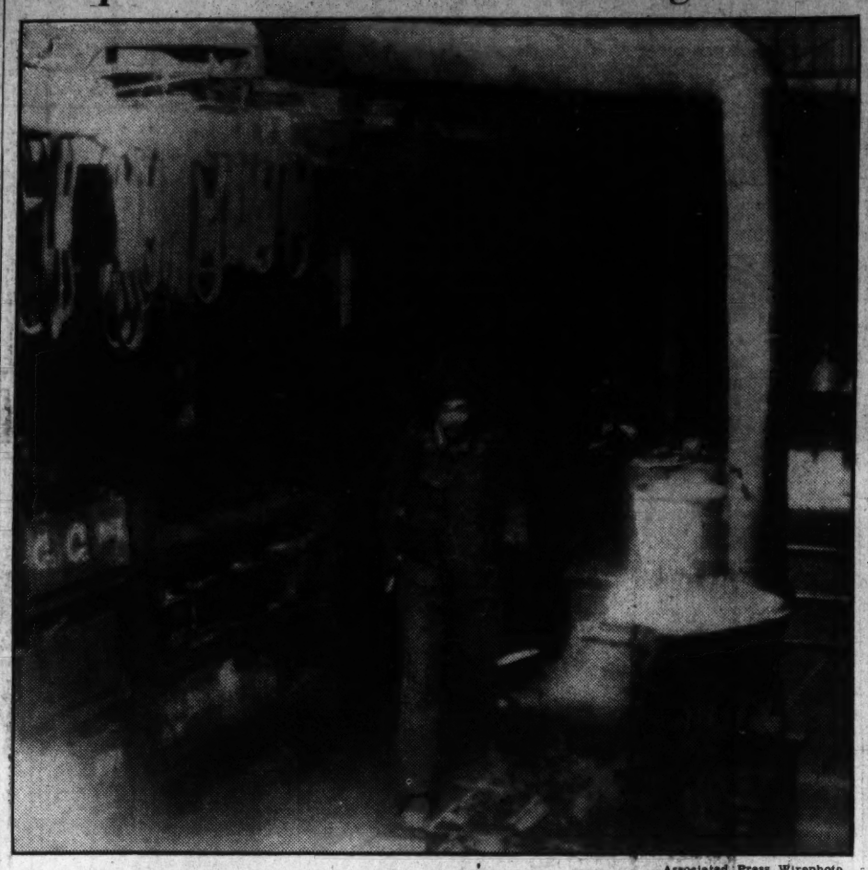
Havana, Jan. 4 (AP).—Seven fishermen died in the shark-infested waters of the Gulf of Mexico tonight when the S. S. Seatrain Havana rammed and sank their frail fishing smack, the Julian Bengoechea.

Five of the crew of 12 were dragged from the water 45 minutes after the collision, almost exhausted. The Seatrain, bound for New York, had left Havana a short time before the collision.

New Treasurer Names Aid.

Cambridge, Md., Jan. 4 (Spl.).—John S. Skinner, who was elected treasurer for Dorchester County in November, has taken over his duties at the courthouse and appointed Miss Louise Leonard, secretary of the Cambridge-Dorchester Chamber of Commerce, to the position of deputy.

Wirephoto—Thief Takes Own Flashlight Picture



Associated Press Wirephoto.

This man entering a St. Louis tire repair shop is not a customer—he is a burglar. The owner had set an automatic camera to catch him, after his store had been burglarized 13 times in five years. The photo was given to police to aid in finding the thief.

Former Leader Jailed in France

Frederic Francois-Marsal, Once Premier, Convicted of Embezzlement.

Paris, Jan. 4 (AP).—Frederic Francois-Marsal, who once was premier of France for five days, was sentenced to 18 months in jail today for embezzlement.

The former cabinet officer, unrelenting foe of payment of French war debts to the United States, was accused of responsibility for losses totaling 29,000,000 francs ($1,944,000) incurred by stockholders of the Socoa Company, of which he was president of the board of directors.

Besides the jail term, the court sentenced Francois-Marsal to pay a fine of 20,000 francs ($1,320) and costs.

The former statesman was finance minister in the Millerand cabinet in 1920 and the Poincare cabinet in 1924.

His brief occupancy of the premiership under President Millerand ended when parliament voted its lack of confidence in him. Millerand himself later was forced to resign from the Presidency because of the Chamber of Deputies' hostility.

Apartments are rented quickly with Post Classified Ads. Just phone National 4200 and tell Post readers about your offer.

British Tanker Lost Somewhere in Pacific

Honolulu, Jan. 4 (AP).—All vessels in the Pacific shipping lanes were asked today to aid in determining the location of the British tanker La Crescentia.

The Globe Wireless Co. said no word had been received from the vessel since it left San Luis Obispo, Calif., for Osaka, Japan, two weeks ago, and that Japanese shippers were concerned for its safety.

Georgia Appropriations Cut.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 4 (AP).—Governor Eugene Talmadge today ordered a 20 per cent reduction in 1935 appropriations. The slash, amounting to approximately $9,600,000, was demanded by the Governor as director of the State budget bureau.

Appeal Is Made By Cummings For 2 Students

Attorney General Seeks to Reverse Conviction in Sigma Chi Fire.

In an action without precedent in this city, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings yesterday asked the United States Court of Appeals to reverse the conviction of Edward J. Parlton and Alfred H. Smith, former George Washington University students, who were found guilty of setting fire to their fraternity house.

Filing a "confession of error" with the appellate court, the Attorney General said he was satisfied from his personal investigation of the case that the erstwhile students should have received a directed verdict of not guilty.

Parlton and Smith were convicted before Justice Peyton Gordon, in the District Supreme Court. They were prosecuted by John J. Sirica, now a practicing attorney.

Accused of Setting Fire.

The pair were charged with having set fire to Sigma Chi fraternity house, 1312 N street northwest. The time of the fire was placed at 4:20 a. m., July 9. Several students had narrow escapes, some hanging by their fingertips to window ledges until the firemen arrived.

Mr. Cummings divided his attack upon the conviction into four groups. In each he pointed out what he considered flimsy testimony which led to the conviction. He also gave a brief resume of an investigation made by Department of Justice agents after the two had been convicted and sentenced to jail. They were released soon after, however, and now are out on bond.

Evidence Is Attacked.

"The Attorney General," he wrote, "is of the opinion that the evidence adduced at the trial did not justify a submission of the case to the jury and, in view of all the circumstances involved, is satisfied that the defendants are innocent of the crime of which they were convicted. He, therefore, requests the court to reverse the judgment.

"The present confession of error and this statement supersede all prior briefs and arguments submitted on behalf of the United States." Mr. Cummings wrote. His action was taken over the head of the United States attorney's office, which had filed a brief with the appellate court upholding the conviction as justified.

Ancient Maps Used to Help Fix Boundary

18th Century Records Are Viewed in Virginia-D. C. Hearing.

Additional ancient maps were submitted in evidence yesterday by Virginia in its fight to have the Potomac River's low-water mark on the Alexandria and Arlington County shore adjudged the legal boundary between Virginia and the District.

The greater part of the hearing before the Virginia-District of Columbia Boundary Commission was taken up with inspection and description of eighteenth century maps and taxation records.

One exhibit, identified as the Senex map, dates back to 1719. It was brought to the hearing by Chairman Charles H. Brough of the commission, to whom it was lent by a Washington woman who bought it in a London antique shop last year.

The Virginia estate of John Parke Custis was among those cited at yesterday's session, records being produced purporting to show how its boundaries were fixed for taxation purposes.

The hearing adjourned until 10 a. m. Tuesday.

U. S. Loses in Ruling On Slum Clearance

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 4 (AP).—The New Deal lost a round in Federal district court here today with the ruling by Judge Charles I. Dawson that the Government lacks power to condemn private property for a slum clearance project.

Government counsel here said they would confer with officials at Washington whether to appeal the case. The decision had the effect of blocking for the time being Louisville's $1,500,000 low-cost housing project.

IRVIN TAVERN
FOOD FOR A KING
Steaks—Chops—Sea Food
50c—65c
Special Luncheons
25c—35c—45c
Dancing 9 till 2
"We Mix Your Favorite Drink"
1005 E ST. N.W.

SMOKERS' COUGHS
VICKS MEDICATED COUGH DROPS
Medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub...Quickly relieve irritated throats.

"PROPS"

THE BRASSIERE
WITH THE
Corded Support
- No uncomfortable stays or binding.
- Gives the wearer a beautiful contour.
- The new corded insert gently moulds.
- Revolutionizes the principles of control and support.
- Greatly simplifies the fitting of all "problem" figures.
- Support from underneath relieves strain on shoulder straps.
- Sizes 32 to 40.

$1, $1.50 and $2
The Corset Shop, Third Floor
The Hecht Co.
F Street at Seventh

Re-Upholster!
—we repeat our popular offering of last Fall!

YOUR CHAIR $15.95
YOUR SOFA $28.95

We were swamped with orders in the Fall, when we made this offer . . . now we can offer quicker service!

A brand new selection of 50-inch upholstery fabrics . . . dull finished cotton tapestries, rayon tapestries and friezettes in gorgeous shades of green, rust, gold, mulberry, black and other wanted colors. Most of them cut from full bolts . . . some in pieces only large enough for chairs. Charming color combinations may be assembled from them . . . and remember:

This offer includes re-twining of springs, new springs and fillings if necessary . . . your chair made "good as new."

Two Pieces . . . . special $42.65
Three Pieces . . . special $57.50

Sixth Floor—The Hecht Co.

THE HECHT CO.
F Street at Seventh

GOOD NEWS for AIR TRAVELERS

3-mile-a-minute BOEING TRANSPORT PLANES

Capital to the Lakes Route
BEGINNING JANUARY 8th
DETROIT • CLEVELAND
AKRON • PITTSBURGH
WASHINGTON

A Surplus of Cash . . .
A Scarcity of Loans!

Effective January 1st, 1935, DIVIDENDS paid investing members
WILL BE
4½%

Uninvested money has no earning power. It can not create income. The strong cash position of the Association combined with a scarcity of acceptable mortgage loans is the basis for this conservative policy.

PERPETUAL
BUILDING ASSOCIATION
11th and E Streets N.W.
Established 1881

Assets Over Thirty-Six Million Dollars — Surplus One Million and Quarter Dollars